Summary: Kate Reed is a Mediator who used to be a lawyer. Kate must mediate between a college bound student and a business man and a couple and performers. With Lauren, her step-mother breathing down her neck, she needs to focus until the end. She leans on people to help her get the job done, but is it enough? With her father dead, Kate struggles to balance her new life.

Kate Reed wakes up to the sound of her phone ringing to find her soon to be ex-husband, Justin Patrick, next to her. She rushes around the boat and, after showing him on his way, she makes her way up top. As she's leaving, she meets Andrew who's pulled his boat into the slip beside hers. It's Kate's first day back being a mediator at Reed & Reed and already she's late. She has gone from being a lawyer to a mediator for the firm founded by her father Teddy Reed. The firm is under fire and losing clients so she's needed back at work – especially her skills at resolving conflicts. As she stops at the boat slip's locker to change shoes, she encounters Marty Fliegel who asks if she's the new owner and suggests she change the boat's name. She explains that "Welcome A Board" was the name her father chose and she's inherited the boat. Besides she adds, it's bad luck to change the name of a boat. When her phone rings, again a picture of the wicked witch from "The Wizard of Oz" shows – seems her step-mother is trying to get a hold of her.

She makes a stop at a small café where a man runs in and tells the owner to empty the cash drawer. When the owner pulls out a bat, the robber pulls out a gun. Kate springs to action and negotiates a "deal". The robber leaves with a case of beer and some beef jerky. Even though the owner is only out his cost of $17.50 for the goods and still has his cash, he still charges Kate $5.75 for her coffee and cookie.

Her first encounter at work is her loyal assistant Leonardo who she calls Leo. He tells her that Judge Nicastro has requested her presence at 2:00 p.m. even though Kate insists the Judge hates her. Kate then starts ranting about her step-mother Lauren, also the managing partner for Reed & Reed, who hasn't done anything with Teddy's ashes yet, just as Lauren walks up behind her. Lauren explains about how the firm has been losing clients and Lauren intends to do whatever to keep the firm afloat. She enlists Kate to settle a dispute between Charles and Douglas Pease, Reed & Reed's biggest client, about the future of their company. Kate must convince them to sign the papers the firm drew up so they can get paid. Charlie lets Doug explain about his latest highway disaster. Doug says that another car sideswiped him and the boys in the car pointed a gun at him which caused him to veer his BMW into a concrete divider. Charlie is concerned that the DUI Doug received at the scene will threaten the buyout agreement. Kate decides she needs to get to the bottom of the DUI in order to settle the dispute.

Kate heads over to Justin's office. He's the Assistant District Attorney and should be able to shed some light on the DUI. He has decided to give the two boys who pointed the gun at Douglas stiff sentences and that Douglas's DUI can just disappear. As she leaves the office, she slips the accident file off Justin's desk to read what happened herself. Kate reaches Judge Nicastro's courtroom late, as usual. The Judge reminds her she's late and tells her that Brian Michaels is suing an actor, a singer and a cupcake maker. He says that because they botched Michaels' marriage proposal and lost his grandmother's wedding ring, he's suing for ten million dollars. The Judge explains he doesn't want the case in court so Kate is to resolve it through mediation. He gives her 2 days and when she says that isn't enough time, he gives her to the following afternoon, warning her that if she's late, she'll be in contempt of court. Kate calls Leo and asks why Nicastro doesn't like her. After reading the file from Justin's office, she rushes to find Justin and learning he's at lunch, she heads to his normal haunt, an outdoor vending cart. She says one of the kids has a scholarship to Yale and he was only driving the car but Justin says they're both guilty. The kid who pointed the gun will be offered a plea of 10 years and the driver, a plea of 5 years. He also reminds her that she shouldn't have read the file. Kate meets with D'sean at the jail and explains to him what the D.A. plans to offer him. He's gets so upset about Nathan's position that the guards have to drag him away. When she meets with Nathan, he explains that after the other car ran into his (not the other way around as Doug told it) he was surprised by blond woman driving the car. Kate realizes one of the stories isn't true as this is the first time anyone has mentioned a woman in the other car.

Kate meets with her brother Spencer, also a lawyer, who tells her the kids are screwed because Doug wouldn't want his wife to know about another woman so no way he'd come clean. Spencer explains that his wife is in Seattle for awhile and that he quit the firm to spend time with his family, unlike his father ever did.

Kate meets with Charlie and Doug to ask them to drop the case against Nathan. Kate confronts Doug about the other woman in the car. He says he met her in a bar and after the accident, she ran off. Charlie insists they prosecute both boys. Kate leaves making a call to the Wizard but hangs up before it goes through. When Kate gets back to the firm she asks Leo if he can use his police contacts to find out everything about Doug's accident.

Lauren in the meantime is meeting for drinks with Tim Connelly to convince him to stay with Reed & Reed. Tim explains his firm wasn't really going to leave, his dad was just trying to get a better rate. When Lauren says that she will go the extra mile to keep him, he slides his room key to her. But Lauren walks away with Tim saying that he wants his extra mile.

Back at the firm Kate starts the mediation. Brian says he wanted to propose to Jessica, his fiancée on a cable car but the actor was lousy, the singer was horrible and cupcakes were supposed to have their faces on them but didn't look anything like them. Since she gave him her grandfather's prized watch, he decided to give her his grandmother's ring but that after he handed Jessica the ring, she lost it, and she could have hung on to it. He's says he'd never have lost her grandfather's watch. This is the beginning of a heated conversation between Jessica and Brian. Kate tells the others they can go as the real problem doesn't involve them but to be in court tomorrow. Kate tells Brian and Jessica that the problem is the attachment to the watch and the ring. She asks Brian for the watch and puts it in a handkerchief. She smashes the watch and then asks Jessica if she feels better that they've both lost something precious. After looking at their faces, she explains it was sleight of hand – she switched the watches - but they both agree that it was just a watch and ring. Kate gives Brian back his watch. Brian will drop the charges.

Kate tells Leo to go home but he says he's still waiting for word on Doug's accident. Kate asks him if the "Buff the Vampire Slayer" vinyl watch was expensive and he says it was one of only three autographed by Buffy and worth a fortune. Seems Kate used this watch to smash for the demonstration.

Kate leaves the firm and heads over to Doug's house to try to convince him to drop the charges against Nathan because Nathan is going to accept the pleas deal of 5 years. She begs him to call Justin and dismiss the charges but he says he can't as he'd lose everything. As Kate walks home shed calls The Wizard again and you hear the voicemail message for Teddy Reed. She hangs up the phone.

The next morning her neighbor, Phyllis Fliegel, gives her a couriered envelope. She runs off ecstatic. She is 4 minutes late to Judge Nicaastro's court but announces that Brian is dropping the charges and all future charges for anything else that goes wrong with their wedding. Jessica says why not get married right then and now to avoid any problems. So the Judge marries them and has Kate hauled off by the bailiffs for contempt of court for being 4 minutes late to court. Later on Kate, with an ankle monitoring bracelet walks in to Doug's office where Charlie and Lauren are meeting. Charlie has decided not to sign the papers for the buyout. Kate walks up to Doug and shows him a DMV photo of the night of the DUI accident. She tells him to do the right thing so Doug tells Charlie he's dropping the charges against Nathan. But Charlie still won't sign the papers. Kate once again puts on her mediator hat and suggests that Charlie isn't ready to retire and doesn't want to quite the business so why doesn't Charlie stay on as Chairman and teach Doug about his business instincts. When all agrees it's a good plan, Lauren says she'll need to revise the paperwork, at which Kate pulls out the new papers and gets the signatures on the spot.

Out in the hallway, Lauren, who's been blindsided, wants to know how Kate got Doug to change his mind. Kate shows her the DMV photo which shows Doug driving the car dressed as a woman in a blond wig.

Kate tells Lauren, in a nice way, she'll always hate her because she always thought her father was happy with her mother, until she saw her father around Lauren.

Kate goes back to the office and asks Leo how much the photo cost him. He says he used up a rare Dungeons & Dragons card for the information. As Kate leaves, Lauren stops her and says that her father's ashes are missing. She walks down the stairs looking shocked but pleased. Kate runs to the jail in time to see Nathan walk out to meet his mother and sisters.

It's dark out and late but Justin stop by the boat to ask Kate about Doug. He asks to come in but she explains she has company. Justin asks if she has a new Tinman – her cell phone photo for him. Kate tells him that her father used to say that Justin was good for her, but maybe a little too good. After Justin leaves, Kate talks to her father's urn of ashes about how they were so alike but different – about how he believed in the letter of the law but she believes the law is man made so it's not always completely right.

He tells that they are going to have to reschedule.

Kate meets with Justin to get the details on Steve and she goes over the charge that he was arrested for to begin with. He robbed a market and attempted to shoot the gun, but it jammed. The man runs out and the owner has a heart attack and dies. A citizen recognized Steve as the robber. Kate tells that the District Attorney doesn't want to go to court and Justin tells that the press is blaming him for this and he wasn't around. Back at the firm, Lauren meets with Mr. Snyder and his lawyer and she is trying to get Snyder to admit something and the lawyer is rejecting everything. She tells that they are going to have to wait while she gets the file. Kate meets with Steve and his lawyer and the District Attorney. The lawyer wants to take it to court and Kate tells that everyone will benefit from not going to court. Steve's lawyer wants to have Steve get $20 Million. Back at the firm, Lauren asks Betty, Teddy Reid's secretary to get files for her. She tells that they are on the desk. Lauren walks in and then walks out and tells that she is going to have to reschedule.

Kate is still in mediation and the District Attorney tells that they are offering Steve $2.4 Million and Kate asks what is going on and asks Steve's opinion. He tells whatever they decide is fine. Later, Kate doesn't know what to settle because she doesn't know Steve that well. Leo suggests that maybe Steve doesn't like lawyers. Betty goes to Lauren's office and tells that next time she wants to get a file from Teddy's office; she needs to get it herself. Kate meets Steve at the old baseball field around back of the market he was accused that he robbed 22 years ago and is hitting baseballs into the field. He asks Kate if she wants a beer and tells that the boys are going to be there. Steve is living in the past still and Kate sees it. When she asks about his old friends, Steve tells that he is going for a walk. Kate calls Leo and tells that she needs him to look up all the information of Steve's friends. Leo reminds her of the reading of the will. She tells that she will be there.

Kate meets with Justin and she tells that she can't settle it. Justin tells that she needs to get a settlement and move on. He tells that if it is a big amount of money, it is taking from the system that funds schools and law enforcement. Leo calls that he has the number of Steve's girlfriend and tells that he also has a list of all Steve's friends. She is going to throw a welcome back party for Steve. She tells that Leo needs to stick up for her and reschedule the will reading. Later, Steve walks around the corner to the restaurant and sees Kate with his friends and he walks off. Kate runs out and stops him and tells that it is his party. He tells that they don't know who Steve is anymore. Kate goes back to the office and Lauren tells that someone keeps stealing the staplers and asks to borrow hers. She tells Kate to stop acting like a child and go to her father's will. Later that evening, Kate visits Spencer and he tells that Kate is worried that Lauren got more than her. Kate tells that she had things come up and she tells that she is avoiding the will. Kate gets a call from Steve and it is him saying goodbye and thanking her. He hangs up the phone. Kate gets a call from Steve's lawyer and he tells that he got the same call. She wonders where he would go.

Kate goes up to the Market Steve was accused of robbing and the door is busted open. She finds him destroying the place. Kate grabs the bat and tells that he is not at fault and starts to hit things too. She asks how Steve feels and he grabs the bat and starts going nuts. He breaks and starts crying. Kate tells that he is someone. The cops pull up and Kate is alone with the bat and she tells that she is done. At the station, Justin comes in and tells that they picked up Steve in a vacant lot. She tells that Steve finally opened up. Justin tells that Kate was only supposed to settle the case and that Steve could have gotten something. He tells that Kate is free to go, but Steve is not. She goes up to Steve and tells that she is sorry about the arrest. He tells that the fact that he could never get married, have a house, or have kids and tells that he cannot put a price on that.

The next day at the firm, Lauren meets with Snyder and his lawyer and finally gets him to confess that he lost money on his own accord because of the mixture of prescription drugs. She tells that he is screwed. The lawyer tells that she is just like Teddy. Lauren walks up to get some ice in a picture and walks in the bathroom. She puts it in the sink and fills the sink up. She locks the door and puts her face in the water and screams. Kate meets with Justin and tells that they have no right to arrest Steve because he couldn't adjust for a few weeks. She is not happy about it and tells that she is going to make it change so that Steve will get his rights. Lauren comes out and tells Betty that she needs an assistant. She tells that she needs someone who is fanatical in her attention to detail. Betty tells that she knows about her screaming in the sink and tells that she is due for her vacation and she tells that they can talk about it when she gets back.

Kate has the two lawyers meet her at the baseball field and tells that there is not a unlimited amount of money and the state will pay more then what she would want. Kate tells that Steve will get a salary for keeping up a community center that the state will build. Steve is off the hook for the vandalizing and he thanks her. Later that night, Justin comes in and tells that he was wrong and asks if they are alright. She tells that they are them and she tells that she is on her way to read the will of her fathers. She tells that her dad is really dead and that is what has been holding her back. She walks down the hall and Lauren joins her. Spencer opens it without them and tells that everything is distributed equally and each gets a quarter. There is one more person that they don't know by the name of David Smith.

The scene opens with Kate getting woken up by Leo reminding her of the meeting with Judge Nicastro. She tells that she is already on her way. She goes outside to find Andrew, her neighbor getting his boat seized by the police. She walks up and tells that she is his lawyer and that they cannot seize his boat because they are not pirates. She arrives at Nicastro's office and he tells that he has a mediation case for her. He tells about a football coach who helped get his son Bobby back on track with his life, is facing suspension for yelling at a student. He tells her that she needs to settle this one.

She goes to the office and sees the video where Coach Gardner, the coach, is yelling and pushing one of the players. All the parents start up and Kate whistles. Mr. Riley, the father of the son who Coach Gardner yelled at tells that he wants to have the coach fired. When Kate goes to talk to Gardner, he is gone. She runs out, but she is too late. Lauren tries to get Kate's attention and Kate tells Leo to reschedule the mediation for later in the afternoon. Andrew calls and she tells that she will call him back later. Lauren asks who she was talking to and Kate tells that it is her neighbor and she is helping him. Lauren doesn't like that it is pro-bono but agrees to help her out. She gives Andrew's number to Lauren since she knows a lot about Customs Law. Kate tells that she is off to get Gardner.

She arrives at the school and goes inside the boy's locker room. She pretends to be the building inspector and tells that the boy's locker room needs man-sized lockers and also a Jacuzzi. She asks who is in charge and they point her in the direction of Coach Gardner. She finds him yelling at Rick Riley. Gardner tells that he needs to talk to him the way he needs to. He is hurt when she throws pictures on the floor. He tells that the men on the wall deserve to be on his wall and he tells that he keeps in contact with his old players. He tells that he cares about the kids. Kate goes back to her boat and Andrew thanks her for allowing Lauren to help him out and he calls her amazing. Kate tells that Lauren is never amazing. Meanwhile, Justin meets with Leo and asks what Kate wants for her birthday. He tells that he will find out for him. The next day, Kate tells that she needs to get to Riley and his lawyer. He asks her if it is Godzilla, Mothraw or King Kong. She picks Mothraw. She asks if he would ever classify Lauren as nice. He tells that he doesn't at all.

Kate meets with Ms. Davidson from the school and Riley's lawyer. She tells that they can find a middle ground. Leo comes in and tells that Riley's son, Rick, collapsed in practice. Kate and Joe arrive at the hospital and she tells that they will reschedule it. Joe tells that he is going to just drop the charges. Kate is confused. She goes back and tells Lauren that the case is closed and she asks why Lauren is being nice to Andrew. She tells that he might be related to a Billionaire that they could get as a client and Kate tells that she knew it. Leo tells that it is like watching two birds go at it. He asks Kate if a Heat Lamp, Electric Blanket or Thermal Underwear is good. She picks the Electric Blanket. She tells that anymore questions and she will have to ask what the reason behind it is. She watches the video of Gardner yelling at Rick again and Leo sees that Rick says something afterwards. She visits Rick in the hospital and asks what happened. Rick tells that Gardner caught him doing Steroids and told that he would bench him until it was out of his system. What he said after was thank you. Joe comes up and Kate changes subjects.

Kate visits Gardner's home and he tells that he didn't want to turn Rick in because the last coach who did, found out that he wasn't trusted by his team anymore. She asks why he was yelling at Rick in the locker room and why he punched Joe in the face. Gardner tells that he saw Joe give Rick the Steroids and that he was taking them away from him. Kate asks why he didn't tell the police or the school about it and he tells that he was already suspended by then. Later, Leo tells that the perfect gift for Kate is an iPad. He is still suspended right now, but will get back in it. He tells that he likes watching from the sidelines. Kate returns to her desk to find a present from Justin. She opens it and calls up Justin. She tells that she loves her gift and tells that it is perfect. However, it is a Boat Toaster and Kate tells that he put thought into her gift. Justin calls Leo and asks where the iPad is and Leo tells that it is his fee. He thanks him. Kate asks Leo for some bread.

Summary:	Kate's latest case involves a dispute between Chef Bo and the company who's going to produce his barbecue sauce. Kate soon discovers that his assistant Beth has a lot to do with Bo's cooking show success. In the midst of the mediation, a person from Beth's past appears with demands of his own.

The scene opens with Justin coming up to Kate and he is talking to the District Attorney about a case. He tells that he is in court and will get on the case, even though he is on Kate's boat for a barbecue. Kate has Justin taste some sauces and he tells that they are all good. He asks what is going on with the taste test and Kate tells that she is mediating between a food network program and wanted to test out the sauces to see if her theory was right. Lauren calls and asks how the barbecue sauce mediation is going and she tells that it is fine. Kate gets off the phone and tells that she doesn't like Lauren. Justin tells that he has to leave and tells that her meat is burning. Kate asks if that is a metaphor and Justin tells that her meat is really burning. Kate runs to the grill and it tips over and falls into the water.

Kate gets to the set of the TV program and has Bo taste the sauce that Frank's company has made. Bo tells that Frank's sauce was either too salty or not right in other ways. Kate tells that she took the recipe from the case file and prepared the sauce herself. She tells that all the sauces that Bo tasted are the same. Bo decides that it is not about the sauce at all and that it doesn't taste like Montana. He tells a story about how his dad used to barbecue just so people would come over and hang out. Kate suggests that Bo has his face on the label and they use the sauce that Frank's company made. They reach an agreement, but Beth storms off. Back at the office, Lauren asks if Kate is in her office and Leo tells that she is working. She tells him to tell her that she is canceling the membership to an elite club that Teddy had and that she needs to sign some paperwork. Leo laughs at the fact that Kate signs paperwork.

Justin meets with Sam Balfus and his lawyer and his lawyer tells that they will settle for 15 days in jail and 100 hours community service. Justin tells that he will get back to him later. Leo goes to the set of the TV program to drop off the contracts and Kate tells that it was simple.

A man pulls up in his truck asking for Beth. Kate asks who he is and he tells that he is Bo Reiser, Beth's dad. Kate is confused and tells that she will go find her. She tells Leo to rip up the contracts because Bo isn't who he says he is. Kate walks up to Beth and Bo arguing and Kate tells that she knows that Bo is not who he says he is and is really Bobby. Kate tells that Big Bo is here and wants to talk to Beth. However, Beth takes off. Bobby tells that she and her dad had a falling out and tells that is weird because the story that he told Kate, that was Beth's life. Bobby tells that he was hired to front for her and he shows that he would put in an ear bud. Kate tells that Bobby needs to talk to Frank about this.

Justin talks to the District Attorney and he tells him to file the case against Belfast a felony. He could get 25 years to life. The District Attorney tells Justin to talk to the victim. Justin talks to Kate about it and she tells that he shouldn't prosecute to the fullest because it is not fair and it is going to haunt him later. Lauren goes to the elite club and tells that she is going to cancel her membership there. The manager escorts her to Teddy's table and Lou Fisher is there. He recognizes her as Teddy's girl and tells that they are fired from being his attorney now. She sits down and tells that it is now going to be an uncomfortable lunch. He gets up and leaves her. Lauren runs into Kate at the office and asks what she knows about Lou Fisher. She tells that he is Spencer's client and tells that she has a client waiting for her. Kate tells that she is not finding anything on David Smith, the man who got 25% of the company. Kate opens up the curtains and sees a naked man on the other side of the apartment complex. Justin tells that he knows and Kate suggests that he go talk to the man. Justin tells that he already knows that his name is Alex Brownstien, a day trader. Kate tells that she will go over and talk to the guy for him because of Justin's wonderful 'listening'. Kate gets into the office and Leo tells her that the Newmires are in the conference room along with the insurance agent Lester Marin. She asks if he has gotten anywhere on David Smith and he tells that he has not. She tells that she will get with the Newmires and he is to look for information on David Smith.

Kate meets with the Newmires and Lester and asks what they are meeting about and asks Richard to tell the story of what happened. He has Marsha retell the story of how Richard was on the sidewalk and a truck's side mirror hit him in the head. He tells that he had surgeries, but he is doing great now. Lester tells that the insurance company has paid for all the medical bills and pain and suffering. Kate tells that Lester feels that he has made a good offer, but wants to know what is going on. Marsha explodes and tells that her husband got hit in the head by a truck and storms out of the room. Lester tells Kate that they have 24 hours to make up their minds or the deal is off. Kate talks to Leo and Leo tells that he found a contact to David Smith and he tells that he is going to come in for a meeting. She tells that she will by Marsha's office after she talks to Justin's naked neighbor.

She goes to Alex Brownstien's apartment and tells that her friend across the way doesn't like the fact that he is naked. He apologizes and tells that he will stop. Kate calls Justin and tells that everything is taken care of. Meanwhile, Jennifer from another law office comes over and Lauren is polite to her until Jennifer tries to consider allowing her firm to buy out Reed and Reed. Lauren opens the door and thanks her for coming over. Kate visits Marsha and she apologizes for leaving Kate's office. She tells that Lester has given a pretty good offer. She asks what the issue is and Marsha tells that the Richard she knew is dead. She tells inside that Richard has changed as a person and that he is not the same man she fell in love with. Kate goes walking and finds Richard playing drums with street performers, something the old Richard would never do. She approaches him and he says hello. He tries to listen to her, but sees a hotdog stand. He crosses the street in mid-morning traffic and is almost hit several times. Richard tells that if he doesn't act, he is going to miss the chance for life. He tells that the truck knocked the life into him.

Kate gets back to her boat and sees flowers on the stern. She calls Justin and thanks him for the flowers. However, when Justin opens his curtains, Alex is there naked. He tells that he wants his flowers back. Kate is waiting for Lester to come down so that she can talk to him when two individuals argue about one stealing the other's lunch. She mediates and tells one of the men to make extra food and the other will pay him $9. They agree on it. Leo come in and gives Kate a piece of paper. It is from the Law Offices of David Smith's lawyer. It says that David Smith is giving his 25% to Kate Reed. Lauren is overly jealous and walks away. However, Kate wants to know the why. Kate is thinking in her office and tells that she needs to find David Smith no matter what. Leo tells that he rescheduled the Newmires and Lester for 10. She leaves and that she will be back by 11 and Leo tells that he will schedule it for later because he knows her.

Kate visits the home of Betty and asks for her help. However, Lauren is already there. Betty tells that she will help them, but they need to work together on it and no secrets. They agree. Kate gets back to the office to find Lester in the hall. Kate goes to Richard and Marsha and asks Richard if he told Marsha about everything and he tells that he did. Kate brings in Lester to her office where two people are waiting. One friend who knew Richard before the accident and one who met him after the accident. The one before describes Richard as a quite person with no real drive while the other describes him as outgoing. Marsha tells that she fell in love with the old Richard and Richard tells that he needs a moment. Kate tells that Lester should put in more for the fact that she lost her husband for this. She walks up to Marsha, who is shocked because Richard told her that he is leaving her.

Kate tries to get in contact with Richard when Betty comes in and tells that she has a disconnected number of David Smith, but they have to wait for Lauren. She comes in and Betty shows the number. They go up to Leo and tell that he could track down the real number and Kate tries to have him tell her first. Lauren tells that Leo is fired if he doesn't give it to the both of them. He tells that he will. Kate meets with Justin and he tells that Alex is still walking around naked and he tells that he wants to use his position and get him arrested. Kate gets a call from Leo and she tells him to text the address to her. She goes to a hotel room and Richard answers the door. He tells that Marsha doesn't love him and he can tell. Kate tells that is not true, but can see that is a little true. Later, Justin walks out on his balcony naked and calls to Alex. He sees Justin and is offended. Justin has Kate behind the curtains telling what to say. Another neighbor sees Justin after Alex tells that he will stop. Kate locks him outside for a little bit and then lets him in. She tells 'How did you like them apples'. Kate walks home and stops where Richard had the accident. She calls Marsha to meet her there tomorrow.

The next day, Marsha arrives and Kate has a picture, flowers and candles for a funeral for the old Richard. She tells that they have lost the Richard and have to say goodbye and not hold onto any anger. Richard comes up and Kate tells that she has separation papers and insurance. She tells that they can pick on and get to know each other over again or pick the separation. Kate gives Richard some money to buy Marsha some breakfast. Kate gets a phone call from Leo with Lauren tele-conference in. Leo tells the address and then when Lauren hangs up, tells that he is texting Kate some extra information on David Smith.

Lauren and Kate enter a bar and Kate asks for David Smith. The man at the bar tells that he went back East and that he has a lawyer for all the information. Lauren gives him her card and tells him to call if David shows up. They leave and Lauren gets into a cab. Kate tells that Lauren doesn't want to share a taxi with her and she drives off. Kate waves for a cab and tells that he is driving good and goes back into the bar. She calls David Smith out and tells that the tattoo on his forearm gave him away. She asks why he gave 25% back and he is silent. She realizes that she is not going to get anything so she sits down and David realizes that she is not going anywhere either. The episode ends.

She tells that she has to make a few calls. In the hall, she sees that in another room, Detective Harrington is listening on their interview. She goes back into the room and gives Marcus a card that tells him to say the wrong location, but write down the right location because they are being monitored. She asks where the E-Reader prototype is and he tells that it is in the library. Kate asks for a contact of relatives and he writes down the location of a mail slip that is taped under his phone at the office. She leaves to go get it. Kate goes to John's office and tells that she is there to see John. The secretary tells that John is not there and she goes to talk to someone. Kate tells Leo to call the front desk. He does so and pretends to be several people so that Kate can sneak in and grab the paper. She succeeds and leaves.

Nick goes to Lauren's office and asks where Valerie's husband is. Valerie tells that it is between him and her only. Nick tells that he is not filing for divorce still and leaves. Lauren tells that they will fight him in court and Valerie tells that there is no time for that. Leo tells Kate that Kim likes him and has offered to be the model for his drawing, but tells that he is going to have to draw her with bigger everything if he is going to win the contest. Kate hugs him and tells that she likes that he is truthful and is happy that Leo has a girlfriend. Kate runs up to Justin and she is going to use the money that he gives her to bail Marcus out of jail. She tells that she would bail Justin out of jail if he ever was in it. He tells that she owes him. Later Kate has John come into her office and Leo is there with an envelope. Kate reorganizes the contract that allows Marcus to have a little bit more than what was originally and John gets the prototype in pieces.

She derobes and she is in a superhero outfit and Leo tells that he is very 'inspired'.

Later, John meets Kate on the roof and tells that he will start a company without a rooftop. Kate tells that the E-Reader doesn't work and that is why Marcus panicked. She tells that Marcus was willing to die for his work. She tells him not to give up on Marcus and she tells that he will make it work. She sits down with Marcus at her office and tells that John will give him as much time he needs and tells Marcus that he needs to talk to people about his issues. She gives Marcus the new contract and tells that he needs a good lawyer to protect his interests. She tells that she has faith that he will make the E-Reader. This doesn't give Kate much time to prepare. Kate walks into Lauren's office and asks for help. She says that she will help, but she has to tell what she found out about David Smith. She says that Teddy lost the evidence and Teddy gave a quarter of the estate because of that. Kate goes up to Tim and he asks if she got Sophia out of detention. She says that she has a problem and asks if he has something that will help. Meanwhile, Lauren is stalling in the courtroom when Kate comes in with Tim. Lauren calls Tim to the stand and asks about the medal he got for saving Sophia.

He tells that it was really Sophia who saved him and that she didn't want to bring attention to herself so they changed the story. Tim walks over to Sophia and gives her the medal. The judge tells them that Sophia's actions are honorable, but the facts are that she is not legal. Kate raises her hand and says that she has taken steps to resend all of Claudia Evan's debts and all the debts are going to be repaid. Sophia says that she made a foolish choice. The judge rules in her favor and says that she will be able to apply for citizenship and is free to go. Kate thanks Lauren for her help.

Later, Kate goes to Justin's house and asks why he has not been answering his phone. Justin says that he is upset with her about how the relationship is going. He tells that he is tired of making up and kissing. He says that their lives together are over and that they need to stop what they are doing. father. Kate tells that they are going to resolve this. Leo calls Kate and tells that the Sabatino brothers are there and Kate tells him to keep them there. He agrees to keep them there.

Kate arrives at the office and Lauren says that she needs to talk. Kate tells that she doesn't have time for her and that she is very busy. She goes into the Sabatino brothers and they tell that Danny Sabatino painted the parking lot lines to their business and Ralph repainted them so that he could fit his car into it. Kate tries to mediate, but finds it impossible. She leaves the room and tells Leo that they can't be mediated. However, she tells him not to allow them to leave. She takes Pete back to the Consulate and sees that the police are there. Kate asks why and Goran tells that Veronika ran away. Pete goes into a room and tells that it is all Renata's fault that Veronika ran away. Kate silences them and asks where Veronika would go. Pete starts to tell all the places that she would hang out and names her friends and facebook status. Kate is impressed that Pete knows her so well whereas Renata doesn't. Leo tries to call Judge Nicastro about an extension, but he tells Leo to tell Kate to just get it done.

Leo tells that David Smith left her a note and tells that Justin is in her office. Kate tells that she is not pregnant. Justin walks away and tells that it is dangerous being in a relationship with her. She gets emotional and Justin says that he was coming in to tell that he wanted to get back with her, but now he doesn't know. She cries and Leo asks if he can do anything and she tells that she is going home. On her way out of the office, Goran goes up to Kate and thanks her that his bridge is still whole and she tells that is what she does, she builds bridges.

Later, Kate tells that the Sabotino brothers are not coming in and he tells that she isn't going to jail. He tells her well done. Kate is melancholy and Judge Nicastro sees it. He says that Teddy's shadow is not gone and says that he still casts his shadow with Kate. Kate gets ready to go out to sea with her father's ashes and she tries to start the boat. Leo comes up and asks if she is going sailing. He tells that she needs a permit and tells that he will mail the application. Reed & Reed's finances are on shaky ground and Kate and Justin's relationship is up in the air.

The scene opens with Kate sitting in a bar where a guy walks up to her and wants to buy her a drink. But she asks for a check and is about to leave. She tells the guy that its been a while that someone has offered her a drink; and also that she is about to get divorced. She tells the guy that she is a school teacher. Well, the guy doesn't manage to hook Kate and she leaves. Next, Kate reaches the office... or let us just say, she returns to the office. Just then a girl comes up to her and asks her if she was the mediator. She yes, she is! The girl has come with her grandfather, Sam, and he was working with Man-waring where they knowingly exposed him to harmful chemicals that got him sick. Now they want the company to pay 3 million dollars.

Sam ridicules this idea but his granddaughter is insistent. Sam says that those guys were his friends and that they raised their kids together. But Emma thinks that he is from a different generation and so he doesn't understand about suing people. Just then Lauren walks in and is surprised to see Kate. She asks her what she is doing in the office as she had been fired. Kate tells her that since her brother has given her the proxy for his shares; it makes her an equal partner in the firm Kate tells Lauren that if she buys off her shares then she is ready to go. Lauren tells her that there was no money and she can barely pay the salaries. Kate is shocked to learn this. Well there is another one for her; Leo is now Lauren's assistant. Bob who is representing Manwaring comes in and updates Lauren about Sam's case.

Bob wants it handled quickly and quietly and that is why he opted for Reed and Reed. Lauren also wants Bob's organization to partner up with Reed and Reed. Bob tells her to handle this situation and he will talk about it. Just then Bob sees Kate and wants her to take this up. Kate is happy to and Lauren tells her not to mess it up. Bob and Kate go to meet Sam and his lawyer. And guess who do we meet?... the guy from the bar... Ben Grogan. They are surprised to see each other. Well they start their talk. Ben puts forth that the company is facing a 53 million suit which has the same facts as their case does and also that Sam is entitled for compensation. Kate asks Sam what it that he wants out of all of this is. Sam says that Man Wearing gave him his wages and pension on time. But Ben adds that they also gave him tumor.

Kate tells Sam and Emma that their claim is nothing but a side bet other than the bigger 53. Kate is sure that Bob would make an offer as he does not know what the outcome of the bigger case would be. Bob says that the final number would be 350. Kate tells Sam that the company is paying him to go away. She thinks that Sam deserves an honest opinion. Sam says that if the company didn't do anything wrong, he doesn't want the money. Sam says he wants to know the truth and so he wants a trial. Just then Leo tells Kate that Justin got beaten up and is in the hospital. She leaves. She reaches the hospital and meets Justin. Justin has a broken rib. Kate asks him why things didn't work out between them. She is wondering whether it was all her fault. Justin tells her that it was the thousand little things that both of them did.

He tells her that it is the best for them to move on. Kate tells him that she still loves him a little. But thanks to the morphine button she pushed earlier, Justin dozed off. Kate comes back to the office. She is still cross with Leo. Leo tells her that she wanted me to keep his job, and so becoming Lauren's assistant was the best bet he could go with. Kate asks him why she can't move on. Why does always keep coming back to this place. Next, we see that Ben reaches on Kate's boat and tells her that she needs to get the settlement back on the table. He tells her that he is surprised she lives on the boat and doesn't have a car. He says that people should never trust the first impression. She tells Ben that she lives on that boat because it is her father's and that he is dead. They reach the courtroom.

They meet a man from the jury who was excused by the judged. They tell him that they know someone who is involved. He tells them that he cannot talk about the case as the judge was very specific about his orders. Kate tells Leo that the guy was excused because he had gone to a washroom for the regular people rather than to the one meant for the jury. In the washroom he overheard one of the plaintiff's attorneys telling that one of the witnesses wasn't going to testify and so then he was upset. It seems that there was a memo addressed to George Alders stating about the problem, and it seems that after that George went on to become the CEO. So now they are waiting to see if they get the name from the witness list. Lauren comes into the room and learns that Ben and Kate are working together to screw Bob to the wall.

Lauren wants to talk to Kate. She tells Kate that she needs to apologize to Bob as this was the only chance they had to have Bob's company sign up as partners. She tells Kate that she needs her help in this situation. They meet bob. He tells them that when Teddy died, Reed and Reed lost all its value. The only thing left was the building. Bob says that his firm would buy over Reed and Reed. This came as a surprise to both the women. Kate is angry, throws her drink on him and leaves. And for the first time Lauren agrees with Kate and tells Bob that his partnership wouldn't work and also that she will find a way to bring the firm back. Meanwhile Kate meets George and lies to him that her mother worked at his factory.

She tells him that she was lunch buddies with his assistant. George is pleased to see her and tells Kate to say a hello to her mother. But Kate tells him that she died of cancer 15 years ago. Kate meets George's assistant, Loraine Brody. Loraine tells Kate that she remembers about the memo. She tells Kate that she is not sure whether George really knew about the problem or not. She says that she saw a memo and put it on his desk. She says that whatever she remembers today wouldn't really matter. She tells her that it was she who had destroyed the memo and all the carbon copies. She tells Kate that it wasn't George who told her to destroy the memo. Next Kate asks Leo if he could arrange for a typewriter from the 70's. She then meets George at the golf course. George tells her that he knows who she is. So they skip their hellos and Kate shows him a carbon copy of the memo.

He tells her that he doesn't remember any memo of that sort. She tells her about his assistant Brody. Just then Sam walks up towards them. Kate leaves both of them alone for them to talk. Sam only wants to know the truth. Kate, Ben and Leo are watching the two men talk, when they see that Sam punches George in his face and walks off. Sam thanks Kate and says that he wants to go home. Kate meets George again and tells him that Loraine is sick as well. She tells him that Bob knew about Loraine's infidelity and so she had to destroy the document. George maintains that there was no document destroyed. Loraine was having an affair with George. Kate tells him that he can take a stand or Loraine would do it for him.

George is ready to testify that he knew about the memo and the problem with the chemical the workers were exposed to. Next, we see that Ben is the new partner of Reed and Reed. Kate meets Justin at his office and tells him that they should give their relationship one more chance. Justin agrees. But he also confesses that he slept with another woman while they were married and when things were at its worst. Kate is furious and storms out of his office. Kate is sitting with Leo on the shore telling him about Justin. She tells him that she knows she needs to move on; but she is feeling stuck. Just then her boat blows up and Leo has always been warning her to fix the stove!!

The episode begins with Leo on the phone, describing the way Kate's boat blew up the previous night. And our darling Kate has to sleep at the office. Leo tells her that Justin called and that he would be at the office in 20 minutes. She thinks that he is coming to boast about his extra marital conquest; but Leo tells her that Justin wanted a mediator and hence the visit. Ben is carrying a new lamp to the office, and it breaks. Just then he meets Justin. After a quick introduction, he goes in to meet Kate. Kate is still getting dressed and he helps her zip up her dress. He tells her that he got a call from the FBI the last night. Two agents would be escorting a person, due for medical surgery and Justin had set up the meeting. He tells her that wanted to negotiate a liability waiver for the surgery. Allison is representing the hospital. She tells him that she would take the case for Allison.

She is still upset with what Justin did and he apologizes. He tells her that it was just one night that he slipped. But she is still upset. Allison enters the room and notices the tension in the air. Allison tells her about the case. She tells her that its some 'John Doe' VIP, who wants the hospital to cover the liability exposure and that's how much she can reveal at the moment for national security reasons. Next, they go to meet the two FBI agents. Meanwhile, Lauren is talking to Ian, an established fashion designer, who runs a firm, and he wants her to take up his case. One of his former employees, Jenny Chang, back-stabbed him and set up a new shop; stealing 14 of his employees. He tells her that Jenny quit a year ago and then last week she set up her shop. He wants her punished as it is very embarrassing.

Lauren assures him that once she opens a stern letter on Reed and Reed, they would collect damages and will have her apologize publicly. But he tells her that the opposing counsel is Ben Grogan and that when he signed the partnership with Reed and Reed, he brought in all his clients with him. Jenny Chang was his client. She tells him that she will talk to Ben and try to convince him. Next, Kate tells the FBI agents that they need to give her some information, if something needs to be worked out. But they don't disclose anything. As she walks out of the office building, she sees a man arguing with Allison. Kate knows that it is about the case, and she wants Allison to talk her about it. But she doesn't. Next, Lauren meets Ben and Jenny Chang. He tells Lauren that they are filing suit against Ian Saunders. He tells Lauren that Jenny had done whatever she did as her hobby; an expensive one maybe; and abiding by the non-compete clause, she set up her items for sale after 367 days after she left.

Next, Kate meets with the doctor who is supposed to do the surgery, Ted Laventhol. Kate then meets the guy who she saw arguing with Allison, Jessie. He tells Kate that his wife, Roxy is dying because of some liver disease and that they wanted to do a transplant. After waiting for two and a half years, last night, the hospital calls them and tells them that they found a match. They checked in but the next morning the hospital tells them that its not going to happen. Jessie is upset. His wife got the liver disease after having his initials tattooed on her wrist and the needles weren't sterilized. Kate talks to Laventhol. He tells her that the donor organ is going to go to another patient. He tells her that the 'powerful' patient can be stable for another year without the transplant but Roxy doesn't have that kind of time.

The doctor tells Kate that whatever the resolution is, needs to be done quickly as the liver is viable for the next 5 hours. She sees Agent Hughes, standing outside the room. She calls him and asks him to meet her and Allison at the cafeteria. He leaves for the cafeteria. She sneaks into the VIP's room. She meets him and tells him that there is a young woman who needs the organ more than he does. He says something, and as she bends forward to hear him clearly, he grabs her neck. We see that he is handcuffed. Just then Agents Donovan and Hughes rush into the room. Kate tells Hughes that she knows that the VIP is a prisoner and she wants to know what the deal was. Donovan asks her to steer clear from the FBI business. Meanwhile, Ian is at the office and Lauren has a suggestion that Reed and Reed can represent both parties; but only if Ian agrees. But Ben disagrees.

Lauren calls Kate and tells her that she has a problem with Ben. Kate tells her that she will talk to Ben. Meanwhile, Ben is making Leo runs errands for him and Leo doesn't appreciate this. Kate tells Justin that he needs to do something, as Roxy played by the rules and now she is about to lose her life. Kate tells Ben that Ian has been their client for 15 years and was a good friend of her dad. They don't want to lose him. The agents tell him that Moto, worked with the mob and could help the FBI to give them information about the arm dealers in New York.

He is ready to testify; but for a price. Justin says that it is not a great idea to keep a bad guy alive and sacrifice the life of an innocent citizen. Donovan tells him that Moto's testimony can save a lot of lives. They leave. Kate arrives at the hospital and tells Allison to keep Roxy for the night. Allison agrees. She also tells Kate about the generous donation Jessie made to the hospital. Kate is shocked to hear this. She confronts the couple about this. Just then Justin calls and tells Kate that it is over. Kate reaches the office and arranges a meeting, where all three partners of the firm could sit together and arrive at a decision about Ian's case. Kate agrees with Ben's decision and Lauren is upset about it. Kate is discussing Roxy's case with Leo. Leo asks her to take a stand. And she stands by Roxy. The duo dig deeper into Moto's history, and find out that he has one charge that is outstanding. Kate tells Justin that Moto is still a wanted man in California.

Justin makes arrangements and walks into the hospital with two cops. He tells the FBI agents that Moto is still a wanted man and so he needs to be transported. Moto is arrested and it would be until next day if the warrant has to be washed off. Till then the organ goes to the next patient on the list. Next, Lauren meets Ian and tells him that it is the best for both of them to part ways. Ian is furious and tells Lauren that he will see her in court. Meanwhile they are transporting Moto, and the agents will have to do a lot of explain as Moto wouldn't testify now. But our brilliant Kate gets to what she does the best; and strikes a deal with Moto and he is ready to testify!!

Roxy is taken into the operation theater. Finally her wait is over. Justin wants to make a fresh start; and Kate has signed the divorce papers! Kate meets Lauren to give her the boat's insurance papers. Lauren tells her that she could stay over at her place instead of checking into a hotel.

Kate agrees. Staying under the same roof; they would definitely 'set the house on fire'.

Summary:	Judge Nicastro orders Kate to mediate an insurance dispute between a fishing boat Captain and a deckhand who suffered a debilitating accident, and suggests that Lauren begin dating.

The scene opens with Kate rushing to the Judge's office. Nicastro updates her with the case she has to settle immediately. It is about commercial fishing, where a deckhand amputated his arm while catching the fish and wanted to collect his favors. But the Captain of the ship claims that the deckhand was high on drugs. And hence they need someone to mediate this case and Kate is on it. Just then Justin walks in. he tells her that he has received the decree and wants to talk about it. But Kate does not want to. Leo calls and tells her that the guys had arrived and Kate asks him if he knows anything about the Maritime Law. She arrives at the office and Leo updates her about the Maritime law. She meets her clients. She asks Captain the reason why he thinks that the deckhand was high on that day.

The lawyer tells her that blood samples were taken on the boat and it proved positive on drugs. The Owen's lawyer tells Kate that the people on the deck had given him drugs for the pain. But the Captain's lawyer tells Kate that there is a signed affidavit from the old deckhand that he saw this guy taking 'dust', the street name for opium. But the deckhand's wife claims that he has been sober for a year and Dave, the old deckhand would say anything to keep his job. Kate asks the captain, if he has something to say; but he says nothing. We then learn that the captain is the deckhand's father. The captain tells his son, Owen, that if he wants a piece of him, then he would meet him in court. Owen's lawyer tells Kate that she has 24 hours to get the captain for the next mediation session; else they will go to court. Next, Kate goes to the boat to meet the Dave, the old deckhand. She asks him about Owen.

He tells her that Owen was an addict and that he got away with it for a long time. She wants to know as to why he was so sure that it was drugs that Owen took and not something else. Dave tells her that Owen had offered it to him. he said that he did not mention this in his affidavit as it slipped his mind. She leaves and arrives at the office. She tells Ben and Leo that all this is not about the money but a grudge. Ben tries convincing her otherwise. She tells Leo to check what the other deckhands do in their off season and as Ben has done his homework, he tells her that they drink. They reach the bar. Kate wants to go alone and Ben tells her that he would come along. She finds it funny that Ben is going to protect her. She buys a bottle of tequila and goes to a man nearby playing darts and asks him if he wants to share the drink. She tells him that she knows Owen. He tells her that she was Becca's friend. Meanwhile, at the bar, Ben sees a picture of a guy with Owen.

He asks the bartender about that boy. Just then Dave enters and tells the guy that Kate is a lawyer. Kate tells Dave that John told her about something that happened last season. It seems that Owen got someone killed. They get angry and ask her to leave. Just then Ben intervenes. A brawl ensues. Kate tells Ben that Owen got someone killed, but Ben on the other hand knows who... his own brother Zack. A bit of an attitude and 100 bucks, Ben got that out of the bartender. And Kate realizes that this was the reason the captain thought that Owen got what he deserved as he got his own brother killed. She decides to talk to the captain and goes to his place to meet him. he tells her that Zack drowned as it was his first season on the boat. It was Owen job to look out for his brother but he didn't as he was high. He then tells her that John had taken Owen's blood on the boat and that it tested positive for drugs.

She asks him that if he had been tested positive for drugs, then why he took Owen back on the boat this time. The captain tells her he thought that being responsible for his brother's death, would keep Owen off drugs. Next, she meets Owen. He tells her that he was not high when Zack died and he didn't tell her because no one believed him. He tells her that he can't explain the previous report and how he tested positive; but he admits that it was his fault that Zack died. He tells her the story of what happened that night and how Zack did what he did to prove his toughness to his dad. On hearing the story, Kate tells Owen that he had told his brother to stay below as he was new in the job but Zack didn't listen and hence ended up losing his life. So there is no need for Owen to blame himself. At the office, Justin sends flowers for Kate and tells her that he is sorry and wants to have their baby. She needs to figure out a way to find the truth as she feels that Owen isn't lying and the blood reports talk against him.

Suddenly, Kate finds out that the truth isn't in the blood tests but the blood types. The blood types on both the reports don't match. She goes back to the boat and meets John; the guy from the bar she shared the tequila with. She tells him that he could be convicted for falsifying reports and manslaughter. She tells him that the blood samples he had sent for testing did not belong to Owen, but to Zack. Zack was high the night he drowned and John knew it; as he was the one who gave him the drugs. He tells her that he was only trying to help Zack as Zack got hurt earlier that day and John gave him the drugs only to relieve Zack's pain. Kate tells John that he should have known better as Zack was a green horn and didn't know about a lot of things. Kate tells him that he had switched the blood samples and proved that Owen was high. John admits and tells her hat he did so to keep his job; or else the captain would never let him work on that boat again. Kate tells him that had ruined a lot of lives in this bargain.

More than anything he ruined the relationship between a father and son when they needed each other the most. While all this is going on; Lauren is dealing with a case where a widowed wife has to clear her debts. She didn't want to let go off her husband's antique cars as those were the only memories that were left of him. Lauren tried to defend this client. But Judge Nicastro tries to explain to her that she is defending the clients as she feels the same way about Teddy and is not ready to let go. In the court, while defending the case, Lauren realizes that what Nicastro told her was true. Later, she meets the Judge in his office and has brought lunch for him. She tells him that she has spoken to her client and she is ready to sell the cars. The Judge tells her that she need not be concerned with what people think and that she should let go off her past and move on.

We see that Kate is sitting and having a discussion with the Captain, Owen, and his wife Becca. She tells them that John has confessed and the DA will decide how to charge him. Also, Dave has withdrawn his affidavit. He had said that because John had lied to him that Owen was high. Now, the captain knows everything and also that Owen wasn't responsible for Zack's death. Owen does not want any settlement. He only wants medical cure and lost wages; but then that he wants his father's forgiveness. And that is given. Alongside, Kate forgives Justin for cheating on her. And Lauren goes on a date. A Happy Ending.

Summary: Kate mediates a dispute over a severance package for an employee fired from an aeronautics company. Lauren and Ben argue over how to handle a settlement offer.

The scene opens with Lauren waking up Kate; reminding her of her ten o'clock appointment. She is disappointed to find Lauren's fridge stashed with ONLY health food. How can someone live without waffles... Kate thinks so! She reaches office. Leo and Kate hear Lauren talk to a man in her office and it is Ben. Lauren tells Kate that Ben had not informed his client about a two hundred and fifty thousand dollar settlement offer and now, three days before the trial; the client is suing Reed and Reed for the two hundred fifty thousand plus damages. Ben tells them that he didn't the client as he was sure that the client would have taken it. But Ben tells him that he could get his client twenty times more from a trial. But Lauren wants to fix an appointment with Carl Redmayne.

Kate is supposed to meet Grantham Pace Aeronautics. One of the high level managers was down sized with two years in his contract. The lawyer says that company is ready to give Martin a full two year payout and also extending his medical insurance. But Danny Martin is not happy because he was fired. Also, Mitch Reinhart tells Kate about the confidentiality document which Martin signed. It was the proprietary rights on the equipment Martin had built and Mitch does not want Martin to walk out with the technology. Martin tells Mitch that he had spent eight years creating that technology and a lot of time away from his family. Kate tells Martin that he cannot take company secrets with him. He tells Mitch that he is not signing it. Mitch tells Martin that he walks away and the deal is off the table.

Kate tries to convince Martin. But Martin tells her that he doesn't want to sign on the agreement because they are lying. Next, Lauren informs Ben about the meeting with Carl. Leo finds out more about Grantham Pace and Martin's position in the company. Just then Martin calls and asks Kate to meet him. Seems like he has changed his mind. Lauren and Ben meet with Carl. Ben tries to explain to Carl that he was trying to get him a lot more than that settlement amount.

Carl tells them that he wants the two hundred and fifty thousand in check the next day and he will drop the law suit against Reed and Reed. Ben does not want to go to the opposing counsel with this and Lauren tells him that he has to do the groveling since he has put the company at risk. Kate visits Martin at his apartment with the papers. She doesn't think that he should sign it. He tells her that his wife left him about a year ago as he could not do anything about his work.

He tells her that the company was supposed to make him the project manager. But Kate wants to know what the company is lying about. He tells her that there is a flaw in the design and that the casing could blow off. He did tell this to Mitch and Mitch told him that he would look into it. And last week when the test results came in, Martin saw that it has been changed and the flaw was shown as an insignificant one. And that is the lie! The parts are in production and that is why they are letting Martin go as he knows the entire thing and if they have to fix it, it would cost the company millions. Next, Kate goes to meet Justin and updates him about this case. She discusses the Whistleblower Law with him and he tells her that the Justice department needs hard evidence. He tells her not to rally Martin with this as the Whistleblower consequences could be huge. And he warns her against it. But we know Kate. Kate meets Martin and tells him that the State won't prosecute without hard evidence.

And since it's their property and if Martin is caught moving it, Martin could be punished. She tells him that she could go ahead with the mediation but he tells her that he can't let people die because of something he engineered. He tells her that he would sign the papers in person and wants Mitch to be present there when he pays him to shut up. Next, Mitch and his lawyer are at Kate's office but Martin hasn't arrived. But he calls saying that he is going into the office to get evidence, and asks her to meet him in half an hour outside the building. Leo and Kate arrive reach the GPA building. Kate tells Leo that she tried to wave him away from this and this was Martin's idea. Ben meets Lidia and tells her that Carl is ready to accept the settlement. But she tells him that the offer was made last week and has expired. She quotes the new number; 125 thousand dollars.

Ben denies it and Lauren accepts it. Lauren then tells Ben that he is going to get the other 125 from the woman or his own pocket; but not the company's. Meanwhile, Kate and Leo are still waiting for Martin outside GPA. Just then Mitch arrives and Kate is shocked to see him. She tries to keep him from going inside the office, but she fails. Martin is caught by the security guards. Kate watches in disbelief. GPA's lawyer has evidence of Martin transferring data into a flash drive. He has infiltrated. But Kate tells the lawyer that Martin is still employed there. But the lawyer tells him that he has no authority to enter or access the supervisor's property and that there would be federal charges. Kate quits mediation and has a private talk with Martin.

Ben meets Lidia and raises the number to a million! He tells her that she spoke to his client in his absence and the bar counsel would take an action against her. Kate comes to meet Justin and tells him what happened. Kate comes back to her office and finds Mitch waiting there. He tells her that he needs the flash drive that Martin gave her. Mitch tells her that Martin is not looking at the bigger picture as he is just a scientist. But Kate tells him that Martin is the one who took the real risk by telling the truth. Mitch leaves. She is upset that everyone thinks that she pushed this guy to break the law. But she tells Ben that instead she warned him against it. Kate meets Martin and asks him about the drive. He does not want to give it to her as she could fall in trouble if she possesses it. But she tells him that if GPA gets hold of it, he will never be able to get out.

She calls Mitch and tells him that she has the drive. Meanwhile, Carl is at the office and Ben walks in with a check but tears it. He tells Carl that it is his fault and drinking habit that he did not pay attention to his work. But he tells Carl that if he agrees to go to trial then he gets 33% of the money he gets or else he would pay out of his own pocket. Next, Kate is at the GPA office and tells Mitch that she will take him to the flash drive. Lauren realizes that Ben lied and put the firm at risk; again. But Ben asks her to keep a check on the tone she uses while talking to him. At GPA, Kate wants a trade. Mitch tells her that he will see what he can do. But Kate manages to fly the drive out of the office into Leo's hand. Thanks to the airplane model in Martin's office.

And by the time Mitch gets her arrested she tells him that the evidence would be out. She walks out of GPA; head high! All the charges against Martin have been dropped and his family is back. Ben is getting ready to go to court and Lauren wishes him luck. Kate is at a bar and has no photographs of any friends to put up on face book and the one friend she has is Leo. Justin walks in and tells her that he joined face book. She tells him that she needs to have a real life than a virtual one. He informs her that the Justice department is investigating GPA and the credit goes to her. They drink to Justice.

Summary: While mediating bankruptcy negotiations, Kate decides to help a client who's unable to pay his mortgage because of a drug-dealer tenant.

The episode begins with Kate arriving late to the office for her Monday morning appointment. Lauren suggests that she should keep her clocks forward so that she isn't always late. Lauren also mentions that she has downsized to cut costs. Lauren says that she has signed a contract with a bank and they are outsourcing their bankruptcy mediation. Therefore Kate has 20 cases to mediate in two days. Kate meets the bank representative and he hands over the cases. Meanwhile, Lauren goes for her brunch meeting with the DA, Erin. Erin tells her that he wants to retain Reed and Reed for his campaign; but Lauren tells him that Justin was married to Kate and there is a conflict of interest. Erin tells Lauren that Justin's infidelity could cost him.

Meanwhile, Kate has started working on her cases. Eddie Salinas walks in and Lance, the bank representative, tells him that his building is up for mortgage. Eddie is upset as this building has been with his family for three generations and now his mother will be on the streets. Kate finds a middle path and convinces Lance to change his decision. Lance extends his term for 12 months. But Eddie tells them that he has a problem with a drug dealer tenant who is scaring everybody out. Kate asks for 48 hours to deal with the situation and if she fails, Lance could sell the building. Eddie and Kate leave when they meet Ben and he too joins them, as he is from the same neighborhood as Eddie. They reach the building and Eddie introduces the duo to his mom. Just then Nick, the drug dealer drives by and Eddie tells them that he has a biker business as his front face.

The cops can't do much as Nick doesn't keep any product in his apartment but only cash. It seems that people are scared of Nick and they wouldn't speak about the drugs. Kate decides to talk to Nick. But a guy named Travis opens the door and he knows Ben from high school and Travis is Nick's lawyer. He tells them that now is not a right time to talk to Nick. They agree to meet for dinner where they can talk about Nick. At the office, Leo has taken Kate's place and Lauren tells him that he cannot as he isn't a lawyer. But you don't need a lawyer for mediation and so Leo hasn't broken any law. At home, Lauren talks to Kate about Erin's proposition and tells her that Erin wants them to represent his campaign. Kate tells her that just because she divorced Justin, she is ready to work against him. She walks out. Ben and Kate arrive for the dinner and the three meet.

Ben and Travis get engrossed with their own talk and Kate intervenes. She tells him that Nick's drugs business is causing problems to Eddie. Travis tells them that Nick has two years left of his lease and that he is going nowhere. He also tells them to back off. Travis leaves. Next, Lauren tells Kate about Justin's infidelity and Kate is surprised that Erin told her about it, as nobody knew about this. Lauren tells her that it is about to hit the press. Just then Kate receives a call and rushes to Eddie's building. Ben is already there. He tells Kate that there was a fire shot and no one is talking; so the cops can't do anything. Eddie tells her that a bullet missed his mom by just a few feet. Kate is furious and she has a tiff with Nick's clients. Next, Kate meets Justin. She tells him that his infidelity news is going to hit the press. Justin swears to God that he hasn't told anyone about it. Kate is fuming as her entire firm will read about it. She storms out of his office. At the office, Lance is happy with Leo's style of working and tells Lauren that he prefers working with Leo.

In the court, Travis tells them that Nick cannot be convicted without any proof or eye witness. The court passes the judgment in Nick's favor and Travis files a harassment complaint against Kate and manages to get a restraining order against her. Lauren asks Kate to settle this issue as soon as possible. Kate asks Leo to find out who is about to buy Eddie's building, so that they could hold him or get him to slow it down. Kate tells Ben that eh pissed Travis off, so she wants him to get Travis back on the table. Ben agrees. He goes to his old friend and they decide on a boxing match. That's how they always worked things out in the past. But the place has been converted into a cafeteria. Kate asks him as to how could she convince Nick to move out. But instead of resolving this issue, Ben and Travis get engaged in their verbal dual once again. But it isn't long that they get back to their old way.

Later they find it funny as they realize that they aren't 17 anymore and that a boxing round cannot really sort out issues. Travis arranges a meeting between Kate and Nick and he is ready to withdraw the restraining order. In the evening, Kate goes to meet Nick at his apartment. Kate tells Nick that he makes enough money to move where he wants to, but Eddie doesn't. This building is the only thing he has. She tells him that the bank is going to sell the building, so he will have to move out eventually. Nick tells her that it was Travis who told him to stay, else he was about to move out. Just then Ben sees the cops arriving and warns Kate about it, as it is not legal for her to be at Nick's with the restraining order. Kate makes an excuse to go to the bathroom. Nick goes to bring Kate and finds that she has escaped through the bathroom window. Leo tells Kate about the buyers for Eddie's building.

But it seems that Ben knows about them and so he tells Eddie not to sign anything. It is Travis who is trying to buy Eddie's building. They go to meet Nick. They tell him that his lawyer is the one who is trying to buy the building and that Travis is been using him. Next, Lauren meets Erin. Erin is pissed because some political blogger has reported on his blog that Erin is about to reveal something scandalous about Justin. Lauren realizes that if the news hit now then the world would know that Erin is paying dirty. Erin realizes that Lauren had tipped the blogger. He tells her that when he wins, she will have a difficult time with the firm. Next, Travis visits Kate's office. They tell him that Nick has told them that it was Travis who asked him not to move and also that the bank has given Eddie and his mother, one more chance to buy back the building.

So Travis' plan of buying the building has gone down the drain. Kate tells Travis that they had explained his plan to Nick, who had no idea about Travis' game plan. They tell him that Nick is looking for a new apartment and a new lawyer. Next, Ben and Kate are on the terrace of the building and he tells her that he has had a similar experience as hers; the only difference is that when he gave the relationship a second chance, he cheated on his girlfriend. He made things worse and then disappeared. Kate is back home and Lauren tells her that she can rest easy tonight as her personal affair would not go public. She thanks Lauren and they call it a day.

Summary:	Kate joins Ben as he represents the victim of alleged police brutality against Justin and the SF Police Department who claim innocence.

The episode begins with a new day and Kate and Ben rushing for work. Ben tells her that he is working on something very big and that he needs her help. He tells her that he is representing a victim who has faced the brutality of the San Francisco PD. One of the top officers severely beat up the victim and now they are trying to cover it up. There is one catch; Justin is the system the victim is trying to fight. Kate decides to help Ben. They go to the meeting room. Ben introduces Andre, the victim, to the people in the room. Andre is in the hospital and they are watching him on the screen. He also introduces Jeremy, the man representing the city, to Kate.

Justin wants to know whether Kate is a part of this case; and Kate is curious as to why an ADA is attending a settlement suit. He says that there is a false accusation on the city cops. On the screen, Andre tells them that two cops beat him up. Justin tells them that Andre and his accomplice were robbing a liquor store, when the police arrived. Andre hit an officer and they fled the scene. Andre is incarcerated for robbery and assault on a police officer. Andre tells Kate that he doesn't remember the faces of the cops as he blacked out. Justin gives the benefit of doubt to the cops as there are no eyewitnesses for this case. Justin sues him for perjury. If Andre is found lying then, there would be few more years added to his sentence.

Ben tells Justin and Jeremy that he would start discovery the next day, by the deposition of Lieutenant Frank O'Hara and the name did get their attention. But Justin is not ready for any settlement. Lauren needs a favor from Justin. She tells him that she is being investigated for Attorney misconduct. She wants to know whether there is a complaint filed with the DA as well. The other two partners don't know about this. He tells her that he will see what he can do. Ben tells Kate that Justin tried to bury his client's file and that she could find the truth by coming to the deposition the next day. He tells her that O'Hara said while patrolling the park, after they got the call; he went right by the lane where Andre was being assaulted. They were at the same place at the same time, and he doesn't say a thing in his report. So at the end of it, it will look like it's he who is trying to cover up.

Next day, Kate tells Ben that if they are going to depose O'Hara, then they will have to talk to all the cops who chased Andre and his accomplice. They meet O'Hara, Justin and Jeremy. Ben presented his case and arguments very well. Kate finds the story leery. Justin asks her to take Ben off the case and Kate feels that there actually is a cover up. Now, it's Kate's turn with O'Hara and she asks Ben to stay out of it. But O'Hara sticks to his stamen that he saw nothing. At the office, Kate wants to know as to why didn't Ben tells her about the dispatch tapes were sent to him. Ben tells her that he is calling a press conference the next day. He tells her that she did a wonderful job with O'Hara.

Next, Lauren is at Justin's office and he tells her that there is no criminal complaint against her for now. She tells Justin that she accidently transferred 23000 dollars from a client's account to hers; for less than 72 hours. It was Ian Saunders. But she says that she had a lot of things going on and it was a mistake. Next, Kate meets officer Galaki. But Kate feels that whatever she told her has been rehearsed and that she is hiding something. The officer tells her that O'Hara is not that kind of a cop and drives away. Kate discusses a hypothetical situation with Lauren and Lauren tells her that it could be inattentional blindness; where one is blind towards what is happening as his mind is focused on something more urgent.

Lauren figures out that this is about Andre's case and tells Kate that Reed and Reed is not in a state to raise red flags. Kate senses that something is wrong. Next, Lauren meets Justin. He tells her that Ian has his jaws locked in this case and he wouldn't budge. The worse that could happen is that she would be disbarred. Justin tells her to ask Kate t talk to Ian and convince him to withdraw his complaint. Next, at the office, Justin arrives and is ready to make a settlement. As usual, Ben does not agree with the amount and says that Andre deserves at least two million. Justin is pissed and is about to walk off. Kate tries to calm both the men, but Justin leaves despite all of Kate's attempts to mediate. Kate is super pissed with Ben and so is Ben.

He tells her that nothing can stop him. in the evening, when Ben was about to leave from the office, Kate stops him and lures him into her cabin. She has unbuttoned a couple of buttons of her shirt. She tells him that he should call off the press conference till she finds out what exactly happened in the park and that they should find out which officers assaulted André, instead of crucifying an innocent officer. Ben is totally distracted by Kate's allure. Just then Leo blows a horn and announces his presence. He was in the room all the while and Ben hadn't noticed him. Thus the duo prove to Ben that inattentional blindness could definitely have been what kept O'Hara from noticing the assault on Ben, as his mind was focused on something else.

Ben agrees to give them time till 3 pm; and if they don't find him a better story, then the O'Hara story would go wide. Next, Lauren meets Ian. Ian tells her that she will have to pay him a hundred grand to make this complaint go away, and if she mentions this to anyone, he will file a criminal complaint as well. Next day, Leo shows Kate a computer representation of the crime scene. She finds it brilliant and asks him to sync it with the audio files of O'Hara's dispatch tapes. Just then Lauren wants to talk to Kate. She tells Kate that she is being investigated by the State Bar and explains the situation she is facing. Kate offers help. Leo has synched in the audio files. Kate asks him to reposition Galaki, O'Hara's partner, on a faster route, where she could get to O'Hara as fast as possible.

They figure out that Galaki saw the beating. Kate confronts her. She admits that she saw two of their guys beating up Andre. She tells Kate that if she said a word, they will all turn against her and she will lose her job. Next, Kate meets Ian. And she gives Ian enough reasons for withdrawing his complaint. Ian storms out of the restaurant. Kate tells Lauren that she made a mistake by using Ian's money and the next time, Lauren will have to tell Kate whatever is happening in the firm. Lauren agrees and thanks her. Kate gets a call from Leo, informing her that Galaki is ready to come clean. Kate, Ben and Galaki go to meet Justin. But it seems that O'Hara confessed that he saw the beating and gave the names of the officers.

Galaki tells Kate that she called O'Hara an hour ago, and told him what she is doing. O'Hara asked her the names of the officers. O'Hara just saved her life by taking the fall. O'Hara tells Kate that Galaki needs the job and that he wants to help his partner. He leaves. Justin admits that he was wrong on this one. Next, Ben and Kate are at a bar. They are drinking to their victory. Just then Justin walks in with a pretty woman. Kate wants to leave. Ben drops her home. Kate thinks that they are alike in a lot of ways; like both of them are empty. Kate wants him to stay with her for this one night. Ben takes a pass on this invitation. He tells her that they might be alike in a lot of ways but he is not empty. He leaves.

Summary: There's a clash over strategy at the firm when Kate's former private school asks for her to mediate with an expelled student.

The episode begins with a man wearing a bird costume; jumping off the Golden Gate Bridge. Next, Kate arrives at office and in the elevator; Ben tells her that the Golden Gate bungee jumper is his client. They discuss about the previous night and Kate tells Ben that he should forget about it and that it never happened. Leo and Lauren are surprised to see Kate in office, as she is supposed to be at the Burgess Hall. Kate tells Lauren that a student of the school was caught cheating and is about to get expelled. So the father decided to make a big stink about it and so they have hired her to deal with the situation. Lauren wants to go with her to Burgess Hall as they are a valuable client. Kate hates the school as it was her school and she had issues with that place during her school days.

Next, Ben is at Justin's office. Lazniack, the bungee jumper, broke the law and Justin tells Ben that there will be a trial. Justine has a deal, 8 weeks in County and 2000 dollars fine. Ben accepts it. Next, Kate and Lauren arrive at the school. Kate meets an old friend, Olivia, who is the head mistress of the school. Kate introduces Lauren to Olivia. They meet the father. Lauren tells Davis that his daughter broke the rule and there will be consequences. Kate wants to hear Elisa's story. Olivia butts in and tells Kate that the English teacher, Wade, caught her with notes during a test. Kate wants to hear it from Elisa. She tells Kate that she didn't cheat and that Wade made a mistake. Davis is angry that the school has different set of rules for the rich and the poor; so he wants to change it.

He doesn't want to make his daughter an example of it, and so if they don't take her back in, he will go to court. Lauren and Olivia try to convince Kate that the man is wrong by doing this. But Kate does not agree, as the man has put everything he had for his daughters education, and he doesn't want Elisa's education to be interrupted. Kate gives Olivia a number of options, but Olivia cannot approve of any. Plan B, Elisa could be telling the truth. But Olivia tells her that Wade has an impeccable reputation. The Reeds tell Olivia that if this goes to court, she will have to answer to a lot of cases of expulsion, which could be bad for the school. So, they need to give Elisa's story a thought. Kate meets Wade. Wade tells her that Elisa was a bright kid and she was miserable here; so getting kicked out is the best for her.

Kate then talks to Elisa. Elisa tells her that Wade and she were close and that they spent a lot of time together. She tells Kate that she should have done exactly what he wanted. Next, Kate shows Lauren the messages Wade sent to Elisa. Kate tells Lauren that Elisa was a loner and this was Wade's best bet. They need to think of a way of bringing this in front of the school and Elisa's father. Meanwhile, in the courtroom, Justin and Ben are surprised to see Judge Victoria Turner. It appears that she is a Lazniack fan and she didn't like the plea just like Ben didn't. She asks then to meet her at her chambers the next day afternoon. Justin is irritated that his time is being wasted. Next, Elisa's case is presented in front of Olivia and her father. But she tells them that she considered Jonathan (Wade) as her friend. But Kate tells Elisa that if Wade has done this to her, there is no way he can stay.

Elisa's father wants Wade fired. He leaves. Kate tells Lauren and Olivia that they should agree to Davis' conditions. But Lauren tells Olivia that if the allegations prove to be false, then she is looking at termination. Kate tells Olivia to agree to Davis and she will get them to sign a confidentiality agreement. Olivia agrees to talk to the board and have Wade fired and Elisa is back in. Next, Kate is at the office, talking to Ben and curious about the conversation he had with Justin. Leo comes in and informs her that Jonathan Wade is here to meet her with his lawyer. The lawyer hands over Wade's phone records to Kate and tells her that there were no texts sent to Elisa. They are serving the school and Wade is suing the school for wrongful termination and deformation of character. Kate is surprised that Elisa received texts from Wade when they weren't sent in the first place.

Leo tells them that one can download an app with which, someone could have sent Elisa the messages using Wade's number. Kate and Lauren know who sent those messages. Kate confronts Elisa. Elisa tells her that she only wanted to get back into the school and that she wasn't aware that the school would fire him. She says that everybody cheats and it's no big deal. Kate is angry. Next, in the Judge's chamber, the bungee jumper case is still on. Justin is tired of this and proposes a new deal; six weeks County and eighty hours of community service. But Ben proposes; no weeks, 2000 dollars fine and a charity performance. The Judge tells them that they have to be more creative. She asks them to come over to her house in the evening and they could come up with a judgment. They find it absurd. They reach the Judge's house.

She has prepared dinner! Meanwhile, Kate goes to meet Olivia. She apologizes. Olivia is surprised that Kate Reed is apologizing. She tells Kate that there is no need and the board will not be suing Reed and Reed. But Kate says that she made a mistake and she is sorry for that. Olivia tells her that the board fired her. Kate tells her that she was upset that back during school days; Olivia had chosen other students to be friends with and left Kate alone. But Olivia tells her that she has changed and people do change. But Kate is still the same little girl, looking for a fight. Olivia tells her that the school wants to settle with Jonathan Wade as soon as possible. Next, at the judge's house, the Judge gives her vote to Justin after listening to the arguments.

But they still haven't decided on a verdicts and she plans to do that during lunch the next day! Ben can't understand what's happening. But Ben tells Justin that it is inspiring to see the way he does things by the book. Next day, Leo arrives at the office and finds Kate sleeping in Ben's office. Kate finds the Elisa story a little confusing. First, she is caught cheating during the test and then to cover that up, she sends those texts. But she gets caught again. But Kate thinks that Elisa is too smart to keep getting caught like this. She tells Leo to show her that phone app. Ben asks Lauren for her opinion about the Judge's actions. She tells him that the Judge finds the debate stimulating and that Justin and Ben are like the intellectual male escorts for her. Olivia walks into the office and Lauren is running the negotiation. The offer made by the school is 1.5 million, but Wade's lawyer bumps it up to 2.5 or else they will meet them in the court. Olivia accepts.

But Kate doesn't accept it. She tells the room that they rushed into thinking that Wade was guilty and that they made a mistake. But she feels that with the settlement, they are rushing again. Kate has got the phone app. Now she from her phone uses Wade's number to call Elisa and puts it on speaker. Elisa answers the call and asks Wade as to how the meeting went and how much did they get. Kate proves it to the room that Wade and Elisa were working on this together since the beginning. The case is closed. But poor Ben and Justin are still stuck with theirs. They have a plan.

When the Judge enters, she asks them for their opinion on a case she asked them to check. But both of them don't talk much and the Judge is disappointed. Immediately, Justin proposes their new plea; 250 hours of community service and a charity performance. Ben agrees without debating. The case is finally closed. Kate tells Lauren that Olivia is not going to be fired and that Olivia wants Reed and Reed to be the official counselors for the school. Also, the board is going forward with fraud charges on Wade and Elisa. Everything turned out well and Kate is going for dinner with her old friend Olivia.

Summary: Kate and Ben take a personal interest in a prison mediation and find they have feelings for each other. Leo persuades Lauren to take a case on his behalf.

The episode begins with Kate entering an elevator and beginning to sing, with the others in the elevator joining in. Later, Ben wants to fight case for the rights of women prisoners, because he wants to end up looking like Nelson Mandela by helping them out. Meanwhile, Leo takes his friend Ashley Woods to meet Lauren, as Ashley is a comic book writer, and has a copyright issue only Lauren can help with. The only problem is Ashley can't afford a lawyer. Leo assures Lauren that if they win, their firm will get a part of the profits from the sale of the comic books. Lauren tells Leo that, she doesn't have time for a contingency case. Meanwhile, Ben and Kate pay the women's prison a visit.

The warden briefs the two about the hunger strike the prisoners have gone on to fight for their rights. She wants the two of them to end it as quickly as they can, so the authorities don't have to use force. Kate would be meeting the prisoners without Ben being present. She then talks to the inmates, and asks them for a list of their demands. She also adds that the inmates need to be reasonable in their demands, and ask for something she can actually get for them. The prisoners in the end settle for better quality food, the warden tells them that she would look into it, if they end the hunger strike. The warden says change will take time as there is a lot of red tape involved. The prisoners aren't agreeable to that, and Kate too wants the basic demands of the prisoners met, if the jail authorities want to avoid further trouble. Later Ben explains to Kate that the warden was right, and that there is a lot of red tape involved in making any changes to the system.

Meanwhile, Kate asks the warden about a particular inmate Leah who seemed reasonable. The warden tells Kate that no one would take Leah seriously, as she says she is innocent to the other inmates. She is serving 15 years for armed bank robbery. Kate tells the warden that she wants to meet Leah. Later Kate requests Leah to get the inmates to eat at least one meal. Leah says she will try although she can't promise anything. She then asks Leah about the bank robbery. She then reveals to her that she was 19, and in love with a guy who told her to rent a car in her name, which she did. The boy she loved and his buddy then used that car to rob a bank. She reiterates to Kate that she didn't rob a bank. Ben in the meanwhile isn't at all pleased with Kate entertaining the prisoner.

He reminds Kate what her actual goal is. Lauren recommends to Ben that he should use some contacts to shuffle the prison budget. Meanwhile, Leo is doing his best to help Ashley with her case. Meanwhile, Kate and Justin meet and are curious about each other's relationship status. Kate is meeting Justin so she can get some help on the Leah case. He gives Kate a complete file of the case, with all the details in it. Kate takes it upon herself to prove that Leah is innocent, despite Justin feeling she is guilty. Meanwhile, Leah tells Kate that she hasn't managed to convince the prisoners to eat. Kate also tells Leah that her boyfriend after being released from jail got two more girls to rent cars in their names for bank robberies. Leah then tells Kate that the husband of the victim, who was shot, comes to every hearing of her parole.

It is just to make sure that each one involved with the crime doesn't get parole. Meanwhile, Leo has done all his homework, and just need Lauren to make a call to help renegotiate Ashley's contract. Lauren seems impressed with the homework done by Leo and says she would get back to them. Kate in the meanwhile tells Lauren about Leah and her trying to get Leah a retrial. Lauren and Ben aren't at all crazy about Kate losing her focus. Later Justin tells Kate that Leah's retrial is happening, with Ben appealing for it. But the Judge denies the trial. Kate is glad that Ben tried and that he cares. But Ben tells her that he doesn't care. Next, Lauren is presiding over Ashley's case. Leo presents the case very well and Lauren cites the examples of some other cases. The publishing company agrees to pay her 10 percent of whatever they earn. They all agree and the meeting is over.

Next, Kate meets the husband of the woman who was shot in the bank by Carlos. He is a professor and Kate tells him that he needs to reconsider his resolve of getting Ashley to agree to her crime she didn't commit. She also tells him about the other two robberies committed by Carlos. He tells her that he is aware of them and shows her the newspaper articles he saved. Kate sees the face of Carlos' accomplice and sees that there is a mark resemblance to Leah. She points that out to him and tells him that it is possible that people must have made a mistake. He says nothing and leaves. Next, Leo and Ashley are back in his cabin and Ashley says that she doesn't believe that they managed to solve it. But then something strikes Leo and he goes back to the guys from the publishing house. He tells them that he declines the offer as it is too less.

Lauren has a word with Leo. Leo points out that why is it that the publishing house is trying to settle the case as quickly as possible; when they have dozens of lawyers working for them to see that the people don't try making money out of the company. Just then Ashley shows them the text she just received; her character is up for movie rights. Lauren once again enters the conference room. Next, Kate tries convincing Justin about the Leah case by trying to convince him about the resemblance theory. Justin tells her that he cant vacate a sentence based on assumptions. He lets her take the DA file to the parole hearing, as it is her last chance. Kate goes to the parole hearing and Ben accompanies her. Just then Kate gets a text saying that the professor is not coming for the hearing. She is happy. It is Kate's turn. She enters the room and puts forth her case.

But the board doesn't pay any heed to it and they ask her to leave, Ben tells Leah that the only way she could get to spend some time with her nephews; she needs to apologize, so that she is granted a parole. Leah goes in and Ben and Kate leave. Kate is very upset. Next, at the office, Kate receives a call saying that the strike is over and all the women are eating including Leah. Ben is leaving for the day. Kate tells him that it would be nice to get a ride back home. But in the elevator, she realizes she has left her phone in the office. She asks Ben to leave and she also thanks him for his help. Ben pulls her back and kisses her passionately. She responds.

Summary:	Judge Nicastro enlists Kate and Ben to mediate a contract dispute. Lauren looks for a painting to hang in the lobby of the firm.

The episode begins with Kate calling customer support as Beth, saying that she has some trouble with a particular device. Later on she tells the executive that she kissed a guy she works with. She is talking about Ben here. Next morning, as usual Kate is late for a meeting and it is with Judge Nicastro. As she enters the office, she sees Ben and pretends to be busy on the phone, but just then her phone rings! Oops! Ben asks her for dinner, but she says that she is a little tied up. It is Leo telling her to meet Nicastro in the courtroom and not his chambers. Nicastro arrives. He declares that the Bay City Metro has declared bankruptcy and that they have no money to pay the union and hence he declares that the union contract is null and void. Nicastro orders both parties to meet him in the conference room for mediation.

Kate was his choice as she is good at handling volatile personalities. The first guy she needs to handle is Jim Hayward, head of Bay City Metro and Charles McKay, the head of the union. But even before the meeting starts, Charles walks out of it saying that there would be no new contract without him seeing the company's books. Kate tries to convince Hayward to let the union have a look at the books. But Hayward looks uncomfortable and tells Kate that Charles likes to play dirty and he doesn't want to entertain any such requests. Next, Lauren announces the purchase of a painting from a dear friend, Tom Finnerman and it costs fifty thousand dollars. Ben finds this ridiculous. But just then a boy comes in, fires paint balls on the painting and runs away. Next, Kate talks to Nicastro and asks him whether there is some issues between him and Charles.

The Judge tells her that Charles always thought that he is always against the union. He doesn't want to give orders for the books to be opened as he knows that Charles is fishing for something, which later on he would use for negotiation. Kate is unsure about BCM's bankruptcy. At the office, Kate tells Leo that she kissed somebody but doesn't tell him the name. She then asks Lauren about Nicastro's father. Lauren tells her that Nicastro Sr. was a union guy and he was the one who hired Charles. Next, Justin and Lauren interrogate the guy who defaced the painting; Franco. Franco tells her that if she needed answers to her questions then she must meet his father. Next, Kate sets up Nicastro and Charles. Charles tells Nicastro that his father waited all his life for him to apologize and then he died. Charles tells Nicastro that he was a better son to his father than he was a better son to Sr. Nicastro than Nicastro was.

Outside the court the union workers gather in a protest against the Judge. The Judge punches one of the protesters who was trying to threaten. Meanwhile, Justin goes to the address given to him by Franco. He sees the painting of the bison in the storm drawn on a board, the same one that Lauren bought for 50k. Next, Ben tells Kate that if Nicastro is found guilty then he might lose his seat on the bench. Meanwhile, Justin tells Lauren about the street paintings he saw that was made by an artist named Drone. Justin thinks that Franco is Drone and that is why he paint balled the painting by Tom. Lauren wants an apology and then she will see what she can. Next, in the courtroom, Nicastro pleads guilty for the assault on the protester. Kate walks in and tells him that he did it to protect her as he was threatening her.

He pleads no contest. Next, Kate meets Charles and asks him why he is spreading lies about the Judge. Charles tells her that he did no such thing. Kate wants to know the story about their past. Charles tells her that Nicastro's father had begged him to take up Charles' job but he didn't for some reason. He tells her that they would start the strike by midnight. Kate wants him to co-operate with her if she finds out the truth about the whole thing. Next, Kate insists Nicastro to issue the order to view BCM's books. She calls Leo and tells him that she got the orders. Leo never doubted her abilities. But Leo also figures out that Kate and Ben are having a dinner date tonight. Kate goes to meet Hayward and Hayward tells her that they will not honor the orders.

He says that he is a reasonable chap and this time he is not going to bend. He offers Kate a ride. Just then Kate notices the pamphlets lying in Hayward's trunk-the same ones used to spread lies about Nicastro. She calls Ben to finalize the place for the dinner date. She tells him that she has got one more stop to make. She goes to Justin's place and asks him to take a look at the court orders. Next, Lauren meets Tom. She tells him that he has committed fraud and there could be charges. Tom agrees to give her money back but also wants her to keep all the charges confidential. Lauren agrees. Leo overhears this conversation. Meanwhile, Ben is still waiting for Kate for dinner and Kate messages him saying that she cannot make it.

She kisses Justin and spends the night with him. Ben arrives at Leo's and asks him about Kate. Leo tells him that the last time he spoke to her, she was at Justin's. He tries to tell him that it was regarding work, but Ben doesn't listen and walks out on Leo. Next day, Kate is in the conference room with Hayward and Charles. She takes away their cell phones so that there would be no distraction. As Leo walks out with the cell phones, Angela from BCM calls Hayward and informs him about a raid in the office and Justin is in BCM. But it goes to Hayward's voicemail. Next, Tom arrives at the office with his lawyer. They hand the check and make her sign the confidentiality agreement. But then Lauren changes her mind; she tears the agreement.

She tells Tom that she's got to do the right thing and that she cannot let him make money on other people's talent. Leo is glad that Lauren made the right decision. Meanwhile, the mediation is still on and Leo walks in with the evidence they gathered from BCM. She also points out to Hayward that she saw a bunch of flyers in his car trunk and tells him that he is the one who printed. Charles is happy that things went well. Kate meets Nicastro and tells him what happened. She then asks Nicastro as to why he didn't work for his father. He tells her that he had not figured out things about his career and by the time he knew what his calling was, his father passed away.

In the courtroom, Nicastro declares that the fiscal health of BCM was falsified and hence he is reversing his orders and the actual union contract stands. Charles is happy and so are the union members. At the office, Franco pays Lauren a visit and apologizes for his actions. Kate meets Ben and apologizes for the previous night. Kate wants to reschedule the dinner, and Ben says it is fine with him and he leaves...

Summary:	Kate is mediating a negligence complaint when a surprise witness pits her and Ben against Justin and District Attorney Davidson.

The episode begins with Ben arriving in the office and telling Leo that he needs to forget that he showed up at Leo's house asking for Kate, the night she ditched the dinner date. Just then there is a woman that walks in and Ben seems a little comfortable on seeing her. He is trying to avoid her. Kate arrives and she finds that Ben is being a little grumpy. The woman, Beth, who Ben didn't want to confront or meet, was a lawyer and it seems that he knew her well. Next, Kate is attending her mediation for the day. Beth accuses a nurse for negligence due to which her client, Miss Galmon broke her hip and led to further complications. The nurse, Cassandra tells Kate that she was attending to Miss Galmon and someone called out her name. She turned for just one second and the unfortunate accident happened. The nurse tells Kate that she is on a work Visa and if she loses her job, she will be sent back to Haiti.

Kate asks the nurse and her lawyer about the witness who saw the whole thing. Her name is Natalie Roberts and she is from the church group. She spends a lot of time with Mr. Larson, a stroke patient, who also saw the whole thing. Meanwhile, Laura is having a negotiation with the business tycoon Robin Archer. Archer wants an airline with some landing spot at the SFO. Next, Kate goes to visit Mr. Larson. She meets Natalie. Natalie tells her that Cassandra really didn't do anything wrong but she also says that she can't get involved. Just then Leo calls. He tells Kate his findings about Natalie. But he also says that Larson has a daughter Christy, who is an Eco-terrorist. He sends Kate her picture. She is none other than the girl she just met, who said she is Natalie. Christy runs away while Kate is on the phone. Leo tells Kate that there are no listings for Christy.

Kate wonders how someone can disappear for twenty years. She was the founding member of WFE, Warriors Of Earth and she and her members blew up a part of the Golden Gate years ago. Next, Beth tells Kate that the nursing home has agreed to settle and so there is no need for anymore mediation. She then asks Kate if she is dating Ben. Kate gets irritated and she goes to see Ben. She tells him about the case and Christie. Ben tells her that it is not a wise idea and that she needs to turn Christie in. she tells Ben to talk to Beth and buy her some time off. She then calls Justin. Justin explains the legal implications to Kate. He then asks her for dinner. Ben talks to Beth. She wants to know why Ben broke up with her. She tells him that she wants to have dinner, but Ben decides on coffee. Next, Leo manages to get an address and a phone number which could lead them to Christie.

When they arrive at the address, they find Christie loading the trunk of her car with suitcases. She is trying to runaway once again. They stop her. But Kate sees that she has two kids. Christie tells Kate that her kids don't know anything about her but her husband does. They have been underground for ten years. She also tells her that she dint make those bombs or plant them. She only stood guard. But Kate tells her that she did the mistake of running. She tells Kate that Glenn, her husband wanted her to stay away from the hospital; but she couldn't. Just then Glenn arrives. Kate tells Christie that she can bring down her sentence to just few years if she turns herself in. she leaves Glenn and Christie to make a decision. She then meets Ben in his office. He tells her that the DA i.e. Justin won't allow for such a thing.

Christie is a terrorist and the moment Christie is in the light, they will convict her. But Kate explains the way out. She tells Ben to be Christie's lawyer. So, now it is going to be Ben and Kate against Justin. Next, she goes into the mediation room, where Cassandra and Beth are waiting for Kate. Kate gives Beth the affidavit. Beth tells Kate that she will accept the affidavit if Christie turns herself in and testifies. If she disappears, she would go to trial. Next, Leo tells Kate about her meeting with Justin. He also tells her about Ben coming over to his place when she stood him up for dinner. He tells her that Ben cares for her. Kate looks pleased. She then goes to meet Justin. Kate tells Justin that she found Christie and she wants him to pre-negotiate a plea. Justin reluctantly agrees.

Minutes later Justin informs Kate about Christie's sentence and Kate is happy. Next, Beth has a 'closure' with Ben, where Ben ends up having hot chocolate all over his shirt. They go to meet Christie and she is really nervous. Just then Justin calls and tells Katie that the deal is off. He tells her that someone tipped Davidson that Christie is about to publish a book about herself and Justin says that they can't negotiate for a criminal who is about to make money by publishing her memoirs. Kate says that she didn't know anything about this. Justin tells her that he cannot do anything as it is his neck in the line. Kate realizes that all this is Ben's doings. The cops arrive at the motel and they ask Glenn and Christie to escape. Ben tells Kate that Christie wanted to write a book for her children to show how people change. He says that it was supposed to be under wraps.

Ben figures out that it was Beth who tipped Davidson off about the book. He confronts her but she seems unapologetic about what she did. Next, Davidson meets Ben and Kate with Justin. Kate tells him that she doesn't know about Christie's whereabouts. He tells her that she will be charged for twenty years. Kate is ready to get arrested. Davidson tells her that they will offer a bogus plea to trap Christie. And if Kate doesn't comply then she will be arrested. Justin leaves; but he leaves a notepad behind with few legal notes which will help them get out of this situation. She then agrees to take Davidson to Christie's old house. When they arrive at the house, they find it empty.

They watch the news where Davidson sees that Christie has turned herself in and Justin is talking to the press where he declares the negotiated sentence. Next, at the office, Lauren tells Ben that Archer didn't show up. She feels that it is a part of his strategy. She tells him that she isn't going to let Archer see her break a sweat. Later, Ben meets Kate. Kate is happy that at least Christie doesn't have to run anymore. Just then Justin arrives to pick up Kate. Kate leaves with Justin. It is clear that Ben is upset to see Kate leave with Justin.

Ben then informs Kate that she has to go to Lake Tahoe where there is a client waiting for her. Meanwhile, after spending the night together

Kate discusses with Justin how it's not a big deal for two divorced people to be sleeping together.

On the way to Lake Tahoe tells Kate that, his client is trying to build a casino between the state border of Nevada and California and a jurisdictional dispute is holding up construction. Ben then tells her she would be acting as a magistrate, because a federal judge has appointed her one, based on her reputation. Hence she will decide which agency gets the crime scene, and manages to shock Kate by informing her that there is a possible crime scene. There have been bones that have been found in the area, and the agencies are basically police departments. She later meets the sheriff's from both the states. The Nevada police found an ID found on the victim, which indicates the victim was a 16 year old girl named Carmen who had gone missing a few years ago.

The Nevada police then tell Kate that the California police wouldn't let them question the suspect. The cop from California in turn tells Kate that the suspect is a California resident. It is also revealed that the victim was the sister of one of the detectives working on the case; hence the California cop's argument is that the Nevada detective couldn't have been objective. Hence the California cop says that he should get the case. Just then a guy comes into the crime scene and detective Sudaniel who is the victim's brother pushes the man to the ground yelling, 'This is the guy who killed my sister'. It is also revealed that the alleged murderer's father is an influential man in California. The DA meanwhile gives Justin a controversial case.

Kate later talks to Jacob the alleged murderer to get a clearer picture. Jacob tells Kate 'she was so beautiful, it made your heart hurt'. It is also revealed that Jacob and the victim's brother were best friends. Jacob and Carmen were in fact dating, that too against Jacob's father's wishes. Carmen's parents too were against her relationship. The detective tells Kate that Jacob and Carmen were sneaking around, although they weren't openly dating later on. He also tells Kate that he is sure Jacob was the last person who was with her, as she couldn't have been doing anything else in the mountains where her body was found. Jacob's father Neil Matthews meanwhile comes to his son's aid. Kate tells him that she isn't there to investigate the case but to award the case to the proper authorities.

Neil begs Kate to not let the police frame Matthew. She then tells the cops from both sides to work jointly till she comes to a decision, and also wants the case files from both sides. Kate from the files finds out that Jacob had given a statement to the California PD right after Carmen went missing, but it was sealed by his father. Ben feels if the statement was sealed, it must be incriminating. Meanwhile Kate is shown a jacket found under the victim's body, at the crime scene. Kate tells Ben that Jacob could have given the jacket earlier, and not necessarily on the day she was killed. Detective Sudaniel rejects that theory, because it was a championship jacket which Jacob had gotten on the morning of the day Carmen died, which he says proves Jacob was with her, and the only reason he would have lied about it is if he had killed her.

Justin's case in the meanwhile has gotten more complicated in the light of new revelations by his client. The cop from California meanwhile tells Kate that, Jacob's father has chartered a private plane to Mexico, in order to get his son out of the country. Justin meanwhile confronts the DA for dumping a controversial case in his lap for political reasons. The DA in turn tells him 'did it never occur to you that its sheer folly to run against your boss?' Kate meanwhile stops Jacob, and he agrees to tell her the truth. But wants to show her something up in the mountains, where her body was found, before he tells her the truth. Just then the Nevada police come and arrests Jacob, as Carmen's skull is found to have been fractured by blunt force trauma.

Hence the cop from California decided to report Jacob to the Nevada PD. Ben next morning hands Kate the sealed statement of Jacob's from 6 years ago. Justin meanwhile does well on his case despite the odds being stacked against him. Kate meanwhile convinces detective Emilio Sudaniel the victim's brother, to hear Jacob's side of the story. Jacob then takes Kate and the Nevada cops to the place in the mountains, where he wanted to take Kate earlier. Jacob gets them to a lake where the two used to come; they also planned to get married there once they turned 18. Jacob then shows them a nearby tree on the trunk of which, he and Carmen had carved that, they are married to each other. He also tells them about a ring on a chain which he had gifted Carmen.

She was wearing the ring when she went to her car. He gave her his jacket, and then he swears, he saw her drive away. Jacob then tells Emilio that he never stood up for him, despite Emilio being his friend. Justin meanwhile has to make a difficult decision regarding his case. Kate later finds out that no necklace was found around Carmen's neck. Later, Ben flirts around with Kate in the Jacuzzi, and also tells her how he really feels about her. Later, in the autopsy report it is found that, Carmen twisted her ankle and fell from a great height which caused her death. There is no indication of foul play. The manner of death hence is ruled accidental, by the medical examiner. Also a ring and a chain were found in her pocket with a broken clasp.

Turns out the ring had fallen somewhere in the mountains, and she had gone looking for it and had unfortunately met her end, on the way back. Emilio hands the chain and the ring to Jacob. Ben later comes to know that, Justin won his case. Later Kate checks out a heart shaped rock that Ben gave her earlier, from the mountains. Justin comes in just then, and tells Kate that he wants to get back together with her. Kate reluctantly says ok and hugs him, all the while looking at the heart shaped stone.

Summary: Justin's election may be in jeopardy when he introduces Kate to a Brazilian singer and activist. Lauren is attracted to a wealthy businessman who may not be all he seems.

The episode begins with Ben walking into Leo's office, inquiring about the man present in the conference room; Robin Archer; the billionaire businessman. Lauren tells Ben that Archer is buying their client's airlines. But it is unusual that the man himself shows up to some office. Lauren is nervous. Kate arrives and she finds the tickets to Claudia Alves, a Brazilian singer and songwriter, lying on her table; they were delivered by Justin. But these tickets are for her private show. Kate is ecstatic. Ben tries to be sarcastic and Kate ignores him. Meanwhile, Lauren meets Archer. Archer is ready to offer $35 a share for Metro; but Lauren demands $52 per share. Archer agrees and asks her to meet him for lunch with the papers. Next, Justin and Kate are at Claudia's show.

Justin's friend Hugo knows her personally and so he introduces the couple to Claudia. Claudia asks them to join them for a private party. In the limo, Kate wants to unwind and so she takes a strong drink; and so does Justin. But just then one of Claudia's crew guys smokes pot and Justin tries to stop him. Just then the limo is hit by a white SUV and a little later the cops arrive. They find the roll of pot and they want to inspect the car. They find cocaine in Claudia's purse and they arrest her for possession. Kate apologizes to Justin as it was she who had insisted for going to the private party. Next, Lauren advises Justin to lay low. The previous night's incident is on the front page. It is a total mess, especially when Justin has his elections coming up. Kate drops the bomb by telling Lauren that Claudia wants them to represent her.

Kate tells Lauren that Claudia does not have an American representation and that if they take up the case then they can control the situation. Lauren tells Ben and Kate to work on this case together and she also tells them to get Claudia out on bail. Claudia tells them that it is obvious that she is being framed and that the cocaine was put in her purse, in order to stop her from flying back to Brazil. She is fighting against some powerful people in Brazil. She tells them that there is a brute police officer in Brazil, who is driving people out of their land. Her father has been fighting all his life for this cause and now she is continuing the tradition. Ben doesn't believe her but Kate does and she assures Claudia that she will get her out of here. Meanwhile, Lauren meets Archer at a restaurant, owned by him. He has shut down the restaurant. He signs the deal.

But he also persuades Lauren to stay back for dessert. She agrees. At court, Claudia is asked to hand over her passport and is granted bail. Ben tells Kate that ADA Davidson is going to use this case to make Justin look bad during the elections and the man representing him is Justin's friend, Tracy Barbara. At the restaurant, Lauren shares a little of her past with Archer. He asks her for a dance. Lauren tells him that she doesn't want to fall for his charm. He tells her that he has no girlfriends, no children and no wives. He is surprised that he is being so honest with her. Lauren and Archer kiss each other and they have a slow, romantic dance. Ben and Kate meet Barbara and ask him to give Claudia probation. But he refuses and tells them that they are going to trial.

Kate doesn't want Claudia to go to trial as she could get screwed. Kate comes to Lauren for help and Lauren tells her to file for postponement. Lauren tells Kate that she might be seeing Archer. Kate is surprised. Kate tells her that one of her friend's dated Archer's son; but Lauren tells her that Archer does not have any children, as he had told her the same. Kate doesn't say anything further and leaves. Kate meets Justin and he tells her that Davidson is calling him in for an inquiry. Kate feels guilty that it is because of her that Justin landed up in this mess. Justin tells her that it is not her fault and that Davidson is playing dirty. At the office, Ben tells Leo that Claudia and her bassist, Antonio had a fling last year and now since he is upset with Claudia he is the one who planted the drugs in her purse, while she was performing on stage.

This is the theory they are going to present in the court as there is no other way. Ben tells them that all they need to do is confuse the jury. Kate tells Ben that they need to let Claudia decide. Kate meets Claudia and Claudia tells her that Antonio and she are past their problems and that she would never do such a thing to a friend. She tells Kate that she believes in destiny and so she would leave things up to it. She is ready to testify in the court. Next, Barbara interrogates Justin. Barbara tries to implicate Justin by stating that Justin had also used the drug in the limo. But Justin denies this accusation; he manages the whole thing pretty well. Kate informs Ben about Claudia's decision. She tells Ben that they could bring Cardoza, the brute Brazilian police officer into the picture. They believe that the accident was planned and Kate thinks that the SUV followed them from outside the club.

She wants to check the surveillance footage. They check and confirm that the white SUV was at the club and they followed them. They interrogate the driver of the SUV. The driver tells them that Antonio paid him to plant the drugs. The driver tells them that there was another from back home, who threatened to kill Antonio if he did not plant the drugs; Kate assumes that it is Cardoza. Ben and Kate give the copy to Davidson's representative. Archer arrives at the office to meet Lauren. Lauren confronts him about his son. He tells her that he hasn't seen his son for the past ten years and that it is complicated. She tells him that she is putting an end to this fairy tale. But Archer tells her that they don't know how things are going to turn out and he leaves.

Justin and Kate go to meet Claudia. Justin tells her that they are officially dropping all charges against her in an hour and that Ben is going to get back her passport for her. Claudia tells the couple that she is cancelling the tour and that she is going back home. The news about Antonio was a blow to the entire crew. She is happy that she met the two of them she sings a song for them. Lauren walks out of the office with tear filled eyes. Ben arrives with Claudia's passport. The next day, Justin tells Kate that it is finally over. He also says that them being together again is nice. Kate looks a little uncertain. We then see Ben jogging alone; he is listening to Claudia's song.

Summary:	While investigating the firing of a lesbian couple from a news station, Kate discovers a scandal that may involve D.A. Davidson. Kate has to choose between Justin and Ben.

The episode begins with Kate waking up in Justin's bed; looking confused and unsure about her feelings. Next, Kate reaches office and tells Leo that she and Justin are moving in together and that she needs him to find her an apartment. Ben hears this and suggests that they shouldn't be renting an apartment; instead they should buy it. Leo reminds her that her nine o'clock appointment is arrived. She asks them to leave. Kate is still confused about Ben. Next, her today's case is about two lesbian partners who were fired from work for fraternizing at work place. But the girls' lawyer claims that Real Time News Network fired them because they are gay. The lawyer admits that Nora, is an anchor and Rachael was a research and analyst intern.

Rachael tells Kate that she knows several people who are having an affair at work but the management looks the other way. But apparently, Rachael and Nora aren't a couple anymore. All this stress led them to part ways. Rachael exclaims that there was no way the management could know about this as they never showed even a hint of affection at work. Kate suggests that since they are no more a couple, they should be given back their jobs. Rachael says that she can't go back and Nora is more than willing to. The representative of the news company asks them to sign a document; Nora jumps at the opportunity without even listening to the whole thing. She says that she will see him at work on Monday and leaves. The representative agrees to give Rachael back all the files she has been working on. But then there is a case file missing. It seems that they have lost it.

Kate tells the guy that there is nothing that he can do. Moreover it was clear that the company will own the work product and they could check the contract. He says that the company is in the clear and leaves. Kate asks Rachel about the case; it is about a bogus land deal. Kate thinks that the company fired her to bury the story. They meet Ben. Rachael explains that she was looking into this deal between the city and development company called Cellex. She has evidence that they paid the market value; but then they received the bogus tax credit a couple of months after the sale. So, they ended up paying only 5 million for a 17 million worth of property. Justin and Kate are hunting for apartments and Justin suggests that Kate should first look at the tax return reports of Cellex and see where they got their money from.

Leo does some research and educates Kate that Cellex is a shady company and a very rich man, Paul Caplin is the CEO. Ben knows a way to get the corporate tax returns. Kate and Ben talk to Lauren. They tell her that Paul Caplin had some financial trouble and sold 3% to Robin Archer to raise capital. Lauren decides to talk to Robin. Lauren meets Archer and asks him for the tax returns. He agrees. He feels that Lauren dumped him on her instincts that he would hurt her. Lauren looks very unsure of her decision; but she finally gets up leaves. Kate and Justin are still looking for an apartment. Meanwhile, two FBI agents meet Lauren to know more about her dealings with Archer. They want her to answer all their questions. Next, Ben and Kate meet Rachael. She tells them that she did send emails to Nora and at times she accessed her personal mails through her office computer.

Ben says that it is no more personal once she has used the office computer to access her mails. That is how the company found out about their relationship. She trusts a guy named Tony from the IT department. They talk to Tony. Tony tells them that he was told by Jerry to look for any emails that have the word Cellex. Leo asks him to trace the email from Jerry back to its root. Tony finds out the rot and it came from Aaron Davidson, the DA. Kate is shocked. The predictable Kate confronts Davidson. But he walks away. Next, the three meet Archer. Archer tells them that he did set off some alarms while looking for the tax returns. He also tells them that Caplin is coming after them. He tells them that Caplin would be staying at his hotel, so he can arrange a face to face meeting, so that they can put all of this behind them. Kate tells Ben about the source that sent the mail, Glen Graham. She wanted to make sure that Archer hears what she is saying.

Later, Lauren meets the FBI agents and they give her a jewellery piece. It is a microphone which would turn on when she wears it. They assure her that she is doing the right thing. Meanwhile, Ben figures out that Kate is trying to test Archer. Kate meets Archer. Archer tells her that Caplin is ready to back off from the whole thing and that it did cost Archer a lot of money to make this go away. Kate figures out that Archer is Caplin and that Cellex is all his dirty work. He is doing all this to prove to Lauren that he is a good man. Archer dismisses this as an insane theory. Kate tells him that she never gives up and she will prove it. Next, Kate meets Davidson and gives him a flash drive which contains all the RTN files he erased and the big gift that Cellex got from the city. She also tells him that Paul Caplin gave this to her. She wishes him luck and leaves. Next, Justin suggests that they should move in together into his apartment.

He has a house warming gift for her. But Kate is not sure. Justin realizes what is coming next. She thinks that they are not meant to be together. She tells him that she is not running away but she is running towards someone. He tells her that if she walks out of the door, then it is over. She tells him that she really loves him and she leaves. Just then Justin receives a call and he turns on the television. He sees the news that Davidson has withdrawn from the race. Next day, Lauren asks Kate about her apartment hunting. She tells her that she has found her own apartment. Lauren is all dressed up and Kate figures out that she is going out on a date with Archer. Kate warns Lauren that Archer is not a good guy. Lauren feels that people change. Kate tells her that she hopes that it is not Lauren who is about to change. Lauren meets Archer. She throws away the jewellery that the FBI had given her.

She kisses Archer and gets into his car. Kate moves into her new house. She puts up the gift that Justin has sent her. She sets up her remaining things and goes to the balcony. She is happy. Just then she hears a voice: 'Hi Neighbor'. It is Ben.
