Shelter from the Storm

Season 1

Episode Number: 1

Season Episode: 1

Originally aired: Tuesday July 16, 2019
Writer: Mark A. Altman
Director: Steve Hughes
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: John Harlan Kim (Greg Li), Vikash Bhai (Martin Shral), Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Phill Langhorne (Wilson), Georgi Zlatarev (Zatarian Ambassador), Velizar Binev (Dimitri)
Summary: After the death of her parents, Jax matriculates at the Fleet Training Academy on Earth where she learns to defend the Galaxy from intergalactic threats, and makes a shocking discovery about her own identity.

The episode opens on Jax's home planet as she leaves her family home, and her parents, to go on a run. She runs through the landscape of her planet, eventually climbing a mountainous region. While atop of the mountain, she watches as her home planet is attacked from above; burning her city to the ground.

Jax lands on Earth, having fled her home planet, and is greeted by Xander Duvall, Professor Donovan Osborn's teaching assistant. Jax laments that she was meant to be meeting with the professor, nobody else, however, is comforted when Xander reveals that he had a class with her mother as a freshman and that she was an inspiring teacher. Xander takes Jax to Donovan's home, to which Jax recognises as an impressive replica of a queen from her home planet. Donovan apologises for the circumstances they have met, however, will look after his niece at her mother's request. He reveals that he has gotten her entry to the Earth's Space Training Academy, and can ask Xander anything she has questions about.

The next day, Jax frantically tries to find her way around the new academy she attends, finding it difficult and getting lost in many different classes. She is grilled by the professor for being late to the class, who surprisingly is aware of who she is. Jax meets one of the students in her class, Atria Nine, they hang out together at the Black Hall, one of the places to unwind in the academy. Atria introduces her to a few of her friends, Thomas James Ross and Greg Li. Jax introduces herself to a fellow student at the school, Ralen. She introduces him to her new found friends. Tom invites Ralen and Jax to join their study group; to which they accept.

In their spacecraft, Atria admits that she likes Ralen, however, Thomas is not too sure as he cannot properly read him. The two receive a red warning indicating a Zatarian attack ship heading towards them, and the two decide to go defensive as their has been no communication from the ship. The Atari craft begins to fire at them, and the whole thing is revealed to be a simulation.

In her room, Jax reveals to her roommate about the friends that she has met, inviting her to the study group. At first, however, she denies, admitting that they should be wary of Ralen in particular, given he is a Zatarian — Jax is able to convince her to give them the benefit of the doubt.

At her uncle's dinner, Jax meets the professor of her Earth History class, who reveals that he knew her parents, inquiring into whether there is any news regarding the investigation; however, she laments that she is wondering the same. Her uncle, Donovan, enters and reveals that the case has been closed, however, Jax promises to find out what happened herself. After Jax leaves, Shral asks Donovan whether she knows what is really going on, and he admits that she doesn't.

During the Earth History class about WW1, Jax struggles with flashbacks to the destruction of her homeplanet, having to leave the class early, and return to her room. Ralen arrives at her room, asking if she is alright as she missed the study group. Jax admits that she came to the academy to find out what happened to her parents, and, in a passing joke about a ship with light-speed capabilities, Ralen admits that he may have something to that effect. Atria distracts the flight chief, allowing Ralen and Jax, now accompanied by Greg, to borrow an aircraft. Thomas wonders whether they are doing the right thing aiding Jax, however, Atria admits that given her history as a slave, she will never refuse when somebody asks for her help.

After a sixteen-hour trip, Jax, Greg and Ralen arrive at the planet to discover the planet is still being watched by the academy despite being told otherwise, while Greg discovers life signals. They land on the planet, looking for a reason for the attack on Jax's colony.

Jax leaves Greg and Ralen behind to investigate further, when she encounters Xander, who tells her that she shouldn't be on the planet. Xander reveals images to Jax that they have recovered from her mother's work station, however, they have no meaning to her, but she is able to translate them to "the obstacle is the path", which shocks Xander. Xander reveals that her mother was trying to decode the images when they were killed, and what her parents discovered may be a threat to the entire galaxy. She enters a cave, despite warnings from Xander, when a portal opens in front of her. Jax and Xander enter the portal, which leads to an unknown location, however, Xander pulls Jax and himself out of the portal to reveal his team are being attacked. Xander and Ralen manage to fend off the assailants, and Xander reveals that he will help the trio get off with their actions, putting it down as a prank.

Xander meets with a doctor, who analyses the assailant they managed to capture. Looking at its DNA, it is similar to that of Jax, and they are able to deduce that she is something other than human.

Ralen communicates with his father, revealing that there is a ship heading to earth with a specimen of one of the creatures. His father orders that the ship should not be allowed to reach Earth.

Chimes of Freedom

Season 1

Episode Number: 2

Season Episode: 2

Originally aired: Tuesday July 23, 2019
Writer: Mark A. Altman
Director: Steve Hughes
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: John Harlan Kim (Greg Li), Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Jonathan Kerrigan (Seeker Creston Hubbell), Karina Banno (Atria Three), Louie Threlfall (Lenar), Phill Langhorne (Wilson), Simeon Damyanov (Daniel), Kamen Ivanov (Guard)
Summary: When Atria Nine learns that Adari leader, Seeker Creston Hubbell, will be speaking on campus, she enlists the help of Jax and the study group to stand up against her former masters to help free her clone sisters and brothers from oppression on her homeworld.

In the cafeteria, Jax and Atria try to convince Ralen to eat, however, he is cautious as he sees no nutritional benefit of the meal in front of him. Alarms begin to sound, worrying Jax, Ralen and Atria. Jax, looking saddened, reveals to Atria and Ralen that the alarm is due to an attack on the X, destroying the ship and the lifeform that was heading for Earth.

Delaney, on a date, projects herself outside of a coffee shop. Her date asks questions about the hardware she has had installed, questioning whether her parents were wealthy. She rebukes her date, admitting that she is bored and not what she thought he would be. She ends the date, arriving back in her bedroom with Jax, who asks her to find anything she can about the X, given the large crew aboard and the mystery surrounding its destruction. Jax admits that she has agreed to play volleyball with Atria, Thomas and Greg. After the game, Greg awkwardly asks Jax on a date the following night, which she agrees to.

In the campus square, Atria argues with a man handing out flyers for a public speech. She argues that she will not let the man speak on campus, and with this, goes to see Y. She reveals to Y that the man should not be allowed to speak on campus given his adari beliefs. However, Y argues that the adari we're great allies in the war, and they should respect their speech, even if they do not believe it to be right. This visibly annoys Atria, who does not believe that the adari can be trusted.

Masters of War

Season 1

Episode Number: 3

Season Episode: 3

Originally aired: Tuesday July 30, 2019
Writer: Steve Kriozere
Director: Christian Gossett
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: John Harlan Kim (Greg Li), Vikash Bhai (Martin Shral), Johann Urb (Captain Jaworski), Dino Kelly (Lt. Cade Collins), Ben Cross (Harlan Fried), Rachel Pringle (Pring), Plamena Sozhilova (Zara), Velislav Pavlov (Medic)
Summary: A war veteran from the legendary space battle cruiser Sea Hawk makes a shocking revelation to Jax and Greg that could lead Jax to discover who actually killed her parents.

We begin with an impassioned speech from a soldier, Lieutenant Collins, before cutting to the group amazed at the workings of a photo-booth. All seems well until Ralen arrives and the soldier loses it, hitting him repeatedly. Thankfully, a quick electric blast to the back stops him in his tracks. Jax and Greg are kicked out the medical centre soon after, with it now locked down under quarantine. However, they go to Ralen and ask for a blood sample, given a spatter of the Lieutenant's blood is still there. Rydine is a performance enhancing drug and given the soldier's erratic, hot-headed behaviour, it turns out it was inside him at the time of the fight.

With no mention of Rydine across the data logs, Jax is determined to get to the bottom of this and find out what's being hidden. After recruiting Regan to the cause, she begins searching for information about the Seahawk and her crew, believing that the lost ship may hold the key. As it happens, the Seahawk was never actually destroyed. Making the leap to believe it could hold information about her parents, Jax decides to try and track down the missing vessel.

They do find the ship too, held captive by trigger-itchy soldiers completely juiced up on Rydine. Believing a war is coming, Jax and Greg are held captive by them on their ship until Jax manages to convince the ones keeping an eye on her to make a trade for a crate of Rydine. They gullibly let their defences down, enough time for Jax to shoot the three soldiers. However, they're out-manned, and outgunned, by the rest onboard the ship.

After some time, Jax learns the Seahawk was not responsible for killing her family and the colony. However, the final flight of the Seahawk is upon them as they launch Operation Firebird. Greg sacrifices himself to save Jax and pushes her into the escape pod, hurtling Jax through space and away from the ship. Crying, Jax watches as the ship blows up while back on Earth, Ralen gives an impassioned speech about his origin.

The episode then ends with Xander and The Professor playing chess while discussing the disillusioned soldiers. It turns out The Professor was in contact with the Seahawk the whole time.

I Shall Be Released

Director: Brett Simmons
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)

Summary: Jax joins Xander and her fellow cadets in responding to an emergency distress call from a secret lab, only to discover that a deadly experiment has infected the scientists and the cadets.

Still reeling over Greg's death, the episode begins with Jax getting her anger out at the shooting range while the rest of the group deliberate over whether she is mentally stable enough to take the reigns of the training operation Xander has planned for them.

Midway through the exercise, the team receive a distress signal which Xander deliberates over whether to answer. Convinced the team aren't ready, Jax talks to him alone and convinces him otherwise, begrudgingly agreeing to track down the source of the signal. They make their way to a solitary ship floating through space and head on board. Once there, they find the ship infested by crazed, zombified humans. Thankfully, they find a survivor and through them, they learn the ship is a scientific research vessel — one conducting experiments that have infected the crew and turned them into zombies. Deciding they need to escape, they're stopped in their tracks when they learn the virus is airborne and they're all infected.

It turns out the experimented humans were Solarian and ironically their blood, like Revan, may just hold the key to a cure. Interestingly, Jax is also not infected either. After a mad scramble that see them battle against the zombies, the group formulate a cure from Revan's blood and manage to escape after curing the others. Back at the academy, things appear to be back to normal although Jax questions Xander around why she didn't get infected. After downing his drink, Xander narrows his eyes and answers her cryptically, clearing hiding something from here.

Most Likely to Go Your Way (And I'll Go Mine)

Season 1
Episode Number: 5
Season Episode: 5

Originally aired: Tuesday August 13, 2019
Story: Steve Kriozere
Teleplay: Darin Scott
Director: Brett Simmons
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: Richard Blackwood (Billy D.), Tina Casciani (Tierney), Chase Master-son (Computer (voice)), Davyd Adunbi (Young Thomas)
Summary: Thomas's telepathic father arrives on campus and tries to enlist his estranged son in a dangerous heist in which nothing is as simple as it appears.

The episode begins with Xander and Delaney discovering the flight recorder of the Tereshkova under the guise of a training exercise. Please, don't ask the obvious questions — it just isn't worth it. There's a scene later on when Jax asks them and realizes they hadn't even occurred to Delaney, which I suppose is to be expected.

Nevertheless, Xander is instructed by Professor Osborn to keep the retrieval of the black box a secret until it has been decrypted. This thing will return before the episode is over, but for now, we'll leave it alone. We have bigger, much weirder fish to fry.

Telepathic Thomas is still in a relationship with Atria Nine, who, as pointed out by an astute commenter in my recap of the previous episode, is hopelessly naive for a clone of what is ostensibly a human being. But thankfully the romance takes a backseat in favor of parental drama, as Thomas's smooth-talking psychic huckster father, Billy D., has arrived on campus.

Billy is played with an incredibly inconsistent accent by English actor and comedian Richard Blackwood — it's a notably bizarre and sometimes laughable performance that is unfortunately tasked with several scenes of genuine emotion and fails to be anything other than completely hysterical. Billy is apparently in deep with a criminal syndicate, and to pay off his debt he needs to recover an alien artifact from a local museum. To do it, he'll need the help of his smoking-hot ladyfriend Tierney, who is later revealed to be his "handler" posing as his fiancée, as well as Thomas, whose empathic abilities boost Billy's, and Jax, who is immune to mind-reading.

You'd imagine that last point wouldn't matter, but Pandora concocts a ludicrous heist sequence in which every single security measure is specifically tailored to the talents of the thieves; a sensor that detects brainwaves, an organic, thinking lock that can only be bypassed by a telepath who is being boosted by a relative, and a laser grid through which Tierney cartwheels and pirouettes as though we didn't see Catherine Zeta-Jones do that very same thing in Entrapment. It is truly ludicrous, and Pandora allowing all its very worst elements to come to the forefront.

The alien artefact turns out to be the flight recorder from the Tereshkova; the key to unlocking the mystery of Jax's parents' death turns out to be a literal key; and of course Billy is forced to reject Thomas in order to protect him — though not without giving him a sly psychic clue, despite the fact that Tierney explicitly knows how his abilities work and should have been able to easily detect what he was doing.

What Was It You Wanted

Season 1

Episode Number: 6

Season Episode: 6

Originally aired: Tuesday August 20, 2019
Story: Mark A. Altman
Teleplay: Lisa Klink
Director: Jenn Wexler
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: Vikash Bhai (Martin Shral), Akshay Kumar (Jet), Carla Woodcock (Sarika Larson), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice)), Lola Ogunyemi (Kossara)
Summary: When Pilar's bio-organic implants are hacked, Jax and Ralen lead an investigation to help save their friend and find out who's responsible and stop them from continuing to torment Pilar.

Pilar is cybernetically enhanced, so she's treated with mistrust by other students who resent her teacher's pet demeanor; the fact she's also pretty and popular certainly doesn't help, especially when she's quick to reject the cool-kid hacker-bro Jet when he makes a move on her. Jet, a handsome but impossibly smug classmate with a spidery device on his face and one cool contact lens, quickly becomes the prime suspect when Pilar starts to go increasingly haywire, including a nude-leak scandal that spreads like wildfire and the revelation of a backdoor in her coding that allows her to be remotely manipulated and makes her feel violated — if you were in the market for some subtle messaging, you're not going to find it in "What Was It You Wanted".

As Pilar continues to deteriorate, we have other minor details to contend with. Since mind-melding with his father last week, Thomas is developing the ability to read minds, which is complicating his ongoing relationship with Atria Nine, and also maybe telekinesis, which is making his relationship a little bit easier. He's also still sulking at Jax for helping him out under false pretenses, so when she enlists him to read the minds of the prime suspects in Pilar's hacking he has a proper sulk about it. Still, he agrees to help regardless, because "that's what real friends do".

It's also Xander's birthday, which lends an opportunity for him to continue being humorless and more of Ralen's incredibly tedious "Zatarians don't understand Earth customs and aphorisms" banter. A decent bit is when Jax and Ralen ambush Jet and he reveals under duress that all his implants are fake; his crowd is all upper-crust elitists from moneyed families, and he can't afford the same kind of gear they can.

The new plan is to plug Pilar back into the data stream and use her as bait for the hacker, which isn't a bad idea but is complicated by the fact Pilar has gone missing. We see her interact with Professor Osborn, who expels her when she requests a leave of absence, and then Xander, who tries to sleep with her in exchange for a good word in Professor Osborn's ear, and then Jax, who tells her she doesn't like her, and then Ralen, who tries to convince her to commit suicide. It turns out Pilar is in a VR simulation under the control of a jealous classmate called Sarika Larson who I'm convinced we've never met before.

The episode ends with a few things occurring at once. Professor Martin Shral, who helped the gang in their investigation, joins them for a drink in the Black Hole and then approaches Professor Osborn to accuse him of knowing about Pilar's backdoor and allowing Parallax to spy on Jax through her — cue more ominous chatter about Pandora and so forth. Meanwhile, Sarika is approached by Regan and offered a job.

Time Out of Mind

Season 1

Episode Number: 7

Season Episode: 7

Originally aired: Tuesday August 27, 2019
Story: Mark A. Altman
Teleplay: Mike Hurst
Director: Mike Hurst
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Lola Ogunyemi (Kossara), Alexander Hanson (Nelson Fisk), Luke Fetherston (Harlan Fried Jr.), Candace Leung (Elena Liu), Nathan Cooper (Clerk), Douglas Reith (Fleming), Maryam d'Abo (Maya Fleming), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice))
Summary: Jax discovers a deadly secret from her past that she is desperate to understand with the help of Ralen and Pilar while the CIS grows increasingly suspicious of Xander's divided loyalties.

The episode opens with Jax undercover as a floozy sent to assassinate a smarmy politician, Nelson Fisk, who totally unironically says to the media that he's going to "make Earth great again".

Jax visits her "past life" as an assassin multiple times, mostly thanks to a Zatarian elixir provided by Ralen, although once with the help of Thomas, whose powers are still developing.

Jax's temporal excursions introduce her to a young Harlan Fried as one of Fisk's campaign advisors, and in the present day, Professor Osborn tasks Xander with uncovering a mole who has been feeding information to Parallax Galactic, the company Fried would eventually set up. That mole turns out to be the wife of Osborn's old-school spy buddy, for no reason that I can identify other than that it gives Osborn an excuse to say he killed his own wife for being an enemy agent.

Under the Red Sky

Season 1
Episode Number: 8
Season Episode: 8

Originally aired: Tuesday September 03, 2019
Writer: Marco Schnabel
Director: Tirsa Hackshaw
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: Isabelle Bonfrer (Cordelia Fried), Daniel Feuerriegel (Devlin), Lola Ogunyemi (Kossara), Ben Cross (Harlan Fried), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice)), Jeliaz Drenchev (Dr. Markham)
Summary: When Xander enlists Jax on a dangerous mission in which she must rekindle a relationship with an old flame, Xander, must confront his own feelings for Jax and question if all orders are meant to be obeyed.

The episode was divided into two storylines. In the first, Professor Osborn convinces Xander to convince Jax to schmooze an old flame who just so happens to be the daughter of Harlan Fried. In the other, Thomas and Atria Nine enjoy a "staycation" on the deserted campus which comes to include a despondent Ralen, who has decided he's in love with Jax.

These romantic shenanigans are complicated by the fact that Ralen thinks Jax is in love with Xander, which she kind of is, but Xander is too devoted to his job to have feelings, even though he clearly does anyway, and Thomas can read Atria Nine's mind so he knows she's really in love with Ralen — very little is made of how invasive it is to constantly mindread your romantic partner. Oh, and Xander has broken up with Kossara, whom Ralen inadvertently offends with his usual fish-out-of-water patter.

After some persuasion — "But your parents!" etc. — Jax and Xander head off to Euphoria-7, and pose as a bickering couple to entice Cordelia Fried. This is supposed to be an exotic espionage excursion, but it really just plays like an excuse to ogle Jax, like we haven't already noticed how stunning she is.

The plan, initially anyway, seems like a success. There's a bit of high-tech surveillance business, a sneaky steal-and-replace of a device full of secrets, the inevitable "quick, kiss me!" moment between Jax and Xander, and then the easily predictable outcome that Cordelia and her sister Regan are well-aware of what Jax is up to. An interesting wrinkle is that Cordelia obviously resents her father and slips Jax a detonator so that she can escape, or at least kill herself along with him, but it never really goes anywhere.

Harlan's plan is to open a portal, which he needs Jax to do, but he's thwarted by Xander and Ralen, the latter of whom turned up in the nick of time after having been convinced by Thomas to go and make a grand romantic gesture in order to win Jax's affection. Our heroes fight their way to freedom by... jumping through the portal that Harlan was trying to access in the first place, arriving under that red sky of the title, where a fleet of Zatarian ships is preparing for war.

It Ain't Me Babe

Season 1

Episode Number: 9

Season Episode: 9

Originally aired: Tuesday September 10, 2019
Writer: John C. Kelley, Steve Kriozere
Director: Christian Gossett
Show Stars: Priscilla Quintana (Jax / Pandora), Oliver Dench (Xander Duvall), Raechelle Banno (Atria Nine), Ben Radcliffe (Ralen), Banita Sandhu (Delaney Pilar), Tehmina Sunny (Regan), Martin Bobb-Semple (Thomas James Ross), Noah Huntley (Donovan Osborn)
Guest Stars: Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Erin Gray (Captain Beth Grant), Marc Crumpton (Marcus Taylor), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice)), Uzi Barzilay (Captain Uzi)
Summary: Trapped on an alien world, Jax, Xander and Ralen are stranded with no way home. They must band together to survive, but divided loyalties threaten to destroy them from within. And Jax will ultimately be forced decide her allegiances if they make it through the long night.

Following on from the wacky events of the previous episode, we find Jax, Xander and Ralen on the other side of a mysterious swirling portal, the skyline blotted by an eager Zatarian fleet. After a brief scrap, all three blunder back through the portal to another mystery location, this one boasting the technology of 21st-Century Earth, but also a territorial alien menace that Jax recognizes from the massacre at New Portland.

Meanwhile, Pilar, Thomas, and Atria Nine become suspicious when Jax and company disappear from the data stream and take their concerns up the chain of command to Professor Osborn, who isn't interested for now — probably because Tommy, his powers getting out of control, is whining so loudly and frequently that nobody can stand to be around them.

On the mystery planet, the gang stumbles on old video footage of international colonists who settled the planet but were demolished by the aliens, whose ship continues to hover inside the atmosphere like a challenge. We discover that one of those colonists was left behind: Marcus, who has survived over a century with his awful accent intact by using the local fauna as a source of perpetual youth.

In an alien attack, Ralen is badly injured; it's also revealed that Marcus has a mannequin called Elliot whom he talks to — it's helpful, I suppose, for him to have someone he can conceivably act against without embarrassment. The short-term goal for the gang is to fix the planet's communication network, but they can only gather enough juice for one text message. Xander naturally wants to call Earth. Ralen wants to call Zatar, which is apparently closer, but the fact they're assembling a fleet to potentially destroy the Earth makes that a tricky proposition. In the end, Jax prevents a difficult decision from having to be made by just contacting Pilar.

Ralen, believing himself to be on death's door, confesses his romantic feelings for Jax.

After a shootout and chase sequence, the gang is rescued by Professor Osborn, who, as we learn a short while later, knew about the portal but neglected to tell Xander because he knew he wouldn't help out if he was potentially putting Jax in danger. In the final scene we see Thomas alone in space, his oxygen levels rapidly depleting.

Summary: Ralen is on trial for his life after being accused of having sabotaged the Tereshkova. But even Jax has her doubts about Ralen's veracity when his wife arrives from Zatar to defend him.

The inciting incident is Ralen being arrested for the sabotage of the Tereshkova, and immediately put on a rigged trial — capital punishment has been eradicated for terrestrial crimes but remains intact for war atrocities, so he's facing the death penalty if he's found guilty. And he inevitably will be, despite Professor Osborn's claims that "Here on Earth, jurisprudence is scrupulously fair."

Ralen's father and barrister wife, Matta, arrive in the capacity of official Zatarian representatives, The usual gang, meanwhile, fret over the usual stuff; Jax thinks Ralen is being set up, Xander doesn't, despite having witnessed so much higher-up corruption at this point that it's absolutely absurd he wouldn't, and Atria Nine turns to Pilar for advice about her conflicted feelings for both Ralen and Thomas, who spends all of the episode slowly suffocating in space.

The damning evidence is the flight recorder from the wreckage of the Tereshkova, recovered by Xander and Pilar earlier, which clearly shows Ralen committing sabotage. But when we visit Harlan Fried having a mental sexist rant on IO, it quickly becomes clear that he's in possession of the real footage, along with an alien sample which should have been destroyed in the crash. Since this will exonerate Ralen, when Cordelia contacts Jax and offers to give her the evidence, Jax and Xander are on a shuttle to IO lickety-split. Ralen, meanwhile, is found guilty, leading his father to visit Professor Osborn and negotiate, handing over "Pandora's Box" in the process. There's also a strong intimation in this scene that Jax isn't really Osborn's niece.

On IO, Jax and Xander retrieve the evidence, but Cordelia is "killed" during their pew-pew laser-fight escape. The evidence gets Ralen off, though his father reminds him to stay focused on his mission and not let his feelings for Pandora — "Her name is Jax!" — complicate matters. Harlan is arrested, and we learn that Cordelia's apparent death was simply a ruse cooked up by her and her sister, Regan, presumably to oust their father from power. In a closing montage, we see Thomas, near death, get taken in by a large, mysterious vessel, and see Regan take her father's seat.

Guest Stars: Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Tehmina Sunny (Regan Fried), Tina Casciani (Tierney), Luke Fetherston (Harlan Fried Jr.), Isabelle Bonfrer (Cordelia Fried), Amy McPherson (Matta), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice)), Jeliaz Drenchev (Dr. Markham)
Summary: As the Fleet Academy, students prepare to celebrate Armistice Day (the anniversary of the end of the Zatarians war), Jax continues to struggle with the revelation that Ralen is married. And who will go with who to the big Armistice Dance? Meanwhile, Ralen must decide where his loyalties truly lie.

The big event is the Armistice Day Ball, a formal anniversary of the end of the Zatarian war — functionally, though, it's prom night. So the chief concern is who's taking who; Pilar is inundated with offers, Ralen is determined to ask Jax even though his wife, Matta, is still on campus and is determined to make her political union with him work, and Xander is so determined to take Jax that he's willing to quit his job working for Professor Osborn when he's told they can't fraternize.

Most of this is tedious, but manages to use this event both as a catalyst for Ralen deciding his time on Earth as a Zatarian infiltrator sent to spy on Pandora is over with, and for Atria Nine to decide to return to her homeworld and run for the position of Seeker. This latter strand is the better of the two; Atria's only other experience with formal events is when she and her fellow clones were presented, naked, to potential buyers, so she's nursing a deep-seated trauma.

Lost in space, Thomas wakes up in the captivity of a returning Tierney who reveals herself as the head of an Amazon-style all-female crime syndicate populated exclusively by sexy women; it takes Thomas all of five minutes to determine he enjoys this lifestyle, spending most of the episode doing a smug ladies' man routine while privately determining to find his father.

But the big revelation is what's inside Pandora's Box. Thanks to Ralen, Jax and Xander are finally able to find out. And it's... another Jax.

Guest Stars: Tommie Earl Jenkins (Ellison Pevney), Vikash Bhai (Martin Shral), Manu Bennett (Leone Vokk), Tina Casciani (Tierney), Luke Fetherston (Harlan Fried Jr.), Isabelle Bonfrer (Cordelia Fried), Amy McPherson (Matta), Jonathan Kerrigan (Seeker Creston Hubbell), Phill Langhorne (Wilson), Angélica Celaya (Pandora), Ivo Arakov (Adam Twelve), Richard Blackwood (Billy Dwayne Ross), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice))
Summary: Jax and Xander have their hands full as a dangerous cat-and-mouse game erupts on campus. Various parties from across the galaxy arrive on Earth, all in pursuit of Jax, during which she encounters a surprise ally who not only protects Jax, but also sheds light on who she really is. Meanwhile, Atria joined by Pilar, bravely explores her new life mission on Adar, helping her clone brothers and sisters, while Thomas searches for his missing father and Ralen contemplates his return to Zatar.

Professor Osborn goes to see Pandora, who is apparently not Jax but someone else, though also maybe Jax as well? And it turns out that Professors Pevney and Shral knew all about Jax's true nature, just so we can get the whole faculty involved. Harlan Fried is enjoying his new youthful clone body so much that he enthusiastically deploys Leone Vokk, a weird assassin who's a stickler for pronunciation, to hunt down Jax, and he also makes reference to an older daughter named Odessa who would never betray him, which is later revealed to be Tierney.

Ralen is back on Zatar with Matta, spending most of his time indulging in strobe-lit topless fistfighting to keep his Jax-boner under control. But as soon as he learns that there's an alien fleet on the way to Earth and that his father has no plans to intercept it, despite the new Zatarian fleet having apparently been built entirely to do so, he naturally sets out on his own.

Thomas is still sulking about his long-lost dad, so he reads Tierney's mind and learns of an asteroid full of safe deposit boxes that really deserves far more explanation than it gets. He says he's leaving and Tierney just... lets him go since she's too busy to bother — Regan has hired her Hypatia Syndicate to capture Jax anyway.

Atria Nine is on Adar with Pilar to start a grassroots political campaign to run for the position of Seeker, much to the annoyance of current Seeker Hubbell, who still considers the clones as soulless property. When he tries to break it all up and arrest Atria Nine, there's a hilarious Spartacus moment where all the clones — including the bloke, for some reason — claim to be her.

Vokk pursues Jax across campus, inexplicably repeating Jax's name over and over again while slowly walking or hiding around corners. Shral tries to fight him off with a shank hidden in his pimp cane, and then Pandora — the other one — shows up and fights him off easily. Osborn throws the Golden Snitch at him and Xander turns up with a load of guns, but still, he persists. When the entire Earth fleet is destroyed, dork ex machina Elias Wilson shows up to lead them through some secret tunnels to a monorail and a... space elevator. He's shot on the journey and Jax cries. Pandora lags behind to fight Vokk, whom she suddenly can't beat anymore, and she sends them both through a swirly purple portal.

Osborn, having stolen Vokk's ship, heads out to lead Earth's armada against the alien invaders, blatantly plagiarizing Winston Churchill's "We will fight them on the beaches!" speech. Ralen arrives to help in the fight, and just as the battle looks lost, Matta turns up with the entire Zatarian fleet, despite having apparently not consulted Ralen's father about it.

In the nick of time, the Hypatia Syndicate arrives. Tierney takes Jax and Xander to Harlan, arrests Regan and Cordelia, and reveals herself to be the enigmatic Odessa. Oh, and Thomas gets stuck in that safe deposit asteroid, which was a trap all along.

Summary: Picking up the pieces from the attack on the Fleet Training Academy by Leone Vokk, Jax and Xander must confront Tierney to stop her sinister plans for galactic domination while Atria's grassroots movement on Adar to run for Seeker may have serious consequences for the clones as well as her friends.

Jax wakes up in some kind of idyllic 50s suburbia with Greg, of all people, working on a car outside was a bit of a shock. It quickly became apparent that this was all some kind of simulation staged by Tierney/Odessa and Sarika, for some reason, to try and force Jax into using her portal-opening powers so they could figure out how to make a portable version for themselves. They tried having her wake up in an asylum — under the care of Dr. Regan Fried — and killing Xander in front of her, but nothing worked. The solution was her beloved late mother. As soon as she was programmed in, the portal swiftly followed.

In the present-day Jax and Xander have been missing for quite some time. Osborn and Ralen become best friends and "Jax", though really Pandora, but not the one from the previous episode, turns up to get into a fight with them. They get the better of her and lock her up, where Ralen quizzes her as she does that played-out "humanity isn't worth saving" routine that you always get when sci-fi villains have to explain their motivations. Earthlings destroyed ourselves and let YouTube "influencers" gain a foothold in popular culture, so we're only worthy of destruction. It's hard to disagree, really.

Harlan Fried, having been put in his place by Odessa, who apparently isn't so loyal after all, calls Osborn and tells him that Jax and Xander are on Hypatia Prime. He heads there with Shral to stage a rescue and conveniently arrives just as Xander has broken himself, Regan and Cordelia out of their cells. Together, along with Ralen and Matta, they all rescue Jax, but Odessa is able to escape through a homemade portal, where we see her have a chat with a captive Pandora.

On Adar, Atria Nine and Pilar are still trying to take down Seeker Hubbell, now with the help of Professor Pevney, who has "friends in the resistance" or somesuch. It's going well, but a traitor in their group conspires against them, and Atria is forced to publicly withdraw her candidacy while Pilar livestreams it. But! Thomas turns up and the whole thing is revealed to be part of a plan. Atria Nine is really in the crowd, and Pilar recorded Hubbell being a cartoon villain. So all is well. Atria and Pilar decide to stay on Adar, Thomas goes to find his father, and Xander, literally seconds after Odessa escapes, decides he's going to take Jax on holiday.

But there's one more thing. Ralen leads Jax outside on Hypatia Prime to reveal that Greg is still alive!

Guest Stars: J.R. Esposito (The Courier), Sergio Hernandez (Colony Leader), Chase Masterson (Computer (voice))
Summary: Jax and Xander, now both working for the Earth Confederacy Intelligence Services, attempt to track down the fugitive Tierney and discover she is searching for a destructive weapon that can potentially destroy the entire Universe. Meanwhile, Jax comes face-to-face with a woman she never expected to see again: her mother, Eve.

The Courier makes his way through a crashed Protectors ship and retrieves a glowing green substance, some kind of plasma energy.

On the mining colony of Ipress 5, Jax and Xander set up a sting as Earth Confederacy Intelligence Services agents on The Courier who is meeting with Tierney. Jax spots someone that looks like her mother in the crowd. Tierney and The Courier make a run for it. When Jax follows The Courier into an ore processing plant, she again sees her mother.

Tierney gets away and Ralen retrieves Jax and Xander who have The Courier in custody.

Returning to the Dauntless, Jax examines a picture of her mother and discusses her experience with Xander. After they have sex, she dreams of hearing a woman call her name and being attacked by Xander. She wakes up and they discuss their personal insecurities.

They dock at the Pearl Space Station and receive a message that the Admiral wants to see them right away.

At the Earthcom Fleet Training Academy in Geneva, Switzerland, Jax and Xander report to Osborn's old office where the new Admiral Lucas is now installed. The Courier's real name is revealed to be Zed Multhay, a salvage worker.

Once Xander leaves, the Admiral warns Jax that she can't be involved personally with Xander if they are to continue to work together for CIS.

Osborn sits down with Ralen at the bar, looking for information on CIS operations. He expresses issues with Lucas, pointing to her relationship with Harlan Fried as evidence of her unsuitability for the job.

Lucas meets with Fried at Parallax Galactic Headquarters in New Chicago. He gifts her with a model of the Dauntless.

Jax returns to her room where her new roommate, Zazie, insists they head out to study group so she can introduce a new friend she's invited to the group.

Prof Schral is telling Ralen he has a new roommate when Zazie and Jax arrive at the lounge.

Turns out Ralen's roommate and Zazie's friend are both Jett, a reinstated student who wronged the group last year.

Ralen is incensed and Jax is livid but Prof Schral convinces them that Jett warrants a second chance. Ralen agrees.

Xander interrogates The Courier. Xander deduces the purpose of Tierney's involvement. The Courier gives up the location of the plasma he took from the Protector ship.

The admiral refuses to let Jax go on the retrieval mission and dismisses her.

Matta and Ralen are alone and discussing their future as exiles when Jett arrives with a couple of friends. Matta leaves. Ralen isn't hopeful about this living situation.

On the Icarus CGO-659, Xander leads a retrieval mission. Finding the case, they are interrupted by the arrival of a team, led by Eve, Jax's mother.

Jax and Admiral Lucas are watching on remote screen, shocked at Eve's appearance.

Zazie returns to her room to find Jett doing something under her desk. He stutters through an explanation for why he's there. Zazie tells him they are no longer a thing and then relents for the night.

Eve and Xander face off over the substance. Eve warns that it's dangerous. Xander insists she and her men surrender. One of Eve's men shoots the man holding the cannister. It hits the ground and shatters, the substance rapidly dissolving everything it touches.

Eve and her men portal out and away. Xander and his team try to outrun the substance. Xander is the only one to make it to an airlock and launch himself out into space. The entire transport is dissolved and communications are lost. The Admiral concludes that everyone, including Xander was lost.

Guest Stars: Hannah Dodd (Councilor Jennifer), Jeliaz Drenchev (Doctor Markham), Kalina Lakova (Tryla)
Summary: Jax, Xander, Ralen, and Matta track Jax's Mother, Eve, and Tierney to a remote planet in uncharted space in the Horatius system. Upon arrival to Clayton's World, they discover one of the Ark ships, the Clayton, that was part of the Great Migration from Earth 150 years prior. While on the planet, they discover the descents of the original travelers, only to come in the crosshairs of their strange religious cult. The small group soon discovers that the cult will stop at nothing to maintain its sinister order. Meanwhile, back at Earthcom Fleet Training Academy on Earth, having been given a second chance at the academy, Jett starts to sew his wild oats, but ends up straining other relationships, especially with Zazie. Secrets are revealed by Eve and Jett.

Xander floats in space, thinking he's about to die and records a final log, professing his love for Jax.

The Dauntless arrives and he deletes the recording.

On board the ship, he debriefs with Jax and Admiral Lucas.

Jax informs them that Matta has been working on tracking the portals.

On Earth, Admiral Lucas has Osborn arrested, insisting he knew about Eve being alive.

Harlan Fried receives a treatment to acclimate him to his clone body. He questions his doctor about the weapon. It is revealed that his "treatment" involves sacrificing people to maintain his youth.

On the Dauntless, Jax greets Xander, waiting in bed. He expresses insecurity about how badly the last mission went. They are interrupted by Ralen who informs them that Matta has found a location for the portal origins.

Jax, Xander, Ralen, and Matta shuttle to a planet in the Horatius System, uncharted and unexplored.

They find an Ark Ship, sent out from Earth 150 years ago. They are taken hostage by armed humans and brought to meet a young leader.

They identify themselves and inform them about Eve, Tierney, and the other Pandora.

They are welcomed to Clayton's World by the Council of the Elders.

At the Academy, Jett and Zazie meet up for study group but they're the only ones and Zazie is stressed over an upcoming test. Jett says he'll help but can't meet up with her in time for the test.

The people of Clayton's World offer refreshments which Xander likes and Jax does not. They ask where the older residents are and the head councilor informs them that she is nearly twenty-four years old.

Xander is given another drink and asked to hang back while the others are shown to their rooms.

Jax expresses suspicion to Ralen and Matta and wanders off to investigate.

Matta and Ralen make plans to leave Earth after the mission is resolved.

The head councilor talks with Xander and a gong is rung, summoning red-robed figures, carrying torches. Jax follows them but she is followed by the other Pandora.

Shral chats with Osborn in the lockdown. Osborn wants out and Shral offers to help.

The councilor leads the Dauntless group into a chamber where the red-robed figures dance in front of a portal. The councilor welcomes them to "The Departure." The red-robed individuals disrobe and walk through the portal. The councilor explains that anyone who becomes a "burden" through aging up to 25 is sent away to wherever the portal goes.

Jax speaks up and angers the councilor, Jennifer. In private afterwards, Xander chastises her for offending their hosts. Matta discovers that the Departure portal is not the portal she tracked.

Xander tells Jennifer that she may understand their reaction when they return to Earth but she states that they never will.

Jax decides to take another look at the portal despite Xander's orders to stay put.

Zazie's looking for Jett and finds him in Shral's office. Jett warns her off and Zazie states she'll tell on him.

Matta takes readings off the Departure portal and finds that it's unstable. Ralen sends a drone through and it is instantly destroyed, confirming that the people of Clayton's World have been executing their own for over a hundred years.

Zazie goes to see Prof. Shral and lets him know about Jett. Shral dismisses her and her accusations.

Jax confronts Jennifer with the fact that she and the rest of the council have been leeching off the portal's energy to stay young and immortal. When Xander tries to arrest them, Eve arrives.

Eve explains she's been supplying rations so that she can observe the malfunctioning portal. Jax asks her about her relationship with Tierney and she reveals that Tierney is her daughter by Harlan Fried.

Jennifer offers to spare a life if Xander agrees to stay on Clayton's World with her. He refuses and she prepares to send them all through to their deaths.

In the Departure Chamber, the Dauntless crew fight back but Jennifer gains the upper-hand only to be disarmed by the Pandora. She informs Jax that she's already informed the Ancients that this galaxy isn't worthy of existence.

Zazie and Jett have it out and Jett admits that he made a deal to work as a janitor to pay his tuition.

Jax begs Pandora to reverse her decision. Pandora refuses and Xander throws her through the broken portal.

The councilors and Eve are taken into custody to be taken back to Earth Com. The rest of the colonists decide to stay on Clayton's World.

Eve tells Xander that he's ruined his chances with Jax.

Jax locks Xander out of her quarters.

The Dauntless receives a distress call from a Zatarian vessel which is suddenly destroyed by an energy wave. Matta calculated the wave will carry through and destroy the planet Zatar.

Summary: Jax and the team visit the distant planet where Jax was discovered by Osborn as an infant. Ralen suffers a devastating loss.

Flashback to Earth-Zatarian War, Battle of Asmodeus 6, 22 Years Ago

While the Earth and Zatarian forces fight in the space above the planet, CIS operatives take down a Pandora.

In the present-day, Admiral Lucas debriefs Jax and Xander on the space wave that is heading straight for Zatar. Jax recommends Lucas speak with Osborn for a solution to the wave. Lucas is skeptical.

Xander and Jax take Osborn in lock-up. They ask him to lead them back to the planet where he found Jax as a baby after boxing the first Pandora.

Ralen rappels into the lockup to get rid of the guard and rescue Osborn. Osborn joins the team on the Dauntless. He directs them to Asmodeus 6.

Ralen states that Zatar will not evacuate. They only have 20 hrs before the wave hits the planet.

Jax asks some advice from Osborn. He tells her that he may disappear after their mission to avoid Lucas locking him up again. Shral will be their go-between if Jax needs him.

22 years ago: Young Osborn and his compatriots box the previous Pandora, believing that if she reached the portal to contact the Ancients, she would have triggered the end of the universe.

Jax awakens from a vision and believes that boxing the previous Pandora was what convinced her the races weren't worth saving.

The portal is somewhere underground on Asmodeus 6. Matta plans on scanning for the portal's energy signature. Ralen points out the storms will prevent the shuttle from landing. Xander suggests they freefall through the atmosphere instead.

Jax is knocked out of formation during planetfall. Xander separates to retrieve her and brings the group back together. They survive with velocity shields.

Matta and Jax head in one direction and Ralen and Xander in another.

Xander discovers the coms aren't working.

Matta and Jax have a heart-to-heart. Jax expresses her disappointment in Ralen not sharing his marital status as well as her anger with Xander for killing the other Pandora.

They find the energy frequency coming from a cave but, again, the coms are still problematic.

Ralen and Xander have a talk as well but get interrupted by weapon fire. They take down the alien firing on them and identify it as a foot soldier for the Ancients, presumably guarding the cavern they are approaching. This one looks different from the ones they've encountered before.

While in the cavern, Jax stops to receive a message from Osborn. Matta goes ahead and suddenly, Jax is seeing an alien leaving her as a baby on the cavern floor.

In the past, Osborn and Shral argue over what to do with the baby.

Matta returns and Jax's vision of the baby disappears. She identifies the cavern as her birthplace.

Shral reports to Osboarn that the entire Zatarian fleet has been destroyed.

Xander and Ralen are fighting the aliens.

Jax and Matta are nearby. Jax wants to go on instinct.

The aliens Xander and Ralen are fighting retreat suddenly. Another creature attacks.

Matta and Jax approach what looks like a dead end and an alien suddenly appears and kneels to Jax. the wall opens and reveals a portal. They are transported to the parking lot of a motel.

A man appears and escorts them inside. where another of him awaits them at the sign-in desk where a phone is ringing. Jax signs as another "Pandora" in a long list of previous Pandora guests.

Another identical man arrives to take them to their room.

Ralen runs in and attacks the creature with one of the aliens' weapons and scares it off. He follows and dispatches it.

Jax and Matta walk through the motel, noticing a room full of pigeons.

When they arrive at their room, there are more pigeons and a man in a chair. Jax tries to explain why she needs to speak to the Ancients. When questioned on the worthiness of the universe, Jax hesitates in answering. Matta does not hesitate and insists they must trust her.

The Ancients grant the universe more time (four months) but Jax must show that the six races of the universe can work together to redeem themselves.

To prove her conviction, Matta must stay with the Ancients as collateral.

Jax is sent back through the portal where Xander and Ralen find her and inform her that Zatar is safe, the energy wave disappeared. Jax has to tell Ralen his wife is gone.

Guest Stars: Clive-Leviev Sawyer (Judson), Laura Giosh (Xander's Mother), Stefan Ivanov (Zatarian Interrogator), Michael Flemming (Helmsman), Lina Sharma (Sam)
Summary: Jax and the team go in search of a lost alien race that may be the key to saving the Universe, but on the way, find themselves plagued by disturbing nightmares that arise out of each individual's personal traumas and most personal fears.

Jax and Xander discuss Matta's sacrifice and how to track down the lost alien race they need to find. They think using Jax's DNA, they'll be able to track the race down. On analysis, her DNA has a fifth nucleotide base, Xanthine Zazie and Jett track them down in the lab and are recruited to solve the DNA riddle.

Admiral Lucas and Harlan Fried discuss the anti-matter weapon. Fried hints that Osborn is involved with the Zatarian fleet's destruction.

Zazie and Jett decode the DNA sequencing and Jax recognizes the numbers they came up with as star map coordinates.

Xander begs Shral to join them on the mission to find the lost race. Shral tries to refuse.

Jax and Xander note that space has changed after the attack.

Zazie and Jett decide to go find Ralen who has been holed up in a VR simulator since the loss of Matta.

Xander wakes up on a farmstead. Shral walks past him and reports to his mother that Xander's older brother has been killed. Xander says that he wanted to be an architect. His mother offers to give up Xander if they will give her Zion back. Shral gives her a gun and she aims it at him. He turns and finds a girl who confirms that "here there be monsters". He wakes up at his desk.

Jett and Zazie find Ralen in the simulator, gardening. Matta joins him. Zazie and Jett discuss this development afterwards.

Jax dreams of being in the Ancients' motel. Matta is the maid. She opens the door to a portal and Xander, appearing behind her, pushes her through. She wakes up and reports to the bridge to inform Xander that the whole crew is having bad dreams.

Shral dreams of running out of a field of sunflowers and being captured and tortured by a soldier looking for Jax.

Jett goes to convince Ralen to come out of the simulator. He threatens to delete the simulation and Ralen promises to kill him if he does.

Xander tries to convince his crew that dreams can't hurt you. Shral and Jax talk to him privately and he and Jax share their dreams but Shral claims he doesn't remember his dreams.

Jett shows up again and insists that Ralen come with him.

Shral has another nightmare but ends up in the airlock in real life. He hallucinates a phantom Pandora when it's the actual Jax trying to save him. Xander shoots the controls to deactivate the airlock.

Ralen has a deathgrip on Jett's neck and Jett activates a new simulation where he introduces Ralen to his dead sister, Sam.

Shral continues to insist he doesn't remember his dreams, not even what lead him to the airlock.

The Dauntless arrives at the coordinates and finds a debris field. Xander identifies it as the Melbourne, lost 150 years before. Shral identifies other debris as a old Sumi ship. There doesn't appear to be a planet but Xander points out that there's a void in the centre of the debris field and hypothesizes that it's a cloaked planet, exerting gravitational pull on the debris.

He, Jax, and Shral take a shuttle and let the gravity of the invisible planet pull them into a fall to the surface. Xander ventures out and finds a planet.

Ralen confides in Jett and thanks him. They connect.

Jac, Shral, and Xander walk through a field similar to what was present in their nightmares. Shral is seeing visions but stays calm, advising them on first contact strategies. They come across people sitting in a circle.

Jax sees an Ancient standing with the circle and realizes the inhabitants are telepaths and are responsible for the dreams they've been having. She approaches and one of the people, a girl who has appeared in their dreams, hangs a shell on a string around Jax's neck, saying, "Now, you have everything that you need."

Jax doesn't understand but there is no other information forthcoming. The team waits for eight hours and Jax tries to communicate with them again which plunges them into darkness.

Zazie comes to check in on Jett and Ralen and finds Jett alone. Ralen's left and asked Jett not to come looking for him.

The Dauntless leaves the planet with only the shell.

On the planet, the girl talks with her elders and they say she must persevere in making Jax and the others understand.

On the ship. Shral remembers giving up the location of Jax to the soldier.

Xander goes to check on Jax and she kisses him, apparently ready to reconcile.

Summary:	Xander and Jett set off to save Ralen, who is caught up in an intergalactic fight club. Jax takes a mission for Osborn to acquire intel from a beautiful Sumi princess on the eve of her wedding.

A fight champion enters an arena to fight Ralen.

72 hours earlier, Jax contemplates what the shell from the Lost Race can do for her. Zazie comes in and wonders about Jax and Xander. Jax shuts her down.

Jett approaches Xander about Ralen. Hacking his monetary transactions, they figure out he's on Las Venus.

Xander heads out but Jett insists that he go along.

Jax goes to see Prof. Shral because he gave her an F in his course. Once she's there, he changes her grade to an A and asks her about the Sumi Empire. Shral tells her that Osborn has a mission for Jax. She is to get vital information from the visiting Princess Aleka.

When Shral shows Jax an image of Aleka, she recognizes her from her thoughts about the shell.

On Las Venus, Xander and Jett fight off a couple of thugs. When one runs off, another shows up and holds a gun on Xander. He recognizes this one as Greg, Jax's ex.

They have a drink together. Greg explains that after he escaped the Sea Hawk, he and his captain had to take rhiodine to survive and he became hooked on the super-aggression drug. After he was freed from the Hypatia Syndicate, he still couldn't break his addiction. He met another junkie, Cade Collins. Collins is fighting in the arena and Greg is his medic.

When Xander tries to force Greg to come back to Earth with him, Greg points out that the bar is filled with guys he's treated ringside and they won't hesitate to take Xander down.

Jett gets Xander to stand down and they explain to Greg that they're looking for Ralen.

Jax and Zazie talk out some misunderstanding and head to the lounge together.

Jett offers to help Greg find a cure for his addiction. Greg shares info on the arena fights. They realize Ralen's going to fight when bets start being laid on a Zatarian fighter.

The fighters all have explosive collars to prevent them leaving before their contract. They need to speak to Collins but since he'll recognize Xander, he sends Jett in undercover as a buyer and they find Ralen who tells them they shouldn't have come and that he doesn't plan to leave.

There's a live singer in the lounge, entertaining Aleka's party. Jax impresses Aleka by disarming a bodyguard and Shral arrives to make introductions.

Returning to the opening scene, Collins and Ralen engage in a fight. Xander breaks into the ring when he thinks Ralen might be killed. They find out Ralen's contract was bought by his own father and a rematch is scheduled for the next day.

Aleka tracks down Jax alone and they realize they have similar goals. Aleka asks her to spend the evening with her.

Greg looks Ralen over. They discuss their intentions. Greg tells Ralen that fighting Collins is committing suicide.

Aleka takes Jax to a simulation chamber to show her the palace. They discuss Sumi culture which is ruled by men and where the women are pitted against each other. Wives are expected to murder each other. Aleka tries to kiss Jax but she explains she has someone else and a relationship with Aleka can't happen.

Jett finds a treatment for the aggression and homicidal urges of rhiodine but they need alcohol so the three men go to the bar.

They meet up with Ralen and get very drunk and decide to call Jax.

Aleka tells Jax she plans on showing her back to the other wives. They'll either kill her or join her in a revolution.

Aleka tries to kiss her again and Jax demurs again. Aleka's soldiers approach and she reprimands them but they explain they've come to take Jax.

With Jax incapacitated, the guard tells Aleka that Jax is a spy and sends her to her ship, warning her that she will not start the revolution she seeks.

On Las Venus, Greg and Jett administer the treatment to Collins who sees clearly for the first time in a long time and apologizes to Ralen for his actions against Zatar. Ralen decides that Collins needs to kill him in the ring.

Aleka finds Zazie and recruits her to help Jax who is being tortured in their dorm room.

Zazie gives Aleka's intel to Jax when she wakes up. Jax thanks her and promises to be a better friend. Zazie leaves her to look at the intel. In a holo recording, Aleka tells Jax that the Sumi are trying to take the outer planets from Earth Com. She also tells her that the Sumi have an agent on Earth. She shows Jax her back and her tattoo of a knotted rope.

Outside the room, Zazie makes contact with Tierney who commends her for her work.

Aleka's last message to Jax is to warn her about Zazie.

On Las Venus, the battle begins. Collins kills Ralen and Ralen's father walks out of the arena as Greg tries to revive him.

Guest Stars: John Harlan Kim (Greg Li), Elizabeth Hammerton (Princess Aleka), Emmanuel Todorov (Gorch), Devora Wilde (Rachel), Adam Othman (Sumi Leader), Steven Kriozere (The Rifleman)
Summary: Xander, Ralen, and Jett help defend a mining colony in the Outer Rim that is under constant siege from Sumi Pirates. Meanwhile, back at the Academy, Jax is recruited by Osborn for a secret mission.

Xander and Greg pilot a ship away from Las Venus, leaving Lt. Collins to help the fighters gain their freedom.

Jett cry over Ralen's body. Ralen's eyes suddenly open, causing Jett to scream. Ralen explains that he was playing dead. The ship is attacked by Sumi marauders.

They double back on the marauders, causing the Sumi's torpedoes to detonate on their own ships.

The Earth Com ship makes an emergency landing on a nearby planet.

On Aluna 4, an Outer Rim thulium mining colony, they survive the crash but the ship is inoperable.

On Earth, Jax and Zazie have drinks. Shral arrives and asks her for the intel from Aleka.

The four Earthlings walk to a mining settlement which looks deserted. They take shelt in a church only to find themselves faced with a gun-wielding woman.

The woman, Rachel, and her father, Gorch, explain the situation and they reach an agreement.

Shral and Jax meet about Aleka's intel. He asks her to talk to her mother and arrange a meeting between himself and Tierney so Osborn get get a portal device to allow him to travel freely throughout the universe.

On Aluna 4, the Sumi marauders arrive, looking for Xander's ship and crew. Xander offers a plan. When the Sumi arrive, they ask Gorch for their thulium. When they ask for survivors from an Earth Com vessel, his men bring out Jett and Ralen in chains.

Jett masquerades as Xander. When the Sumi try to take them, Xander and Gorch attack and they kill the two Sumi.

The residents appear and Greg volunteers Earth Com to fight any new Sumi who arrive.

Jax goes to visit Eve. She shares her experience with The Ancients and asks to speak to Tierney. Eve says she'll send Tierney a message.

Xander wants to give the Sumi the impression of being heavily guarded and keep them away. Ralen draws his attention to the fact that the Sumi weapons were manufactured by Parallax Galactic, Harlan Fried's company.

Greg and Rachel set up a makeshift triage unit. They talk about his relationship with Jax and Xander. Greg talks out how he's changed.

Ralen and Gorch are examining the mines when Ralen confronts Gorch about his fighting technique which looks more Zatarian than human. He accuses him of hiding his true identity. Gorch pulls a gun on him.

Jax tries to resume her drink with Zazie but Shral interrupts them again to tell Jax that Xander and Ralen were shot down and a Sumi fleet are being dispatched.

Ralen bests Gorch in combat and forces him to explain himself. Gorch was a smuggler and thief who stole ID papers off a soldier named Gorch and assumed his identity on Aluna 4 in order to raise Rachel in a life removed from danger and criminality.

Ralen shares Matta's loss and promises to keep Gorch's secret.

Shral waits for Tierney at the bar. She startles him by appearing suddenly and he draws a weapon on her.

Osborn, through Shral, offers Tierney an anti-matter plasma weapon for the portal instrument. Tierney wants to use it to destroy the Ancients.

The Sumi arrive and the residents fight back according to Xander's plan. Casualties are suffered. Xander calls a retreat. Ralen lures some Sumi into the mines. They trip a wire and set off an explosion.

A Sumi ship traps Ralen but Jett brings the repaired ship and saves him.

The fight goes badly and even Gorch is killed. The Sumi suddenly stop firing and Xander goes out and finds Aleka there. She tells him Jax asked for her help and he is free to go. The planet will be safe from Sumi marauders now.

They bury Gorch. Rachel is offered a ride back to Earth but she wants to stay. Greg chooses to stay as well. He sends a message for Jax back with Xander.

Ralen and Xander walk away and Xander informs Ralen that their next mission is to prove Parallax is working with the Sumi Empire and providing weapons to the pirates.

Tierney pops in to help Eve escape.

Guest Stars: Rolan Bell (Roy Scantron), Jesse Badger (Zion), J.R. Esposito (Bey Turhan), Simon Feek (Dangore), Plamena Bozhilova (Captain Grace Fontana)
Summary: Xander, Ralen, and Jett discover and track a consignment of illegal weapons to a freighter captained by a desperate cargo pilot, Roy Scantron, where they discover the cargo is clones of dead EarthCom soldiers.

A ship captained by a man named Roy Scantron arrives at Prion Control Galactic Transport Hub.

Jax looks at old pictures of her and Greg. Zazie comes in and wonders about their study group with Ralen and Jett both off-planet.

While discussing Greg, Jax suddenly gets ill, seeing double and flushing a strange color.

On Prion Control, Scantron wants to take the Earth Com cargo but he's not insured properly. The comptroller gives him some Parallax containers to deliver, warning him not to look inside ever. Scantron questions whether it's illegal but when the comptroller tells him how much the job pays, he agrees to the job.

Once the comptroller reports that Scantron's taken the job, his contact sends killers in to take care of him.

Jax returns to her room and tells Zazie that she's pregnant.

Sector 5378, Non-aligned Territories. Jett, Xander, and Ralen are following Scantron's transport, tracking the signal of Parallax munitions they took off the Sumi pirates. They monitor the ship's coms and hears the captain singing.

Jax tries to contact Xander about the pregnancy. She confides in Zazie that she wants to terminate the pregnancy. Zazie tries to convince her she'd be a good mother. Suddenly, Jax has a substantial baby bump and the baby's moving.

Jett, Xander, and Ralen board Scantron's ship and arrest him for transporting illegal weapons. He claims ignorance about his cargo.

Jett opens up the containers and they find people inside, held in stasis.

Jett discovers that all the people are clones manufactured on Adar from the cells of dead Earth Com soldiers. As Jett scrolls through the identities of the clones' original people, Xander sees his own brother, Zion, among them.

Finding Zion, Xander asks Jett to wake him. Ralen argues that the clone is not his brother but Xander insists. When he revives, Zion asks for the Commander, not seeming to recognize Xander at all.

Jax discusses her pregnancy with Shral who informs her the child is not Xander's. She is pregnant with her own clone. She wants Shral and Osborn to find the baby new parents.

She goes into labor while in his office.

Xander talks to the Zion clone, trying to revive memories.

Jax and Zazie brings the baby into the school cafeteria. Jax is bonding with her.

Xander shares his relationship with Zion with Ralen who warns him about living in the past. Their ship is flanked by multiple enemy ships.

Jax names the baby Bloom.

Xander identifies the enemy ships as Bellum Batonianum, violent secessionists who want the Outer Rim colonies to break away from the Earth Confederacy.

Scantron shares that his ship has no weapons or shields. He starts to panic and Xander sens him off the bridge. He runs off.

Ralen suggests hiding some mines in trash containers and dropping them behind the ship. The ruse takes out one ship but there are still four more. The ship suddenly loses all power.

Scantron sneaks onto the Earth Com shuttle and leaves the ship. The Bellum Batonianum board the ship. They are led by the Courier from the season premiere, introducing himself as Bay Turan.

Turan is able to command Zion and orders him to bring him to the others. Once the other clones are taken, Turan orders Zion to stay and asks Xander why he is special. He threatens to kill Zion.

Shral checks in on Bloom and Jax. Jax is protective and refuses to let Shral examine the baby. She asks for one more night with Bloom before giving her up.

Xander admits he woke Zion because he is the clone of his brother. Turan orders Zion to kill Xander.

Zion hesitates and Turan orders his men to kill them all. Zion's memories are restored. A firefight ensues and Zion is hit. Turan orders his men to grab the clone and head back to the ship. Ralen holds back Xander and tells him they'll find Zion since he's placed a tracker on him.

Turan's ships fire a torpedo at the ship but it is neutralized by a shot from Scantron in the stolen shuttle. He's brought the Dauntless back with him and they pursue the marauders as they flee.

Jax prepares to be a mother to Bloom, promising she'll never let anything happen to her. She goes to sleep but Zazie's only faking sleep across the room.

Scantron shares that he plans to reconnect with his sister, Bertha.

Jett gathers some information and discovers that the clones were created by TN5, Parallax's competitor.

Jax wakes up and discovers Bloom is gone and so is Zazie.

Guest Stars: Chase Masterson (Computer (voice)), Plamena Bozhilova (Captain Grace Fontana)
Summary: Xander, Ralen, and Jett finally return to Earth, only to find it completely devoid of life with the exception being a mysterious and amnesic Jax; now they will need to work together to unravel the strange mysteries of this surreal world.

The Earth Com campus is empty of people except for "Jax" who spends her time eating prepared food and learning from a tablet app.

A book appears and, reading from it, she breaks her cycle, hears a sound, and finds her way to decrepit and overgrown passages.

Flashes of memory cause her pain until she's on the ground. A voice admonishes her for going into the back room. "Jax" apologizes to "mother" who turns out to be Zazie. "Jax" is, in fact, Bloom.

Enroute back to Earth, Jett asks Xander to let him help find Zion but the Admiral has ordered them to return.

Shral sends a transmission, informing Xander of Jax's pregnancy and delivery. Xander is shaken by the news.

Zazie is drilling Bloom on her learning. Zazie asks about hormonal flux readings and Bloom says she heard a noise at breakfast that scared her. They review the Pandora myth and Zazie reminds Bloom that she is not to be curious or to feel bad emotions otherwise bad things will happen.

Xander visits Jett's quarters and discovers that Ralen has left the ship.

Bloom continues to read from the book of love poetry and hears the sounds again. She wanders out of her room and runs into Ralen who calls her by Jax's name. Bloom doesn't know him.

In the real Jax's room, Shral is trying to calm a distraught Jax. Finding only one other biological signature on the baby blanket, Shral pulls up the corridor surveillance footage and they see Zazie leaving with the baby.

Despite being frightened of Ralen, Bloom has memory flashes of Ralen and accepts him as a friend. She starts to inspect him as she's never seen anyone but Zazie in her life. Ralen explains that he went to sleep on the Dauntless and woke up in this place. When he promises to figure out and help her with his situation, Bloom's forehead glows which takes him off-guard.

When Zazie approaches, Jax hides Ralen in her room. Alone with him, she asks him about poetry. When she starts to flirt with him, he reminds her that she is with Xander. This sparks a memory of an angry Ralen and she gets upset and runs away.

Ralen follows her to the back room. She calls out for her mother then tries zapping the door which then reflects back the charge knocking both her and Ralen unconscious. Zazie emerges from the door.

Bloom starts her daily routine over again although the book is still there. The sounds start again and lead her to the room where she finds Xander and Jett unconscious on the floor.

She wakes them and has flashes of Jax's memories of Xander and runs away.

They follow her into the lounge and she hits Jett with a bottle.

They have a conversation under the assumption that Bloom is Jax and that she has amnesia. Xander thinks they've traveled to the future. Xander sends Jett away and he tries to get Bloom to lead him to Eve, assuming that's who she's talking about when she refers to "mother"

Outside, the city and campus are destroyed and fallen into decay. Bloom insists that it's always been this way.

Jett traces power readings to the door but gets zapped before he can tell Xander.

Bloom brings Xander to her art room and shows him drawings she's done of him before ever meeting him.

Jett wakes up tied to a chair. Zazie arrives and interrogates him on how he got there. She reveals they are on another Earth, her Earth, where there was no migration and the entire planet died but Eve and Tierney saved her.

Tierney shows up and fills in some of the backstory including the fact that Jett gave Zazie what she needed to impregnate Jax with her own clone. She also tells Jett who Bloom is.

Xander declares his love to Bloom but realizes that that she's not Jax. She has another flash of Xander's past with Jax and runs again. Jett finds Xander and explains about Bloom. Zazie offers to show them something else but Tierney interrupts and points out that Eve's plan to create a perfectly happy and contented Pandora to report to the Ancients isn't working.

Zazie realizes that Tierney gave Jax the book and brought Ralen and Xander to this world. Tierney wanted to show Bloom that real love hurts. Tierney proposes Xander help her destroy the Ancients first. Bloom sees Tierney proposition Xander.

Zazie and Tierney bring Jett and Xander to Ralen. Bloom follows them through the door and finds the lab. Zazie and Tierney explain that they tried cloning Jax independently and the results were monstrous and unviable. Bloom freaks out, attacks Zazie, and starts to coalesce a distortion around her. A portal opens behind her and she leaves through it, quoting Keats before disappearing.

Xander orders Tierney to take them back to their universe. She activates a transport for all of them.

Jax and Shral wait in a field for Osborn. When he arrives, Admiral Lucas has him arrested. She has Jax and Shral arrested as well.

Zazie and Jett talk and he reassures her that she'll get a second chance. Zazie returns to her room and finds a data cube with a message from Bloom.

Jax is left in her holding cell, still desperate to find her daughter.

Summary: As the Galaxy sits on the brink of war, Jax and the team must unite all the races of the Galaxy in the hopes of preventing their destruction. Meanwhile, Osborn grapples with the ghosts of his past.

Lucas visits Osborn in lock-up. She accuses him of killing his wife. He comments she's never been able to prove it.

He flashes back ten years to a dinner party with Shral and Lucas and his wife, Laura. Lucas gets Osborn alone and confronts him with the fact his wife is a mole, leaking secrets from C.I.S. She demands his resignation so that she can take his place as head of C.I.S.

As they are saying their farewells, Laura is struck with abdominal pain. After Lucas and Shral leave, he confronts her and it is revealed that he poisoned her.

In the present-day, Ralen asks Lucas about the news of TM5 and the Sumi. Their conversation is watched by Harlan Fried via the bugged ship model he gave Lucas. She orders him to the Dauntless and informs him that Jax has been arrested.

Duvall and Tierney portal to Homestead where the anti-matter weapon has been stowed. In exchange for the weapon, Tierney promises to portal Xander to his brother. Protector aliens appear and Xander and Tierney hide.

Jax's shell is glowing. Her guard suddenly turns and the Lost Race's emissary's voice emerges. Jax falls into a trance and wakes in the Ancients' motel. She begs for more time. Waking up, she tells the guard she's ready to talk to Admiral Lucas.

Tierney offers Xander a drink which he initially declines. She asks for trust and he drinks only to find it was drugged.

Lucas refuses to believe Jax.

The Ancient appears to Jax as she is taken back to her cell. She fights off her guards and runs into Jett. He and Raylan have a plan to help Jax escape.

Raylan meets his new captain.

Zazie joins Jett and Jax. Jax is upset and demands to know where Bloom is. Zazie begs for forgiveness and gives Jax the holo-message Bloom left for her. Jett reminds them they're on a tight schedule.

Osborn and Shral are brought to Lucas. She orders them returned to their cells but the guards are knocked out by Jett and Zazie. Jax joins them.

The Dauntless experiences some technical difficulties.

Xander wakes up and realizes Protector aliens are nearby. Using a hologram of himself to distract them, he escapes.

Shral shackles Lucas and she tries to convince him that he's not who he thinks he is. He stuffs a scarf in her mouth to silence her after she comments on Laura being her sister.

Osborn tries to take command of the group but Jax shuts him down on that.

She plans to make her testimony to the Ancients.

Shral plans to stay with Lucas.

The Dauntless is still glitching and a repair shuttle docks, carrying Jax and the rest.

On Homestead, Tierney finds the crashed Protector ship but runs into an alien. The alien morphs into Xander. He informs her that he's hidden the weapon she wants.

Jax hooks Jett into the Dauntless's system. Zazie and Osborn stall on the bridge. Suddenly the ship's oxygen is being vented and the captain orders the crew to abandon ship.

Jax's team takes over the ship and heads to Asmodeus VI. Shral informs Lucas.

Lucas informs Shral that the Zatarians turned him into spy. While he's distracted, she zaps him.

Jax comments to Osborn about Jett and Ralen becoming unlikely friends.

Xander discovers Zion and the clone soldiers have landed on Zatar. Tierney prepares to portal them there.

Jax asks Ralen for his insights on the galaxy.

Xander and Tierney Portal to Zatarian High Command, disguised as Zatarians.

En route to Asmodeus VI, Jett reports that Earth Com has sent battle cruisers to intercept them.

Lucas hails them and orders them to stand down and surrender. If they don't, she will kill Shral.

The Earth Com forces board and find the ship abandoned except for Osborn.

Xander and Tierney find Bey Turan and Zion meeting with Ralen's father.

Osborn and Lucas have a private conversation about their relationship and Lucas reveals that she was the spy, not Laura.

Summary: It's a race against time for Jax to save the universe. Xander pursues his own plans.

Osborn and Lucas discuss why she spied for the Zatarians and framed her sister for it. She still does not believe in the destruction of the Ancients. Osborn refuses to tell her where Jax and the team have gone. She informs them they are now headed to the blockade line where she plans on starting a war, using the computer-controlled Dauntless and leaving Osborn on board to pin the blame on.

The team has stowed aboard a transport cargo ship captained by Roy Scantron.

Xander and Tierney discovery that Cordelia is also involved with Bey Turhan and the Zatarians. They also witness Admiral Lucas reporting in as well. Tierney follows Cordelia while Xander heads her off. Cordelia admits to framing their father for illegally supplying weapons to the Sumi to get him sent to prison so she can take over the company.

Bey Turhan and his man come running in. Tierney and Xander are taken. Cordelia stabs Tierney in the stomach. Bey Turhan takes aim at Xander and he throws the knife from Tierney into Turhan's stomach. Zion immediately disarms the other goons and informs them they'll be surrounded in moments. Xander opens a portal and they escape.

Scantron gets caught up on Jax's mission. Turns out Scantron's sister, Bertha, is Cronin and she's traveling with him as his first mate and chef. As Bertha and Roy explain their history, Jax makes a connection to what the Lost Race told her and her shell begins to glow.

Ralen encourages Jax to take members of all the races to see the Ancients but Jax is afraid they'll be at risk the way Matta was lost. Ralen argues it's not her decision to make.

Xander take Zion home to see their mother.

The Dauntless arrives at the Earth-Sumi Blockade Line. Lucas takes Shral with her and leaves Osborn to trigger a war.

As Xander tends to Tierney's wound, she tries to convince him to give her the anti-matter weapon so she can destroy the Ancients before they can destroy the universe. Xander believes Jax can save them.

Tierney tells Xander about her childhood with Harlan and her life and choices on Hypatia that led her to this moment.

Osborn attempts to disengage the programmed attack. He is unable to but the systems shut down suddenly and Harlan Fried appears on the screen, explaining he built a backdoor into the AI when he designed the ship for Earth Com. Harlan offers him control of the ship if he agrees to come work for him. Osborn agrees reluctantly. Harlan gives him control of the Dauntless and he takes off, to Lucas's great ire.

Jax and the team reunite with Osborn. A Sumi ship arrives, setting off alarms. Jax hails the vessel rather than fire and it's Aleka. Jax directs her to meet them on the surface.

Xander appears just as Jax and Aleka greet each other. Suddenly Aleka is struck by laser fire. Ralen sends a drone and IDs the shooter as Lucas. Ralen's drone blows her up.

Aleka dies and the shell from the Lost Race blackens and crumbles.

They bury Aleka. Jax is disillusioned with her ability to save the universe. Xander shoots her. He contacts Osborn and asks him to send down the contents of a cabin on the Dauntless. Ralen questions Xander's plan to use the weapon on the Ancients and punches him out. Jett gets between them and holds a weapon on Ralen. Ralen gains the weapon and tries to get the anti-matter weapon from Xander but Osborn appears and stuns him. He brought the box down with him. Xander boxes Jax.

A hooded figure meets Xander in the caves and offers him the chance to reverse Jax's loss of faith. She opens a portal. They pass through and Xander loses the anti-matter weapon as he arrives back before Aleka is shot.

He saves Aleka and they enter the portal to the Ancients.

Pandora makes her plea, using her companions as testimonials. She passes her shell to the man in the chair who transforms into the girl from her dream and the Lost Race.

The spokesperson for the Ancients judges the universe worthy and the Pandora's job at an end. Jax will remain with the Ancients. This is Xander's price for being able to travel back and save Aleka and the universe.

The team is sent back. Aleka consoles Xander and declares her intention to continue Jax's work with the Sumi to create a peaceful universe.

As they exit the caves, Lucas announces they are all under arrest. The hooded figure appears behind her and Xander and Ralen take the opportunity to attack. Lucas is shot. The hooded figure takes out the rest of the troops.

Xander talks Osborn out of killing Lucas. Ralen approaches the hooded figure but Xander orders him to the Kubrick. Xander identifies the hooded figure as Bloom.

Zazie leaves with Scantron and Bertha. Osborn prepares to join Harlan. Xander goes off to mourn Jax.

Jett asks Ralen how Lucas found them.

On Zatar, Shral is held by Ralen's father and his goons. Salazen welcomes him back.

Xander returns to Jax's quarters and looks at the picture of Eve. Tierney arrives and informs him that the portal system has collapsed. She asks for his help to find Eve.

Ralen recalls Xander to the bridge to receive the message from Lucas that they are under arrest and from Salazen that Ralen must return home. The Dauntless opens fire and flees.
