Production Code: NR101
Summary: While a Long Island psychotherapist undergoes a bitter divorce from her cheating husband, a professional football team asks her to help their star wide receiver who is battling demons both on and off the field.

After seventeen years of marriage and comfortable suburban life, devoted wife, mother, and psychotherapist Dani Santino is in for an unpleasant wake-up call: her husband has been cheating. Dani promptly kicks him to the curb, but she soon discovers divorce is a costly – and messy – business. (And she's already got the pinched nerve and drained bank account to prove it.)

Luckily, an encounter with the trainer for the local pro football team offers solutions to both of those problems, and soon Dani has landed herself a new client: the team's troubled wide receiver, Terrence

"TK" King, who has developed a bad habit of dropping the ball. With her soon-to-be-ex fighting dirty and her credit cards frozen, Dani could certainly use the generous paycheck from the Hawks to help TK. But as she quickly learns, earning that paycheck – and TK's trust – won't be easy.

And as if a violent client with boundary issues isn't enough, Dani's also got a delinquent daughter, meddling mother, sleazy PI tail, and mounting custody battle on her hands. Good thing that when it comes to standing up for herself, reigning in rebellious teenagers, and helping her clients tackle their toughest issues, Dr. Dani's not afraid to get rough.

Anchor Management

Season 1
Episode Number: 2
Season Episode: 2

Originally aired: Wednesday July 6, 2011
Writer: Jeffrey Lieber, Tracy McMillan
Director: Ron Underwood
Show Stars: Scott Cohen (Nico Careles), Mehcad Brooks (Terrence King), Marc Blucas (Matthew Donnally), Callie Thorne (Dr. Danielle 'Dani' Santino), Hannah Marks (Lindsay Santino), Patrick Johnson (II) (Ray 'Ray J' Santino, Jr.)
Production Code: NR102
Summary: Dani works with a news anchor whose career is in jeopardy following an on-air gaffe. Elsewhere, Matt refuses to clear T.K. to play a game; and Lindsay dates a guy who seems too perfect.

Respected war correspondent-turned-anchor Griffin Page is cracking up – literally. After Griffin begins laughing uncontrollably during a serious live interview, he comes to Dani looking for help. Though he believes his new job is the root of his problems and plans to go back into the field, Dani isn't so quick to accept that diagnosis.

And as if Griffin's problems aren't enough, Dani's got her hands full elsewhere, with an injured TK who is once again causing a stir. This time, however, his behavior might end his relationship with the Hawks for good – unless Dani can find a way to keep everyone satisfied.

Meanwhile, the battle for supremacy continues between Dani and Lindsay, who is dying to go out on a date with the second-cutest boy in school. When Dani finds out Lindsay has tricked her, Dani is furious. Though she's not one to give up, Dani also realizes that sometimes the key to peace is knowing when to fight and when to give in – just a little.

Spinning Out

Season 1
Episode Number: 3
Season Episode: 3

Originally aired: Wednesday July 13, 2011
Writer: Liz Kruger, Craig Shapiro
Director: Kevin Dowling
Show Stars: Mehcad Brooks (Terrence King), Marc Blucas (Matthew Donnally), Callie Thorne (Dr. Danielle 'Dani' Santino), Scott Cohen (Nico Careles), Hannah Marks (Lindsay Santino), Patrick Johnson (II) (Ray 'Ray J' Santino, Jr.)
Guest Stars: Matt Barr (Billy "The Kid" Rhodes), Amanda Detmer (Jeanette), Gregory Alan Williams (Coach Purnell), Harold House Moore (Shane Givens), Aubrey Peebles (Winter), Jenny Dial (Dinner Scene), Sharon Morris (Betty Gleason), Andrea Moore (Natalie), Russell Durham Comegys (Jimmy), Bridget Nichols (Stacy Coolidge), Griffin Saunders (Makenna), Mike Sanders (Dom Leveque), Wendy Bell (Party Girl), Chris Otto (Cop), Deborah Ayorinde (Rochelle), Tabatha Minchew (Bar-tendar)
Production Code: NR103
Summary: When a crash threatens to end a NASCAR driver's career, he asks for Dr. Santino's help. Meanwhile, Lindsay and R.J. throw a party that gets out of control.

When life moves fast, it's easy to spin out of control — or so Dani realizes when she takes on a new client, a rising star on the racing circuit. After spinning out during a race, Billy "the Kid" is afraid to get back on the track, and it's up to Dani to convince him to face his fears.

Meanwhile, Dani is also faced with another difficult client: TK, who is once again causing trouble for the Hawks. Though the team is finally on an upswing, TK's rivalry with the Hawks' number two receiver is threatening their winning streak. As Dani gets to the root of TK's destructive behavior, she makes a discovery that could help TK and Billy.

Unfortunately, Dani's own problems — namely, her teenagers — haven't disappeared. With a custody battle underway and a court appointed observer snooping on Dani, this is no time for late night police visits. Hopefully Dani will be able to keep her kids, and her clients, in check — otherwise, they all risk spinning out.

Habit Forming

Season 1

Episode Number: 4

Season Episode: 4

Originally aired: Wednesday July 20, 2011
Writer: Ildy Modrovich
Director: John Fortenberry
Show Stars: Callie Thorne (Danielle Santino), Marc Blucas (Matthew Donnally), Mehcad Brooks (Terrence), Scott Cohen (Nico Careles), Patrick Johnson (II) (Ray 'Ray J' Santino, Jr.), Hannah Marks (Lindsay Santino)
Recurring Role: Gregory Alan Williams (Coach Purnell)
Guest Stars: Kim Wall (I) (Marcy), Ben Winchell (Eric), Bigge Vosges (Xeno), Frank Mondaruli (Driver Amando), Carissa Capobianco (Tara Mancini), James Earl (Randall Boozler), Victor Webster (Ted), Concetta Tomei (Angela)
Production Code: NR104
Summary: Fullback Randy Boozler's rookie year will be his last if Dr. Dani can't figure out why he keeps failing to show up for practice. Meanwhile, sensitive information concerning Dani's patients is leaked and Matt is visited by an old friend with bad habits.

Dani's latest client, Randall Boozler, is the Hawks' rookie defensive end, a fan favorite who's been playing great. That is, on the days he manages to show up on time. When Dani is called in to get to the bottom of Randall's punctuality problem, she learns that there's more to his issues than a faulty alarm clock. But if Booz, as he's known, won't let Dani in, how will she be able to figure out what makes him tick?

Meanwhile, Nico discovers that personal info about the mental states of the Hawks players is going public, and Dani can't help but wonder if her mom, an inveterate gambler, might be the source of the leak.

At least TK seems to be staying out of trouble ? relatively speaking. Even though he's trying to maintain professional boundaries with Dr. Dani, TK can't help but bend the rules to help out his buddy Ray Jay. And as it turns out, TK's not the only one breaking Dani's rules: when a night out with Matt ends in a little romantic backsliding for the therapist and the handsome trainer, Dani gets a firsthand reminder that some habits are very hard to break.

Poker Face

Season 1

Episode Number: 5

Season Episode: 5

Originally aired: Wednesday July 27, 2011
Writer: Steve Kriozere, Mark A. Altman
Director: David Grossman
Show Stars: Callie Thorne (Danielle Santino), Patrick Johnson (II) (Ray 'Ray J' Santino, Jr.), Hannah Marks (Lindsay Santino), Mehcad Brooks (Terrence King), Marc Blucas (Matthew Donnally), Scott Cohen (Nico Careles)
Guest Stars: Andrea Anders (Laura Radcliffe), Amanda Detmer (Jeanette), Joshua Biton (Jason Coogan), Claire Bronson (Meg Coogan), Catherine Dyer (Ray's Lawyer), Aubrey Peebles (Winter), Timothy Douglas Perez (The Suited Man), Teddy Sears (Bobby Caldwell), Raheem Babalola (Police Officer), Sidney Baxley (Poker Player), Chris Coffey (Country Club / Poker Game Patron), Derek Ryan Duke (Extra), Jonathan Hart (NY Hawks Fan), Constantine Varazo (Male Guest), Hunter Womack (Male Fan / Security Guard)
Production Code: NR105
Summary: Professional poker player Jason Coogan wants Dani to uncover the 'tell' that's destroying his career, but there's more to Coogan's problem than meets the eye. Meanwhile, The Hawks hire high-powered publicist Laura Radcliffe to improve TK's public image. It seems Laura and Matt have a history.

Dani's poker skills are put to the test when she takes on a new client: Jason Coogan, a pro poker player in the midst of a serious losing streak, who has come to Dani hoping to figure out the tell that keeps losing him tournaments. Dani can see that there's more to Jason's story than what he's told her, but with all his bluffs, getting to the truth about this card shark's issues won't be easy.

Meanwhile, TK, the Hawks' own wild card, is once again making headlines. In an effort to shift media attention to more a more positive subject, team publicist Laura Radcliffe quickly sets up Bobby Caldwell, the Hawks' squeaky-clean journeyman quarterback, as the new face of the team. And just as quickly, she manages to rub Dani the wrong way. Which begs the question: is it publicists Dani hates, or beautiful publicists who happens to have a past with Matt?

As the truth about both Jason and Bobby begins to emerge, Dani must figure out a way to help everyone play the hand they've been dealt. And, unfortunately, Dani is forced to recognize that when it comes to a future with Matt, it's Laura who might hold the winning cards.

Dream On

Production Code: NR106
Summary: Tyler Paxton, an extreme sports star and entrepreneur, appears fearless, but recurring nightmares are starting to threaten his success. Meanwhile, Dr. Dani attends her high school reunion, knowing Ray Sr. will be there. TK finds that there is such a thing as too much attention when he learns that he has a stalker.

Tyler Paxton, a young pro skateboarder at the helm of a multi-million dollar empire, hasn't been himself lately. Though usually energetic and upbeat, Tyler's moods have changed, and he's been experiencing anxiety, paranoia, and recurring nightmares that have left him afraid to fall asleep — and desperate for Dani's help.

As it turns out, TK is facing a frightening situation of his own: he has a stalker. And when he shows up at his house late one night, TK gets the most terrifying news of all: he may be the father of her 5-year-old son. A DNA test will soon prove whether Charisse's paternity claim is valid, but with TK growing fond of the kid, it's unclear how he will handle the news.

Meanwhile, as Matt and Laura revive their former relationship, Dani and Ray do some rekindling of their own. When their paths cross at their high school reunion, one thing leads to another and Dani and Ray soon find themselves reliving their high school romance. While Ray, eager to win Dani back, swears he's the same man she fell in love with all those years ago, there's just one problem: Dani might not be the same woman.

Whose Team Are You On

Season 1

Episode Number: 7

Season Episode: 7

Originally aired: Wednesday August 10, 2011
Writer: Antoinette Stella
Director: Elodie Keene

Recurring Role: Andrea Anders (Laura), Gregory Alan Williams (Coach Purnell)
Guest Stars: Danielle Panabaker (Juliette), Nadia Dajani (Margo Ciccerio), Demetria McKinney (Leanne), Siena Goines (Shannon)
Production Code: NR107
Summary: Dani is forced to step in when conflicts between the players' wives and girlfriends hit the Web. Elsewhere, T.K.'s relationship with Dani is tested; Nico tries to stop damaging footage from reaching the press.

While the Hawks players seem to be getting along better than usual, the Hawks WAGS (Wives and Girlfriends) are waging war. Trouble with the WAGS means trouble for the team, so after two of the wives face off in a public confrontation, Dani is quickly called in to help Shannon and Leanne work through their differences. While at first the former friends won't open up to Dani, when Shannon gets busted for shoplifting she turns to Dani for help. Now, Dani must help Shannon get to the bottom of her issues, ease the tension among the WAGS, and find a way to get the Hawks back on track.

While Dani takes the diplomatic route with the women, she doles out the tough love elsewhere. When Nico comes to Dani for advice, she sees a new side to her enigmatic employer, and counsels him to stop enabling his troubled young friend, who happens to be the daughter of Hawks owner Marshall Pittman. And when under the influence of painkillers after a football injury, Ray Jay reveals the truth about his friendship with TK, Dani realizes that it's time to lay down the law about professional boundaries. As difficult as it is, Dani knows she has to stand her ground with TK — even if it means risking losing her star patient.

Losing Your Swing

Aldridge), Ryan Doom (Wally Jordan), Gregory Alan Williams (Coach Purnell), Robert S. Anthony (Sports Camera Man), Viviana Chavez (Barista), Mario Cimarro (Augusto), Anna Enger (Sarah)
Production Code: NR108
Summary: Danni helps a professional golfer with the "yips," T.K. replaces Danni with a life coach, and Danni begins dating a familiar face from her past.

Dani's client Cash Carson, a rising star on the pro golf circuit, has lost his swing. Inexplicable muscle tremors are throwing off his game, and when doctors diagnose the problem as psychological, he turns to Dani for help curing "the yips" and getting out of the rough.

While Dani works on getting to the bottom of her new client's problems, an old client moves on: now that he and Dr. Dani have parted ways, TK has taken up with a very confident — and very expensive — new life coach, Lazarus "Laz" Rollins. Though Dani has her reservations about TK's new therapist, and Nico and Matt worry that Lazarus's unconventional methods could prove to be a cancer to the team, the relationship between TK and Laz seems to be growing ever stronger.

And after running into J.D., a former grad school professor, Dani makes some relationship progress of her own. Thanks to urging from Jeannette, who's got big news to spring on her best friend, Dani finally ditches her wedding bands and dips a toe back into the dating scene. Looks like Cash isn't the only one who's getting his game back...

Forget Me Not

Season 1

Production Code: NR109
Summary: A female boxer named Tallis seeks Dani's help after experiencing blackouts during her boxing matches. Meanwhile, Lazarus Rollins and TK work on getting TK to the next level and considers leaving the Hawks after receiving an attractive job offer.

After she begins blanking out in the middle of bouts, Tallis "The Malice" Lang, a champion lightweight boxer, reluctantly pays a visit to Dr. Dani. Though doctors say there are no signs of brain injury causing the memory problems, if Dani can't find a way to help the young fighter keep her focus in the ring, there could be soon.

As things heat up with J.D., Dani faces her own fight: struggling to keep the burgeoning romance from Lindsay and Ray Jay. But as Dani quickly discovers, secrets can't stay secrets forever — especially with curious kids in the house. It's a lesson that Dani soon realizes also applies to her young patient, whose troubling dreams and mid-bout blackouts appear to have something to do with a painful secret Tallis's mother has been keeping from her daughter.

As Matt mulls a promising job offer in San Francisco, he's troubled to learn that Laura has an unspoken agenda of her own. And TK's professional relationship with life coach Laz also hits the skids when a trip to Miami offers a glimpse of the dark truth behind Laz's life coaching services. Turns out, some secrets are better off out in the open...

A Wing and a Player

Season 1
Episode Number: 10
Season Episode: 10

Originally aired: Wednesday August 31, 2011
Writer: Steve Kirozere & Mark A. Altman
Director: Tim Hunter
Show Stars: Mehcad Brooks (Terrence 'TK' King), Scott Cohen (Nico Careles), Patrick Johnson (II) (Ray 'Ray Jay' Santino, Jr.), Hannah Marks (Lindsay Santino), Marc Blucas (Matthew 'Matt' Donnally), Callie Thorne (Dr. Danielle 'Dani' Santino)

Production Code: NR110
Summary: Dani helps the Hawks' and their suicidal mascot get over the play-off curse that's haunted them for six years. Meanwhile, TK meets his match off the field, and Dani's relationship with J.D. heats up.

Phil Kirkman, the much-reviled former Hawks mascot, has reappeared and it couldn't have come at a worse time for the Hawks. Facing a shot at the playoffs, the last thing the Hawks need right now is a reminder of the "Kirkman Curse," a superstition players and fans have harbored ever since Phil tripped a player and allegedly cost the team a trip to the playoffs six years earlier.

Dr. Dani is sent in to talk to the troubled former mascot, and soon learns that the "Kirkman Curse" is real enough — to Phil, at least. Shunned and isolated, Phil is lonely and desperate for forgiveness from the team and their fans. But will Dani be able to get the team to move past the "Kurse," and help this lost bird find a flock?

Meanwhile, Dani's fledglings are trying to spread their own wings: Ray Jay and Lindsay attempt to prove to their mother that they can be responsible, while TK endeavors to win over a clever, and comely, reporter. But as they all soon discover, life beyond the nest is never quite as simple as it seems.

Guest Stars: Jaime Lee Kirchner (Vivica Stevens), Gail O'Grady (Anne Marie Harmon), Evander Holyfield (Himself)
Production Code: NR111
Summary: A lifestyle media mogul's own lifestyle threatens her empire. Dani faces her first anniversary since the divorce. TK tries to figure out what he really wants in his love life.

Domestic diva Anne Marie Harmon looks like the picture of perfection, capable of everything from decoupage to running a multi-million dollar media empire. But after an uncharacteristic outburst of rage, Anne Marie is forced into therapy, and it doesn't take Dani long to realize that behind the façade of Anne Marie's happy homemaker image and lucrative empire is a woman with a shocking secret.

While Dani attempts to help Anne Marie confront her emotional baggage, she also works on shedding her own by organizing a garage sale. TK is trying to move forward too, but is bewildered to find that his efforts to seduce reporter Vivica are falling flat. As he is beginning to learn, nothing complicates a relationship quite like feelings.

Even more surprising than TK's romantic revelation is one from the Hawks' most enigmatic team member, Nico, whose past has come back to haunt him — in the form of a sultry blonde who happens to be the wife of his boss, Marshall Pittman. And her surprising news could mean an uncertain future not just for Nico, but for everybody at the Hawks.

Production Code: NR112
Summary: As the Hawks head into the playoffs, Dani takes on an unexpected new client and TK must face his biggest rival. Nico has to decide where his loyalties lie.

It's the game the Hawks have been working towards all season, and everyone's got playoff fever-especially TK, whose symptoms include epic freakouts. For some reason, usually-tough TK is spooked big time by Maurice "The Minefield" Manningfield, a take-no-prisoners cornerback from Chicago with a flair for trash talk. And with TK's panic attacks threatening to ruin the Hawks' chances (not to mention his relationship with Vivica) Dani's got to figure out a way to get inside his head-and get the Minefield out of it-before the big game.

As it turns out, TK's not the only one struggling with doubt. With Dani's divorce final and J.D. gone, the obstacles between Dani and Matt seem to be rapidly disappearing. But will Dani be able to overcome her own reservations and finally give a relationship with the handsome trainer a shot?

Meanwhile, Dani is approached by a most unlikely new patient-Nico. Though he's tight-lipped as usual, Dani can tell Nico is really struggling with his Pittman predicament: with the divorce moving forward, Marshall Pittman is looking to Nico for the dirt on his soon-to-be-ex Gabrielle. Only problem is, Nico is the dirt. Now the question is, will he come clean to his longtime boss, or side with his secret paramour? And, most importantly, where will all the Pittman divorce drama leave the Hawks?

Seidler (Doctor), Pete Pelfrey (Cop #1), Mike Stanley (Security Guard)
Production Code: NR201
Summary: The Hawks begin facing problems even before the football season begins, the team's owner Marshall Pittman is getting divorced with his wife, who is trying to take control of everything, and Nico is trying to get ahold of Pittman's daughter, wondering if she has gotten into more trouble, or is hurt. Meanwhile, Dr. Dani tries to hide her relationship with Matt while dealing with the IRS and unpaid taxes along with her son who begins to sleep with his tutor. And Terrence King is trying to deal with getting shot in his own way, without any help from Dr. Dani.

The episode begins with Terrance being rushed to the hospital after being shot. On the way to the ER Terrance recollects how he was shot by a bearded man in a club. Dani is visibly worried and meets up with the Coach. Terrance is then operated on, while everybody waits intently. The doctor then comes out and tells everyone waiting out that it was touch and go for a while, but Terrance is now fine. He also adds that Terrance has had a severe physical trauma; hence his recovery would be slow. Later, Dani is surprised to know her kids are back, home early, as she doesn't want them to know she is sleeping with Matthew. She then somehow manages to get the kids out of the house, before they find out anything.

Dani basically doesn't want to get Matthew into her kid's lives, unless he is a permanent fixture. Meanwhile the media questions the Coach about his team, and the various rumors surrounding his players. Later Dani is given the bad news by her accountant that, she is being audited for $87000 in back taxes. Dani and Matthew meanwhile tell the Coach that there is no news from Terrance, although he is recovering. Nico meanwhile gets a 911 from Juliette and leaves. Outside Nico meets Devon, and tells him that Juliette Pittman is sending her SOS messages. Devon tells Nico that he is not to help Juliette, as she is Marshall's daughter not Nico's.

Devon before leaving tells Nico, a big change is on the anvil, he then says 'hope for the best; prepare for the worst'. Meanwhile Matthew and Dani pay Terrance a visit.

At Terrance's house they find Terrance sitting in a bathtub with three hot girls. He tells them that he wants to be called KT instead of TK, from here on end. Later he tells Dani that he is fine, although at the moment he is still walking with the help of a cane. He then Dani about the life changing experience he had when he died for 8 seconds on the operating table, and how he saw an angle on the other side. He also tells her that he has let go of all the baggage of his past, and is a new person now. She then asks him if he is suffering from symptoms related to a person who has suffered such a trauma as him. He denies having any of the symptoms she names. Terrance is apparently taking being shot rather well. He also tells her that he is ready to receive his public in style. Later Matthew is informed by Terrance's agent Rob that, KT will zip line over a crowd of fans, to announce his return.

Dani and Matthew feel the whole thing is a bad idea. Rob then tries convincing the Coach, of the idea. Dani feels nothing of the sort should be done till Terrance's state of mind is properly assessed. Dani also tells them that, Terrance avoiding talking about the shooting incident is a tell tale sign of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. Rob counters this by saying the whole thing is crucial to Terrance's future. Matthew in the end says Dani is the mental health expert, and if she feels a certain way, he is with her. The Coach too sides with Dani. Later at the IRS office, Dani tries telling an official that the business was mostly run by her ex-husband; hence it is wrong for her to suffer for his mistakes. The official somehow doesn't agree. Rob meanwhile tells Terrance about Dani being a roadblock to his comeback plans. Nico in the meanwhile is told that Juliette has completely disappeared.

Nico also finds out that Pittman's debt is twice his asset base, which means the Hawks are on life support. Terrance meanwhile confronts Dani about her trying to sabotage his comeback. She in reply tells him that, the team pays her to look out for the best interests of its players. She also tells him that, she feels he needs more time to process what happened. He tells her he is fine, and also tells her she can't tell him what to do. He also tells her that, he will be going to the Hawks convention. Later Dani worries about everything that's happening in her life, from her tax issues to Terrance's issues. Terrance meanwhile is being interviewed on radio; he tells the RJ that he will surely be at the convention. Just then he hears a dumbbell fall to the ground and is reminded of the shooting incident, and looks visibly startled.

Later Matthew and the Coach tell Dani that, the GM has given Terrance the go ahead to be at the convention. They then tell Dani about the layoffs that are happening, and how nearly 1/3rd of the staff is being let go. Turns out, Pittman's money is all tied up in his divorce, and hence he has no money to run the Hawks. Nico meanwhile calls up Marshall Pittman and leaves a voicemail telling him that, his daughter Juliette is in real trouble, and that he should call Nico up as soon as possible. Dani meanwhile entices her IRS officer with some biscotti. But much to her shock Dani finds out the officer is allergic to hazelnuts, which Dani has incidentally put in the biscotti. She then somehow manages to dig out his medication in time, for him to administer it. Back at home, Dani finds her son having sex with his tutor. She then fires his tutor, and he leaves home in anger.

Later at the Hawks convention, Dani tells Matthew about all that just transpired. She also tells him that, she may owe over $80000 in back taxes. Matthew in turn tells her that, he is there for her. Rob meanwhile pumps Terrance up, readying him for the thousands of fans waiting for him outside. But from the look of things, Terrance doesn't seem as comfortable as he is pretending to be. Dani tells Nico to keep an extra eye on Terrance. Later, all the players from the Hawks come onstage one by one. It is then Terrance's turn to come onstage, which he does and begins dancing onstage much to everyone's delight. The party decorations then blow out, and hearing the noise Terrance is visibly startled. He then sees the man who shot him earlier, raising his gun to shoot him again. He then readies to take out a gun of his own, but is stopped just in time by Nico, with the audience being none the wiser.

Rob is later told about it by Nico. Rob apologizes, saying 'I never saw that coming'. Dani meanwhile counsels a repentant Terrance. She tells him that, she understands what he is going through. She also tells him to stop pretending everything is fine, as that that won't help. Nico is meanwhile informed based on Juliette's credit card activity that, Juliette is in the hotel where the convention is happening. He is also informed about the room she is in. In the room, he is surprised to see Marshall welcoming him. He tells Nico that, Juliette is in his villa in Bora Bora.

Marshall set Nico up, because he had found out Nico was screwing his wife. He tells Nico 'now we are even almost'.

Production Code:	NR202
Summary:	A Roller Derby star needs Dani to sniff out the cause of her mysterious collapse. Meanwhile, Ray Jay tries to figure out how to skate through issues with his new girlfriend. Plus, Marshall Pittman gives TK an ultimatum: prove you can run. . . or lose your bonus.

The episode begins with a group of girls on skates in an arena, all participating in a roller derby. The girls then begin skating and jostling each other. Suddenly one of the girls begins to hyperventilate. Meanwhile Marshall Pittman meanwhile shares a drink with Nico and reminisces about old times. Marshall tells Nico how they are afflicted with the taste for the best. Marshall then tells Nico that Gabrielle his ex-wife would do anything to wrest his team the New York Hawks, away from him. He wants to protect his team by any means necessary and wants Nico to help him. Dani meanwhile tells Ray that he is going to study alone, and Olivia won't come in to teach him anymore. Matthew meanwhile meets, TK who is not ready to get out of his house.

Meanwhile Dani meets Grace the girl who was shown hyperventilating at the roller derby, in the beginning. Grace tells Dani how roller derby is her life. She is there to meet Dani, as something weird happened to her at the derby; she collapsed due to some odor. She tells Dani that tests were run, but no chemicals or toxic substances were found in her body. She also tells Dani that the nationals are next and she is the team captain, but her team owner won't let her back in, till her head is straight. Grace asks Dani how she can smell something that isn't there. Matthew and Dani later tell the Coach that TK is not ready to come out of his apartment. Marshall Pittman comes in, just as they are discussing the TK issue. Marshall tells them, he is the owner and now, also the new general manager of the Hawks.

Marshall then tells them that he has to either pay TK $7 million by next week, or cut him from the team roster. Later Matthew and Dani tell Nico that they can't get TK out of his apartment, let alone getting him on the field. Nico tells them he will handle it. Later Nico pays TK a visit. Nico assures TK that he will get TK professional protection. Nico then introduces TK to his new bodyguards, Kirk and Conrad. Grace meanwhile introduces Dani to Nitro, her team owner. Nitro tells Dani that she doesn't want what happened to Grace being repeated again. Dani then tells Grace to go over what happened that night, step by step. She then tells Dani how during the derby, she collapsed from the overwhelming odor of toxic fumes. Dani assures Grace she will figure out what happened to her.

Olivia meanwhile tells Ray to talk to his mother, as she doesn't want to be banned from her boyfriend's house. She then tells Ray that she isn't interested in dating boy, she is interested in dating a man. Marshall meanwhile pays Dani a visit, with bottle of wine in his hands. He then asks her about TK. She tells him that she can't discuss her patient with him. He then threatens to fire her, and she in turn tells him to fire her immediately, if he wants to do so. Later, Ray tries convincing Dani about Olivia, but to no avail. She then reminds him that he isn't an adult yet. TK is meanwhile shown training on the field, and is slowly getting there. Dani meanwhile tells Grace that, Lucy her friend getting hurt during the derby must have triggered her reaction, as has been observed in other cases.

Grace then tells Dani that Lucy is like her sister. She then asks Grace if there is anyone else in her life who reminds her of Lucy. Dani then proposes hypnosis to Grace. Marshall meanwhile asks Matthew about how TK's practice went. Matthew tells him that, TK is slowly getting there. Matthew then tells Marshall that TK is a rare talent and players like him don't come around very often. Marshall then tells Matthew 'either TK is good to go on Friday, or he is done'. Dani meanwhile finds out that Ray is at Olivia's and drags him home from there. She then grounds him for a month. She tells Ray that she is just trying to protect him. Dani meanwhile comes in to have a talk with TK, in order to motivate him. TK tells Dani that football is everything for him, and if he is cut from football, his life has no meaning.

Dani tells TK that he will heal faster if he starts to talk about his feelings. TK tells her his career is ending tomorrow and hence he has no time to talk. Matthew meanwhile tells Nico to talk to Pittman, as TK isn't ready yet. Later at her session, Dani has Grace under hypnosis. Dani tells Grace to recollect the events of that day. She then asks Grace how she felt when she couldn't see Lucy behind her on the track. She then tells Dani 'the smell it's here'. Grace then describes the smell to Dani. Grace tells Dani 'it smells like childhood'. TK meanwhile wakes up from his bed all hassled, calls someone up and says that he wants to out of there. Nico meanwhile tells Marshall that he is running his best player to the ground. Marshall tells Nico that he wants TK to show him that he is fit enough to survive.

Nico then tells Marshall how many times he slept with Gabrielle and where. Nico then tells Marshall to go easy on TK. Marshall tells Nico he will save his team, but he will do it his way. Grace meanwhile in tears tells Dani to help her get back on the tracks, as derby is her only outlet. She then tells Grace what she said about the smell under hypnosis. Dani tells Grace that her childhood is an answer to all of it. She tells Grace that she is probably blocking something out about her childhood. Grace tells Dani to figure it out. Nico meanwhile finds out that TK is missing, and informs Matthew about it. Marshall then decides to call a press conference, and tells Matthew that, he has made his decision.

Dani then makes Grace reveal that she was reminded of the smell of a marker that her sister Emily was using, the time she met with an accident, when they were kids. Grace was looking after her sister when this incident happened. She is then reminded of how her sister's legs stopped moving after the accident. Grace also tells Dani how she was the one who was blamed for her sister's accident. Dani consoles Grace by telling her that she was just a child, and her mother was drinking, when she should have been the one looking after Grace and her sister. Hence Grace has nothing to feel guilty about.

Later at the press conference, Marshall tells everyone that TK is being retained by the Hawks, much to everyone's delight, but he also lets go of four players from the team. TK shall also be paid the $7 million in bonus, he declares to the press. TK meanwhile is picked up by a woman who is the sister of one of his friends. Ray meanwhile packs his things to leave home to go to his dad. Dani hands Ray condoms, and tells him to have safe sex. She then tells him that he was right about certain things.

Production Code: NR203
Summary: Dani's routine "psych eval" of a potential draft pick turns out to be anything but. Meanwhile, Pittman turns up the heat at the Combine, TK plays hooky in his old neighborhood, and Ray Jay's girlfriend annoys Dani to no end.

The episode begins at the try outs for the selection of pro players, where prospective candidates are put through the grind, and where their physical abilities are tested to the maximum. TK in the meanwhile is hiding out at his friend's sister's house. He hits on her; although she makes it clear to him that it's all business. He then tells her that he will pay her for protecting him, as there is something about her that makes him feel safe. She agrees but also tells him to stay out of her way. Lindsay meanwhile ribs Ray for becoming a vegan because of Olivia. Matthew in the meanwhile tells Dani that he is looking for a new diamond in the rough. Hence he stayed awake all night looking through player videos. Matthew then tells Dani that TK did not show up for rehab again, he did not call either.

Matthew then tells Dani that, if TK doesn't come in soon, a replacement for him will have to be brought in. Later Matthew suggests to the Coach a guy called Damon Razor who might just be a good replacement for TK. The Coach doesn't seem to agree, but Pittman is excited as Razor might come cheap. Later Pittman tells Nico that he did not like the Coach showing dissension, as he feels his ex-wife might be able to use people like him in their divorce battle. He then tells Nico to wire tap anybody who he feels might be a threat to his divorce battle. Later, Damon is interviewed by Dani. It turns out; Damon was not only a great football player in school, but also a brilliant student. She then asks him what made him go to a state college despite his grades, and sporting background. He tells her in a nutshell that he isn't very competitive, and doesn't feel he is as capable as people think he is.

Dani later tells Matthew about Damon, but tells him that she will work with Damon till the selections and see if she can get Damon to see in him, what Matthew sees. She basically wants to convince Damon that his talent is real. TK in the meanwhile is busy spending some time with his friend's sister. Nico meanwhile is handed a device that he requires for the wire tap. Meanwhile Dani suggests a few techniques to Damon, in order to spruce up his performance. He puts her suggestions into practice, and much to his delight her suggestions work. Dani later tells Matthew that Damon feels he doesn't deserve to be too successful, and hence he feels like an imposter. Thus he loses his confidence which affects his on field performance. Dani and Matthew then steal a few private moments together. Just then Dani receives a text from TK telling her that, he wants to meet her.

Later Dani is shocked to see TK working at a hot dog joint, where he has called her to meet him. TK then shocks Dani by telling her that he isn't coming back to football, as he plans to work at the hot dog joint. He then tells her that he just bought the hot dog joint. He then tells her his business plan, which involves expanding his hot dog business, by branching out. Dani meanwhile tells TK that in his absence the Hawks are scouting receivers. He in turn tells her that he doesn't need the nonsense of football, as it's full of pain, agony and pressure. He also assures her that he isn't leaving for the wrong reasons, and can always make a comeback when he wants to. He basically just wants to be a guy from down the block, instead of being TK. Olivia in the meanwhile befriends Lindsay.

Damon in the meanwhile is getting better with his performance. Dani later tells Matthew that TK is planning to retire. He tells her to talk to him, but she wants to give TK his space. Dani is then shocked to find out that like Ray, Lindsay too is slowly becoming like Olivia and has hence turned vegan. TK's friend's sister meanwhile tells him that it's time for him to go home, but TK tells her 'I am home'. Dani meanwhile questions Damon as to why he is purposely screwing up the combine, right after she is informed by Matthew about him having fared badly on the written test. Dani tells her that he is a seventh draft and people just have to accept that. Matthew meanwhile tells Pittman that, he would stand by Damon even if a gun were put to his head. Dani in the meanwhile asks Nico the difference between a first round and a seventh round pick.

He tells her that a seventh round pick gets less money, and less money also means less scrutiny. She then tells Nico to treat Damon as if he were a first round pick, as a favor to her, and find out all that he can about Damon. Slim, one of TK's friends and TK, meanwhile get into a fight, and his friend's sister points a gun at Slim and tells him to back off. She then sends Slim packing. Dani meanwhile tells Matthew that she is worried about how Olivia is transforming both her kids. Matthew feels it's just a phase and will soon pass. TK and his friend's sister meanwhile sleep together. She also admits to him how worried she was when he got shot. Nico meanwhile tells Dani that there is no chance Damon Razor would ever become a Hawk, because Damon Razor is dead. TK's friend's sister in the meanwhile tells TK to go back, telling TK he has a choice, unlike her and Slim.

Damon in the meanwhile admits to Dani who confronts him that, his real name is Bryce and he was really little as a child, but he wanted to badly play football, but never made a team. Hence when he got out of the foster system, he stole someone's identity and reenrolled himself as a high school freshman, as he wanted badly play football. He never thought it would amount to anything, but suddenly he was a star and started getting offers from all around. He was hence worried about being found out, if anyone checked his background, thanks to all the attention he was getting. Dani asks Bryce to tell the truth, and play football like he knows he can. She tells Bryce he made a mistake, but he is not an imposter where football is concerned.

Matthew later tells the Coach that, Nico has informed him if Bryce gets drafted, Nico would help clear out the identity issues. The Coach tells Matthew that he doesn't care what Bryce's real name is, all he wants to see is performance. Dani explains to the Coach that Bryce was purposely tanking, as he didn't want too much attention drawn to him. But now Bryce is ready to show who he really is. TK meanwhile comes back, much to everyone's surprise. TK and Damon are later at the drafts, pitted against each other for a 40 yard dash. Damon wins, but TK too puts in a fine performance, despite his injury. TK is later in visible pain, but doesn't let anyone know about it.

Nico in the meanwhile has wire tapped Pittman's phone, as it turns out. He is then shown listening in on Pittman's conversations. Matthew later informs Dani that Bryce has been selected. Dani meanwhile tells Matthew that him wanting to have kids and she not wanting to have any, might pose a problem with their relationship.

Guest Stars: Adam Rodriguez (Gonzo), Walter Hendrix (Baseball Fan), Lindsay Hollister (Denise), Liz Vassey (Gabrielle Pittman), John Ridings (Assisant Football Coach)
Production Code: NR204
Summary: Dani treats a baseball slugger who suddenly can't hit. Meanwhile, Pittman's antics get even stranger, TK's challenged to address the wound his shooting left behind, and Matt's bond with Ray Jay and Lindsay strains his relationship with Dani.

The episode begins at a baseball game where the hitter misses the ball and in frustration breaks his bat in two. Dani in the meanwhile wakes from a nightmare in which she is shown pregnant with Matthew's baby, and her kids are reprimanding her for it. TK in the meanwhile is training really hard on the field to get back into shape. At the end of his training he still is still feeling the pain and isn't clocking his best time. Matthew then tells him about a woman named Simone who can make his pain go away. Dani in the meanwhile meets Gonzo the baseball hitter who has hit bad form. He tells her about the slump he has hit. He then tells her that he needs help with his slumpbuster.

He tells her that a slumpbuster is basically the biggest girl you can find to go out and have sex with, after which you hit form. He is basically in a slump with his slumpbuster. He tells Dani that he and Denise his slumpbuster will come by her office the next day. Pittman meanwhile is told by his lawyer that he can't do anything with the Hawks without Gabrielle's approval. Pittman then tells his lawyer to call a hearing about the ownership status of the Hawks. TK meanwhile finds out that Simone is a middle aged Asian masseur and not some hot babe. Simone then begins massaging TK, and he seems to love it. Dani meanwhile meets with Gonzo and his slumpbuster Denise, in her office. Denise tells Dani that her relationship with Gonzo is primarily sexual. Gonzo then tells Dani that his form slumped the moment Denise stopped taking his booty calls. She tells Dani that she can't anymore because she has a boyfriend now.

Gonzo tells Dani to convince Denise to dump her boyfriend. Denise in turn tells Dani that she came to her so Dani could talk to Gonzo and convince him to get over her. TK's manager Robb is meanwhile enraged at the fact that TK's bonus check has been frozen by Pittman's wife, and threatens Matthew that he and TK shall look for other options if the money doesn't reach TK in 48 hours. Pittman meanwhile calls Dani into his office for some expert advice. He then tells Dani to testify in front of the league that Gabrielle is legally insane. He then tells Dani how Gabrielle has behaved insanely in the past. He then tells Dani that, if Gabrielle gets her way there might be no team and she might end up not having a job. He then tells Danny that if she helps him, he will get the tax problem she is facing off her back. Nico meanwhile hears on his wire tap Dani telling Pittman that, she can't be bought.

Dani meanwhile tells Gonzo that she will refer him to some other therapist, because it isn't working out between the two of them. Matthew meanwhile tells Dani that they don't have to figure out their whole live immediately and can instead take things one day at a time. Dani later tells TK in her office that, they haven't talked at all about the shooting. She then tells TK that if he doesn't talk about the incident he will be stuck in his present state of mind. Later Dani is shocked to see in the news that Gonzo has been arrested for soliciting plus sized women. Nico later makes her hear a recording of a wire tap, where Pittman is talking to himself like a lunatic. Nico tells Dani to persuade Pittman to see someone, even if she can't treat him herself, as he is her boss. Just then Gonzo pays Dani a visit and asks to talk to her for 5 minutes. Gonzo then tells Dani that it was she who told him to find a substitute for a slumpbuster hence he was soliciting other large women.

Dani denies this charge and tells him that she had very clearly meant a different therapist. Gonzo tells Dani that he doesn't want another therapist and likes her. Dani then tells Gonzo that he has a lack of empathy for other people's feelings and that he has to learn to take a no. She then tells him that he might have a narcissistic personality disorder. She also tells him that NPD prevents people from having normal relationships. Gonzo though doesn't agree with Dani's diagnosis. She then hands him a list of referrals. Nico meanwhile requests Gabrielle to call off the league hearing, as Pittman isn't in a sane state of mind, but she turns down his request. Denise meanwhile tells Dani to be Gonzo's slumpbuster but not in a sexual way. She then tells Dani how Gonzo has been lonely since childhood.

She also tells Dani how nice Gonzo was to her when they were together. Marshall meanwhile figures out that Nico has been wire tapping him. Nico admits to him that he has been doing so out of concern. Nico tells Pittman that he needs to get help, but Pittman tells Nico to get out of his office, calling Nico a traitor while he is at it. He then makes it amply clear by firing Nico. Pittman later pays Dani a visit, at her residence. He then tells Dani how Nico was involved with Gabrielle before she met Pittman. He then tells her that he fired Nico. She then tells Pittman that sometimes a divorce can takes its toll on someone and that there is a thin line between love and hate. She then tells him that there is no shame in needing help for what he is going through.

He doesn't seem to pay any heed to her advice, but instead leaves. TK meanwhile allows Simone to massage his wounds, which he wasn't allowing her to touch all this while. Pittman meanwhile calls Dani to the league meeting. She tells him that he called her there to see how the game ends. Later in the meeting Pittman with tears in his eyes tells Gabrielle that he needs her and that he doesn't want to get divorced. Gabrielle in turn tells him that she is sorry but that it's over. Pittman then says that it's the end of the game and walks out. Dani later tells Matthew that she has referred Pittman to an excellent psychiatrist, so hopefully he will be getting the help and the rest that he needs. Matthew then tells Dani that he does want family, but only with her and in any form it takes.

Dani later pays Gonzo a visit and tells him that she knows what's causing his slump. She then tells him that he is in love with Denise. Gonzo is incredulous when he hears this. She then explains to him that most people with NPD usually only receive love but never learn to give it, and that is why she feels at the centre of all the chaos is a broken heart. Gonzo on hearing all this reluctantly agrees that he lost Denise. Dani tells him that he can always have it with someone else; he just has to wait for it. Pittman meanwhile apologizes to Nico in his own way and asks him to come back. He then tells him to take care of his team while he is on a mental health sabbatical. TK in the meanwhile comes in to talk to Dani, as he is ready now.

Production Code:	NR205
Summary:	Dr. Dani works her magic on a very popular illusionist whose next trick could prove to be his last. In addition, Dani tells her children about her ongoing relationship with Matt as he learns to navigate front office politics. Plus, T.K. gets into a Twitter flame war with an all-too-familiar foe.

The episode begins with a man locked in a glass coffin trying to get out, his helpers then rush to his aid and open the coffin. Dani meanwhile confesses to her kids that she is seeing Matt. TK meanwhile is worried that he might be replaced if he isn't back in from soon. Meanwhile the magician, who was trapped in the glass coffin earlier, is at Dani's for a session. He during the session shows her a card trick that leaves her amazed. He then tells her that he is going to be buried alive for nine day in Central Park, and eventually escape from the coffin, as his next trick. He confesses to her that earlier when he was rehearsing for it, he panicked in the coffin and couldn't get out. Dani tells him that it sounds like claustrophobia.

She then asks him if everything is going fine in his life. He tells her things are going absolutely fine. He then begs Dani to help him get back into the coffin. The Coach meanwhile introduces Matt to a man named Hank, who is the new GM of the Hawks. Hank and the Coach it turns out are also old friends. Matt is then appointed as the assistant GM by Frank, on the Coach's recommendation. TK meanwhile tells Dani that no one is Tweeting about him; hence he is hiring a 'Tweetmaster' who will post interesting Tweets on his behalf. Lindsay meanwhile is trying out for the cheerleading squad. Dani meanwhile tells Matt that she has told her kids about him. Matt then has an awkward moment with Dani's kids. Meanwhile the 'Tweetmaster' arrives at TK's home. He assures TK that he shall help him grab headlines.

He tells TK that he shall become his voice. The magician meanwhile introduces Dani to his design engineer Pete. She then sees the glass coffin in which the magician shall be buried. The magician then lies in his coffin with Dani sitting nearby, so Dani can figure out what is causing him to hyperventilate. Meanwhile Matt tells the GM that he disagrees with certain decisions of the Coach. Just then the GM sees a Tweet from TK mocking the team, and asks Nico inform TK to fall in line. He also tells Nico 'we just released Mr. King's bonus, don't make us regret that'. He then tells Nico that he wants 'this Twitter nonsense' stopped. Meanwhile, the magician once again begins to hyperventilate inside the coffin, and tells her he is seeing that he is dead. Nico meanwhile tells TK that the management isn't amused by his Twitter antics.

He then tells TK that the new GM Hank Griffin is not his friend. The magician tells Dani that he saw himself in funeral, and was hence terrified. Dani then tells him that there is an underlying reason for this, and that they have to get to the bottom of it. TK meanwhile tells the Tweetmaster there are certain lines that can't be crossed in the Tweets. He then tells TK that, he has a new trick up his sleeve. Lindsay meanwhile has made the cheerleading squad, but much to Dani's surprise she isn't happy about it. The Coach meanwhile tells Matt that he isn't happy with Matt submitting his own recommendations for the team to the GM, without consulting him first. He also tells Matt that he doesn't agree with Matt's recommendations. Meanwhile the magician tells Dani that he has scrapped the idea of the coffin stunt.

He shall instead be doing another stunt in which he shall be hanging between two skyscrapers upside down in a straightjacket, while trying to escape. Later when the magician leaves the room for a bit Pete comes and tells Dani, to talk the magician out of doing this stunt. He reasons that a stunt usually takes months to prepare for, and the magician is planning to go through with his latest stunt in just 2 weeks, which is no less than a suicide mission. Pete tells Dani that he feels the magician is trying to kill himself. TK meanwhile isn't too happy to read a few negative Tweets about himself, and leaves to take care of it. Dani meanwhile tells the magician that he doing the stunt at such short notice isn't a good idea. The magician tells her that he has a contract. Dani in turn asks him if this contract is worth dying over.

The magician though pays no heed to her advice, and tells her that he has preparations to make. The GM meanwhile decides to go with the Coach's recommendations instead of Matt's. Later, Dani's family dinner with Matt and the kids, doesn't go too well. TK meanwhile confronts his rival who has been dishing him on Twitter, at a restaurant. The two throw food at each other and are then handcuffed. The two then talk about their careers with each other. The rival then confesses to TK that he has a Tweetmaster who wrote the Tweets on his behalf. TK then figures out that both their Tweetmasters are one and the same person. Later Nico comes in and tells the two that, the restaurant owner has decided to not press charges. Dani meanwhile leaves a voicemail asking the magician to call her.

Meanwhile during a team meet, the GM decides to side Matt on a decision, thereby going against the Coach's recommendation. Meanwhile at her office Dani questions the magician about not mentioning the fact that, his daughter's wedding was on the same day as his stunt. She then asks him as to why he doesn't want to go to his daughter's wedding. He then confesses to Dani that, he gave his whole to his profession and never had time for his family. He then tells her that, his daughter Lacey has asked his stepfather to walk her down the aisle. He then admits to Dani that he wasn't a good father. She then tells him that, when he felt his subconscious was telling him not to go ahead with the stunt he was right. His subconscious was probably telling him to see his daughter get married instead.

The idea consequently seems to appeal to him. Meanwhile the GM congratulates Matt for his good work. The Coach later tells Matt that he doesn't need for apologize as he just did his job. He also tells Matt, if his recommendations don't have the desired results it's on his head. Dani meanwhile finds out from Lindsay's friend that, Lindsay quit the cheerleading squad a few days ago. Her friend also tells Dani that Lindsay has been acting weird lately. She then tells Dani that she has no idea where Lindsay is. Later Dani finds Lindsay sitting all alone in a café. She then begs Lindsay to tell her what's wrong.

Lindsay then tells Dani that the cheerleading squad is stupid and she only tired out because her friends did. She then tells Dani 'I need someone to talk to who isn't you'. She then tells Dani that she wants to talk to a therapist, much to Dani's surprise. Nico meanwhile pays TK's Tweetmaster a visit. He then tells TK that, the Tweetmaster issue has been taken care of. The magician meanwhile proceeds to attend his daughter's wedding, in a chapel. Later TK is shown working out at home.

Summary: Dani treats a veteran Hawks linebacker's hefty problem. Meanwhile, TK turns up the heat on the rookie Damon Razor with a little mischief. And Dani's BFF, Jeanette, returns for a visit as Lindsay goes to a therapist.

The episode begins with the start of a new football season. It is then shown that one of the players in the Hawks called Rhino has gained a few pounds, and is now weighing in at 290 lbs. Meanwhile Dani's friend comes over to stay with her. Later, Dani takes Lindsey to a psycho therapist Dr. Jane Crosetti. Jane tells Dani that she is familiar with her work, calling her a top sports psychologist. Jane then tells Dani to wait outside, while she has her first session with Lindsay. TK meanwhile congratulates Razor for making it to the team. Later on the field Brian Norton, also known as Rhino is shown struggling, thanks to his increasing weight. Matthew tells Dani about it, while they watch him struggling.

Matthew tells Dani how, Rhino's blood pressure is through the roof and how his cholesterol is sky high. TK meanwhile hazes Razor, and he in turn taunts TK, the two then are about to get into a physical brawl, but are stopped by the other team members. Later the Coach reprimands TK for hazing Razor, and tells him to stop. He tells TK he needs calm and order, therefore he is banning hazing. He also tells TK that, if there is anymore hazing on the campus, TK would be held responsible. He then tells TK to apologize to Razor. Rhino meanwhile describes to Dani the diet he is having, and it's all healthy. He tells Dani he is putting on weight despite that. Dani then asks Rhino if there is anything amiss in his personal life because of which he is under stress and is thus overeating unconsciously, without realizing it.

Rhino then tells her it might be his wife's son Ethan who isn't too happy about Rhino recently getting married to her, and thus Rhino was considering family counseling. Later all the three comes into Dani's office for counseling. Ethan tells Dani that, he and Rhino are always fighting about stuff. Turns out, they fight about sneaking food, and Ethan just like Rhino has weight issues. Dani then asks whoever out of the three is sneaking the food, to own up to it honestly, as it's not about the food but about trust, and this confession will help them start afresh. Ultimately no one comes forward though. Razor meanwhile gets his own back at TK by bedazzling TK's helmet. TK then decides to haze Razor off campus, as the Coach did not say anything about not hazing off campus.

Rhino meanwhile finds out by placing a security camera in his house that, he has been sleep-eating. He shows the footage to Dani. Later at the psycho therapist, Lindsay tells Dani she wants to join the Peace Corp and go to Africa, as she wants to make a difference. Dani though is incredulous and doesn't take Lindsay too seriously. Lindsay though is outraged at this attitude of Dani's. Meanwhile TK makes Razor's car disappear and he isn't happy about it. Just then Nico comes in and asks the two to get into his car. Meanwhile Dani tells Rhino that sleep related eating disorders are caused by repressed anxiety; hence they need to get to the bottom of it, so that the sleep related eating can stop. She then asks Rhino to sleep so she can get to the bottom of it, and Matthew is called in for assistance just in case something goes wrong.

Dani then locks the entire freezer and all the cupboards with food in them. She basically wants to drag out the deeply buried anxiety that Rhino has. Nico meanwhile drops TK and Razor off at the place where TK abandoned Razor's car and drives away, and it turns out most of the parts of Razor's sports car has been stolen, much to Razor's dismay. Nico before dropping TK off, asks him to make the whole thing right. TK asks Razor to chill out, as he will pay for the damages. Razor though is more worried about his playbook that he had left in the car, and which is now missing. The Coach had specifically warned the team members to not misplace their playbooks, and hence Razor's worry. Rhino meanwhile sleep walks to the kitchen, and is frustrated on not being able to access any food.

Dani then accosts him just as he picks up his car keys. He then tells her in a dazed manner that he has to go to his other home. Rhino's wife is shocked to hear this and asks him what he means by his other home. Razor meanwhile receives a text saying: 'I have something you want but it's going to cost you'. TK then tells Razor that he is being blackmailed. Meanwhile at her office Rhino tells Dani, he doesn't remember what he did in the night, and also what he meant when he said 'my other home'. Dani then tells Rhino that, maybe they need to discuss the reason he doesn't feel at home. Rhino's wife then asks him 'what exactly are you hiding here?' Razor meanwhile tells TK that, the blackmailer is asking for $10,000. TK offers to loan Razor the money. Razor then asks TK to drive him to the drop point in the night, as the whole thing is his fault.

Rhino's wife Lydia meanwhile pays Dani a visit. Lydia tells Dani in tears that, she thinks Rhino has another family. She also shows Dani a credit card statement which shows purchase of furniture worth thousands of dollars, but none of which are in their house. TK and Razor meanwhile arrive at the drop point, which apparently is an abandoned warehouse. Suddenly, the both of them are accosted by men from behind, who put bags on their heads and restrain them. Later the both of them find themselves tied to the goalpost on the football field, once their blindfolds are removed. Nico, who is standing nearby, shows them the playbook. The Coach then comes on to the field with the team and tells them 'you wanted hazing, you got it'. Dani meanwhile figures out that Rhino has been buying all the stuff with his credit card, for his posse.

She also sees that Rhino filled in an address on his medical form for sessions with her and then struck it out, and instead filled in the address of the place where he now lives. She then drives to the address that Rhino has struck out, and once there, from a distance she sees Rhino walking out of the house with his posse. Later, Danny confronts Rhino and tells him that she knows about his other house. He then admits to Dani that, he was just trying to help his sister and his kids, but his other cousins also piled on. He tells Dani that Lydia doesn't approve of them, and would freak out if she knew that, their money problems are because of them.

Dani then tells Rhino that, the extra weight he is carrying around is a direct result of the extra responsibility that he is carrying. Dani then tells Rhino to come clean with Lydia, and also slowly wean his relatives off. Later Dani reaches a compromise with Lindsay, where she convinces her to go to New Orleans to help people out instead of Africa. Dani also finds out that her friend Jeanette, who has come to live with her, is pregnant. Later, Matthew tells Dani that Rhino is doing great and has started to lose the pounds. Later when they are alone, Matthew tells Jeanette that he is thinking of proposing to Dani.

Production Code: NR207
Summary: A spelling bee whiz kid turns to Dani with a case of the st-st-stutters. Meanwhile, TK comes face-to-face with a problem he hoped was history, a league representative comes knocking on Nico's door, and Jeanette still hasn't told Augusto she's pregnant.

The episode begins with kids competing in a spelling bee. One of the kids is asked to spell a word, and before he can spell out the complete word he faints on the stage. Meanwhile Nico runs into the woman who has been sent by the league commissioner's office to look into the inconsistencies that Pittman has left behind, and to clean them up. Meanwhile the child named Mukesh, who fainted on the stage earlier, pays Dani and visit, with his mother. Turns out, Mukesh is a genius, and his mother tells Dani that Mukesh is a 'perfect boy'. His mother then tells Dani that, Mukesh has never encountered an incident similar to the one he had recently on the stage.

But ever since the incident, Mukesh has been constantly stuttering and stammering, every time he thinks about the incident. He then tells Dani that, he has to win the national spelling bee which is in a week, as seconds no good. TK meanwhile is served a subpoena by a beautiful looking girl. Later TK is informed that, the guy who shot him, is suing him for assaulting him first. Nico and Matthew assure him that it's just a ploy on the guy's part to not get convicted, and it doesn't mean anything. Matthew tells TK that he will have to testify in court, if he wants to put this guy away. Dani meanwhile gets Mukesh to sing the words while spelling them, in order to remedy his stuttering. The treatment seems to be working, as Mukesh is able to fluently spell the words while singing them. Nico is meanwhile informed that, once Pittman's divorce is settled the league is going to suggest that Pittman sell the Hawks.

The woman from the commission tells Nico that, she has found some red flags in the files, and hence this decision. Jeannette and Matthew meanwhile shop for a ring, and he asks her to strictly keep it a secret. Meanwhile, Dani is rehearsing with Mukesh for the spelling bee, with him standing on the stage and spelling words, in an empty auditorium. Suddenly a group of people enter the auditorium, and suddenly Mukesh becomes really conscious, and is clearly distracted. He then begins stuttering, and Dani asks him to sing the words, but that too doesn't seem to help. Later Mukesh's mother tells Dani, how this competition is a ticket to his college scholarship. Meanwhile TK is outraged to see on TV, his attacker's lawyer telling the media how TK is a 'problem child' and how in his rage TK attacked his client and it was in self defense that, he attacked him back.

Dani later tells Matthew that, TK isn't ready to go in front of a jury, with his present mental state. Nico tells Dani, TK has to go to court, as he could go to jail if he ignores the subpoena. Dani later tells TK how this trial could be an opportunity for him to get closure. Mukesh meanwhile confesses to Dani that it was a girl named Hope Chen, who was making him nervous. Turns out, last three years Hope has been in the finals with Mukesh, and she scares him. Mukesh then tells Dani, how Hope is called the 'queen bee' and how nothing rattles her. He tells Dani that he is rattled, when he has to make a choice on the stage, about which word comes next, as his and his family's dreams and aspirations completely rest on him getting it right. Later Jeanette lets it slip to Dani that, Matthew is planning to propose.

Dani is excited at this revelation. Later, at the spelling bee competition, Mukesh once again begins to stutter on the stage. He eventually spells the word in hurry and correctly, then runs backstage. The DA meanwhile preps TK for his testimony. The DA tells an agitated TK that, the defense is counting on him losing his temper in court. He urges TK to find a way to relax, before the trial. Later Nico figures out that the commission is investigating his and Pittman's role in the wiretaps that, Pittman had earlier ordered. The woman from the commission tells Nico, 'if you have something to tell me, now is the time'. Meanwhile Mukesh's mother comes to Dani's office and tells her that, Mukesh has quit the bee. Dani tells her that Mukesh is struggling with something internally, and she is still trying to figure out what that is.

TK meanwhile has a nightmare, and wakes up in cold sweat in the middle of the night. Meanwhile, Nico pays the woman from the commission a visit at her hotel room. He tells her the wire taps were legal, and he has nothing else to declare. She then suddenly kisses him. The two then begin making out. Dani meanwhile seems to have figured out why Mukesh is stuttering. Later, she meets Mukesh and tells him she has figured out the fact that, he doesn't want to beat her. She then asks Mukesh why that is the case. Mukesh then tells Dani that Hope had cancer, and then asks Dani 'doesn't she deserve winning?' Dani then tells Mukesh that, she thinks he is stuck between protecting himself and protecting Hope, and at the moment when he is faced with that choice, he stutters.

Mukesh also admits that, he likes Hope, and finds her beautiful. Dani tells Mukesh that, he can't sacrifice his dreams for someone else; even if it's someone he cares a lot about. Dani also tells him that, he could probably ask Hope out for ice cream after the bee. In the end the whole idea seems to appeal to Mukesh. Meanwhile, Nico and the woman from the commission both seem to have gotten what they wanted, besides having slept with each other. Later in court Dani tells TK who is waiting to give his testimony that, he can't stop the whole world from judging him, but he can be clear in judging himself. She then assertively tells an unsure TK that, he didn't deserve to be shot. Later, TK calmly answers all the questions hurled at him by the defense. He recounts the night of the shooting in a calm and composed fashion, despite the defense lawyer trying to provoke him.

In the end it shown that, he doesn't fall prey to the provocations of the defense. Later, TK even talks to the media and answers the questions of the reporters, in a calm and witty fashion. Dani meanwhile, is visibly overjoyed at how TK has handled the whole situation. Meanwhile at the spelling bee competition, Mukesh does a good job of spelling the words, and does so with absolute conviction and confidence. In the middle of the competition they both encourage each other, by telling each other how great they are doing. Jeanette meanwhile tells her husband that, they are having a baby. Later, Dani asks Matthew to look her in the eyes and tell her that, he is absolutely fine with them never having a baby.

Matthew though isn't able to give her a straight answer. Matthew then tells Dani that, he had hoped she would eventually change her mind. Dani tells Matthew that she doesn't want him to sacrifice his dreams, just to be with her. She feels that Matthew would ultimately come to resent her for this. Matthew then asks her 'this isn't going to work is it?' Dani then in tears ends up hugging Matthew.

Summary: Dani cowboys up to treat a professional bull rider. Dani and Matt navigate their breakup while Matt and Nico try to keep the reigns on a reporter who's come to Hawks training camp to focus on TK. Ray Jay's surprisingly good SAT scores cause tension in his relationship with Olivia.

The episode begins at a rodeo competition; it is then shown that the hand of one of the riders gets stuck on the saddle of a bull. Meanwhile Dani is overjoyed to find out that Ray has scored really well on his SATs. Dani later admits to Jeanette that, she hasn't told Ray about her breakup with Matthew. She also tells Jeanette that, she and Matthew will be 'mature adult professionals', when reminded by Jeannette as to how she will have to meet Matthew at work each day. Later the guy who was stuck to the bulls back in the rodeo, shows Dani a video of the incident, and also tells her how it happened 6 times in the last 2 months. He then tells her that for the first time he is afraid, and too after two world championships.

Nico meanwhile wants TK to gather up his act and behave like a team captain should. Dani meanwhile runs into Matthew at work, and there is apparent awkwardness between the two. Matthew though, promises her that they will work around it. Meanwhile a reporter named Noelle comes in and tells Matthew that she is here to do the piece on TK. Later, Noelle asks TK to take her back to the night of the shooting. TK though feels that his comeback has already been chronicled, and hence it should be more like a 'comeback story'. Noelle though feels otherwise and asks TK about the shooter and if TK is still afraid of him. TK though doesn't want to talk about the shooter or the shooting, telling her that 'TK does not move sideways or slantways' and tells her to give him a call when she is ready to go up.

Matthew later tells Noelle that TK is all talked out about the shooting and that its old news to him. She in turn tells Matthew that she like him has been recently promoted and hence not getting what she wants is not an option. She also seems to be flirting with Matthew. Dani meanwhile meets her client Ty, the professional bull rider at his ranch. She tells him 'I am here to see what you see'. Ty then walks her through the whole experience of how it feels to ride a bull. He then tells her that at the end when he has made his time he is suppose to let go, but lately he doesn't. He doesn't know as to why he isn't letting go. Dani then asks Ty 'what is it that you are holding on to?' He then tells Dani that his father was trampled and consequently killed by a bull.

Noelle meanwhile tells Razor 'I was going through your media file and there are some inconsistencies'. Razor is visibly worried on hearing this and makes himself, scarce. Later a worried Razor tells Mathew and Nico that, Noelle is asking him questions about 'where I came from'. Two reassure him that they will handle the whole situation. Dani meanwhile finds out that, Ty was probably never given a chance to grieve his father's death. She then tells him 'sometimes we need to go backwards, before we go forwards'. Later the Coach suggests Matthew go on a date with Noelle, in order to keep her away from Razor's trail. Dani though isn't very crazy about the idea. Matthew assures her that he isn't going to act on the Coach's suggestion.

Ray later tells Dani that Olivia wants to break up with him and go with a clean slate, to college. Dani wants Ray to talk about it, but he doesn't want to, and instead tells her that he has a date this weekend. Later Ty pays homage to his father, at a family event, as recommended by Dani that he should. Dani then sees Ty's wife take him to the side and discuss something with him, at the end of which Ty walks away from her after saying 'there is nothing to tell', in anger. Dani later talks to her and she tells Dani 'every time my husband goes to work, I wonder if he is coming back'. She then tells Dani how Ty had promised to retire, when he hit 30, and as it turns out Ty is nearly 30. Meanwhile Nico asks Noelle to stop bothering Razor, as it's affecting his performance.

Noelle though is more bothered about securing her story and hence doesn't care, and instead threatens to file a sexual harassment complaint against TK. Later TK is questioned about it, and says he did not do anything that can be termed as sexual harassment. Meanwhile at Dani's office, Lila, Ty's wife tells him that she is 'sick of being worried sick'. She then reminds him how he has promised to quit at 30. He in turn tells her, it was when he didn't know he would win 2 world championships, and that he has it in him to win more. She tells him that she is not ready for him to end up like his father. Meanwhile it is decided that Razor would give his story to Noelle in order to stop her from filing a sexual harassment complaint against TK. Razor later tells TK about it, who is visibly shocked to hear this.

Meanwhile Matthew is angry with Dani, for the breakup. Ray meanwhile gets punched in the face by a guy who walks in with Olivia, into the same café where Ray is. He does so right after Ray calls her a 'dumbass' in public. Ty meanwhile proceeds to ride a bull, although Dani feels it's not a good idea, and that he should 'sit this one out'. Ty then rides out with the bull, and eventually gets his leg tangled in the saddle, much to Dani's horror. TK meanwhile tells Noelle that he is ready to give her an interview, no holds barred. In return he wants her to 'forget the name Damon Razor'. Dani meanwhile consoles a humiliated Ray, who tells her how he made an imbecile of himself. She then reveals to Ray how Matthew and her broke up and that she had been hiding it from him. She then tells him 'it hurts, but it makes you stronger'.

Olivia meanwhile pays Ray a visit and tells him how sorry she is, about all that has transpired. Later Dani tells Ty that she has figured out, he is afraid of living beyond his retirement as he doesn't have any plans for the future, just like a young colt. She then tells him how he has an amazing wife who will accompany him in his journey, after his retirement and therefore he has nothing to worry about. TK meanwhile gives tell all interview to Noelle, where he answers any question that is asked to him by her. But apparently he isn't himself, as he isn't at all reacting to any of her questions and is blankly answering them.

The Coach feels it's a good thing, but Dani looks visibly concerned. Later, Matthew apologizes to Dani for losing his cool earlier, and tells her that he misses her. She in turn tells him that she misses him too. Later, Nico finds out from a video footage that, TK did sexually harass Noelle, by dropping his towel in front of her in the men's locker room. Meanwhile it is shown that, Dani and Matthew have ended up sleeping together.

Summary: Dani works with a professional gamer; Dani and Matt that there is an upside to their breakup; the Hawks start cutting players after training season ends; and T.K. attempts to help Razor with a problem but finds out one of his own in the process.

The episode begins at a videogame competition, with two guys competing against each other in front of an audience. Ultimately one of the guys wins, and is loudly cheered by the audience. Matthew and Dani in the meanwhile are still having sex on the sly, without anyone at her house being any the wiser. Later, the mother of the guy who lost the competition meets Dani at her office and tells her, how her son won't leave the building ever since he lost the competition. Dani then talks to him on Skype. The guy Orson then tells Dani, he was No.1 in the rankings and now he has dropped down to number 3, thanks to losing the competition. He then asks her to help him get back his game.

Dani in turn asks to meet him face to face if she is going to help him, and he agrees. Back in his room, Razor is worried if he shall get selected for playing, now that that the training season is over. TK meanwhile barges into his room and asks him to calm down. Razor in turn shows TK a tabloid article about, him being an imposter. Matt and Hank, the Hawks GM are also both worried about the article. Hank also reminds Matt 'lets we forget, Razor is your cross to bear'. Dani on the other hand informs Nico that TK has a drug problem, and hence genuinely doesn't remember sexually harassing the reporter, recently. Matt is later shown the video of TK harassing the reporter by dropping his towel and revealing all, in the men's locker room. Nico assures him though, that only the two of them and Dani have seen the video till now.

Dani then explains to Matt that TK is showing signs which are typical of a drug addict. She then elaborates 'I think Terrance is abusing pain killers'. Matt in turn tells her 'as much as I trust you, I need more than a hunch'. Nico in turn tells the two 'I'll see what I can dig up'. Dani later has a counseling session with Orson while playing a video game with him. She in the end tells him that the next time they have to do their session face to face, if he does want her help. She also agrees to pay him a visit for a session, at his house. Hank in the meanwhile voices his apprehension about picking Razor, as his performance is erratic. Matt though defends Razor saying he is under a lot of pressure thanks to the newspaper article.

The Coach too isn't happy with the way Razor is performing and asks him to take a time out from practice. Razor then tells TK how he isn't able to focus thanks to the press, standing on the sidelines to hound him. Later, Nico shows Matt and Dani photographs as proof that TK has been hobnobbing with a doctor called Alexi Turner, who is known to give his patients pain killer in order to make them feel better. Matt then decides to test the whole team for drugs, rather than just TK, so it doesn't raise any red flags. Danny in the meanwhile pays Orson a visit, at his home. She then realizes how much of a gaming addict he is, when he doesn't keep down his game controller even for a second, in order to talk to her. On the other hand at a press conference, Razor comes clean with the media about his past.

Razor then to his utter shock and dismay, is bombarded with questions about his revelation, by the reporters. Razor then quickly leaves. Hank meanwhile tells Matt 'we have just unleashed a crap storm'. On the other hand, when Dani tries to stop Orson from playing so they can talk, he loses focus and is defeated in the game. He then loses it and reprimands Dani for distracting him, and then suddenly he collapses to ground, and seems to be having a seizure. Later the doctor at the hospital tells Orson's mother that, Orson had an exhaustion induced seizure, as Orson has had no sleep and very little nutrition, for the past few days. The doctor adds that Orson can go back home in 24 hrs. Dani then warns his mother that Orson is addicted to gaming and shall go back to it, the second he gets out.

She then reveals to Dani that, Orson always had low self esteem and gaming made him happy. She also adds that Orson never liked his picture taken. Dani then suggests that, Orson be check into a rehab for his addiction. Nico in the meanwhile hands Matt the drug test results. Dani on the other hand has a chat with Orson. She tells Orson that he has to realize he is a gaming addict. Orson though isn't ready to accept this judgment of hers, and tells her 'I am not an addict, I am a champion'. Dani also finds the fact weird that, Orson isn't picking his girlfriend Elsa's calls. He though justifies, he doesn't want Elsa to see him 'this way'. He then asks Dani to 'go away'. The Coach and the whole team in the meanwhile, is overjoyed with Razor's excellent performance in a recent practice game.

Later, Matt informs Dani that TK is clean, as per the reports. Dani though tells Nico 'I know I am right'. Later Matt, Coach and Hank decide on, who all should be cut from the final team. Later Razor is given the good news by Matt, he has made the team. Razor though shocks Matt by telling him 'I quit'. Later TK confronts Razor about his quitting. Razor in turn tells TK, he feels he is not cut out for it. TK then tells Razor 'you could have had everything'. Razor in turn replies 'if this is everything, then I don't want it'. Dani at home gives a pregnant Jeanette a pep talk about how 'foxy' she looks despite being pregnant.

Dani in the process suddenly has an epiphany about the issue that is plaguing Orson, due to which he doesn't like his picture taken or doesn't want his girlfriend seeing him in the hospital. She later pays Orson a visit at the hospital and tells him the real issue is that 'you don't like seeing yourself in the mirror'. He then tells her he isn't addicted to gaming, he is instead addicted to what gaming allows him to do, which is change his appearance. She then adds 'you didn't want Elsa to see you. Period' She then tells him he is suffering from a condition called 'body dysmorphia', where a person sees physical defects where none exist. Orson then admits to her 'I can't look at myself'.

She then assures him that, with the right medication and the right therapy he shall recover. She then adds that he can then start seeing himself like he really is. Later Dani confronts TK with the video where he disrobed in front of the reporter. She then questions him about why he lied to her that he did not do so, when she had asked him earlier. She then asks him point blank, if he is addicted to pain killers. He though protests and in the end doesn't give her a straight answer. Dani later tells Nico that she is sure TK 'is abusing' and asks him to find proof to that effect, using whatever means necessary. Later Nico breaks into TK's apartment, and collects all the bottles of medication that he can find in there.

He in the process also finds vials of some liquid kept in a box. Later when Dani is shown all the medication she asks Nico 'how did he not test positive?' he in turn shows her the vial, and explains to her that it's a medication used to flush out all traces of drugs in the system. Dani then tells Nico TK 'is in deep'. Nico in turn replies 'I know'.

Summary: Dani helps tennis players who are having problems on and off the court. Elsewhere, T.K. gets robbed, leading Matt to face T.K.'s agent; Nico finds out about a security breach; Ray Jay has a new financial plan; and Jeanette's problem comes to a head.

The episode begins at a game of mixed doubles tennis, where one team doesn't seem to be performing too well, thanks to an absolute lack of coordination. Later in her office, Dani meets the man and the woman, who were on the losing side. The two bicker in front of Dani, about what exactly is the problem with their game. The two apparently do not seem to look eye to eye on any subject. Dani is hence left with no option but to play the referee. She then asks them to go one at a time. The woman Allison then reveals how they met years ago during training and have been happily married now for 4 years. Ted then explains how they were going great guns till about 6 months ago, when suddenly their form dipped.

He also adds, off the court they were great but on the court their game wasn't going anywhere, as they just couldn't get in sync. TK on the other hand is late for the shoot of a commercial. His manager calls him up about it, all worried. TK on his way out looks for his pills but isn't able to find them. He then figures out that, someone must have broken into his house. He is frantic at being unable to find his pills. He then sees the vials of the medication used to flush the drugs out of his system also missing. Nico in the meanwhile shows Matt the vials and informs him of how TK managed to pass the drug test recently. Matt is visibly disturbed with this revelation, as the first game of the season is around the corner.

Dani feels it's better for TK to miss out on the first game than the whole season. Nico is later shocked to find out that every dark and dirty secret of the team might go public, thanks to someone recording and spying on every movement and conversation concerning the team that goes on behind closed doors. Nico resolves to put an end to this. Nico later finds a hidden recording device in his office and tells his guy to find out more about it. Dani in the meanwhile gives Ted and Allison a few communication techniques to practice, in order to improve their coordination. Then on her way out she is put in an awkward situation when she sees Ted kissing another woman tennis player.

Ted explains to an awkward looking Dani that, Allison and he are 'swingers'. Matt and the GM in the meanwhile are threatened by TK's manger, who tells the two he shall file a criminal complaint about a break in, if Matt or the team accuses TK of drug abuse. The GM later tells Matt, if Nico had a hand in the break in, he is history. TK on the other hand is shown acquiring some pain medication from a doctor. Matt informs Nico about what the GM has said, Nico then shows him the bug that was discovered by him. He then adds that the GM's office, the locker room and every other place in the facility has been wire tapped. Dani on the other hand asks Ted and Allison how they began swinging.

She reveals to Dani how a few months ago she and Ted had a fight, she then went to the bar got drunk and kissed another guy. She later came back to her room and told Ted about it, and also that she is feeling stifled. Ted didn't want to lose her, so he came up with the idea of swinging. Dani later attends a swinger's party that she has been invited to, by the duo. Nico on the other hand talks to a reporter who tells him, how he is fed all his information by a guy who has tapes, on the entire goings on inside the Hawks facility. He also adds talking to this guy is like talking to 'some lady head shrink', which Nico is surprised to hear.

At the party, Ted is angry to see Allison dance with a guy named Raul, who they had mutually decided was off limits, as he has created problems between many a couple. He in his anger catches hold of Raul and punches him in the face. He then tells Dani 'She broke the rule, I broke Raul'. Nico later arrives at Dani's house and tells her that her office is bugged. He then discovers the bug in her office. Matt later hears about it and apologizes to Dani for the mess. She then asks Matt to get the team to do an intervention for TK. Later during their session Allison doesn't give a straight answer, as to why she broke the Raul rule. Ted in turn concludes that she doesn't want to stay married and decides to move out.

The reporter in the meanwhile tells Nico, after hearing Tony's voice that, it's Nico's guy Tony who tried to sell him the tapes. The reporter confirms that he is absolutely certain about it. TK on the other hand is finding it really difficult to get his lines right for the shoot of his commercial. His manager is visibly worried about it and so is Matt. The director in the end is extremely exasperated and in anger berates TK. The two eventually get into a fistfight, and are pulled apart by Matt and the crew. The manager then tells TK, 'You have lost us the endorsement'. TK on hearing this is even more livid, and walks out of the set after talking his manager down. Nico in the meanwhile confronts his guy Tony, about the bugs.

Nico then while choking Tony, asks him 'who put your up to this?' Jeannette's husband Gusteau on the other hand pays her a surprise visit. Later Dani during her session with Ted and Allison, asks Ted to hear Allison out, even if he wants to end the marriage as closure is important in every relationship. She then asks Allison to reveal the reason behind what she did, despite claiming that she loves Ted and wants to stay married. She then comes out and confesses she doesn't enjoy playing with Ted anymore, like she used to. She elaborates that she was afraid to say this out aloud, but feels she could do better professionally with another partner. She didn't say anything because, she was afraid of losing her 'life partner'.

Dani concludes the relationship that Allison really wants out of is the one on the court, and not off it. Allison agrees with Dani. Ted on hearing this tells Allison how she was always a better player than him. Then holding her hand he encourages her to find another partner. Matt in the meanwhile tells the GM, he has decided to hold an intervention for TK. Matt also tells him TK has fired his manager, so they don't need to worry about him. The GM though is worried about a criminal investigation and hence doesn't feel the same way as Matt. Matt in turn tells him he would rather lose his job than his player. Nico on the other hand tells Dani that it was Marshall Pittman who had ordered the wiretaps.

Dani on hearing this breaks down, worried as to how Marshall will use the recordings from her office. Nico consoles Dani and assures her that he will get the recordings back. TK in the meanwhile is driving down a road, he takes his eyes off the road in order to pop a few pills, and then when he looks back he sees a young girl with a bicycle in the middle of the road.

Summary: With TK's unresolved drug problem and the Hawk's season opener approaching, Dani and the team head towards a disaster.

The episode begins with TK discovering that he has crashed his car into a wall. Dani on the other hand is taking some time off and referring her patients to another doctor. She individually informs all her patients about it, telling them that she is taking a 'well deserved' vacation. Later, TK comes back with Nico and finds an intervention at his home; Dani, Matt and Coach are basically the whole group. Dani tells TK they are there because they care about him very much and are worried about him. Matt then says 'we know about the pills and the flush'. 'We know about the car crash' the Coach adds. Nico though assures TK that no one else knows about the crash, and they all keep it that way, but only on the condition that TK go to rehab.

TK is incredulous on hearing this. Matt then makes it amply clear to TK that, if he refuses to go to the rehab, he shall be 'cut from the New York Hawks'. Dani later drives an unhappy TK to the rehab. The GM on the other hand asks Matt to get him a new receiver by Sunday. The GM threatens Matt with him losing his job if he doesn't manage that. At the rehab, TK is brought in for a group therapy session. There he meets an old acquaintance of his named Jimmy, who is a famous musician. At her office, Nico tells Dani 'Pittman is due tomorrow'. Nico tells Dani he will handle the issue and get the tapes out of him. At the rehab, during the group therapy session, Jimmy tells everyone how his ex-wife had said she wouldn't let him see his son, if he did not go to the rehab.

He then begins crying and says he is incredibly sorry 'that I hurt everybody'. TK is visibly disturbed to see Jimmy cry like that. Matt on the other hand is trying his best to catch himself a receiver, but to no avail. He in the end gets a lead and aggressively pursues it. Dani at the taxman's office is informed that, her debt has been paid off by Marshal Pittman. She later confronts Nico about it. But Nico interrupts her by saying 'Marshal's plane has gone missing'. A news report later clarifies that, Pittman was the one flying his plane, and was the sole passenger on board. The report also confirms that Pittman is still missing and there has been no trace found of him or his jet. Nico then leaves to search for Pittman and Dani insists on coming along, as she is really worried about the tapes.

Matt on the other hand leaves to get the Hawks a receiver, and is reminded by the GM before leaving that, if he doesn't manage it, he is out of a job. At the rehab, Jimmy regales TK with the stories of fun parties he has attended. Jimmy then admits to TK that he was only acting during the therapy session, so he can get out of there quickly. He suggests TK do the same and apologize like he did, if he wants out, quickly. He asks TK to apologize for 'everything and anything' and also suggests that TK shed a tear or two while he is at it. Matt on the other hand is in a bit of soup, as the new receiver he wants to recruit has Rob as his manager, and Rob as it turns out is still angry with Matt, for TK having fired him.

Nico while searching for Pittman reveals to Dani that, Pittman is possibly pulling a stunt and is actually hiding somewhere, and is not really dead. At the rehab, during a therapy session, TK apologizes for everything; as was suggested by Jimmy. One of the inmates is outraged by TK's act and reprimands him, and accuses him of faking the whole thing. TK then lashes out, asking how many there have been shot. The man in turn apologizes to him, and tells TK that he understands it must be stressful for him, with the owner of his team having died and all. TK is shocked to hear this, and later watches the news, on which 'the mysterious disappearance of Marshal Pittman' is being reported. Nico and Dani on the other hand reach Pittman's secret hideout, but don't find him there.

He then suggests that they wait for Pittman there, as he is bound to show up sooner or later. Just then, Dani receives a call informing her, TK has escaped rehab, on a horse. TK and Jimmy are shown coming out of a departmental store, outside which are parked their horses. Dani is later informed that the two have left their horses 'at a minimart in Bellport'. Nico has secured the box which is 'Pittman's entire backup plan' he is therefore sure that Pittman will show up at his doorstep, if he wants it back. That is when Dani and he can ask for the tapes, from him. Later, Nico sees TK entering the Hawks facility and asks him to leave. The security arrives and escorts TK and Jimmy back to the rehab. Later in the night TK pays Dani a visit at her home. Turns out, Jimmy too is with TK and the both are drunk.

Dani refuses to allow TK in and asks him to go back to rehab. TK is livid at being shunned and creates a scene, when that doesn't work, he promises to go back to the rehab after he has played the first game. Dani though is unrelenting and goes back to bed without paying any heed to his pleading, from outside the house. Later, Dani calls Matt and informs him of all that just transpired. He though awkwardly ends their conversation as he is shown sleeping with the reporter, whose help he took to arm-twist Rob. Next day, Ray gets in a fight with a friend, who he was partnering with in fantasy football, as their pick TK is in rehab and Ray's friend tells him, he should have known that. Matt on the other hand has managed to acquire the receiver for the Hawks.

The GM as a result is overjoyed and welcomes Matt into the management, by making his designation permanent. At his apartment, TK is shown partying with Jimmy and a bunch of girls. He is visibly disturbed on seeing his replacement, performing really well in the first game. Jimmy to raise his spirits, asks TK to accompany him to a recording, where he too can try his hand at singing. Ray is pulled over by a cop, for a busted taillight, the cop then asks him to step out of the car when he sees; the backseat of his car is filled with weed.

TK on the other hand sees Jimmy lying senseless on the floor, and then when trying to wake him up, TK realizes Jimmy is dead. He then frantically, calls up 911. Later in tears, he tells recounts the whole thing to Dani. She then drops him back at the rehab. Later, Nico brings Dani a package that was sent by Pittman, and in it are the tapes. He then tells her 'they found his body, Marshal is dead'. Dani consoles Nico and the two end up kissing each other.

Summary:	After 28 days TK is back from rehab and faces competition for his old job. Pittman's young daughter Juliette has inherited the team; she also meets Ray J, who has escaped his legal trouble with a sentence of community service. Dani finds herself unable to either resume her practice or resolve her conflicting feelings for Matt and Nico. She seeks professional help from her former teacher.

The episode begins 28 days after all that has happened earlier. On the field the Hawks are busy playing another team. Joe Kittridge who has replaced Terrance King is on the field. It is shown that Kittridge scores a touchdown and the announcer mentions how his addition has made a huge impact on the Hawks overall performance. TK in the meantime is in the rehab and it's been a month of recovery. He therefore returns home. Nico is at Marshall Pittman's funeral. TK returns to the Hawks locker room and is welcomed back by Matt and the rest of the team. At the office Dani runs into Nico and behaves rather awkwardly.

Just then they hear a noise of glass shattering and run towards the noise. Turns out, Pittman's daughter Juliette who is extremely drunk is lying unconscious on the floor. Dani, Nico and Matt are informed by Hank that Juliette is the new owner of the Hawks. Later, Juliette and Nico have a chat and Juliette voices her displeasure at being left the Hawks by Pittman in his will, instead of his other businesses. She yells out in complete rage how much she hates football. Later, Nico tells Matt and Hank that Juliette wants to sell the team. Hank reluctantly agrees to the sale but on the condition that the league pick the buyer and Juliette simply show up and sign the papers. Nico says he will communicate this to Juliette.

Dani in the meantime is paying an old professor of hers name Albert a visit. Dani tells him she is there to get a referral as she is a 'bit stuck'. She tells him that because of an incident she stopped seeing clients and now although the incident has cleared up she is finding it difficult in restarting her practice. 'It's been over a month and I honestly don't know why' she says. Albert wants to have a session with her although he doesn't see private clients anymore, as her problem has intrigued him. TK and Kittridge on the other hand indulge in some on field rivalry. Kittridge is basically managing to get on TK's nerves and he has a talk with Dani about it. The fact that he is off the meds, alcohol and sex isn't helping his mood either.

Later Dani has her session with Albert and tells him the issues she is facing. She tells him how she suddenly feels incapable of doing her job and therefore feels she won't really be able to help other people. Albert tells her she has to stop pitying herself and together they will try to get to the bottom of the issue. Also, Dani had told him about her 'dalliance with' a 'co-worker' and Albert brings that up. Dani gets very defensive when asked about it and tries to blow it off by saying she and the co-worker simply kissed and nothing else happened. Albert feels Dani is trying to avoid talking about the issue and gets up to leave. He tells her to give him a call when she is ready to openly talk about her issues. Hank and Nico are waiting for Juliette at the office so she can meet potential buyers.

Juliette arrives and tells them she has found her own buyer and she introduces them to a guy named Dees Ballz who is wearing a lot of bling and accompanying him are his homies. Later, Hank expresses his outrage at Juliette's selection and the guy's name and she clarifies that Dees Ballz is just his rapper name; his actual name is Dwayne Brewer. She argues that Dwayne has a slew of entertainment financiers all of whom love football. Hank isn't convinced, but Juliette is adamant and says she will sell the team to whoever she wants to. At therapy, Dani openly talks about the kiss and tells Albert that she liked the kissing, but she had the 'good sense to stop it'. Albert points out how because of this 'good sense' Dani's life is in disarray.

Juliette in the meantime arrives at Dani's house but is told by Ray she isn't home, which doesn't seem to discourage Juliette who enters the house anyway. She and Ray then have a chat over some ice cream. Juliette tells Ray she is there hoping that Dani 'can fill in some details' for her. Dani returns and sees the two having ice cream. Matt takes TK to play some mini-golf to take his mind off things. Dani meets Nico and tells him how Juliette grilled her about her (Juliette) mother and father, but she told Juliette that she wasn't Marshall or his wife's therapist as they were her boss. Next day at the office, Hank tells Nico they have found a buyer for the team who is ready to pay good money, and he wants Nico to convince Juliette.

He also tells Nico that if Juliette doesn't agree they will take legal recourse and 'get her charter invalidated'. Nico arrives at Dani's house and asks her to help him with Juliette's issue. He tells Dani that Juliette needs someone to talk to and is not willing to talk to him, so Dani needs to talk to her. 'She send me a text. It said goodbye' Nico says. Dani is worried on hearing this and gets ready to meet Juliette. Dani and Nico find Juliette sitting in a graveyard. Dani has a talk with her and she tells her that she can't figure out why Marshall left her the one thing he knew she despised. Dani explains that the team was one of the things Marshall loved and he leaving the team to her was one of the ways of him telling her how he felt. Dani tells her she has her whole life ahead of her and it is up to her what she decides to do with it.

Juliette seems to see reason in what Dani is saying. The Hawks in the meantime are getting killed on the field. TK who is watching the game goes in to give Kittridge a few pointers about how the other team will move, but he doesn't appreciate it and asks TK to not teach him how to play the game. The game begins once again and Kittridge sees that TK's pointers were absolutely right, which helps Kittridge score a touchdown. Later when asked about how he scored the touchdown, Kittridge takes all the credit, much to TK's chagrin. Juliette arrives at Hank's office and tells him that she has decided not to sell the team to anyone. 'I am keeping the team' she tells him and also tells him that he is fired. Juliette basically wants to respect her father's wish.

Juliette later texts Ray informing him that, she is keeping the Hawks and has an offer for him that he can't refuse. At work, Matt asks Dani if there is something going on between her and Nico. 'I am not involved with Nico Matt' Dani says awkwardly. Later, Dani admits to Albert that it's because the phone rang that she and Nico stopped kissing. She also adds that if the phone hadn't rung they would have probably gone all the way.

Dani further admits that she is torn between her love for Matt who she can't be with and her attraction for Nico who she shouldn't be with. Albert in turn simply tells her to restart her practice and accept the fact that her being a therapist doesn't mean she isn't human and can't be plagued by human emotions. He also suggests they continue their therapy sessions. Dani restarts her practice and informs her patients about it.

Production Code: NR213
Summary: Dani treats rock stars; T.K. tries to get his job back; the team adjust to Juliette's leadership; and Dani tries to tap into her subconscious for insight into her love life.

The episode begins at the concert of a rock band named VonDozer. Suddenly the lead singer collapses on the stage. The lead guitarist is not at all happy to see this, as the singer appears drunk or really high. At home Dani is dancing to a VonDozer song. Dani is oblivious to the fact that Ray is watching her. Suddenly she realizes that he is and is visibly embarrassed. Ray too is visibly surprised to see his mother dance the way she is. Ray tells Dani that as a part of his community service he shall be working for Hawks Charity that Juliette Pittman has hooked him up with. Dani is shocked to hear this.

At the office, Matt isn't happy with the way Julia is running things and lets Nico know his feelings. Nico assures him; Juliette will get bored of the Hawks very soon and will find something more interesting to do. Basically, he says things will play themselves out on their own. 'I am trying to run a team' says Matt. 'She just lost her father. Have some compassion' Nick retorts. At Dani's office, two band members of VonDozer, David and Paul are sitting on her couch. Paul who is the guitarist tells his brother David who is the lead singer that, he isn't happy with his ways, as he gets drunk and arrives late all the time. 'Sounds like Rock n Roll don't you think, Dr. Santino?' David retorts.

Dani mentions how she knows that David and Paul broke up 10 years ago and how they had formed VonDozer together, when they were in high school. Dani knows so much, as she is a fan. Turns out, VonDozer now is planning a reunion tour, mainly for 'cash'. But, thanks to David's ways they might end up losing money, as two venues have already cancelled and there are lawsuits filed against them because of David's shenanigans onstage. 'Dr. Santino, please help us get through this tour without killing each other' Paul begs Dani. Later, Dani enters her car and sees Nico sitting inside. They don't say much but instead passionately begin making out. But, it turns out all of it is happening in Dani's dream. Later, Dani brings Paul and David to the club from where they started their career.

She feels to sort things out, it's always better to go back to where it all started. The manager who knows them from the old days is really happy to see them there. David and Paul then decide to jam onstage, which gets Dani all excited. During the session, David decides to sing a song which Paul doesn't seem too happy about. Dani sees Paul asking David not to sing the particular song but David pays no heed and begins singing. Paul in anger steps off the stage and walks out of the club. David though, continues singing. Later Dani has another sex dream with Nico and discusses her dreams with Albert. Dani on Albert's prompting, concludes the dreams are about what she can't have. 'So Danielle what is it that you can't have?' Albert asks her.

TK on the other hand has struck a deal with Juliette, as per which he shall make sure the team respects her and in return she gives him the importance he deserves. As a part of the deal to begin with, TK is given more preference than Kitteridge. At her office, she asks David and Paul about the song Paul had an issue with. Dani knows that this particular song is the only one David 'wrote solo'. Paul reveals that the song is about Willa, Paul's wife. David disputes Paul's claim and the two get into an argument. In the end, Paul storms out. Matt, Nico and the Coach try to talk to Juliette about not mingling too much with TK, but she doesn't take too kindly to their advice and instead threatens to fire them all. Matt isn't at all happy with Juliette's attitude.

Dani has a chat only with David and he reveals that the songs, isn't about Willa but Dylan, Paul's son. David feels Dylan is actually his son. He didn't want to destroy Paul's happiness and hence he kept mum about this issue. TK and Juliette on the other hand bond and have a heart to heart. At Dani's office, David tells Paul the truth. 'I think Dylan is mine' David says. 'No he is not' Paul calmly replies. Paul says Dylan is neither his son nor David's. Paul confirmed this through a DNA test. Dylan is actually the son of 'some roadie' who 'split'. 'I raised him. I am his dad' Paul tells David. Later, Paul comes knocking on Dani's door. Turns out, David is nowhere to be found and the 'concert's tomorrow'.

Paul plays Dani a voice message David sent him, in which he is heard telling Paul how sorry he is. 'He's never done that before... apologized' says a worried Paul. Kitteridge on the other hand insults TK and calls his mother a crack head. TK can take it no more and punches Kitteridge in the face. Paul and Dani find David. He is completely drunk and sitting on the roof of the club they started their career in. They try to talk David into coming down, but to no avail. In the end, David jumps down from the roof. He hurts himself after falling, but seems fine otherwise. Dani asks him to not move as he might have broken something. She asks Paul to call 911.

David tells Dani how all these years he had convinced himself that Dylan was his son and Paul stole his life. Knowing he had a son, made him feel like he had 'something'. But, now he feels like after all these years he has nothing. Dani tells David he is 'still wildly talented' and its time he explored that possibility. Paul and David then make up and reminisce about old times. Dani later has another dream and realizes all her dreams are actually 'movie reenactments'. She discusses with Albert what the meaning of those reenactments could be. Albert helps Dani figure out that the movies she is having the dreams from all 'tragic love stories'. 'So Danielle do you believe in happily ever after?' Albert asks. 'For me? I am not so sure' Dani replies. Matt in the meantime reprimands TK for what he did. 'Toes call my mother crack whore; I am suppose to take that?' TK asks.

Matt basically feels that nothing condones TK punching Kitteridge in the face. TK says Matt is going to keep seeing him as the person he was, rather the guy he is really trying hard to be. Nico tries talking some sense into Juliette, but she doesn't seem to be in a very receptive mood. She asks him to not try to be her father and reminds him that he works for her now. VonDozer on the other hand performs to loud cheers, while Dani all excited watches from backstage. Nico meets Dani and tells her that Ray has a crush Juliette. Dani is worried to hear this. 'Does she have a crush on him, back?' she asks. 'Only in his dreams' he replies. Dani is relieved to hear that. Nico later tells Matt Juliette's 'gotta go'.

The Fall Guy

Season 2
Episode Number: 26
Season Episode: 14

Originally aired: Wednesday February 6, 2013

Production Code: NR214
Summary: Dr. Dani tries to help hot-tempered Coach Purnell keep his cool. Nico and Matt investigate a major scandal. TK turns to the Hawks' Quarterback to try and get himself back up to #1 wide out. On the eve of Angela's birthday, Dani's sister comes to town.

The episode begins with a Hawks game and with Matt watching from the sidelines. Hawks win the game and the Coach is overjoyed. The Coach speaks to a bunch of reporters next. The Coach is asked about the large number of penalties the team is seeing and he loses it. He asks the reporter to focus on the success the team is having rather than on the penalties. He then rants about how his boss is completely incompetent, despite which he is holding the team together, quite successfully. Matt is visibly surprised at how aggressively the Coach is reacting to such a simple question. The Coach's rant later goes viral on the internet. Dani's mother and her sister Ronnie in the meantime pay her a visit.

Her kids are overjoyed to see them, but apparently Dani is not. It's Dani's mother's birthday, which they are planning to celebrate by throwing her a party. Ronnie and Dani seem to have different ideas about how it should be celebrated. TK on the other hand is having some problems with other members of his team. At work, Matt sees how frustrated Dani is, about the fact that her sister is paying her a visit. Matt brings up the Coach's press conference and mentions how Juliette isn't too happy about it. Just then, Felicia the Coach's wife arrives. She says she wants to talk to Dani. Felicia says the Coach 'just isn't himself'.

She mentions that the Coach has lately been very secretive about things. 'I know you can't take him on as a client. But, do you think you can talk to him as a friend?' Felicia asks Dani. Juliette tells Matt and Nico that she isn't at all happy with the Coach humiliating her publicly and wants to replace him. Matt and Nico feel that her decision is a bit extreme and try talking some sense into her, but to no avail. 'Time for cleanup fellows... we are going to fire Coach' she says. TK tells Dani about the problems he is having with his teammate Rex. Dani suggests he and Rex 'establish a rhythm off the field' before they find one on it. Dani next has a chat with the Coach. The Coach isn't very forthcoming and basically tells Dani that he is busy and therefore she should leave.

Before leaving she tells the Coach that her 'doors are always open' if he wants to talk. Later, Matt and Nico tell Dani that Juliette wants to fire the Coach. They ask her what she knows. Dani says the Coach is hiding something. 'The question is ... what' Nico says. TK in the meantime tries to form a bond between him and Rex. Basically, he suggests he and Rex spend some time together, off the field. Matt, while watching the video of Hawks game figures out what the Coach might be hiding. He and Nico pay Dani a visit and tell her that they know the Coach's secret. Matt mentions that this secret could bring down the whole team. Basically, 'a bounty system' is being run within the Hawks. 'It's when someone pays a player to intentionally take out a player of the opposing team' Nico says explaining what the system is all about.

Nico says that this system is not only unethical but also criminal. Matt says he has gone through a number of videos, and observed that many players have been brutally attacked even after the end whistle being blown. 'It's like we are actively trying to end people's career here' he says. Nico also has photographic proof that the Coach met a player named Demoni Jackson, who is known to indulge in the bounty system. Nico and Matt later confront the Coach about it. He is enraged at what they are suggesting and asks them to get out of his office. 'This inquisition is over' he tells them. Rex in the meantime makes it very clear to TK that Kitteridge is a better player than him at the moment. Rex suggests, TK getting shot and going to rehab, probably affected his game and hence he isn't the player he used to be.

Dani's mother suddenly says she doesn't want the party, after seeing the guest list. Both, Dani and Ronnie are baffled by this. They conclude that there is someone on that list their mother has a problem with. Dani suggests there is someone on that list, with who their father had an affair. Just then, the Coach comes knocking at Dani's door. He wants to talk. He says his wife packed her bags and went to her sister's. 'Why?' asks Dani. 'Said she would rather be without me than guessing what's going on' he replies. Dani suggests the Coach could tell her his secret. He says it's something that could cost him his job and he doesn't want to involve his wife in it. Later, Dani brings the Coach to Matt's office. 'Matt I want to tell you the truth' he says.

Nico on the other hand confirms his doubts about Demoni, by pretending he too is interested in the bounty system. He then asks Demoni to tell him, as to who all are involved in the system. At home, TK hits the bottle to cope with his depression of not being his former self anymore. Dani's mother on the other hand corrects Dani's assumption and admits to her that it was a man from the list named Eddie Marconi, who she had an affair with. Dani is not happy to hear this, as her father was always made the fall guy for cheating on her mother, but the fact is they both cheated on each other. Matt and Nico hand Juliette the Coach's resignation letter. They say the Coach admitted to running a bounty program and a player corroborated this.

Ronnie and Dani have a chat and Ronnie calms Dani down and basically asks her to forgive their mother. The two then have a heart to heart and share a few laughs. TK calls Dani and asks her to come over. She makes it to his house and sees that he has been drinking. He tells her what is going through his mind. 'I'm just not the TK I used to be' he tells her. 'Says who?' Dani asks. TK tells her how Rex and everyone else including the press, has been saying this. He admits that he too feels the same way about himself, like others do. He breaks down and says he is drinking only because he knows what everybody is saying is true and he just isn't ready to be 'second string'. Dani talks some sense into TK. Nico in the meantime finds proof that it was actually Juliette who was running the bounty program, and the Coach was simply set up.

Nico tells her the Coach resigned only so it could be proven he was innocent. Next, Nico tells her 'you are going to sell the team... for real this time'. 'You can't make me do that' Juliette says with a smirk. Nico admits he can't, but the league can, after he tells them what she did. Nico reminds her that she will get a billion dollars after she sells the team. 'I hope you decide to do something with it that will make your father proud' he says.

At home, Dani and her mother sort out their differences. Matt and Nico tell the Coach that Juliette has agreed to sell and the 'bounty system is dead and buried. We will make sure of that'. Juliette tells Ray she is selling the Hawks. She says just because their professional relationship is over doesn't mean they can't have a personal one. She then kisses him.

Baker (AA Meeting), John J. Palomino (Reporter)
Production Code: NR215
Summary: Dani discovers that the Hawk's quarterback is dealing with a personal secret. TK gets a new AA sponsor, who helps him deal with his physical limitations. Nico learns that moves Pittman made before his death now make the sale of the team problematic. After working through her feelings about her mother, Dani decides she wants Matt back, but Matt appears to have moved on.

The episode begins with a Hawks game. Rex is giving his team members instructions just before the game is about to begin. The game begins and Rex throws the ball towards Kitteridge, but it's intercepted by a member of the opposing team. Rex is angry with himself and gets into a fight with the team member who intercepted the ball. Dani in the meantime discusses with Albert the affair that her mother had. She is bothered by the fact that her mother called the man she was having the affair with 'the love of her life'. Dani is confused whether her mom did the right thing or not by staying with her father, when she was in love with Eddie Marconi.

At the office, Nico is negotiating the Hawks sale with a couple men. They point out to him that the Hawks stadium, parking lot and other facilities have been sold to an undisclosed third party. Nico is surprised to hear this, because he didn't have a clue about this. The men tell him they would be only interested in buying the Hawks, if they also get the Hawks facilities in the deal. TK promises them, he will get to the bottom of this matter and then get in touch with them. TK on the other hand discovers during training that he has lost 2/10ths of a second. He tells Dani about it and mentions how on the field it makes the difference between 'mediocrity and greatness'.

Dani suggests TK find a sponsor, because she feels it will help him emotionally. TK wants Dani to be the sponsor, but Dani doesn't think it's a good idea and suggests he find a sponsor in his support group. 'Fine I'll go sponsor shopping' he reluctantly says, in the end. Later at the office, Matt tells Dani about Rex and says that lately he has been reckless and really aggressive. He also shows her a video of the on field scuffle he had earlier. A little later, Noelle the reporter Matt had slept with a few weeks earlier, arrives. She is there to see Matt and Dani isn't at all happy about it, but plays it cool.

Dani receives a call from Ronnie just then, informing her that their mother had a heart attack. Later at home, Dani informs Lindsay that a stent has been put in her (Dani) mother's heart and she shall be fine. Later, Dani has a chat with Rex in her office. He mentions that he is seeing someone. He says he is giving everything he can into the relationship but the woman he is dating doesn't think it's enough. Dani asks Rex for the woman's name, but Rex isn't very forthcoming. He says just because his on field performance has been a bit off, it doesn't mean he has to talk to a complete stranger about his personal life. 'We done?' he asks her and gets ready to leave. 'Nah, I think we are just beginning' Dani replies with a smile.

TK in the meantime is having dinner with his old coach Joe Liberty, who is himself a recovering alcoholic. TK suggests Liberty become his sponsor and help him remain clean and on the right track. Liberty reluctantly agrees but says he has a few conditions. He asks TK to meet him the next day and says 'be prepared to sweat'. Nico is trying to find out who the three anonymous buyers are, to whom Pittman sold the team assets. Nico asks Pittman's lawyer to find out who owns these assets and how much it is going to cost to get them back. Later, Dani asks Nico to find out about Eddie Marconi. Coach Liberty brings TK to a ballet class, for some lessons. TK realizes what Liberty meant when he said 'be prepared to sweat' now.

Basically, Liberty feels these lessons might help make TK more limber and agile, besides adding a few more years to his career. TK on his part isn't initially crazy about the whole idea, but eventually warms up to it. At her office, Dani again tries to talk to Rex again, but he doesn't want to share anything personal with her. He says he can be forced to come to her by the team management but can't be forced to talk. Eventually he opens up and says his girlfriend's name is Suzan and they have been dating for a couple of years now. Dani figures out, Rex is lying and there isn't really a Suzan. She confronts Rex about it. He confirms with Dani that whatever he says will remain confidential and says his partner's name is Jim. In other words, he reveals that he is gay.

He tells Dani that he and Jim have been seeing each other for the past 3 years. Rex says Jim wants them to move in together. But, Rex says his family doesn't know he is gay and 'there are no active gay football players'. Dani feels Rex leading a double life on and off the field is taking its toll. Rex agrees. He says Jim has laid down the ultimatum; either Rex come out of the closet or 'he is gone'. Rex is afraid to come out, because he is worried about the media circus that will follow. Dani asks Rex to bring Jim in for a session. Later, Nico informs Dani that Eddie Marconi has died last year of cancer. Noelle and Matt on the other hand begin dating. Rex brings Jim to meet Dani. They both put forth their point of views. Rex says he is in the prime of his career and his coming out of the closet would jeopardize it.

Rex asks Jim for just a few years and promises he shall come out once he retires. Jim feels there is nothing wrong in Rex coming out now and can't see any sense in Rex's reasoning. Jim wants Rex to come out of the closet now, and basically says that Rex will lose him if he doesn't. TK is tired of attending the ballet class and tells Liberty that he doesn't think its helping. Liberty tries to talk some sense into him, but to no avail. Nico tells Matt that a guy named Mark Cuban owns the Hawks' assets. Cuban it turns out wants a meeting with them. Liberty pays TK a visit at home. He sees an unopened bottle of booze on the kitchen counter. TK says he wants a drink. Liberty suggests they both have a drink.

TK is baffled and feels Liberty is trying to apply some reverse psychology. 'I am your sponsor right? You go down I go down' Liberty says. He pours some booze into two glasses and begins telling TK about his addiction and how he struggled with it. He reasons with TK that he can never be 20 again and hence can't be as fast and strong as he used to be, but he can be smarter. He then pours the booze into the sink. TK asks him to do the same with the booze in his glass. Rex decides to come out of the closet, because he doesn't want to lose Jim. Dani realizes she was trying to find out about her mother's lover, because she hasn't gotten over her own lover.

She tells Albert she wants to be with Matt and wants to start a family with him, even though she knows there is a risk things might not work out. TK's ballet lessons on the other hand seem to be having the desired effect on his footwork and Kitteridge notices this and looks worried. Dani meets Matt and tells him how she feels. She basically tells him that's she can't live without him and doesn't want to lose him. Dani even says that she is ready to 'throw caution to the wind' and have his kids. 'Why are you telling me this now?' Matt asks her angrily. 'Where was this 2 months ago?' he adds.

Dani says she just realized 'this' and therefore wanted to let him know. Matt sarcastically thanks her for telling him how she feels and adds that he isn't some 'yoyo' she can play with. He tells her that he is trying to move on with his life and can't go through the pain once again.

Summary: A secret surfaces and threatens to cause a scandal that could bring down the Hawks' entire season. Dani makes a decision regarding her feelings for Matt and Nico.

The episode begins with the historic moments in different sports being shown. The Coach, Nico and Matt are informed by Dani that Rex is gay. Matt says Rex's personal life is not their business. But, Dani mentions Rex wants to go public with this news. They aren't too happy to hear that. 'There's no way this can be contained' Nico says. They mention to Dani that the team is looking for a new owner and have a meeting with Mark Cuban. They feel Rex should hold off on this news till 'after the season'. Dani says this is going to happen whether they like it or not, so they should start preparing for it. Later, Matt apologizes to Dani for losing his temper the other night.

Matt then says 'I just wanted to tell you, I am involved with someone'. Dani is visibly bothered to hear this and asks who it is. Matt doesn't give her an answer. She asks him how involved he is and he says he doesn't know yet. Juliette in the meantime is going to Paris for business after she sells the team; she wants Ray J to come along. Rex and Dani meet a public relations guy who has been brought in by Nico and Matt. The PR guy is there to advise Rex and the others on how they should exactly go public with Rex's news. He also warns Rex about the repercussions this revelation might have. 'We prepare for the worst and then hope to be pleasantly surprised' the PR guy says at the end of his briefing.

Dani later suggests to Rex that before this news breaks, he should talk to someone in the team who he trusts. 'I've got it narrowed down' Rex says. Next, Rex is shown having dinner with TK. Rex, shocks TK by revealing during their meal that he's gay. Rex tells TK how he is planning to reveal this news to the world in the next few days. TK doesn't think it's a good idea. Rex in turn says he wants TK to support him 'in the locker room and the press'. Rex reasons that he is tired of pretending to be someone he is not and now he is done with it. Matt, Nico and Juliette meet with Mark Cuban. He says he isn't interested in buying the Hawks and simply helped Marshall out because he needed the money. He says he bought the Hawks stadium and the other facilities for $250M and is willing to sell them back for $500M.

TMZ and other tabloids in the meantime leak the news that there is a gay player on the Hawks who is about to come out of the closet. The PR guy tells Matt, Dani and Nico that there is a leak, within the Hawks. Nico comments on how Matt's girlfriend is a reporter and suggests the leak might have originated from there. Matt later questions Noelle about it and she denies leaking this news. The two get into a bit of an argument and Matt basically suggests they break up, because their professional and personal lives are beginning to clash. Noelle is pissed at the suggestion and says Matt is looking for their relationship to fail simply because he is still in love with someone else.

Rex in the meantime tells Dani he can't take the pressure and wants out. He basically describes to Dani how his teammates in the locker room are already making fun of the anonymous gay player. He therefore feels he will find it difficult to survive in the team, if he comes out. Dani tries reasoning with him, but Rex is now adamant about not coming out. Later at home, Dani finds out about Ray J's plan to go to Paris with Juliette. Dani isn't at all happy about it and has a huge showdown with Ray J. Ray J is adamant about going and just as he is about to storm out of the house in anger, he sees a bunch of reporters blocking the front door. Next, Nico arrives to handle the situation. She tells him that Rex has changed his mind.

Nico reveals that Mark Cuban has agreed to sell back the Hawks' assets at a reasonable price and in return Nico shall now work for him. The job is in Dallas, Nico tells Dani. Dani is visibly unhappy with the news and it seems as if she wants to stop Nico from going, but in the end she doesn't say much. Nico on his part feels there is nothing left at the Hawks to hold him back. Next day, the Hawks have a really bad first half, during a game. In the dressing room Kitteridge tells everyone that it's because of this gay player that the team's performance is getting affected. He asks whoever the gay player is, to come forward and quit the team. TK intervenes and talks Kitteridge down, for the trash he is talking. TK even lies that he is the gay player.

TK then gives the whole team an inspiring pep talk about how they all have some or the other flaw, but when they are on the field they all play as a team and that is what they should be doing today. Rex intervenes and says everything that TK is saying is true and then reveals to everyone that he's gay. Everybody is stunned by the revelation. The team goes back on the field. Rex sees Dani and tells her what he just did. 'Can I ask you what changed your mind?' she asks him. 'Terrance King' he says with a smile. Next, the Hawks perform really well on the field and end up winning the game. The winning touchdown is scored by TK and he does it in a rather impressive fashion.

The sports announcer mentions that 'Terrance King is officially back'. Matt in the meantime asks Dani out to dinner and then kisses her. Nico sees this and calls up Mark Cuban to confirm that he's 'in'. Next, Rex comes out officially, in a press conference. 'I'm a professional football player and I am gay' Rex ends by saying. Dani in the meantime receives a text from Lindsay informing her that 'Ray J is leaving tonight'. Dani returns home and tries to talk some sense into Ray J. Ray J is adamant and tells Dani he has made up his mind.

Dani says he is making a huge mistake. 'It's my mistake to make' he says. 'If you walk out that door you are on your own' she tells him. 'I know' he says and leaves. Noelle wants to talk to Matt about something, but she sees he is really busy. It's then shown that she has a pregnancy test strip in her purse and it's showing positive. She in the end leaves without talking to him. Nico is about to leave for his new job, just then a couple of men walk up to him and say that they need to talk to him. Turns out, they are FBI agents. They want Nico to come along with them.

Summary: Dani receives a tempting offer from a businessman. Elsewhere, TK tries to adjust to a tough new coach; Nico returns; and Dani helps a baseball player confront his fear of flying.

We open with a new coach giving the Hawks a pep talk about the team's future and changes that are going to be made to ensure their position as champions. Matthew Donnally explains to Dani why the Hawks had to let the previous coach, Coach Purnell, go. He wasn't helping the Hawks win any championships.

After a dismal introduction to the new coach, Coach Tom Wizinski belittled Dani's ability as a therapist and questions the need for a therapist at all. Dani is fired by him after she tries to defend herself and her job.

A week passes and Dani still hasn't heard back from the Hawks. Dani's friend, Jeanette comforts her with wise words and alcohol. During Jeanette's custom therapy, Dani receives a call from Nico Careles who tells her a limousine is waiting for her in her driveway.

The limousine takes Dani to V3, an all-in-one sports marketing, fashion designing, public relations powerhouse corporation. There, President Connor McClane and CFO Troy Cutler asks Dani if she'd like to work on a special case for them. Darryl Hutchinson is a pro-baseball hopeful who has a fear of flying. Connor asks Dani to help him overcome his fear or else his future in baseball is doomed.

Terrence King is disappointed he can't go to Dani for therapy anymore. Matthew suggests he goes to see the new therapist hired by Coach Wizinski.

After getting slapped by her, Nico apologizes to Dani for leaving without a word and not responding to any of her attempts to talk to him and explains that he got a job at V3 instead of going to Dallas like he was planning.

Dani and Connor go to see Darryl at the V3 athlete academy where he's practicing his perfect pitch. Upon getting to know him better, Dani learns Darryl's problem started recently. Dani plans to use his scheduled interview later in the week in Philadelphia as an opportunity to improve his flying mental state. To begin the therapy, Dani takes Darryl on a stationary plane with the door open. Nico and Troy join them to observe. Darryl starts to have a panic attack, but Dani calms him enough to take a pill to calm his nerves. Once he's calmed down enough, he tells her he's ready to close the door and take off.

Meanwhile, Terrence hates Coach Wizinski's therapist because instead of having a comfortable couch and jelly beans, the new therapist just asks him vague questions while writing notes down in a journal.

While on the flight, Dani attempts to talk to Nico about what he's been up to the last few months with no success. The flight is about to land when Darryl wakes up and starts panicking. His pitching arm has gone completely numb. Back at V3, Troy accuses Dani of saying something to Darryl that made his arm go numb, but she defends herself and explains to Connor that she believes Darryl has some sort of psychosomatic conversation disorder where his stress expresses itself in many different ways.

Dani finds out that Darryl was absent from the academy for a couple weeks in the previous year, and after doing some research, she finds that a promising pitcher dropped out just before the draft started. Upon doing some research and getting a police report from Nico, Dani learns that Darryl was the primary witness in a case involving the pitcher that dropped out last year.

Meanwhile, the Hawks are having an incredibly hard time dealing with Coach Wizinski's practices - the players are actually getting sick on the field while Wizinski demands more from them. Terrence attempts to help one of his teammates, and because of that, Wizinski demands more running from the team. Frustrated by the new coach and blaming Matthew for letting Dani go so easily, Terrence quits the team. Matthew shows up at Dani's begging her to come back to the Hawks and help Terrence rejoin the team. Dani refuses.

Dani talks to Darryl about the pitcher that dropped out last year before the draft started. Turns out the pitcher was a legend at the academy and just a week before the draft, Darryl watched the pitcher go nuts. Dani believes that from that experience, Darryl is experiencing post traumatic stress disorder, and his fear that he'll end up like the drop-out pitcher is exacerbating his PTSD. Dani reassures him that the biggest difference between Darryl and the drop-out is that Darryl is getting help before anything terrible happens.

Terrence shows up at Dani's house that night and tells her he's quit the team so now he can go under her care again. She refuses him and says that "therapy isn't a forever thing" and that maybe he's safe to move on on his own.

After helping him through his trauma, Dani finds out from Connor that Hutchinson didn't get the draft they were expecting, but instead the New York Yankees are interested in drafting him. Terrence goes back to Coach Wizinski and gets his place back on the team. Connor offers Dani a full time job at V3 as long as she works exclusively for them and closes her private practice. Matthew shows up at her door, apologizes for everything, and tells her he's leaving the Hawks for a job in Boston. They hug and part ways.

The final scene shows Dani being welcomed as a new employee at V3. Troy is hesitant to see her working there full time, but Connor reassures him he's made the right decision. The episode closes with Nico on the phone, watching the welcome party from a balcony, and telling the person on the other line, "We have a problem."

Guest Stars: Joshua Michael Allen (Todd), Angelina Arola (Department Head), Johanna Braddy (Cindy Luck), Ali Froid (Agent), Karen Henning (V3 Agent), King (Mercedes Boy), Jessica Luza (Missy), Holly Lynch (Jasmine), Justin Miles (Lars), Simon Needham (Director), Michael Rose (Bennett), Travis Smith (Rex Evans), William Frasca (V3 Agent)
Production Code: NR302
Summary: Dani helps a former child star struggling with growing pains that have put her career on the rocks. Connor works to revamp TK's image to snag a major endorsement. Nico finds himself at odds with Dani.

It's Dani's first official day on the job at V3 and she's already overwhelmed—not by the quantity or kind of patients she'll have to help but by the enormous office, generous expense account, luxury company car and a hyper-efficient assistant the company has presented her with. Unused to having anyone doing anything for her, Dani resists the perks. But her new boss, Connor McLane, takes her out to dinner and convinces her she deserves to be taken care of and treated well. Despite the growing tension between her and Anders and the continued strangeness with Nico, Dani gives in to the glamorous extras, including the assistance of the energetic Paloma, which come with being employed by V3.

TK has returned to the Hawks but realizing that his days as a pro football player are numbered, he meets with Connor to discuss the potential of securing lucrative endorsement deals like his teammate Rex Evans has as a client of V3. Unfortunately, TK's bad behavior with Sporty Boost has followed him. However, Connor is willing to give TK a second chance if he can prove to the world that he's lovable and reliable—no small feat for TK. If he can do it, not only will he secure his financial future, but also he'll be able to see Dani as a patient again.

While Nico and Dani tag-team on handling a former child-star whose love addiction is getting in the way of shooting her first serious film, he admits to Dani that he never expected her to stay. But she has no idea that he doesn't want her to stay just as much as Anders doesn't. Is Nico protecting her... or pushing her out?

Summary: Dani steps in to help a star basketball player whose career is in free throw freefall. Connor goes to war with a rival management company. TK might be the war's first casualty.

Connor asks Dani to help a basketball player who has gone cold from the free throw line, although he is represented by rival agency SBG. This leads to a war between the two agencies, with one SBG partner (Connor's former assistant) trying to woo away TK. Using this war as cover, Nico has V3's computers hacked in the interest of his own investigation, and installs a hacker as a second agent within V3. Dani has difficulty making connections with Lyndsey but makes progress in setting boundaries with her assistant Paloma.

Parsons (Stanzi Palmer), Autumn Reeser (Abby Bruce), Michael Rose (Bennett)
Production Code: NR304
Summary: Dani helps a self-help guru who doesn't believe in talk therapy. TK meets his match in Sheera. Nico gathers inside information on V3.

We open with Dani regaling Paloma of her trip to Idaho, while Paloma immediately begins attempting to fill Dani's empty social schedule with something fun. Connor has also scheduled an appointment for Dani to meet with Nolan Powers, the self-help guru and motivational speaker who advocates against therapy of any kind, suggesting to instead "Snap out of it!"

Connor and Dani meet Nolan during one of his self-help speeches, after which Dani and Nolan exchange some harsh words about each other's professions.

After speaking privately with Connor, Dani sees Nolan staring out of the window of the V3 high rise. After getting his attention, Nolan asks Dani if the window can open, and when she replies no, Nolan tells her he wants to kill himself. Dani attempts to speak to Nolan about his suicidal thoughts, but his wife, Alli comes in and he claims a migraine is coming on and he's got to get some rest.

Meanwhile, Terrence hooks up with a V3 model named Sheera and after getting out of the shower, finds he's alone and all the model left behind was a bag of health and beauty samples. He goes to see her later, confronts her about the gift back and asks her why she didn't stay for breakfast. Sheera tells him that she didn't think he wanted to attach any strings, but if he did, she left him a pass to the place she frequents the most. She stays the next day for lunch.

Alone in a vehicle somewhere, Nico is speaking with a federal agent about hackers that have been placed in the V3 system, and the federal agent is pushing Nico to get him the information he needs as soon as possible. Nico tells him it's too risky, but submits and tells the agent he'll do it, but only for something in exchange.

After a meeting discussing plans for Nolan's book release and new television show, Connor stops Nolan to ask him if he's feeling alright. Nolan blows off the conversation with Dani, claiming, "If you ever had a migraine, you'd want to kill yourself too."

Dani goes to a bar that night for a V3 lady's night where a cute representative named Sam from one of V3's clients drops by. Sam tells Dani he's been dying to get to know her better. Just before they start to get to know each other, Dani's phone vibrates and Alli is on the line. Apparently, Alli had gone through Nolan's laptop that had been left open. She found a fake email, proceeded to read some of the emails. Nolan has been staying up late at night having long, improper discussions with 12 year old girls.

Connor and Dani confront Nolan about the emails and he refuses it up and down. Nolan says he's getting a divorce from Alli. In the end, Nolan tells them to set up a lie detector test so he can prove he's not doing what the emails show he's doing.

Terrence and Sheera get to know each other a little, and Terrence finds that Sheera went to Stanford University with the intent to become an entrepreneur and then philanthropist. She wants to be rich. Terrence tells her of his dream to make a women's lingerie line called Brickhouse. Sheera suggests they start a business together.

Much to the excitement of Paloma, Dani receives flowers at her office from Sam. Later, Dani finds out from Nico that Powers has passed the lie detector test. Dani insists on seeing Nolan, but when they finally get to the hotel, the television was on showing cartoons, the window was covered in stickers, and the coffee table was covered in crayon drawings. Nolan was nowhere to be found. They do some more searching of the hotel room and find a note written in crayon reading "Help me" along with migraine medication.

Meanwhile, Terrence walks in on Sheera pitching Brickhouse Lingerie to Connor. Terrence is immediately angry, telling Connor that Sheera didn't have his consent to pitch it in the first place.

Dani goes to Connor to show him what she and Nico found at the hotel room. While discussing the situation with Connor, Dani notices the safety scissors found in the hotel room were left-handed scissors. Just then, Nico walks in and tells them Nolan has been arrested for attempted arson of his childhood home in New Jersey.

At the Trenton police station, Dani finally speaks to Nolan about what happened. He's still incredibly angry about the entire situation and refuses to talk before he sees his lawyer. Dani shows him the crayons and note he left. Upon seeing the crayons, Nolan's face suddenly relaxes and he starts drawing a castle. Dani asks him what his name is and he replies, "Scotty," and that he is $8\frac{3}{4}$ years old. Scotty says that Nolan needs help, but he won't let anyone in.

Once Connor, Nico, and Dani get Nolan out of the police station, Dani discusses with Nolan the possibility that he has dissociative identity disorder. She tells him that as a child he experienced some sort of trauma that causes his identities to split into a multi-million dollar motivational speaker, and a scared 8 year old boy. Nolan has no choice but to attend therapy to attempt to merge his identities.

Terrence visits V3 to apologize to Connor for the way he acted earlier only to find Connor already on board and Sheera in Connor's office discussing Brickhouse yet again. Connor likes everything he's heard and is ready to put together a design team.

Sam visits Dani's office and asks if she'd like to join him for drinks. She declines, and Paloma asks her why such an "awesome unattached woman won't go out for drink with handsome, unattached, lovely man."

Nico speaks with the federal agent again and tells him he's found a second set of books being kept at V3. In exchange the federal agent gives Nico entrance to the Immigration and Customs Enforcement office. Nico requests to visit an inmate, Alex Careles.

At one of Nolan's book signings, Connor tells Dani that Nolan is blowing off the therapist. Connor reassures her that he will keep an eye on Nolan. Before they leave, Scotty appears, writes in a book, and gives it to Dani. In it, Scotty writes, "At least we tried."

That night, Dani goes out to the hotel bar with Sam. He leaves his hotel door card with her. Dani hesitates, but eventually goes up to spend the night with Sam before he leaves in the morning.

Summary: An unwelcome surprise has Connor hunting a mole at V3. Dani counsels an accountant with a big secret. Paloma wants to get on the fast track. TK's new relationship with Sheera heats up.

Dani feels like her life is really coming together. Her job is working out well, her "two night stand" with Sam went well, and she's happy.

Life for Terrence is a little crazy - he and Sheera are fighting and Connor still wants them to join forces to make Brickhouse Lingerie work as Hollywood's new power couple. Terrence relents and together they go by "She-K."

The excitement and good fortune are suddenly cut short when, during a meeting about the upcoming V3 charity event with Carl Weber, the VP of V3's accounting branch, the FBI raid V3 headquarters for reasons unknown.

The FBI raid holds Terrence up and he misses practice - a practice Coach Wizinski isn't going to let fly.

After the raid, Connor encourages the V3 employees that V3 has done nothing wrong and there is no real reason for the raid, and that they will all get to the bottom of this.

Also after the raid, Dani's nervous about the mental state of the V3 environment and Connor has absolutely no idea why his company would be raided in the first place. He and Troy scramble to gather information and prevent any spin that would detract from their upcoming charity event.

Despite that, Coach Wizinski demands $5,000 from Terrence in return for missing practice. Coach also reminds Terrence that there is a 10 pm curfew at the hotel the night before the upcoming game, and if Terrence misses that curfew he's off the team.

Meanwhile, Nico chews out the federal agent he's been reporting to for raiding the V3 building without notifying him ahead of time. Nico gives him four weeks to cut him loose from being their informant inside the company, then he's leaving for Dallas for good.

After watching the breaking news about the raid on television, Connor and Troy agree that if the news networks don't know, the reason they were raided has not been made public. Connor is worried about whether or not someone is working on the inside. Connor's instinct is to go to his biggest competition - an old personal assistant of his, Abigail Bruce, who has, since leaving Connor, made her own company called SMG. She denies having anything to do with it, even though she is obviously still very salty over what happened between her and Connor years ago.

Before leaving the office, Carl asks to speak with Dani privately. He spills his guts to her only after being reassured he has patient confidentiality with her. The FBI was after him, and he has only a few options. He can run, he can confess, or he can hope the whole thing blows over. He asks for Dani's help after figuring out which option he'll choose.

After getting back to her office, Troy attempts to get information from Dani about any V3 employees he or Connor should be worried about. Frustrated, Dani tells him again that what is discussed between she and her patients is totally confidential.

Meanwhile, Sheera tells Terrence about the upcoming charity event where they'll show themselves off together on the red carpet, debuting themselves as the power couple "She-K." The charity event is the same night Coach wants Terrence in bed by 10 pm. Sheera reassures Terrence that he'll be back in his hotel room by 9:59 pm because they cannot miss this opportunity.

With nowhere else to go, Dani goes to Nico to get advice from him about the situation with the FBI. Without saying any names, Dani asks him what will happen if the person the FBI was looking for were to confess. Nico agrees to arrange a meeting with one of his old FBI coworkers.

Dani is forced to cut dinner with Sam short because Carl needs her help. Carl stole money from the company and he's having second thoughts about confessing. Troy gets Paloma to steal a USB drive with Dani's schedule. Troy reassures her that she'll have something waiting for her when she's done helping him. Troy is convinced Bruce is behind the FBI raid and that Dani is either working for her or knows who is.

Dani and Nico arrange a meeting with Carl and Nico's old FBI coworker, but Carl doesn't show up. Instead, he texts Dani that he's decided to go with another option. Terrified he's going to kill himself, Dani and Nico begin to search for him.

Bruce shows up at the charity event, and after handing Connor a check, Connor still presses her to admit she was behind the raid.

Carl was supposed to introduce Connor during the charity event, but instead informs Troy that he's got the flu and he can't come.

Dani, preoccupied by her patient's whereabouts, decides to break things off with Sam because she can't do a casual, superficial relationship. He tells her to find him in two years when he's ready to settle down.

After Connor gave the introductory speech, Terrence and Sheera leave to make Terrence's curfew. They make it just in time for the Coach to find them at the elevator.

Dani learns from Nico that Carl killed himself by jumping off a building. He'd been stealing from the charity foundation. The next day, Dani is still visibly shaken. She'd never lost a patient before. On Dani's desk, Carl left a USB and a note saying "I'm sorry I couldn't live with myself."

Totally lost and shaken, Dani finds herself with even more stress to deal with as her now dead patient leaves the evidence in her hands.

Summary: Dani helps a famed fantasy writer. A sex tape scandal has TK's career in limo and Connor on damage control. Nico possesses explosive information that could shake up V3.

Conner has given Dani one of her hardest clients yet — a famous author whose gone agoraphobic since the deadline for his latest novel passed nine months ago. Through Dani's struggle with William Glass, she's having nightmares about her previous client — the FBI-wanted V3 accountant who committed suicide instead of coming out to the FBI himself. Dani believes she's being haunted by the late accountant's ghost.

Meanwhile, Terrence is having serious career trouble. He missed the curfew the Coach Wizinski gave him the night before the most recent game - and the only reason Coach Wizinski knows that is because a sex tape of Terrence and Sheera was made public from that night. Now, because Coach Wizinski already gave him one chance, Terrence is being traded from the Hawks and being moved to Buffalo, the bottom ranking team in the leagues. Terrence's career as a football player is doomed — unless Conner can arrange something with Coach Wizinski.

While all of this is going on, Troy and Paloma are continuing their tryst — Paloma, seemingly for companionship, and Troy because he wants to get Paloma to snoop around Dani's office for him to get more information on the late accountant and his wrongdoings.

After Dani and Glass visit an old comic shop Glass used to work at for inspiration, Dani finds out Glass has maxed out his credit card — one that has a $500,000 limit per month. So, on top of the agoraphobia, Glass has a shopping problem. He says, maybe he's a shopaholic, too! "One more thing and we can have a trifecta!" But Dani doesn't think that's the case — she knows he's doing anything to avoid writing — and why? "Because it's the end," Glass says, and writing the end of the story is like saying goodbye to all of the characters he's known and loved for eight years, through the books and the movies.

Terrence is still in danger of being traded, which is why Conner is meeting with the Buffalo coach to arrange anything he can to get him uninterested in Terrence. On the way out of their vehicle, Terrence and Sheera run into a group of paparazzis who catch part of their conversation and start badgering them with questions about the trade and a new show Sheera might be hosting. Terrence gets mad and tells them to stop talking about the woman he loves, to which they respond with questions of marriage.

While Dani was out of her office, Paloma managed to snatch the USB drive the late accountant left Dani with all of the evidence. Just before leaving, Paloma finds Troy sweet talking another employee. She decides not to give the USB to Troy and instead returns it to a shaken Dani who's run back to her office in search of it. That night, Dani gives the USB to Nico because she's afraid she'll lose it herself now.

The next day, Glass shows up at Dani's office with 75 pages written of his new novel — but not the one he needs to get done, which is what Dani needed him to write. He wants the two main characters to stay together forever, and Dani thinks it's as simple as writing whatever ending Glass wants for them, but it isn't. He doesn't think he can write it — he doesn't think he can do the story justice — so he isn't.

Terrence and Sheera, between Sheera's phone blowing up with new opportunities, have fallen in love. Meanwhile, Conner is still doing everything he can to make Coach Wizinski not trade Terrence off to another team. That night, Terrence asks Sheera if she planted the camera to record them having sex. Sheera stammered about empires and famous couples — but Terrence didn't hear a no. After finally getting it out of her, Terrence shows Sheera the door.

After going through the series, Dani finds something out about Glass. Turns out, he started writing in the first place because the main female character in his series is based on a real person, a woman he fell in love with in high school. Dani believes Glass has avoidant personality disorder — where someone avoids intimate relationships at any cost for fear of rejection. Glass has turned to fantasy to escape reality.

Paloma, frustrated about being pushed into betraying her friend and boss, breaks it off with Troy, who then threatens that she's not "on the fast track" at V3.

Nico and Dani are finally able to get into the USB and find a list of charities V3's foundation was donating to — one of which they'd never heard of before, in the Cayman Islands. The late accountant wasn't just stealing money — he was moving it there for someone else.

The late accountant's ghost comes back in her dreams to thank her for not giving up on him even though he gave up on himself.

Conner wasn't able to keep Terrence on the Hawks, but instead moves him to New Jersey, where his first coach, Coach Purnell, now works.

Summary:	Connor asks Dr. Dani to resume a course of therapy with her very first V3 client. TK struggles to shake Sheera after their break-up. Nico continues to work behind the scenes for the FBI to investigate the scandal at V3.

Dani's got a new temporary assistant who can't seem to keep the months straight, or even names straight.

It's his first week — and whatever Dani needs to get done is going to be harder to keep track of because of it. Dani knows she's got one thing to do for sure — she's got to have dinner with Darryl Hutchinson, the top baseball draft pick for the season who fell ill a couple episodes ago out of fear of failure. Connor even presents him with a baseball in a glass case — the first baseball he used to pitch a perfect game in the minors. Darryl doesn't seem very excited. After Darryl's dad, Ed Hutchinson, invites Dani to Darryl's first baseball game, Dani finds Darryl in an empty conference room getting sick. He looks up to Dani from wastebasket and says, "I've got to get out of here!"

Connor tells Terrence he's stuck with Sheera because the three of them made a deal — that and Connor went through a lot of work rebranding him. But, if worst comes to worst, Connor gives Terrence some advice that sounds very typical of Connor: "The only way to get over a good woman is to get under a great one." Terrence follows this, only to have Sheera walk in on it to get her stuff from his apartment. A storm follows — full of Terrence's belongings that Sheera is throwing around. The night ends with Terrence and Sheera back together — but not in the way either of them expected.

Meanwhile, Connor's attorney is worried about the feds stepping up the investigation into V3's finances. Unbeknownst to Connor - Nico's got more work from the feds. They're sending him away to investigate where all the money was being funneled away to by V3's late accountant.

Darryl's going through a lot of stress — there's a lot of pressure on the most promising baseball player entering the majors this season — and he's terrified of failure. Dani and Ed attend Darryl's game, and it's going great — he's pitching like he's in the major leagues already — until he passes out on the mound. After that, they're already reconsidering bringing him into the major leagues at all and instead leaving him in the minors — where he might stay forever if he doesn't take advantage of his the second chance they're giving him.

After some investigating, Dani believes Darryl is making himself vomit on purpose to help cope with the stress. Connor is trying to cover for him, but it does no good. Hutchinson decides to quit baseball entirely. Connor is frustrated because he spent ten years trying to get Darryl where he was, and now it's been thrown away. Darryl is no longer working with V3 — which means he is no longer Dani's patient.

After their night of passion, Sheera's pissed that Terrence was having break-up sex with her the night before while she was having make-up sex. After getting Sheera's reaction to their last night together, Terrence goes to Dani for help. He's afraid Sheera might hurt herself or him, so Dani gives them couple's counseling. In the end, Sheera decides to break it off with him.

Somehow, the information got out to the public that Darryl had issues with mental illness, and that's why he's decided to retire from baseball. Dani accuses Connor of leaking the information, but he denies it. She doesn't believe him, and leaves her job at V3. Connor goes to Nico to get help to get back on Dani's good side. After Nico gives him some advice, Connor tells Nico he's got to know where Nico is at all times.

Terrence agrees to meet with Sheera to exchange what goods they had at each other's places. Sheera begs him to come back — she made some mistakes — and he made some mistakes, but the difference was that the people Terrence made mistakes against forgave him. Sheera asks for one last kiss, and if after that one kiss, Terrence wants it to be over, Sheera agrees to walk out. Apparently the kiss was great — because in the end, Terrence and Sheera are engaged.

Connor doesn't want Dani to leave — bringing Dani into V3 was one of the best moves of Connor's career, and losing her would be the worst.

Dani calls Nico over because she needs to find a man named Joseph Crabcheck. Nico is looking for the same guy — but for different reasons. And, after a ridiculously passionate kiss from Nico, Dani and Nico sit down and compare notes — his from the feds and hers from V3.

Summary: Dr. Dani treats two track stars with a bad case of sibling rivalry. TK's quest for his first championship ring is put in jeopardy. Nico searches for a washed-out athlete, who just might be the missing piece to the V3 puzzle.

Nico and Dani are trying to have a conversation about the fate of V3, and a man they're both looking for for very different reasons - but Nico is having a hard time keeping his lips off Dani's. She wants to keep it professional, for the sake of the bigger issue at hand: finding Joseph Crabcheck.

Paloma's finally back the next day after being "sick" for two weeks. She claims it was the combination of a family thing and a flu thing. Later, Troy reminds Paloma that she's expendable, again threatening to fire her. Dani, of course, doesn't know about this, and before Paloma even gets a chance to give Dani her schedule, Connor shows up with two new clients for Dani, two sisters who could go to the Olympics, but up until this point have always been competing against each other. Now, they have to work together on a team. It appears to Dani that they've got a very simple sibling rivalry that they have to learn to overcome when it comes to running in the Olympics. The first things she has them do is a trust exercise, running laps while one is blind folded and the other guides them.

And as for Terrence and Sheera, the wedding might be off because Terrence is getting a prenup. Later during football practice, Terrence is still on the phone with Sheera trying to convince her to sign the prenup, but she hangs up on him. After some jeering by his teammates, Terrence gets ready to play. He catches a pass, hits the ground, and the next thing he knows - he can't feel his arm. Connor takes him to the physical therapist for examination. Sheera's still blowing up his phone with calls, and when he finally answers, she's calling because she heard he was hurt, not because she wants to argue more.

Meanwhile, Connor finds out from his lawyer that when Troy was supposed to be in Germany on business, he was instead holding meetings with V3 board members without Connor's knowledge. So, Connor goes to Bruce, his ex-assistant and president of one of the largest V3 competitors. They left on bad terms, but now Connor is coming to her on his knees, genuinely apologetic, and ready to team up again as business leaders.

Nico and Dani take a trip to Connecticut to visit Joseph Crabcheck's mother, who claims she hasn't heard from or seen Joseph in a long time. Nico doesn't believe her, but only because he sees a pair of cleats hanging outside the house, covered in fresh mud.

Paloma goes to HR to file a harassment report while Troy is at lunch. Connor is suspicious, but not enough to see what's coming: Troy is meeting Bruce at lunch to discuss future business ventures, without Connor's knowledge. Troy tells Bruce that Connor has been trying to destroy Bruce's company. Troy wants to team up with Bruce to take over V3.

Nico and Dani finally find Joseph Crabcheck - he's using a different name and coaching little league baseball. Joseph still denies his identity, claiming Dani's got the wrong guy. Dani leaves her number with him. When Dani and Nico get back to V3, Connor and Troy are not happy to hear they're investigating Crabcheck without telling them. Dani says it was in order to get Darryl Hutchinson back with V3, but Crabcheck actually threatened to press charges for harassment. Connor tells Dani she can't pursue Crabcheck for information on Hutchinson anymore.

Dani goes to the track to watch her clients run and to meet up with their parents. While they're running, her clients' mother tells Dani about a car accident they were in, where the car flipped, but they both walked away with only minor scars. Dani's clients are doing better than ever, but still one is not happy. Hannah still doesn't trust Leslie, and is tired of pretending everyone is one big happy family.

After finding out about the harassment charges, Troy shows Paloma the documented texts and emails between the two, which doesn't help her claim that he was the aggressor.

Meanwhile, Terrence is getting a second opinion on his injury, which is, unfortunately the same as the first. His muscle is torn, and it might not heal even with three months of physical therapy. Surgery can't do anything, either. Which means that, if in the next three months, Terrence's arm doesn't heal, his career is over. There is, however, an experimental treatment available.

Dani calls Hannah to consult her before Leslie shows up to counseling, and Dani finally finds out what's wrong. After the car accident, Hannah needed blood, but Hannah's father couldn't provide it for her. Everyone thought she was unconscious at the time, but Hannah overheard her mother telling the doctor they were different blood types, meaning Hannah's father was not her actual father. She doesn't know if her father knows that her mother cheated on him, or what the circumstances were, but Hannah has been carrying this weight around with her for years, unable to talk to anyone about it. Finally, Hannah opens up to her sister.

Bruce calls Troy. She's on board with taking V3 out from under Connor.

Sheera finally agrees to sign the prenup, and Terrence gets a call that he is definitely a candidate for the experimental treatment. It'll leave him playing at 110%, and Terrence is suspicious. In order to get the treatment, the V3 doctor is making Terrence sign a nondisclosure act.

Paloma's been fired for faking illness. Dani doesn't believe it, but Connor reaffirms that that kind of dishonesty is not what they need at V3. Troy agrees with Connor.

Dani and Nico are at Dani's house going over the recent events while they get a knock at the door. It's Crabcheck, and he wants to talk. Dani's surprised to see him, and he's surprised to hear that he threatened to sue. He never did, but he still wants to help Hutchinson. He can't talk because he's signed nondisclosure papers. Turns out, Crabcheck took money from V3. His mother is so sick and can't pay medical bills on her own. Crabcheck can't say much more, but tells Dani to look into the clinic. "It's all about the clinic," he says.

Meanwhile, Terrence signs the NDA, hoping to solidify his career and his future.

Summary: Nico finally finds the evidence that leaves him free to leave V3 for Dallas, but Dani feels still obligated to her clients. Meanwhile, her newest client gets her into a difficult position and TK starts having doubts about the miracle treatment for his injury.

Terrence is about to start the experimental treatment to get him back on the field — and Dani and Nico are more nervous about it than ever. Even though things are rocky between the two, Nico gets Dani Paloma's location so she can try to get her back as her assistant.

Unfortunately, Dani can't convince Paloma to come back to her. Paloma's been dishonest, and she can't get over that and work for Dani again. Paloma leaves the coffee shop, and on her way out, a black car with two FBI agents pulls up. They take Dani in for questions, but she refuses to answer any, waving her patient confidentiality flag.

Later, Nico tries to explain to Dani that he had nothing to do with it, but Dani is having a hard time trusting Nico all over again, as well as the V3 clinic. The next day, Terrence is telling Dani how excited he is to go through with the experimental treatment. Meanwhile, Dani is trying to hint to him that it's a bad idea, and that he should seek a third or fourth opinion, not through the clinic. Terrence reassures her that it's safe.

On top of the experimental treatment, Connor's got more good news for Terrence. Dr. Dre of Beats by Dr. Dre wants Terrence to sell headphones for him in conjunction with She-K Brickhouse Lingerie. Just before Connor leaves for his next appointment, Terrence stops him and asks him if the clinic is really safe for athletes and he's not getting strung into performance enhancing steroids. Connor tells Terrence he's not, otherwise he'd be a dumbass.

When Dani gets to her office, she finds Blake Bridges there, a pompous boxer who's got his feet up on her desk. He's worried because he's gone glove shy since getting knocked out really bad a few weeks earlier. He needs to get over this or else he won't be able to support his wife, his ex-wife, or his three kids. Dani decides to visit Blake at the boxing training facility. He's got to get over his glove shyness, and Dani tries to help him by lacing up and punching him in the head. It works, he's not afraid of her punches. On the way out of the facility, Blake kisses her. She pushes him away and he apologizes, saying he misread her signals, of which there were none.

That night, Nico throws the FBI agent that took Dani in up against his car, threatening him for taking Dani in. "You don't want me as an enemy," he tells the agent. Later, Nico's tech guy tries to hack into V3 again, but he doesn't make it through this time.

After spending the night with Connor a couple days earlier, Bruce is back discussing overthrowing V3 with Troy. He's given her a wireless "wire" to put on Connor. That night, the Bruce and Connor are having a quiet evening in again when she starts asking questions about V3 secrets. Connor stays tight lipped, but asks her instead if she called the Feds on V3. Apparently, she did. When she worked as Connor's assistant, she saw some weird accounting activity and didn't tell anyone. Instead, she kept the information to herself. It's Bruce's turn to ask Connor a question — what does he know about the accountant?

Terrence is really nervous about the experimental treatment. That night, Nico gets a hold of Terrence. He needs his help. The next day, Terrence shows up at the clinic, gets prepared by the nurse, who leaves, saying the doctor will be in shortly. The doctor shows up a few minutes later, only to find Terrence is gone. He's taken one of the bottles of the experimental medication and gives it to Nico, who then takes it to the FBI.

That night Dani wakes up to a pounding at her door, and when she gets there she finds someone has left an envelope with pictures of Blake kissing Dani. Dani goes to Connor with the pictures — she's worried someone is trying to blackmail her, specifically Connor because he's the one who sends her all of her clients. But Connor didn't send Blake to Dani. Connor suspects Troy sent him her way — but after calling him into the office, Connor finds that he didn't. Connor decides to remove Blake from V3 entirely and satisfied, Dani leaves his office. Connor holds Troy back to ask him about meeting with the V3 board without informing him. Troy insists it was a scheduling issue, but Connor doesn't trust that.

Troy is blaming Bruce for screwing things up — and Bruce finds out that Troy has nothing on Connor. Bruce can't believe Troy is so stupid.

Paloma shows up at Dani's doorstep. She tells Dani she's being blackmailed by Troy, and that finally, Paloma has the evidence against Troy. She shows Dani the check Troy gave her for keeping her mouth shut. Dani and Paloma take the check to Connor, who fires Troy on the spot.

Nico gives the FBI the medication, and the FBI gives him what he wanted — freedom to go to Dallas, Texas, and freedom for Alex Careles from ICE.

Connor offers Dani whatever she wants for helping with the attempted overthrow of V3. For Dani, Connor gives Paloma her job back as Dani's assistant.

That night, Connor goes to Bruce for some TLC. Before the TLC starts, though, Bruce plays back some audio for Connor — Troy talking about everything he's done.

Nico shows up at Dani's doorstep and tries to get her to quit V3. He's worried about her and what danger V3 could get her into — especially with the clinic. Nico tells her he's leaving, and Dani tells her she can't — and they share a very passionate kiss.

This episode ends with Blake standing on a dark street — only to have a limo pull up next to him. The window rolls down and Connor appears. He hands Blake a payment and a plane ticket to Aruba and asks him who gave it to him. Blake answers, "Troy Cutler."

Summary: Dani looks for her missing client as the V3 scandal reaches its climax; an injured T.K. may have to sit out a very important game; and Nico receives a surprise visitor.

After spending the night together, Nico and Dani visit Terrence and Sheera. Terrence is in a hyperbolic tube, attempting to regrow his torn muscle mass that way, instead of going with the extremely suspicious "experimental treatment" suggested by V3's clinic.

When Terrence stole the bottle of medicine just after being prepped to receive it, he gave it to Nico to give it to the FBI to analyze it. Turns out, it's a hormone called "IGF1" that your body creates naturally, but if synthesized and added to the body otherwise, it's boosts the healing process in a person to unnatural rates. It's definitely illegal when used for performance enhancement, but Sheera protests. If they can't detect it — they won't know. Nico explains, the hormone affects your genes, your DNA, so if they, the people who check for drug use, get a hold onto some DNA from before the athlete got the treatment and compare it to after the athlete got the treatment, they could detect it.

At V3, Connor is walking a woman around the V3 promenade. Nico and Dani walk up and, as Nico looks away embarrassed, Dani introduces herself to the woman Connor calls "Alex." "Alex" is Alex Careles, Nico's wife. Connor calls Dani away for the meeting and leaves Nico and Alex alone.

At the V3 meeting, Connor introduces Bruce as the new CFO of V3. Dani is suspicious because usually once someone has left V3, they're never coming back, and Bruce was already fired when she was Connor's personal assistant. Nico and Dani meet up in her office later, and Dani finds out that it was business when Nico and Alex married, but it was occasionally a real relationship between them. Now, it's back to business and Nico wanted to help her one last time. During everything that's going on, Nico and Dani are still looking for Darryl Hutchinson. Dani's even tried to get in contact with his father who has no idea where he could be either. After Nico and Dani wrap up their serious talk, Paloma interrupts to tell them she's found Darryl Hutchinson under a different name.

Meanwhile, it's possible for Terrence to play in the upcoming game, but his coach isn't allowing him. He's still in the position to get hurt even worse, and if that happens, it could mean his career.

Troy Cutler has been taken into custody by the FBI. He tells them that a couple years back, Connor went to China to hear about a new miracle drug. Turns out, it was the IGF1 hormone. Troy arranged to have it funneled into the States and it was paid for by the V3 foundation. The accountant was paid off. The drug was used occasionally on students at the V3 academy.

Dani goes to see Darryl at the restaurant he's working at now. On his break, he gives Dani the rundown. Someone came up to him with praises and told him he's got to keep that ability forever, and offered him the drug. It was entirely through the doctor at the clinic, Dr. Strauss, not through Connor. Dani was surprised to hear that and asked if Connor was ever involved. He was, just not directly. Either way, Darryl wants to talk. Dani lets Nico know.

Connor just found out that Alex was released from Immigration Services and when that happens, it usually ends in deportation. If it doesn't, it means you've got friends in high places or are working for the government. Connor asks Bruce about that hacker she let loose in V3 — and she tells him again that wasn't her. Now, they're really suspicious.

Terrence and Sheera are having problems again; she doesn't know why Terrence doesn't do the treatment. "If they don't find out, it's not cheating," is what she keeps saying. To Terrence, this is a huge red flag. And it looks like it might finally be over between the two.

The next day, Dani makes plans to meet with Connor. Nico shows up instead, tells her that Connor is absconding. Apparently the V3 clinic was raided that morning. Bruce is taking over in Connor's absence.

Before the big game that decides the playoffs, Coach Purnell tells Terrence he can't play. Terrence protests — they're playing against Terrence's old team, the Hawks, along with Coach Wizinski. Terrence swears he'll be careful, but the team is being extra rough with him because of their history. He's taken off the field and obviously in a lot of pain. After the game is looking better for the Hawks, Coach Purnell lets Terrence go back in for the last play. At the last minute, Terrence passes the ball, and the Hawks are heading to the playoffs.

Connor's on his way out to his plane, and Dani shows up. She's got a bottle of the experimental treatment. Dani confronts Connor about pressuring academy students into taking the treatment. Apparently, Darryl and Connor met at some point before Darryl left V3. Darryl told Connor about what was happening at the clinic and Connor told him he knew about it, and that he knows about everything that happens under his roof. Connor tells Dani she doesn't understand, so she presses him to explain what really happened. He tries, but Dani isn't satisfied. She makes him find a new agent for Darryl, one that isn't involved with V3. Then, Dani gives Connor the bottle and tells him to do with it what he will.

Nico visits Dani again after everything is blown over — he tells her his full name and part of his personal history. He wants her to be comfortable with him — not be afraid of the mysterious shroud he's put together. Nico takes her to the airport where they board a small jet. Dani can't believe he borrowed a jet from V3 for them, but Nico tells her it's his, and that she's still got a lot to learn about him.
