Summary: A brilliant antiquities expert and a cunning art thief team up to catch a ruthless terrorist who funds his attacks through stolen treasure.

Lexi and Danny have a past, both romantic and professional. As a former FBI agent, Danny was responsible for arresting Lexi, a notorious art thief. Now he works as an expert antiquities dealer.

Danny is tasked with a new mission, to find and rescue Dr. Anna Castillo. She was in Egypt on the precipice of incredible discovery, the tomb of Anthony and Cleopatra. The tomb is suddenly invaded, and Anna is kidnapped. Danny recruits Lexi and her very specific skill set to track her down.

Lexi and Danny follow a lead to a black market bazaar in Rome. While there, they cross paths with an arms dealer named Aiden Shaw who served as the middle-man in the tomb heist. The duo kidnaps him and takes off with Interpol agents hot on their tail.

They learn Shaw is using a fake identity and he's not as intimidating as he initially presented. Lexie lets him escape with their car, much to Danny's anger. But she ensured there was a GPS tracker on Shaw so they could follow him.

Through flashbacks, we learn how Danny and Lexi met and what forced them apart. Danny enlisted Lexi and her father's assistance to set up a sting operation to track down a dangerous terrorist named Karim Farouk. He was known for using stolen art to fund deadly attacks around the world.

Unfortunately, the sting went sideways, and Lexi's father died in the crossfire. She blamed Danny for it. They discuss this briefly in the present-day, with Danny offering Lexi her father's prayer beads. She admits she found it easier to hate him than to hate herself and they seem to move past it for now.

Summary: A brilliant antiquities expert and a cunning art thief team up to catch a ruthless terrorist who funds his attacks through stolen treasure.

Lexi and Danny are tracking Shaw which leads them to the shocking revelation that Farouk is alive, despite Danny believing him dead, this pushes Lexi into action, and she takes off after him.

Ultimately, this results in both Danny and Lexi getting arrested by Agent Gwen Karlsson, an Interpol agent. She and Danny have some kind of relationship, but it isn't elaborated on in this episode. They escape from captivity and get back on Farouk's trail. Eventually, they manage to track him to his vault headquarters where they rescue Anna Castillo.

Anna makes a great addition to the team. With her help, they figure out what Farouk's goal is. He wants to reunite the tombs of Anthony and Cleopatra. It won't be easy, no one knows where Cleopatra is located, but Anna has managed to secure a clue. She drew a picture of a medallion discovered in Anthony's tomb that indicates there is a group of guardians who watch over Cleopatra's tomb.

Anna also theorizes that the group who initially put Anthony and Cleopatra in the tomb all those years ago were also the ones who killed a group of Nazis that tried to escape with the sarcophagus 75 years before.

The final scene of the episode shows a mysterious room with potentially mystical power emanating from it. We find out the male Interpol agent is a traitor and secretly working for this group!

Summary: Danny poses as an arms dealer to extract information from a middleman used by terrorist Karim Farouk; Farouk obtains a clue to the location of the sarcophagus of Cleopatra; Lexi looks to Father Chuck for help deciphering information.

The episode begins in 2019 in Rome, Italy at the Piazza Navona where Lexi Vaziri and Danny McNamara arrive at Father Chuck's; allowing them to squat at his place. Lexi begins to play with one of the swords at his place, causing Chuck to panic. They are there to look for Karin Farouk. Lexi says they can stay at her ex's place as he has plenty of room, not even sure if he is there. Chuck tells Danny that under no circumstances can him and Lexi use his bed; quickly pointing at the painting of Jesus looking at Chuck.

Gwen Karlsson messages Danny about the two of them meeting with her; Lexi initially refusing to worry Interpol would be arresting her, but insists Gwen can wait until she has showered. Simon Hardwick and Gwen are introduced to each other when Lexi gives her the connection between Simon and Danny is they both wanted to capture Farouk; both losing him and now they are there. Hardwick informs them that a secure filing box was taken from a deep storage facility in Cypress; no one knows who owned the box but it was taken by Farouk's associate.

Lexi feels Aiden Shaw is the key to finding Farouk. Lexi feels they should go with her plan since all they have is a grainy photo but she had punched the guy in the face less than 72 hours earlier. Danny zooms in on the video, showing Lexi the picture he is holding is a picture of Cleopatra. Danny tells them all that this is a treasure hunt and suggests they should follow the money back to Farouk.

1944, Northern France 28th Infantry, US Army Intelligence Army Captain meets with Colonel Krug, placing a map in front of him, demanding that Krug point out where the divisions are hiding and maybe they can all be home by Christmas. Krug shows him a photo of Cleopatra, saying she is their problem. The greatest Queen in Egypt and the greatest Archeological find in history and sits in their hands. He says he will tell the Captain where she is, but he feels that isn't her problem but he is told they will be defeated by a power the world has never seen unless he secures his release; the Captain leaves to check out his claims. While the Captain is gone, the SS Colonel is killed.

2019, Rome Italy Danny, Lexi, Gwen and Asim Masood arrive at the Carabinieri HQ, Medical Unit to visit an injured Aiden Shaw. He's pretending to be sleeping, so Danny and Lexi pretend they are about to stab him in the heart. Lexi informs him that they know he is their only link to the elusive Farouk. He says he won't reveal anything without immunity, but Lexi says she will still stab him. She lectures Danny about ruining her credit, but he doesn't think Farouk can get to him with all the cops protecting him, but Lexi reminds him that they almost let her stab him in the heart.

Outside the room, Masood says there is no paper trail leading back to Farouk. Danny suggests they use Shaw's password and attempt to take some money, triggering Farouk to make a move. Gwen says they can trace the call, after all, realize how dumb Shaw is for taking selfies. Lexi refuses to reveal Masood as Danny explains that Shaw only agreed to give her the password since he has a crush on her and now they are all off to Paris.

Tripoli Farouk's Headquarters where Omar is praised for his good work from Farouk. He opens the filing box and digs through the photos until he finds the one of Cleopatra with the Nazis, learning she was taken to Germany; and he pins the photo to the map saying soon they will have everything they need.

Lexi and Danny arrive at a cafe while Shaw, Masood, and Gwen sit in a surveillance van. Masood is fed up and tells Shaw to simply identify the banker. He tells them he is an old guy with a beard who wears sunglasses even inside. They find Taj in the back room, who are deceived into believing they are Shaw. He begins to read his book, but just as he takes his phone to make the transfer a man walks up to Danny, remembering him as an FBI agent; giving them exit visas for his whole family, insisting he is not mistaken as he named his youngest child after him.

They are dragged into another room, where Taj issues his apologies to Agent Danny as his nephews attempt to beat the duo. After a physical fight, Danny tells them they must have gotten off on the wrong foot; but when more people arrive, Gwen comes in defeats the remaining men. Danny wonders where Lexi is. She is able to jump on Taj, but he gets away. Danny tells her things got out of hand fast when she sees the cut on his forehead. They didn't get the trace but one of his nephews might give information up. Lexi opens the van doors, finding that Shaw is gone. They are all heading back to Rome, with Gwen telling Asim she needs all his paperwork. Lexi reveals to Danny that she got Taj's ledger, suggesting they keep it between them for now; worrying Farouk has a mole inside Interpol. She points the finger at Asim, saying she only trusts Danny and herself when it comes to Farouk.

Asim feels no one is going to betray their family, as Lexi messages Danny about trying a different strategy to figure out the ledger. Danny reminds them that anything they do with torture will be inadmissible in court. Meanwhile, Father Chuck returns to his place, saying he told Danny to use good judgment which meant not giving her a key. She reminds him that Danny did use good judgment and didn't give her a key but she is offering Chuck some tea. She jokes that his snack selection is underwhelming.

She shows Chuck the ledger, saying if she cracks the code they will be one step closer to Farouk. Chuck finally says the "good outweighs the bad;" agreeing to help her. She learns from Chuck that Danny is complicated, even though he never mentioned Chuck before. The good priest informs her that she and Danny have more in common than she thinks. She wants dirt on Danny so Chuck decides to pour himself a drink before divulging into those waters.

Gwen interrogates Khalid who insists he isn't a terrorist; he is reminded that he should be afraid of Farouk; suggesting he could turn him over to the authorities and let them deal with him. Masood has an idea, promising to return soon.

Chuck drinks and drinks with Lexi, telling all kinds of stories of him and Danny; saying they go the stupid out of them at an early age. Lexi knows the language, revealing her mother was Christian and her dad was Muslim, but after her mother died she was never caught in the middle after that. Her mother died when Lexi was 8, Chuck feels childhood abandonment leads to what she is doing. She denies it, but Chuck knows better. He returns to look at the ledger and they figure out the ledger is in Sumerian. He suggests if she wants penance to not break Danny's heart — again!

Danny tries to talk to Khalid as Gwen watches. He understands that they are asking him to violate his most sacred code, but it really isn't them asking this; it is Farouk. They make Khalid watch the video of bombings that Farouk did, murdering women and children; cut and butchered. How honorable is it to honor a man without honor. Khalid disagrees with Farouk, and his interpreter suggests he share the information with Danny; he agrees to help them in their search calling it an honorable transaction with an honorable man.

Danny talks it over with Gwen, revealing that Khalid doesn't have the address. Lexi texts Danny, saying she doesn't have any control issues. He calls and finds out that she is on her way to the address she found. Gwen warns him not to do anything stupid but Asim stops him, insisting that he goes with him.

Asim says if the exchange happened there the safe house has to be close by; a place that has a clear view of the square. Asim wants to go one way, but Danny wants him to wait until Lexi shows up. Asim confronts him about suspecting him about working with Farouk; Danny swears they are just being cautious. Outside an armed guard is waiting for orders on Danny and Asim; being told to take them out if they make a move.

Danny learns Asim is not supposed to be there, his papers missing. He also believes someone in the Egyptian government is working with Farouk. He knows what Danny is thinking, and finding the mole is a good way to blame someone else for the bombing. He knows why Danny wouldn't trust him, but every time he got close to Farouk he had to walk and there is no one he trusts more to have his back than Danny. Asim gives Danny a gun, saying its there in case they don't like the answers to their questions. The gunman is about to fire from the rooftop when Lexi attacks him from behind and his body lands on a car below. She shouts out the address, saying she will meet them inside as gunmen come chasing and shooting after her. Asim and Danny are in the middle of exchanging gunfire when Asim asks if he has seen Lexi. She drops through the skylight on top of another guard. She is able to find the photo of Cleopatra with the Nazis, completely distracted when one of Farouk's men throws a grenade. Asim drops his body on it to save Lexi, and when they turn him over he is fatally wounded, saying this is for his country before he dies.

Danny sits outside in Rome, as Father Chuck finds him on a bench. He recalls a childhood memory of finding Danny like this and suggests they batter up; talking about how they defeated the cheaters from St. Luke's who were only supposed to be 12. When they arrive at the park, Chuck is told to piss off by several of the young men standing around the yard. Chuck mocks that it hurts him on so many levels, giving Danny the baseball bat; Chuck opens his coat revealing he is a priest. They all back off as Father Chuck reminds them all that God loves them!

Chuck and Danny begin to have fun as he smashes the balls out of the park. Chuck asks Danny to stay for a while longer, even saying his girlfriend could visit. Danny misses the ball, telling him to shut up because he doesn't really know what she is. All he knows is someone needs to stop Farouk and he can't do it alone; while Lexi will attempt to do it on her own and get hurt. He frets that if anything happens to her, he doesn't know what he would do. Their chat is interrupted when Lexi sneaks up behind Danny. Danny tells Chuck that this move wasn't cool. Lexi admits she was wrong and feels terrible about Asim and what she believed. Danny feels they forced Farouk to alter his plans and that is how he will start making mistakes; he knows this because that is how he found him the first time.

Lexi pulls out the photo from the safehouse. The photo says Bavaria, 1944 now knowing the Nazis have Cleopatra. Danny informs her that Asim said something about the Egyptian culture being incorporated by the west and the same goes for Cleopatra. Farouk's stealing all of this could be his way of driving everyone into an all-out war. Lexi and Danny feel they should follow the photograph, as Lexi insists he shouldn't worry about her at this time she is ready. Danny wants to know what she meant about not having control issues; something Chuck made her think about.

Behind a tree, where Bruno Fabi is standing, speaking on the phone saying Asim Masood was not the mole in Egypt. He says they are heading to Germany, where they will find her.

Summary: A clue leads Danny and Lexi to a castle where the Germans may have hidden Cleopatra's sarcophagus; Fabi rescues Dr. Castillo's kidnapped assistant; Hardwick reveals information to Fabi and Gwen about others who are searching for Cleopatra.

The search for Cleopatra brought Danny and Lexi to Bavaria. It was where the sarcophagus of the Egyptian Queen was taken once the Nazis raided her grave with Antony. They failed to get their hands on the Roman general, but they did have enough opportunity to take Cleopatra and transfer her back to the fatherland. No sooner was being shown off at dinner parties that Germany was bombed and the Nazis were forced to hide what they stole. They were able to hide her location and their only mistake had been the one picture they left behind. The Nazis took a photo with the sarcophagus in what appeared to be a castle. The castle was Castle Schadelberg and it could be found through a simple google search.

The castle was also known for being a Nazi headquarters near the Austria border. The Nazis did a tremendous of work to it because they claimed that they had to stabilize the castle, but they probably used the excuse that it was lying on bedrock to create hidden quarters. Danny and Lexi decided to go after Cleopatra and they kept their friends in law enforcement out of the loophole. Bruno and Gwen had no idea they were heading to Bavaria because they were still searching for Antony. Bruno had been cut out of that investigation as well and so he snuck away to the location. He failed at finding Antony and instead came across someone from the Brotherhood. The secret group he belonged to has its own problems.

The brother that Bruno ran into was the same man that accepted payments from Farouk and faked his own death. Bruno couldn't let anyone else grab him and so he kidnapped him so that the Brotherhood could deal with their internal problem. Bruno was off dealing with his fallen brother when Lexi and Danny got to the castle. They pretended to be a couple on their honeymoon and it worked for a while. Then they got snuck with a tour guide that wanted to cover the seven-hundred-year history of the castle rather than the ten years it was occupied by the Nazis, but Lexi and Danny ditched the tour and hid out until the museum closed. And later they snuck out to go searching for the Nazi lair.

The Nazis were firm believers in Aryan mysticism. They wanted to believe they were the superior race and so they followed a man constantly high on various drugs. It was the drugs that made Hitler so paranoid and that paranoia was lent to his loyal foot soldiers. It took an old painting for Danny to realize the lair was connected to the basement and while he knew his Nazi history it had been Lexi thinking as a thief that opened the lair. They found a reconstruction of Cleopatra's tomb that the Nazis must have set up to display the many treasures they stole from the pyramids and what the treasure hunters didn't find right away was Cleopatra. They were busy looking for the dead queen while Farouk's men were closing in.

The picture they were using had a bunch of a Nazis in it and one child. The child was the granddaughter of an important Nazi official and she was still alive. At least she was until she met Farouk's man. She was most likely tortured and then killed once she gave up the location. Meaning Farouk was willing to kill anyone that got in the way of what he wanted and what he wanted was revenge. He let his plan slipped when he kidnapped an archeologist several years ago and that man was liberated by Danny. Danny saved Simon Hardwick's life back in 2014 after the man had been held prisoner for a year. Hardwick was forced to help Farouk acquire ancient antiquities and he would dare help the man again.

Which was odd because Hardwick had been the man to transfer money to Max Najjar. Najjar was the fallen brother that Bruno killed real quick and so both he and Gwen wanted to know why Hardwick had gotten involved with him. They questioned if Hardwick was funding terrorism, but Hardwick told them what happened to him and that he's been keeping a low profile ever since. He says he was a dealer and that his clients relied on discretion. He also said he gave Najjar the money because the man was in a bind and he didn't want to get on his bad side. Hardwick knew that Najjar was a part of the Brotherhood because Najjar once tried to sell his medallion and no one terrified Hardwick more than the Brotherhood.

That's when Bruno realized the full extent of Najjar's betrayal. He turned on the Brotherhood the moment he explained his order to an outsider and so no wonder he agreed to work with Farouk. Najjar stopped caring about their ancient mission and he took an interest in money, but back in Bavaria, Danny and Lexi realized that Cleopatra wasn't hidden in the castle. She had been hidden elsewhere and the key to that was written in Kreisau code. Neither of them knew this code and so they called Chuck. Chuck knew a couple of Jesuits who translated the code using a Kreisau bible and it translates to "Sauber-depot, garage 18". It was an old panzer repair depot and there was no safer place than a military base back then.

Danny and Lexi went to the site. They found a freight elevator that has long fallen to disuse, but they climbed down there and they found a bunch of gold bars. It was the golden the Nazis stolen from the Jews and melted down when they sent the rightful owners to the camps. What they didn't find was Cleopatra. She must have been moved again and no sooner did they realize this that Farouk made his move. He grabbed Lexi and left Danny to die in the elevator tunnel. Danny's ladder collapsed under his weight and he was left down there with no way of climbing out on his own.

Summary: An unlikely ally reveals to Lexi that an Egyptian official has files which could lead her to Farouk. But in order to get to the information, she must enlist Danny in a dangerous plan while lying to him about the source of her lead. Also, Farouk takes a risk to get back the items he stole from the Pyramids, which he needs in order to fund his operations.

Danny would have been left in that old elevator shaft if it hadn't been for Jay. Jay had heard Danny disappeared and he came after him, but what neither of them saw was Lexi. Lexi disappeared and so did Danny's car. Jay believes those two things were connected. He surmised that Lexi went after Farouk and abandoned Danny. Danny, on the other hand, had a better understanding of Lexi. Lexi was a thief and she was out for revenge. But she wouldn't have left Danny to die. He knew that something must have happened to her and he wanted to go after her. Danny talked to Jay and he convinced him to at least assist. He said that Lexi could be in trouble and she was going to need them.

Jay still had his beliefs, but he was willing to help a friend and so they went searching for Lexi together. It was suggested that Farouk could have been responsible and Danny had to shoot it down. He noticed that Farouk already drove off when Lexi disappeared and so he didn't think about who else was searching for Cleopatra. It was actually the Brotherhood of Serapis that grabbed Lexi. They took her to back to their secret quarters and they planned on interrogating her like they would have done to anyone else. There was just one problem with that. Lexi wasn't like anyone else and she could tell a person by their shape in the dark. She immediately knew that it was Fabi grabbed her and she never once gave him the chance to deny it.

Fabi and the Brotherhood did kidnap her. They grabbed Lexi and left Danny to die because out of the two of them it was Lexi they thought could work with. The Brotherhood wants Qarim Farouk dead. They knew that Danny would never go along with that and they thought Lexi did. Lexi wants revenge for her father who was brutally killed by Farouk and so they thought there was nothing that she wouldn't do, but they were wrong. She didn't like working with secret sects. Lexi told Fabi that she could kill Farouk on her own and Fabi told her quite bluntly that the Brotherhood could also kill her. She was dealing with a secret group that's been around for thousands of years and they have killed whoever has gotten in their way.

Fabi told Lexi that she could take up this offer or she could disappear and so naturally she chose to take the offer. Lexi also threw in how she couldn't do this without Danny. Danny and Lexi make a great team and they wouldn't have gotten this far if it weren't for each other. So Lexi convinced Fabi to let her work with Danny and she now has to find a way to do so without letting Danny know what's really going on. Danny had made it back to Rome and he was still searching for answers on Lexi's disappearance when she just showed up out of the blue. She said she had to walk for hours to get help and that she saw cops when she came back. Lexi claims that she had to hike it back to Rome on her own and that she now wants to relax.

Danny chose to believe her and he told her all about a party that he was invited to. It has an open bar and it gave him a chance to check in with Jay. Jay had bribed his way into receiving the only available log on the Sauber Depot and he wanted Danny to use it to find Cleopatra. Before they could get down to business however, Jay was being honored for returning Egyptian artifacts back to Egypt and hence the party. Danny and Lexi went to the party at the Egyptian consulate and right away Danny knew Lexi was up to something. She wasn't at the bar like she said she was going to be and she wasn't networking. Lexi was merely roaming around and so Jay suspected she was casing the place.

Danny didn't know what to think. He was just as suspicious, but he knew Lexi and he knew if nothing else she would never work with Farouk. Farouk was the real deal here. He even proved it when he hit the transfer vehicle and killed off Jay's security detail. It didn't seem like Farouk had taken anything because the relics were still there and so Danny asked to see them for himself. He checked them and he realized that the relics they thought they had were fakes. Farouk must have switched out the real things for the fake ones and to make things worse no one could tell the Egyptian government what happened. It would be a diplomatic disaster if they thought their relics were finally being returned to them only for them to be stolen again.

Danny knew the spy in Egyptian government may have played a part and so Lexi let him in on certain things. She found out from her new friends the Brotherhood that they had a lead on the spy. They believe it was Minister Ghazal. Ghazal had been at the party and Danny just thought he was a happy drunk. It turns out Ghazal could afford to be happy because he had been working with Farouk and must have gotten rich thanks to being a spy. Ghazal also invited Danny to Egypt and so Danny told Lexi about it. He said that if he could derail Ghazal then she could break into the man's office to go through his files. It didn't sound like it was Danny's style, but he wanted to prove to Lexi that she could trust him and trust that he won't judge her for having dodgy contacts.

That's how Lexi phrased it. She told him that her contacts weren't always good people and that she didn't want him to get wrapped in whatever they were doing, but she didn't count on Danny's drive to find Cleopatra overcoming his usual good sense. He talked Lexi into breaking into Ghazal's office and together they came up with a plan. They landed in Cairo and Danny invited Ghazal to drinks. The minister thought it was an important meeting and he was ready to leave when he saw that it wasn't. Danny had to think on his feet and so the best he could come up with was accusing Ghazal of working with Farouk. He threw in that name and then "grilled" Ghazal about what he did or didn't know.

Ghazal was then "cleared" by Danny and Danny got to meet up with Lexi. She had found something in Ghazal's possession. She found a letter written from Farouk to her late father and it alleges that her father was funding Farouk before they fell out. It didn't make sense to Lexi because she thought they introduced her father to such a dangerous man. Now that she knows differently, she's wondering what she else she was wrong about and she attempted to show Danny what else she found in Ghazal's office. She was showing him her phone when they were attacked and robbed by the Brotherhood. It turns out they didn't trust Lexi to leave her with pivotal information and so they grabbed her phone knowing she copied everything she saw onto it.

Lexi had felt betrayed afterwards, but she couldn't say anything about it to Danny and so she chose to lie. She said her contacts went dark and that they might have led the Brotherhood to them. It was the only thing she was willing to say on the matter and so Jay has to accept it. Only he didn't like it. His own contacts that had the Nazis' log on the depot had gotten hit and the logs were the only thing that was taken. It seemed that the Brotherhood was targeting everyone that might have information on Cleopatra and so Ana Castillo had had enough. She believed Cleopatra to be cursed and she didn't want anything else to happen.

Ana said she was no longer going to look for it or even assist her friends in helping them find out. She was instead getting out of town and she was advising them to do the same.

Summary: Danny and Lexi follow a clue to the mountains of Spain in search of a lost train car that may have been carrying the sarcophagus of Cleopatra when it disappeared. Also, Lexi crosses paths with antiquities dealer Simon Hardwick, who offers her new information on the Brotherhood of Serapis.

Even the Nazis had second thoughts about Cleopatra's tomb. They considered cursed because of all the people that had to die to get it to the Fatherland and some managed to turn on their own when they assumed selling Cleopatra would rid them of the curse, but was there a way to remove the curse? Danny didn't believe there was one to begin with and Lexi was along for the ride because of her own reasons. The only one on their side that didn't believe in the mission was Dr. Ana Castillo. She said that everyone that looks for Cleopatra or comes close to finding her dies and she had a point. Ana couldn't bare to be around the bloodshed anymore and she chose to take a dig on the other side of the world. She tried to convince her friends to do the same and they wouldn't hear it. The others said they've come too far to turn back now.

Danny and Lexi later returned to Rome, but Lexi couldn't stay at Chuck's apartment and so she took to couch surfing with her friends. She bothered an art restorer because she needed help. Lexi found a piece of evidence that indicates her father had been working with Farouk before the feds approached him and so she needed to know what else the document says. Lexi hoped Eric would use her background in the arts to retrieve it and she also wanted this to be done as a favor. She didn't have any money on her like usual, but Erica was thankful of the business that Lexi has kicked her way in the past and so she agreed to take on the job without pay. She was doing that while Lexi got a call from Danny.

Dany comprised a list of people that would be interested in buying Egyptian antiquities even if it came from a terrorist. He showed it to Lexi, Fabi, and Gwen and it turns out Lexi knew a name on the list. She knew Petra and she called him to find out about the recent sale. He hadn't bought anything because he been outbid and so he had been happy to turn over who bought the stash. It was Jessica Wong. She was a Chinese billionaire living in London and she was also throwing a party. Gwen wanted to get a warrant though Fabi secretly told Lexi that wouldn't be possible and that time was of the essence. The Brotherhood learned that Farouk was close to finding Cleopatra and that his people were digging somewhere in Europe.

Fabi told her that she had to be at the party to get answers and so Lexi brought Danny to the party without backup. They were supposed to case the place to find out what Jessica was hiding, but they received "help" from an unlikely source. Hardwick suggested to Lexi that she search Jessica's office and she was in there when she Jessica came barging in with Danny. His cover had been blown and Jessica now knew he was former FBI. She demanded to know what's going on and so Danny played her. He claimed that he was working with a team just waiting for the signal and that if she wasn't cooperative she would be brought in for questioning. She did after all assist a terrorist. So Jessica was quick to deny it. She said she didn't know who Farouk was and she had been very obliging when she knew her own freedom was on the line.

Danny and Lexi quickly left once Jessica handed over information and so they hurried their way to Spain. That's where Farouk went with his men. He had Jessica purchase acres of land in Spain for the trade-off and that means he doesn't know where exactly is the tomb. Farouk was just searching large tracts of land and meanwhile Danny and Lexi found a helpful tour guide. The tour guide went out of business when the land was bought up, but he still sells the maps and he knows about the Ghost Train. The Ghost Train was what everyone was looking for. It was last held by the Nazis and it set off from one place and derailed before it could reach its location. Danny and Lexi bought the map in which they could follow the route and that one little thing proved to be a lifesaver. They found the train before Farouk's men could because the henchmen were searching in the wrong place.

Danny and Lexi thought their luck had turned around when they found the crate, but it seems their old Italian mafia friends found them in the middle of a Spanish forest. The last time the pair had seen them they had sort of ruined their illegal black market bazaar. So Lexi and Danny found themselves in a shake down. They just couldn't pay the man off because they found out Cleopatra had been moved again and so that really didn't help their case when Farouk's men came across all of them. Omar was Farouk's second in command and he pulled weapons on the couple as well as the Italian mob. The only way to stop them from killing each other had been Lexi's quick thinking. She and Danny agreed to dig up Cleopatra despite knowing she wasn't down there.

Only Lexi remembered the alcohol that was in fact down there. She lured Farouk's men into following them and with Danny's help she threw makeshift bomb at their enemies. They got out of the ensuing fight with their lives. Carlo Velardi on the other hand had lost a son and so he called Lexi his curse because ever since they met his life has gone to ruin. Lexi and Danny didn't let that slow them down and they still went digging on what else they could find. They came across a mass burial site. The Nazis on the train went through a shoot-out and they grabbed Cleopatra, but then they came across soldiers that were brought in to put down the rebels against Franco's regime and so the Nazis killed them. They also took their uniforms and used that to help them escape to Casablanca.

Lexi and Danny knew they had to go there, but first she wanted to stop in Rome because Erica had answers for her and didn't want to say over the phone. So the couple returned to Rome and that's where they learned the evidence against Lexi's father was a forgery. Her father wasn't working with Farouk. It was created by someone that wanted it to look that way and so someone was trying to sully the memory of her father. Lexi later told Fabi what she learned and he told her that it must have been Ghazal. Ghazal tipped off Farouk about her dad and he was still working with Farouk. Fabi assured Lexi that the Brotherhood was watching him and she thought that would be it.

Then Hardwick called her and he showed her proof that her father had been in the Brotherhood.

So it was funny how Fabi didn't mention that when they last spoke.

Summary: Danny and Lexi must improvise in order to stay alive and out of jail when they're stuck in Casablanca with both law enforcement and their enemies hot on their trail. Also, Hardwick's personal investigation into the Brotherhood of Serapis lands him in a dangerous situation.

The Nazis took Cleopatra to Casablanca. It was their last known location and both Danny and Lexi knew they needed to get there before Farouk, but for some reason, they didn't leave right away. They waited because Lexi needed information. She found out from Simon Hardwick that her father was in the Brotherhood of Serapis and so now she needed answers. Lexi couldn't push their tip because she didn't want Danny to suspect anything and that meant they had to leave. They flew to Casablanca and they ran into a few people they shouldn't have. It seems that Interpol was onto the pair of them and so their assets have been frozen. And Gwen showed up ready to arrest Lexi for leaving the EU without permission.

It was part of the terms of her release. Lexi really should have remembered that before and Danny for one should have kept Gwen in the loop, but they both failed to follow orders. Now Interpol doesn't trust them. Gwen also heard about what happened in Spain and so she planned on the arresting the pair when someone else got in her way. Carlo, their favorite mob boss from Italy, had also showed up in Casablanca because he blamed the treasure hunters for the death of his son. His son died in the shootout in Spain and he wanted revenge. Carlo wasn't thinking rationally when he after Lexi and Danny and he wanted to kill them for what Farouk's men did. It had been the terrorist that started shooting first and so they were only ones to blame for what happened.

But no one cared what either Danny or Lexi thought. They were being hunted by two groups in a small area and so they hid in the only place they could hide. They hid in the United Nations Refugee Camp. There they at least met much nicer people. Someone even warned them that the camps were going to be searched and so they had enough time to leave, but they met a doctor who had information. There was a woman named Aya and she was wearing a necklace based on a design from Cleopatra's tomb. They asked Aya about it and she said a man named Salim Le Mer sells them. He's been selling necklaces for years and so he must know who had the original design. There was just one problem with meeting Salim and that was his ever present guards.

The guards protecting Salim wouldn't allow anyone to pass them. So the pair hung around Salim's club as they tried to figure out how to get a meeting with the man himself and luckily they ran into their old friend Shaw. Shaw was now giving the "Casablanca" experience for money. He works for Salim and odds are he's unaware that Salim's his unofficial pimp. Danny and Lexi had a few laughs about that one, but they soon returned to business. They asked Shaw to assist them and they said he could get part of the finder's fee for Cleopatra. The money was what grabbed his interest and he was willing to make introductions. Unfortunately for him, once Salim heard about Cleopatra, he thought that Shaw and his men should go with Danny and Lexi to go collect the lost queen. And so this newly expanded group went to the woman who created the necklaces for Salim.

The woman they found had been open with them. She said that her own father had been obsessed with the symbol. He was a port worker with her uncle and one night they both came home to suddenly do construction. They worked into the early morning and afterwards it was revealed they built a counter. Then the brothers began arguing every minute until one day they killed each other. Danny and Lexi realized that the curse must have gotten to them and they also suspected that Cleopatra was hidden in the counter. Only Gwen showed up and she began arresting everyone, so Danny had to talk fast. He convinced Gwen to help him dismantle the counter and inside they found Cleopatra's sarcophagus, but the actual sarcophagus had been empty.

It seems the tale of the brothers went a little differently than Danny thought. The brothers accepted the sarcophagus as payment because they must have thought the gold was far more valuable than genuine tomb, but then they began arguing about how to sell it and that's when they killed each other. The tale of the brothers may have ended differently, only it didn't mean it had to be the end of everything. Danny proposed that they leak the information about finding Cleopatra. They let Farouk think they have it and he'll come for it. It was supposed to be a trap and so Gwen decided to forgive Danny and Lexi for their earlier transgressions. She was even going to let them sit in on the sting and it was Danny that decided to cut Lexi out.

Danny knew that Lexi was keeping secrets and so he checked her burner phone when she wasn't looking. He saw for himself that she's been spying on him for someone. Danny later confronted Lexi and demanded to know who her real partner was, but Lexi wouldn't say so Danny cut her out of the mission. He couldn't trust her and he told Gwen as much. The two of them were going to catch Omar (Farouk's second in command) together and what no one counted on was Carlo's men showing up. They tried to kill Omar when they saw him and so Interpol had to rescue then apprehend Omar. Omar almost escaped them, but they caught them in the end because Lexi showed up and tried to help.

Funnily enough, Lexi didn't stick around when they actually arrested Omar and so no one knew where she went.

Danny meanwhile was arrested and taken back to the FBI. He even befriended Carlo during their detainment together and that wasn't all. But before they left Morocco, Lexi suddenly turned herself in and she was being transported with all the others including Danny.

Summary: The FBI offers Danny and Lexi information that will help them in their search for Cleopatra, but only if Danny is able to get his incarcerated father, Patrick, to give up the location of paintings that he helped steal 20 years earlier. Also, Farouk deals with a loose end and takes a big step forward in his master plan.

Lexi and Danny have reached a point in their relationship where they couldn't trust each other. Then Danny was arrested. He thought that would be it and he would never see Lexi again. Only Lexi handed herself in. She had the chance to flee and she didn't take it. She actually chose to stay. She wanted to prove to Danny that he could trust her and it turns getting arrested wasn't the way to do it. They were both transported and were facing serious time. They were even brought back to Italy and Danny knew that the federal government would demand his arrest, but he thought he beat the charges in the long run and so he wasn't worried until he saw that the FBI sent Special Agent Harper.

Harper and Danny had a special relationship. Harper had arrested Danny's father Patrick McNamara and he wanted to use Danny to finally get the old man to talk. Patrick it seems had been a part of a crew and they were known for the Fensgate Museum Heist. The crew stole ten paintings in all and the FBI has never recovered or brought to justice any member of this crew besides Patrick. Patrick has been in jail now for years and he's never told the feds a single thing, but things were different now because he's dying. He's dying and prison doesn't always have the best of care. Danny was told about his dad's condition and so that made him want to see his dad one final time. He just never thought Lexi would be coming with.

Lexi was considered an "expert" in her field. She was brought along as someone to verify the paintings and so she was free as long as Danny was free. Both of them were given ankle monitors and then they were sent to the prison in Boston. Danny had talked to his dad and he tried to get him to finally tell him where the paintings went, but his dad refused to budge and it looked he was scared of someone. Patrick stopped talking the moment a guard coughed and it was too much of a coincidence. Danny thinks it was a code and maybe that's why he did said what he did right before he left. Patrick told Danny to go see his mother before he left. Now Danny's mother is dead and she's buried in Texas. And so Danny believes his father told him to go back to the old house.

Danny had been little when his parents split up and he went with his mother to Texas. She raised him there and she got sick there. His mother was buried in Texas and Danny was sent to live with his dad, but they didn't get along and Patrick didn't want any reminders of his ex. He told Danny he could keep a few mementos if he kept them secret. So that's what Danny did. He hid what few things he had left to remember his mom by and then he and his dad never talked about it again. Danny in the present came to believe his dad meant to go back to the house and find those mementos. The old place had been boarded up after Patrick was arrested and so technically Danny had to break into his own childhood home. But he did it.

Danny and Lexi got into the house and they found that old box of mementos. Danny saw the picture of his mom and he also saw the writing that wasn't his on the back of it. His dad wrote the name "Tim Keeler". Danny didn't know who that was, but he must be important because some goons broke in and attacked the pair. They tried to get Danny's photo and he barely managed to hold onto it. He and Lexi escaped the goons and they kept the picture. Lexi didn't know how they were going to figure out who this Tim Keeler was and so Danny had to turn to an old friend. Chappie used to work the beat with Patrick back in the day and they had both been part of the heist. It was supposed to be a huge haul for them and unfortunately their third partner, this Tim, had double-crossed them.

Tim ran off with the money and the paintings. Patrick on the other hand was on the hook because a guard had seen him and so he planned on killing this guard, but Danny turned him in first. Danny chose to save the guard's life and so he hadn't seen his father since that time until he saw him again at the prison. It's also why he has such a difficult relationship with his father. Danny chose to do the right thing and then he had to prove himself everyday at the FBI that he wasn't his father. He was only back now because he wanted his dad to die in peace and for that he confronted Chappie. Chappie was still drinking himself to death and despite that he didn't want to be a "rat". It's what everyone from the old neighborhood labeled Danny when he turned his dad in.

Only Danny didn't care about appearances. He's proven that and so he was willing to beat up Chappie until it got Chappie to talk. Chappie said Tim was a dirty cop. He had been a detective and he used to get Chappie and Patrick jobs like shaking down local businesses. Then he came to them with this big score and after he double-crossed them he left town. Chappie heard he was living on an island somewhere and so that's what Danny brought Harper. The FBI were able to trace Tim. They found out he was living in Cuba and the U.S. doesn't have extradition agreement with the country. Tim was just out of their reach and so Harper told Danny that he wouldn't move Patrick into better care until he got his hands on those paintings.

Harper sent Danny and Lexi to Havana. They were supposed to find out who Tim sold the paintings to, but there was no need. Tim never got the chance to sell nine out of ten paintings. It had been too hot to sell them back then and the man that hired him only wanted the one painting. So Tim just kept the rest under his bar. Danny and Lexi found them and verified them. Then they were attacked by the same group from Boston and so they was another chance before they could ultimately lose the group. Danny and Lexi returned to the states with the majority of the paintings. There was just one missing. It was called "The Death of Cleopatra" and both Lexi and Danny now believe they were being hunted by Farouk's people.

Farouk wanted the painting because he thought it would lead to Cleopatra and hadn't known the one he wanted was missing. But whoever the mystery buyer was, he could have the answers. Lexi and Danny had no one of contacting them because Farouk's men killed Tim and so fortunately Harper left them off the hook. He moved Patrick to a hospital and Danny got to see his dad was being taken care of. They weren't going to suddenly be best friends though Patrick now understands why Danny did what he did and so that has at least created some understanding between. Lexi also understood a lot more once she saw for herself how certain events shaped Danny into the man he is and that's why she came clean.

Lexi admitted that it was Fabi on the end of that burner phone and that he was secretly part of the Brotherhood, but Danny had his own confession as well.

Danny told Lexi that he gave the burner phone's number to Gwen to trace and that's what she did. She traced it and she found out that Fabi was a spy working with Lexi.

trying to track where Danny and Lexi went.

Danny and Lexi, pretending to be filmmakers, meet George Larose, the caretaker of the weather station. They find a Nazi shield there.

Summary: After nearly capturing Farouk in a sting operation, Danny and Lexi enlist Hardwick to tap into his underworld contacts in hopes of cornering Farouk before he disappears again. Also, Gwen, fed up with Danny and Lexi's tactics, arrests Father Chuck for aiding them.

The episode begins in Paris, France 5th Arrondissement where Danny McNamara and Lexi Vaziri sneak into some secret tunnels under the city. They find an "X" and Danny pulls the wood off; Lexi tells Danny to stay behind because he is just an outsider but if she isn't back in half an hour he is coming to get her.

ROME the police arrive at Father Chuck's apartment, demanding to know where Danny McNamara is. He is handcuffed, taken in for questioning regarding the murder of Captain Bruno Fabi.

Lexi comes with a peace offering for Alessandro and Alina, but learns from them that her mother never wanted her to be part of this. Alina says she also cared about Fabi as he taught her everything, just as Lexi's mother taught him. Lexi wants to know if her mother is there and is shown the nameplate for Jamila Vaziri; realizing she has been visiting an empty grave for the past 20 years. She is offered an apology but her mother was a warrior in a much longer struggle. Alina explains the story of why they took people from all lands and cultures to protect these relics. Lexi learns the Brotherhood was nearly destroyed because of the war and this is what her mother gave her life for.

1999 in Alexandria Vaziri Antique Shop Courtyard Jamila tells Lexi that she will be back before she knows it. Jamila promises that someday she will understand why she had to leave, as her mother reminds her that her father is protective but they are truly the protectors; that was the last time Lexi saw her mother alive.

Back to 2019, Lexi introduces Danny to Alina, revealing that she is a full-blown secret society. Alina is given consent to reveal whatever she needs to tell Lexi. Alina informs them that Chuck has been taken into custody; Danny feels they need to go back to Rome but Lexi believes Chuck can handle himself. Alina tells Danny about the CIA contractors gathering intelligence, hiding in a bunker as his entire family was wiped out; after that, he became radicalized. He is now known as Karim Farouk. She says they have been monitoring his real name but nothing has connected the dots; Lexi says they can help connect the dots as Danny says he has a contact in Iraqi Intelligence he can ask for help.

Danny reveals that his contact learned two people survived the bombing, a Nadia Bishara, who was 5 years old at the time. She disappeared during the firefight. Lexi and Danny believe this could be Farouk's last living relative. Alina gets onto the computer, saying they can hack into the medical records and if they find Nadia they can draw in Farouk; both Danny and Lexi are excited at the prospect of finally catching him.

Chuck continues to be questioned as he says that Lexi has a good heart, just like Danny so he wants to know what this is really about. He believes this is tough since she seems like the type that has everything in military-grade in her life; so the revelation of a secret society might make her question everything she believes about the world. She says she is 4th generation police and was taught to follow the rules. Chuck says it is not Danny and Lexi who are keeping her up at night; she admits that the Italian police are shutting her out. He says there are the laws of God that are about what is just and the laws of man which are about what is legal. The first one can never be broken, not so much about the second.

Danny and Lexi are off to find Farouk as Alina says she has to stay there, and this is now Lexi's choice as to whether she wants to join the secret society and when the time is right Lexi will know what to do.

Danny and Lexi arrive at the hospital, showing her that Karim Farouk is a wanted criminal and now she has the chance to stop him; with one phone call, saying Nadia has taken a bad turn and he is needed immediately to come. They assure her that even though Nadia is to be bait, she will not be harmed. Farouk receives the call, willing to risk it all even though they are so close to their goal. He says if anything happens to him, his orders are clear and they are to finish the job!

Lexi reassures Danny they can handle this as the doctor brings out Nadia, which is Farouk's niece. She leaves her on the grounds, before giving Lexi a very odd nod. Lexi spots a man approaching Nadia but he spots Lexi's gun as he hugs Nadi and runs back into the hospital; both Danny and Lexi giving chase. Danny shouts to Farouk that it is over, he raises his hands but gunfire erupts from an approaching car. Farouk is upset that he didn't follow orders but is told he can thank him later.

Danny and Lexi learn from the doctor that Nadia is okay but upset; as far as she knows her uncle is a good man and the only family she has. Lexi is furious with herself for not taking the shot; feeling she is soft and weak because of Danny as she only thought about the little girl who would see her only family member die right in front of her. Danny believes they may have a way to find Farouk as he dropped his bag. The bag reveals it is from a region in Cyprus that has been a haven for illegal activity. Danny says that Farouk rushed here from Cypress and he would need to get immediately back there to finish his plans. Lexi feels they are lucky to have a shady antiquities dealer on their side.

Paris, Lexi greets Simon Hardwick at their private jet. He is disappointed this is not a long distance booty call as Danny reveals they believe Farouk is in Cyprus but they need his help into nailing down where Farouk is. Lexi stops their bickering, saying this is their best chance. Simon wants legitimacy in exchange for helping them. Lexi doesn't care where he stands when they reveal Cleopatra to the world. He explains that he dealt with pirates, saying the name of the ship always changes but if Farouk is in Cyprus he is using the pirates for sure. Danny doesn't want to bring Simon along but Lexi agrees with him. She doesn't trust Simon but she trusts his hatred for Farouk; they joke about Arabian Sea Pirates before boarding the plane.

Danny calls Gwen Karlsson, but she tells him that she cannot talk right now, after sneaking into a police protected place. She cuts the tape and enters the room, finding several papers and files hidden in a violin case. Some policemen approach the apartment, causing Gwen to hide as they demand to know who is there; but they find no one nor anything as she is hiding on the ledge outside, several stories high.

In Cyprus — Port of Famagusta, Danny, Lexi and Simon lurk in the shadows, finding a lot of fire power. Simon reminds them it is an illegal port, Danny asks for backup but Simon tells Lexi she shouldn't trust the Brotherhood, also telling Lexi that if she gets the chance she needs to kill Farouk. Simon tells them they are holding a lot more information than they know and he will tell them another time. Simon walks out into the open, going to talk to the guards, saying he knows them from the football game, He says he can get them really good tickets, but Lexi and Danny are able to subdue them; feeling they make a really good team.

They race through the shipyard with their guns drawn, spotting Farouk's wheelman; knowing Farouk isn't far behind. They all agree they will not allow Farouk onto the ship; Danny reminds them they are trying to take Farouk alive if possible. They use the cover of crates and shipping bins to get closer to Farouk; but Simon knocks over a metal bar causing gunfire to erupt. Farouk jumps into a forklift while Lexi and Danny continue to exchange fire with Farouk's men and the pirates.

Lexi climbs one of the shipping crates while Danny walks on the ground. Farouk orders his men to get into the ship when he spots Lexi. A shot rings out and both Lexi and Danny realize Simon killed Farouk. Danny assures Simon that Farouk cannot hurt him nor anyone before, helicopters arrive and Simon wants to leave. Lexi tells him to stay put since he wanted to be a hero and should be acknowledged as the man who killed the most wanted terrorist. Simon quietly tells Lexi that there is more to the Brotherhood than she knows and it has to do with her father.

Danny and Lexi admire the Sarcophagus as Danny feels that Farouk's plans didn't end with his death. Lexi thought she would feel good now that he was dead but all she feels is numb. Danny apologizes to Gwen for the way they left things as she admits she broke into Fabi's apartment and stole the secret files from his work. She says Father Chuck told him she could do it as he was investigating a different angle on Farouk and wants to know if Danny will work with her to find out what he was planning. They both feel this is weird, promising to work together. Lexi doesn't know what Fabi was investigating but she knows who does and has a lot of questions for him.

Lexi returns to the secret society, bringing in a blindfolded Danny, who promises he can be discreet, but is in awe of what he sees. Lexi questions Alessandro who admits that Fabi was looking into the Farouk file she stole but wasn't ready to believe the story she said and wanted to know more about the mystery surrounding her father's death. Fabi's conclusions died with him as Danny is upset that they didn't work together earlier to capture Farouk. Danny takes Alessandro's side, saying that her mother was a direct descendant of the bloodline of Cleopatra, which means so is Lexi. She scoffs at him, but Alessandro informs him that her father forbade her to be in the Brotherhood, but hoped she would find her way on her own. Her history is their history and her future is their future!

Lexi shakes her head, completely reluctant to accept that. Danny hands Alessandro the candle and chases after a distraught Lexi. She tells him that place nearly destroyed her parents marriage and knows she should feel something because her mother was one of them. She doesn't feel a connection to anyone; the Brotherhood could have given her mother purpose but it has only given her pain. Danny reminds her that she can only give herself purpose. She says the only time she has been truly happy is when she is with Danny.

She leans on him, with him admitting he is happy generally too. He holds his sore shoulder as she hits it repeatedly. He says his life was fine before her, painting inside the lines but she came along and dumped all the paint everywhere and somehow it comes out looking like the Mona Lisa. They are just about to kiss when Danny gets a message that they have tracked Farouk's men to Russia. Danny and Lexi are in Russia where they find a dead scientist, feeling they would have known they were coming there eventually after the raid. Danny orders to get everyone out of there immediately as he touches a strange substance on the table.

They have to believe that Farouk's crew is carrying on with his plan and now they have a biological weapon.

Summary:	The trail of Cleopatra's sarcophagus leads Danny and Lexi to the Bermuda Triangle, where a contact of Shaw's offers assistance tracking down a smuggler's plane that vanished years earlier. Also, Gwen attracts unwanted attention when she investigates a suspicious money transfer.

Karim Farouk was dead. Everyone believed they put an end to the danger with Farouk's death and yet they were wrong because they seemingly forgot about one thing. They had all forgotten about Farouk's men. His men were still out there and none of them were allowed to the cause. This group was comprised of terrorists that were still loyal to Farouk's vision and they were willing to kill anyone that tried to defect. Therefore, they all were brought on board with Farouk's last plan. He was committed to carrying out a terrorist attack that would put the East and West at war. Farouk thought he could do so with the tombs of Antony and Cleopatra. He believed they held some mystic power that could be dangerous in the right hands.

Farouk had even been running tests on Antony's tomb. Something he may have done or seen had also inspired him because Farouk went on to develop a biological weapon. This weapon was still out there with his men. It was up to Danny and Lexi to find this weapon and stop it. They both felt they could only do so by finding Cleopatra because they figured this weapon would be connected to her tomb. There had already been a few incidents with Cleopatra. She seems to kill anyone that gains possession of her and so all the duo had to do was follow the bodies. Their latest search brought to a famed Narco named Sanchez. Sanchez had been the last buyer of Cleopatra and he disappeared not long after the purchase.

There were several DEA investigations into where he could have gone, but the federal agents couldn't find anything and so the most they did was keep tabs on his family. His wife was out of the picture. She didn't matter anyway because she hadn't known where her husband was going when he disappeared and that makes Danny and Lexi's best bet being Sanchez's daughter Soledad. Soledad was currently living in Italy. She went there to escape her father's enemies and she managed to make some friends. Soledad came under the protection of Carlo while she was in Italy and, as luck would have it, he owes Danny a favor. Danny and Lexi's help capture his son's killer. They reminded Carlo of that when they went to see him again and so he arranged an introduction.

Carlo told Soledad that the two had information on her father. What they actually had was a recording of Sanchez right before he disappeared and so they used that as leverage with Soledad. They both knew that she wanted answers. Her father disappeared when she was young, and she never received closure. Soledad had been opened to speaking to the duo. She wasn't however opened to Shaw and, frankly, Shaw shouldn't have been there. He followed Lexi and Danny because he was interested in their treasure hunt. He wanted some of that finder's fee that went into locating Cleopatra and he was willing to help them if they just included him in with their team. Danny and Lexi tried to fob him off. And when that didn't work, they decided to bring him along.

Shaw did have contacts that could help them down the line. They made the choice to team up with him and they smooth things over with Soledad by giving her the recording. She got to hear her father again and that had been enough for her. Soledad gave the newfound trio all the information she had. She also asked them to let her know if they ever found out what happened to her dad. Lexi promised she would and that's a promise Soledad could count on. Lexi knows more than anyone what it means to get answers about a missing loved one. She just found out that her mother was part of the Brotherhood of Serapis and that she was descendant of Cleopatra. Lexi hadn't wanted to let that information affect her in any way and yet it was slowly doing so.

Lexi was changed by the information. She told herself and Danny that she didn't want to follow in her mother's footsteps, but that's what was happening and she did her best to ignore it as they traveled to the Bermuda Triangle. They went there because they thought Sanchez made a pit stop there. Instead, they found out he never made it to the Bermuda Triangle and that one day a bunch of U.S. dollars washed up onshore on one of the islands. Shaw had a contact in the area and so he convinced Danny and Lexi that they could use a friend as a guide. They couldn't search so many islands on their own. With Shaw's friend, they lessened the search and they found the right beach. They also found evidence that it was the right beach when they found the wreckage of the plane.

So they searched the whole island. They found the clues that someone had tried to make a home there and they eventually came across Cleopatra's tomb. It was seeing her there that Lexi finally acknowledges her lineage. She told Danny how she felt this deep connection to the Egyptian queen and as she was talking that they were betrayed. Shaw's friends had turned against them. It seems they had seen the prize and wanted Cleopatra for themselves. Said thieves left Shaw, Danny, and Lex tied up while they made an escape. The trio was able to get out of their restraints and tried to catch up to the thieves. And surprisingly they found them dead on the beach, Cleopatra was gone and all the trio had left was one small boat.

It took them forever to row back to civilization, but by the time they did, they learned that Antony had gotten stolen again and so they were back to square one. They had to find the tombs of the couple once again. They hadn't been sure of where to start until they were reminded of the recordings and realized that Hardwick still has a recording of the Brotherhood. Danny believes the Brotherhood has Cleopatra while Lexi suspects Farouk's men. It was the same with Antony's tomb. Danny believes the Brotherhood was involved and Lexi thinks differently. They were going back and forth over it when they finally got in contact with Gwen. Gwen was attacked as she began looking into Zara Farouk. It was part of Fabi's secret investigation and there was more.

Gwen found a suspect she believes was working with Farouk and unfortunately Rick Yates was someone high up in Reece's organization.

This new information made them all question if Reece had been their bad guy all along.

Summary: As Hardwick helps Danny and Lexi try to outmaneuver the Brotherhood, Danny learns shocking revelations that shatter everything he thought he knew about his past.

Everyone went back to Father Chuck's apartment. It turns out they needed an impartial third party to help them decide if Jay Reece was the mastermind behind Farouk and Danny, of course, was arguing differently. Danny loves Reece. Reece was basically the father he never had and he didn't want to diminish the man in any way, but there was evidence proving Reece wasn't as innocent as Danny wanted to believe. There was the henchman named Yates. Yates was there when Cleopatra and Antony have stolen again.

He also attacked Gwen. Gwen couldn't dig into him because she didn't have a name before and so she wanted to dig into him now. The only one stopping her is Danny.

Danny said they needed to focus on the bioweapon. Farouk's men still have in their possession and everyone knew how dangerous it could be. There was already evidence of what the bioweapon could do. The bad guys had merely weaponized the spores of a dead body and those spores have killed before. The last killed a woman in nineties that went by the name of Farouk. They didn't know if it was related to their Farouk. His real name was Rasheed Hagazi. Everyone just assumed he pulled the name out of thin air and so it didn't start making sense until Gwen revealed her information. She was the one that pursued Fabi's off the books investigation. It led to her finding out that someone wrote a check to Zara Farouk and the last person of that name was supposedly dead.

The real Farouk had even gone to great lengths to cover up the means of her death. She didn't want anyone knowing that she was tomb raiding when she picked up this "mummy cancer" and so it wasn't until she was dead that information got out. This connects to Farouk that the team knew because their Farouk wanted to kill people the same way Zara Farouk died. So did the two know each other? This also begs to question how Yates is involved with Farouk. It was Farouk's men that were clearinghouse and Yates was seemingly working with them. Was he doing so on Reece's orders? Lexi and Gwen believe he was. They pieced together their own theory and they suspect Reece was funding Farouk's mission.

They theorized that it all fell apart when Farouk began acting on his own accord. Farouk wanted revenge for the deaths of his family and that's why he wanted to attack the west. Only he could have gotten his first start because of Reece. Reece was a wealthy man and he wanted to find Antony and Cleopatra. He's been wanting to do so since he was a child. His father had been the one to tell him about the missing tomb and how he came close to finding the location because of a German he interrogated. This woke up the spark in Reece. He tried to find it on his own to no avail and then he took over his father's company. He gained billions of dollars. He could, therefore, afford to pay others to do his search and unfortunately, he picked the wrong guy with Farouk.

Lexi and Gwen's theory seemed plausible. The only one that didn't want to believe it was Danny and so he agreed to split up the team. He and Shaw went after Yates meanwhile Lexi and Gwen decided to find evidence to back up that theory. They connected the dots thanks to Fabi's research and they followed it back to Ghazal. Ghazal was the dirty Egyptian official. He was also the guy that passed on information to Farouk and that's how he was able to escape capture so many times. Lexi had found out about it and she used to justify stealing from Ghazal. She stole several documents from him. Most of it was later stolen from her by the Brotherhood and so the investigation that Fabi had on the side was from that stolen documents.

Lexi had never gotten to see it before. She was seeing it now thanks to Fabi and so she tried breaking into Ghazal's vault again. She could have done it in her sleep, but what was the point when it was clear that Ghazal did a runner. He wasn't at the office and his home seemed cleared out. Lexi and Gwen were still at the man's house when they ran into Danny and Shaw. The guys had been following Yates. Yates went to the house and he might very well have killed Ghazal. So the two teams joined up. They followed Yates when he left the building and Danny even jumped on his car to stop him. It didn't slow down Yates any. And so Lexi had to ram him off the road with her own car.

Sadly, they inadvertently killed Yates as they were trying to stop him. There was nothing they could do about it and so they looked into Yates's last known location. They then found his secret apartment from there or at least they thought it was his secret apartment. They all went to the location believing it was solely Yates and they didn't suspect otherwise until they saw the painting. The painting was called "The Death of Cleopatra". It was the only painting that was never recovered after some benefactor paid Danny's dad to steal several paintings to cover up the theft of that one and so odds are that the apartment belonged to Reece. It wasn't until he saw that painting that Danny's faith was shaken.

Danny first believed that Lexi was being irrational in the way she suspected Reece. He thought that it was because of her personal attachment to the Brotherhood that she didn't want to suspect them and so he apologized. He apologized for such a large blind spot. Danny's whole world view had been shaken once he saw that painting and it made him think of his "luck" over the years. The many scholarships he received as well as his entry into the FBI. The FBI wouldn't normally have taken someone with a felon for a father. Danny realized that and that's why he knew Reece greased the wheels. He also wasn't sure now if he could ever trust Reece again. Reece has consistently lied the whole way and that's why he cut his mentor out of the loop.

Danny found out, with some help from Simon Hardwick, that it actually had been the Brotherhood that stole the tombs. The team ended up recovering it with a fake bank heist and Gwen playing with both sides of the law. So they recovered Antony and Cleopatra. The tombs were then handed over to Reece and Reece wanted to open an Egyptian museum with them as the highlight. Danny chose that exact moment to confront Reece. He demanded that Reece tell him everything and the man only told him about his part in the Fensgate Heist. He went on to tell Danny that he's been like a son to him and so Danny couldn't find it in himself to push. He left Reece alone and later Reece received another guest.

Ana went to Reece because she told him that Farouk's men would use the opportunity to attack. She also learned that Zara Farouk was actually their Farouk's mother and that Reece was Farouk's father.

Reece had set up a trust fund for his son, but Farouk used the money to fund terrorism and so Reece did everything possible to bury the secret of their connection.

Reece even killed Ana so that the truth would never get out.

Summary: Secrets are exposed, fates are sealed, and Danny and Lexi's lives will never be the same after Farouk's master plan is put into action.

The episode begins with crime scene checking out the poisoning that happened at Jay Reece's place. Danny McNamara suggests that Jay put the unveiling of Anthony and Cleopatra on hold until Farouk is caught. Danny questions Lexi Vaziri about the poison being in the wine as Farouk poisoned two other people, but it was a contact poison; something doesn't add up for him.

Father Chuck walks into the apartment, learning that Dr. Ana Castillo is dead. Danny says supposedly she was poisoned by wine from Farouk's crew, but he has his doubts. Chuck tells him about what he learned from Egypt, that Farouk's father is Jay Reece, and it was Castillo that signed for the package with the information. She went directly to him with the secret, but their conversation is interrupted when Gwen Karlsson who tells them about some email exchanges saying, "In current game, my King is going to be captured. How should I proceed?"

They learn that Gazal was Reece's mole, not Farouk's. Gwen confirms there has been money exchanged. It was a capture mission, couldn't risk Farouk talking. He was willing to keep a terrorist on the loose rather than exposing his secret. Danny is devastated to learn that he was being used since day one and murdered Castillo to keep his secret. Lexi wants to go talk to Danny, but Gwen stops her, saying she has more for her that concerns her as well as Danny.

Lexi joins Danny on the roof, where she offers him ice for his hand. She makes him promise to not kill himself when she reveals that the box of paperwork showed them that Reece is Farouk's father. It was her father that promised he would handle it and that was in the office safe; in the file, she stole. He realizes that Reece had her father killed making it look like Farouk did it. He admits they have come a long way, him breaking his hand on a wall and her coming up to him, trying to figure out what to do. He apologizes, vowing to get justice for her father. He feels maybe the brotherhood has what they need to take him down.

Lexi makes the call and finds out the military is there to stop the transport that is carrying a biotoxin that is set to arrive for the unveiling of Anthony and Cleopatra. Lexi's call is cut short when the trucks arrive and stop. They surround the men and begin shooting them all, but when she opens the back of the truck it is a bomb that detonates immediately, killing all the militant around them. Back at the apartment, Lexi, Danny, and Chuck watch the news as Gwen reveals they found several bodies with the medallions on them, but there are no survivors. Gwen feels the attack is over as Lexi says they gave their lives to stop this. Danny wants Gwen to confirm the toxin, she promises they will be in touch. Chuck answers the door where they all receive personal invitations to the unveiling; they feel this is the best chance to catch them off balance, but Lexi can't promise to rip his throat out with her bare hands.

Danny and Lexi are welcomed right in, but Father Chuck is stopped and checked over by security, only finding his medallion. They walk into the Ana Castillo Wing, learning that Reece isn't there yet. Chuck gives them their weapons as they review their plan. Simon Hardwick finds them, saying he will get out of there as soon as they can as the valet line is ridiculously long, encouraging them to do the same.

The museum guard spots one of the doors is taped open, but before he can react, a green light is on his chest. Meanwhile, Danny and Lexi watch as Jay Reece unveils Anthony and Cleopatra; everyone is given their medal for being heroes of the ark. Lexi plants a bug on Jay when she hugs him. She leaves him to chat with Danny, who takes him aside. Danny warns him that the real Karim Farouk could still be out there unless he took care of all the loose ends. Danny reminds him that he knows people like him who have needed to cross lines to protect themselves; Reece excuses himself, thanking him for the heads up. Reece realizes that Danny must know and wouldn't be surprised if he is wired. Lexi follows the men away from the exhibit, but when she tries to open the door it doesn't budge. Father Chuck is called away by security.

Danny wants to know why Simon and his partner are refusing to take pictures, but he is told that they got close to a confession from Reece but the bug went dead. Danny thinks the recording will be enough, but Gwen calls him to inform him they have a problem, as there were no toxins in the trucks. Danny and Lexi realize that one of Farouk's men were dressed up a security guard and if he is there, the truck explosion was a misdirection. Danny becomes very suspicious of Simon, saying he was there from the very beginning; he has been there at every step of the hunt. Lexi and Danny look at each other, as he realizes Simon is the real Karim Farouk and the attack is about to take place there.

We are brought back to a time when Simon was held captive, where he talks about the terrorist are the price of doing business. He shares on the map that all the holdings belong to one man — Jacob Reece; whose family has been bleeding the lands for generations. He reminds them to slay the beast you must kill from the heart. Simon speaks to Karim, saying the Americans must be looking for him, although they are looking for Karim's face, not his. He feels he can manipulate the Americans from the inside, saying he could feed them information, saying Hassin shall now be Karim Farouk, a name that haunts them for the rest of their lives. ' Back to the present day, Danny calls Gwen, who will alert the Egyptian authorities, asking her to get the police to prepare an antidote for at least 300 people; Lexi and Danny are left alone, wondering where Chuck is. Lexi says they need to clear out the place immediately but are stopped when they are tasered unconscious. The two wake up tied to chairs; Danny tells their captures that they need to stop Farouk, but Zara Farouk doesn't buy their story, demanding to know who else knows about Castillo. She threatens Chuck, saying he will die if they don't start talking.

Simon walks up to Reece, saying they almost met years ago. He tells Reece that he knew his mother, someone who had a rare disease from a rare toxin that was slowly killing her. Simon came to see him for the urgent care she needed, but he was turned away when Reece denied he was his son. Simon stops Reece from walking away, saying his mother was shamed for being a single mother and that his mother took the money he gave her to send Simon off to a private school. Reece wants Simon to leave immediately, but Simon tells him that no one is leaving.

Several men come in shooting, saying that he gave a vessel his rage, but he gave that vessel his real name so Reece would know that his son was out there and would be coming for him. He tells him that Reece's day of reckoning has arrived and presses the button on his phone. Gases pour into the room, he injects himself with the antidote, saying he is going to watch his father die with all the other people; just like he watched his mother die, only Reece would go quicker.

Danny continues to talk to Zara, as he and Lexi continue to loosen their hands; their security detail arrives and distracts them long enough for Lexi and Danny to break free. Shaw gets shot trying to protect Danny and Chuck and is thoroughly disappointed that he can't even die heroically when his medal takes the bullet for him. He tells Shaw to get Chuck somewhere safe when they go after Simon.

Simon is tormenting Reece about what the toxins are doing to him. Reece insists he never knew but Simon feels he never cared. Danny spots all the armed men, as Simon continues to confront Reece; saying they are finally there with the whole story for the world to know. How he abandoned a child, murdered to keep a secret and now the secret ended up murdering him. Lexi pulls her gun on Zara, who wonders if it is worth dying to find out if Zara is the one who killed her father. Lexi withdraws her gun, suggesting they end this like ladies. Both remove their shoes and begin to physically fight. Meanwhile, Danny faces another obstacle when he shoots at the bulletproof glass. Lexi beats her, throwing her through the glass and points the gun at Zara, saying she won't kill her as he wouldn't do it. Danny finds a spool of cable and swings into the museum, saying he would totally do it.

Gwen and the police arrive as Chuck tells Danny he has medical training and can give Reece the antidote. Danny tells him to let him die, as he killed Lexi's father and ruined his father's life, murdered Castillo and no one knows how many other people. Danny won't let him get away with it but Lexi says his worst nightmare will come true as his family legacy is ruined; something he will watch from behind bars. Lexi continues to try to stop him, taking the antidote and injecting him, saying she will not allow Reece to destroy Danny's life too; they suddenly realize Simon is gone.

Gwen, Danny, and Lexi review the case with the Egyptian police; saying they can get the information from Carlo; the General agrees to make a deal. Danny gets Gwen to deputize him before they went after Simon.

In Seychelles, Simon is relaxing on the beach, when Lexi walks up asking where he comes up with the names. Danny explains how he is not getting them tracking bad guys through their treasure things. Danny tells Karim Farouk aka Simon Hardwick that he is under arrest. Simon says this was nothing personal to them, it was revenge for his mother and hoped they could at least understand that. Simon reminds them he did give them the warning to get out of the gala, and he really likes them, saying they are practically on the same side. Danny tells him if he looks at the gun one more time under the newspaper, Danny will shoot him. Simon feels they only thing he is responsible for is killing Hassin, and he really isn't the bad guy.

Lexi tells him it is nothing personal as Danny says he really is the bad guy and handcuffs him before handing him off to Gwen. He says he will be seeing the two of them soon since the world is such a small place these days.

Back in Cairo, opening night of Antony and Cleopatra Exhibit takes place. The team, Danny, Lexi, Shaw, and Chuck observe in silence as Danny's hands back his badge to Gwen, causing her and Chuck to smile at each other before she leaves. Shaw shows Lexi his check and waves goodbye. Chuck and Danny hug each other before Chuck leaves the two of them alone. Danny takes Lexi by the hand as she thanks him for not listening to her when she said she never wanted to see him again. Danny grabs her, brushes her hair away and kisses her as others wander through the exhibit.

The adventure will continue...

Summary:	As Danny and Lexi finish tracking down the last of Farouk's black market antiquities, they begin to make plans for their future. But their plans are derailed when the Vatican is attacked by terrorists. A person from Danny's past returns, leading them on a new hunt to recover one of the greatest lost treasures of Asia, the Spirit Banner of Genghis Khan.

For the characters, it has been four months since the events of the Season 1 finale, in which the duplicity of antiquities expert Danny McNamara's father figure, Jacob Reece, was revealed, before he and art thief cohort Lexi Vaziri got the drop on terrorist "Karim Farouk" aka Simon Hardwick. Danny and Lexi are playfully debating their future — he is wont to see where the days take them, while she is privately wishing for something more planned out — when they get wind of a terrorist attack on the Vatican, which left Father Chuck Donnelly and others wounded, and some slain. Just as this mystery (including the meaning of a symbol left behind in fire in a Vatican City courtyard, and branded on one gunman's hand) arises, Danny is approached by a representative for the incarcerated Jacob Reece, who has been trying to make contact. Reluctant and skeptical but promised that Reece has intel on the Vatican attack and the perpetrators' interest in a long-lost antiquity called "The Soul (or Spirit Banner) of Genghis Khan," Danny and Lexi head over to an Italian prison... only to learn that Reece had just been murdered, stabbed multiple times.

Danny and Lexi return to Reece's estate, where board members are converging in the wake of his mysterious death, with the hope that files missed by the INTERPOL sweep might point them to what he knew about The Soul of Genghis Khan. There, Lexi meets Jacob's daughter Katie, who arranges access into her father's home office ... and who, an arriving Chuck blurts out, was once engaged to Danny! In a hidden safe, Lexi finds a seal inscribed with the address of a camera shop in Hong Kong. Descending upon that address with an insistent Katie in tow, the three discover that the camera shop is a front for a collection of safe deposit boxes, managed by the Triad. Inside the one that Jacob and his father before him used to access, they find an old film by the CIA, which recounts Stalin's interest in the Spirit Banner and its... powers. But just as the three exit the ersatz bank, a mystery man who'd been conspicuously following them initiates an attack/kidnapping, grabbing Katie and leaving the others behind. In the aftermath, Danny and Lexi are licking their wounds when they are called on a planted cell phone and instructed to find The Soul of Genghis Khan in 72 hours, or else. Danny and Lexi decide to get wrapped up in this one last Reece-fueled caper, if only because Katie's life is at stake — unaware that she is in cahoots with the men who grabbed her.

Summary: The search for Kate Reece takes Danny and Lexi to Vietnam, where they reunite with none other than Aiden Shaw. Lexi's fighting skills are put to the test as the team infiltrates the dangerous Black Lotus — an underground fight club - where they learn about a vicious new terrorist.

With but one good clue to go on — Chuck learned from a fellow clergyman(/Vatican Intelligence member?) the unique make of a gun he saw used during the Vatican attack — Danny and Lexi seek out Shaw, who now runs a bar in Vietnam. Shaw in turn recruits a local detective who tells them about the spirit banner's pursuer (an ascendant crime lord known as "The Great Khan") and points them to — but advises them to steer clear of! — an island getaway for "the worst of the worst," the Jade Viper Club. The plan is for Shaw to take over the weapons check at the club, while Danny and Lexi look around for a man with a branded hand. Thing is, Lexi is forced to prove her worthiness by participating in the Jade Viper's fight club, where she happens to be pitted against her "former partner" ("in crime"), Violet, who is plenty miffed about being left holding the bag after a years-ago caper.

While Lexi holds her own against Violet, Shaw commandeers the weapons check. Soon enough, he signs in the very unique gun belonging to Zhang, a man with a branded hand. Danny follows Zhang into a high-stakes mahjong game using Shaw's $30,000 watch as a buy-in. Adopting a drawl, Danny passes himself off as a leader of "The Fraternity of Freedom," a Stateside militia group that is interested in allying with The Great Khan. Meanwhile, Lexi winds up slashed and then KO'd by Violet, only to learn afterward that Violet isn't actually that angry, because she would have similarly bailed on Lexi if the roles had been reversed years ago! And while Violet makes some fun of the "glass of skim milk" Lexi is now dating, she is conversely quite taken by the hulking and debonair Shaw.

Danny bests Zhang at mahjong, and though he rightly won the guy's boat, he asks instead for an audience with The Great Khan. Zhang laughs him off and then flees, while his henchman try to stop the American. A chase ensues, with Danny leaping off a platform into the water taxi Zhang grabbed. This builds to a draw atop a small footbridge, where Zhang holds Lexi at gunpoint, until Violet whips a blade into his shoulder and Lexi flips the baddie over the railing into the drink below. Afterward back at Shaw's, Danny discovers a listening device beneath an orchid, and a conversation with the wee lad who "helps out" at the bar downstairs reveals that Katie planted it! As the gang reels at this latest instance of Reece family duplicity, we cut to a nighttime scene that introduces The Great Khan, who is in the midst of having Zhang fed to a basket of crocodiles!

Summary: A visit with Simon in prison yields new information on the Spirit Banner's last whereabouts, sending the team to Russia.

The episode opened with Danny, Lexi and a very reluctant Shaw putting on a performance for the listening device they had discovered, so as to bait Kate and her CIA pals into following Lexi to a made-up meet-up. When the time for said assignation rolled around, and as Kate & Co. tailed Lexi, Shaw and pint-sized Han created a streetside distraction, allowing Danny to isolate and confront his ex-fiancee — though not long before Lexi showed up to taser the duplicitous blonde.

Tied up back at Shaw's place, Kate was wholly uncooperative, saying not a peep. While Chuck watched over Kate, Danny and Lexi went downstairs to see what Vince had gleaned from a cell phone pinched from Zhang last week. The only noteworthy lead was a series of calls to a "Graham Townsend" — aka Simon Hardwick. Danny and Lexi made tracks for the supermax Irish prison their former foil now calls home, and where they tried to avoid being "Lectered" by the imprisoned, knowledgeable asset. Simon, after registering his considerable surprise that Danny and Lexi were still together, ultimately offered up the name Andrei Lenchekov, a former Russian gang member who found love and now runs a restaurant in Moscow with his wife.

Sneaking into Russia — where Lexi is a wanted woman, and by way of an old mark that "American" Lexi used to date — the duo swing by Andrei and Claudine's restaurant, and drop Simon's name. Alas, doing so without making clear that Simon is no friend almost gets many of Danny's fingers chopped off by Andrei (Black Sails' Zach McGowan). But once everyone's agendas become clear, Andrei suggest they check out the old bunker where Stalin amassed many of the knick-knacks he'd come across.

Meanwhile in Vietnam, Chuck leverages his, Danny and Kate's old times together — including an anecdote about how Kate is the reason he became a priest — to make her loosen up. Kate talks of how being disappointed by her father colored her view of the world. She also explains that the CIA, which years ago used the Great Khan to take down assorted crime syndicates, now realizes the monster it created, and planned to use the banner to draw him out, for capture.

Back in Stalin's bunker, Danny finds the carrying case for the banner, but not the artifact itself. As one of the Great Khan's goons KOs Andrei's bodyguard and infiltrates the bunker, Danny & Co. glean from dusty ledgers that the banner made a stop in "The Forbidden Zone," an old Red Army Base that is considered to be Mongolia's Area 51. After the Great Khan's goon kills Claudine, and Andrei in turn shoots dead the other bodyguard who failed him, Andrei summons his old gang, the Night Devils, to escort him, Lexi and her solnyshka Danny to The Forbidden Zone.

The Great Khan, meanwhile, hears from the aforementioned henchman that Danny and Lexi had been in touch with Simon Hardwick — so now the crime lord is determined to also see what Simon knows, all as his minions stack drums of radioactive/nuclear something at his compound.

The search for the Spirit Banner leads Danny, Lexi, and Violet to an abandoned chemical wasteland called Aralsk-7, which happens to have been the site for some DNA experiments that Dr. Orlov was working on in the 1970s. While they search through the site the team finds evidence that Orlov might have been working on a virus that would be resistant to vaccines in order to wipe out all that carry DNA markers from Ghengis Khan.

While they are still searching the site to try and piece the puzzle together. Some of the Great Khan's thugs turn up with Simon Hardwick to try and break up the party. However, Hardwick manages to give his captures the slip and comes to an arrangement with Danny to remain with the Great Khan's camp to do a bit of spying for them.

Meanwhile, back at Vatican City Chuck starts his investigation only to find that he has been given a promotion, which is in title only. It seems the top brass within the Catholic Church is looking to get Chuck out of the way. This doesn't deter Chuck from his investigation as he finds evidence of a new saint, which nobody has heard of. This revelation links in somewhat with what Danny and Lexi find out at Aralsk-7. As they believe Sister Victoria who was made into Saint Victoria was connected with a CIA mission from the mid-1970s that took out Dr. Orlov and stole all of his research.

Production Code: 213
Summary: Realizing they've taken the Kahn's bait — and putting the lives of millions in jeopardy — Danny and Lexi come face-to-face with the Kahn in one final battle above Hong Kong.

The episode opened with Danny, Lexi, Chuck and Shaw laboring to convince the Superintendent at the Hong Kong PD that arrested Simon Hardwick is in fact not the Great Khan, and that the true villain is still out there and about to storm the building/seize the spirit banner. Oh, and she has an underground nuke ready to detonate/kill millions! The Superintendent chose to play it safe and not let this quartet of "Westerners" get in harm's way, so he locked them up in the basement.

Luckily, Danny uncovered a boarded-up set of stairs, and the four made a run for it just as Violet and her goons infiltrated the PD and started shooting/fwip!ping cops dead, after plunging the city into a blackout. But by the time Violet got to the vault holding the banner, it was gone — pinched by a gloating Simon.

Simon eventually turned the banner back over to Violet, as he scampered off to co-opt her getaway plan. Danny and Lexi went after Violet, while Shaw and Chuck headed to deal with the nuke. But when Shaw got surrounded by a band of baddies, he sent Chuck ahead to do his best with the bomb. Chuck was understandably stymied upon finding the device, but he apparently had juuuust enough of a cell signal to receive a link to a "How To" video sent by Shaw — though it paused/started buffering at the worst possible moment!

Danny and Lexi chased Violet to the rooftop helipad where she had hoped to get flown to freedom, but Simon had bribed/made use of her pilot first. A two-on-one melee ensued, with Violet trading blows with both Danny and Lexi, and all with the nuke detonator being bandied about. Violet eventually got the upper hand on Danny and put several bullets into him. As he slumped to the ground, Violet pinned down Lexi and pummeled her former gal pal. But wounded Danny got Violet's attention by waving around the detonator, distracting her long enough for Lexi to sneak up and gut her from behind with the pointed end of the Spirit Banner. Battered Lexi then raced to Danny's side, where she suggested that their commingled blood is seen in some cultures as a form of marriage, and they exchanged "I do's."

We saw Danny successfully petition a judge to pardon all of "Shaw" aka Dwayne Coleman's illegal past actions, leading to a joyous reunion between Dwayne and his family. Danny, Lexi and Chuck then got flagged down by a lawyer for the Reece estate, who came bearing 1) the family copy of Kate's CIA Memorial Wall star, for Chuck, and 2) an eye-popping trust that Jacob had bequeathed to Danny. Chuck (now a Vatican Intelligence member?) then disclosed that though the banner had been reclaimed, $10 million of the stolen money "inside" it had gone missing. We then see a mostly shaven Simon pull up to a bank in Costa Rica to deposit a bag full of cash. When asked what he does for a living, Simon says, "I find things," as we note that he's holding a map to... something.
