Guy), Larissa Gallagher (Car (voice))
Summary: After a self-driving car crash, Nathan is uploaded to Lakeview, his girlfriend's family's digital after-life, where he meets his customer service rep, Nora.

The episode opens with a commercial for Lake View. It's clear that this is important to the story as this is where our lead male, Nathan, ends up. However, before we meet him, we get to meet our lead female, Nora.

Nora introduces us to the technical world. She works as an Angel at Horizon, where she helps people adjust to the digital afterlife. We watch as Nora helps to upload a new person to the system, talking her through the process.

It's then a quick jump to Nathan, who is currently working on some code with a friend. It looks like he's at home, but it's soon clear that he's driving on the LA freeway. Well, the car is driving. Technology is at a point of self-driving cars but Nathan can override the system with his coding skills so he can take control and drive at speed.

When he's pulled over, he gets out of a ticket as it looks like the car did suffer a technical fault.

We end up at Nathan's parents' house for Thanksgiving, where his coding friend and business partner Jamie joins them. This also gives us a chance to meet Nathan's entitled rich girlfriend, Ingrid.

That tells us what Nathan and Jamie are working on a free version of the digital afterlife. We also see him helping his niece with her "classical dance homework," which is definitely not classical dancing.

It all seems like a semi-normal Thanksgiving but without the arguing. It's on the way back to Ingrid's when it all gets interesting. Nathan's car malfunctions and he crashes into a truck.

During the episode, we also get to know about Nora's family. She lives alone with her dad and wants to help him get into Lake View. However, he doesn't want to go to a digital afterlife. Nora's mom never did and he wants to be in "Heaven" with her. It doesn't make sense, but this is what he believes.

The accident doesn't kill Nathan, but he is gravely injured. He needs to decide whether to risk surgery or go to Lake View, which is where Ingrid is pushing him. He chooses to be uploaded, which is where his digital life begins.

Nora is the one who is uploading him, giving us a chance to see the way the digital process is done. She has to draw it in and make sure all his memories are uploaded and categorized. When some files are damaged, she puts them in a folder to fix later.

It's clear this is something to keep an eye on. Those damaged files are linked to Nathan and Jamie's business. Uh oh!

We get a chance see Nathan try to get used to the digital afterlife. It's not easy at all, which is why Nora is there to help. Nathan has to get used to the idea of being dead and the idea of being in an afterlife that he may not have chosen for himself.

There are a lot of beautiful elements to the digital afterlife, with weather-changing settings, choices of food, and much more. However, there are annoying elements like in-app purchases and there are definitely some glitches here and there.

With life going on without him and it being clear that things aren't real, Nathan struggles to adjust completely. His hair is one of the biggest problems, with a bit that just doesn't sit properly. It gets so bad that he heads to the Data Torrent at the center of the afterlife where if he jumps everything about him will be removed. It's the end of his afterlife.

Nora gets into the system just in time to help prevent it. She talks him out of jumping into the Data Torrent. While anyone could have been there, it's Nora's pain and passion that stops him. Despite not being allowed to, she tells him her name, where she lives, and a little about her office. It's a chance for them to connect (and for her to fix his hair).

Of course, we have to finish with the murder mystery element. Someone is deleting some of the damaged files from the folder Nora created. It's not Nora but possibly someone who works the evening shift at the company.

Guy), Rhys Slack (Dylan), Scott Patey (Josh Pitzer), Elizabeth Bowen (Fran Booth), Andy Thompson (Professor), Josephine Ting (Woman), Maria Turner (Attendant), Pavel Romano (Breck), Melissa M. Montgomery (Employee), Susan Saint James (Old Woman), Chirag Naik (Tennis Ball Guy), William B. Davis (David Choak), Matt Ward (Byron), Julian Christopher (Ernie), Larissa Gallagher (Car (voice))
Summary:	Nora tries to get her ratings up, so her boss will approve her dad's upload loan. Nathan acclimates to his new world with the help of a Lakeview therapist.

The episode starts with Nora hooking up with some guy on a dating app. Technology has gone to the point where they give consent and Nora is pushed into giving the guy five stars afterward. He doesn't uphold his end of the deal because he views her as needy.

While Nora's dad doesn't want it, she wants to get him into Lake View with her employee discount. She needs her boss, Lucy, to sign off on it. Of course, Lucy hates Nora and refuses to unless Nora can get a 4.6-star average at work.

And so starts Nora's journey to help as many of her charges as possible. Nathan, who is still adjusting to things, tries to help. He realizes that she needs some five-star ratings to boost her numbers, so he decides to give her five-stars for seemingly no reason. Is it against the rules? Nobody really answers that, but it's a way to show Nathan's kindness and his connection to Nora.

One thing that is fun is seeing Nathan's therapy session. After trying to throw himself in the Data Torrent, he has mandatory therapy. It involves animals, but not just to stroke.

The animal talks. Well, the digital animal is used as a device for a therapist to help Nathan talk things out.

Nathan realizes that he resents the afterlife a little. He had freedom and was gaining a life that he loved. The car crash brought that to an end, and he can't really accept that. He heads out on a mission to talk to five other uploads to get perspective, which is where he meets a young boy who has been in the afterlife for a few years. The young boy gives us that reminder that the digital afterlife may not be all that great as the years go on. People in life move forward and get older.

In real life, we meet a woman, Fran Booth, who is investigating the car accident. Nathan's family wants to find out the truth, clearly feeling like something isn't right.

The car has no memory of the night the crash happened, which shouldn't be possible. On top of that, the car doesn't believe there is any damage to report. The dashcam recordings from the night have gone, which further hint that Nathan was murdered.

Why would someone want him dead? When Nathan mentions to David Choke of the Choke Brothers, who co-run a major company and helped influence American politics in this world, that he and his friend wrote a program to allow people to upload themselves to a free afterlife, David comments that Nathan was murdered.

That brings us back to the memories that were damaged. Nora manages to restore some, which are definitely linked to the program. One person at a company that they pitched to sees Nathan and Jamie in secret, telling them not to take the freeware pitch to anyone else—and don't tell anyone else.

Summary:	Scientists attempt to download a consciousness back into a clone body. Nathan attends his own funeral and Nora uncovers a mystery surrounding his death.

Bubbling in the news is a new solution called Download that does the opposite to Upload — it downloads someone's consciousness into a clone body. Meanwhile, Nathan is getting ready and Ingrid is being her usual controlling self, choosing his outfit, and how the day pans out.

They both watch the first Download together on the news, but it fails, with the man's head exploding — gone forever.

Well, it's not great for Nathan — at the start, he interacts with Ingrid and his family but Jamie has not shown up to his surprise. It's understandably emotional for him.

Nora attends the funeral but views it from a different location and pretends to be a former colleague — some of his exes state how amazing he was. The funeral has a slideshow of his memories that are not the best, with the last memory looking very fuzzy.

The priest at the funeral made Nathan sound immature — Ingrid prepared the speech.

Nathan's mother tells him his equity shares handed to her wasn't much due to his business never launching completely.

Indeed there is something not quite right. Fran Booth, Nathan's cousin, attends the funeral and she has decided to investigate his death. She asks Ingrid questions about Nathan's Upload, stating his vitals at the hospital were improving.

Ingrid dismisses Fran and walks off to deliver a speech, but surprisingly it is not about Nathan, it's about the man who died from the Download project. Nathan asks if any of his friends would like to make a speech or a eulogy but they've either already left or did not turn up.

Nathan tells Ingrid that his funeral "sucks" and she's made all the decisions. Ingrid turns on him and threatens to delete Nathan from Upload, stating she could easily go home with his friend Derek, accusing him of being ungrateful. Nathan backtracks and apologizes.

Fran then speaks to Nathan to get more information on his death — he says he's had memory problems recently and Fran ponders on that, stating his car had memory problems too.

The episode ends with Ingrid telling Nathan that she did not mean what she said in their little argument. It was a difficult apology to buy.

Nora rings a man called Josh and asks him about the project Nathan and Jamie were working on called Beyond. Josh says he was angry when they refused his investment but would never have wished death on them before hanging up.

Summary:	Nora thinks she may have misjudged Nathan. Nathan and his girlfriend Ingrid are interviewed about the challenges of romance between a living person and an Upload.

The episode starts with Nathan still struggling to deal with life at Lake View. His problem is that he can't work. He just wanders around and has nothing to really do. Nora needs to find him a way to be grateful for what he does have, so she takes Nathan to the two-gig floor.

This two-gig floor is for those who don't have the unlimited data plan. They get a whole two-gigs per month, and once that data is gone, they are frozen until the next month. And on top of that, they get just the free samples of everything.

They'll need to pay extra for that, and they don't have the money for it.

Nathan feels like he has a cause to fight for. He wants to make the world better for these people in the afterlife. It links back to the digital afterlife he was trying to create.

However, his time on the two-gig floor is interrupted by Ingrid. He promised to do an interview to talk about their relationship, which leads to a discussion about sex. The only way they can be intimate is through one of the suits that Ingrid was turned off by, but she wants to spend time with her boyfriend.

When they do get to spend the night together, Nathan struggles to perform. Nora is the one who steps in to save the day (although neither she or Nathan want her to). It's clear the two have far more chemistry than Nathan has with Ingrid, but a relationship between client and Angel is forbidden. Plus, it's impractical.

Things look like they stand a chance for the two of them. That would be if Fran wasn't still getting on with her investigation. She heads to the convenience store Nathan went to before his accident for the security footage. It's not hard to get it, possibly by saying she's a part-time private investigator or because the store owner doesn't care, and that's when Fran finds out something incriminating. Ingrid tampered with Nathan's car the night he died.

The Grey Market

Davis (David Choak), Julian Christopher (Ernie), Jordan Johnson-Hinds (Jamie), Jocelyne Loewen (Forever Alone), Dan Mellor (Golfer), Chirag Naik (Tennis Ball Guy), Nicholas Dohy (Grey Zone Customer)
Summary: Nora's Dad's vape lung worsens while Nathan, his friend Luke, and Dylan, an uploaded teen whose body is not keeping up with his age, visit a hacker's market in cyberspace.

The episode starts with Nathan and Ingrid trying to deal with couples therapy. That goes as well as you would likely expect when Ingrid clearly wants to control everything Nathan does. However, that's not the main focus for the episode.

The main focus is about Dylan, who is struggling with life as a child. He wants his parents to upgrade him to be an adult. Of course, they're not ready to let their little boy go. It's hard for them, but it's also extremely hard for a child who is turning 19.

It's not all that surprising that when Luke suggests they all head to the Grey Market so they can get a hack to head to a place where real people go for a virtual rave that Dylan is more than on board. He could get a hack for an upgrade. With Nathan babysitting, he's the one with the final say, and he does agree to everyone heading to the Grey Market.

How do they get to the Grey Market? They have to head through a glitch in the hedge, which the A.I. isn't happy about. However, the trio only has an hour to get what they need and come back. Of course, they cut it fine, but Luke gets the hack he needs and Dylan gets his upgrade. Well, he thinks he does.

It turns out that Dylan's upgrade makes him an adult female. Oops!

While all this is happening, Nora is in the hospital with her dad. She gets the chance to talk to a doctor about the Upload machinery. Can it damage memories? Oh no! It's not the machine that's a problem at all. So, why have Nathan's memories been erased and damaged? The mystery continues.

Nora isn't the only one working out the mystery. Fran is on her way to visit Josh. Just as she spots something strange in a photo, her car blacks out and throws her into the sea. Someone wants to make sure Nathan's murder remains covered up, but who?

The Sleepover

Season 1
Episode Number: 6
Season Episode: 6

Originally aired: Friday May 01, 2020
Writer: Shepard Boucher
Director: Kacie Anning
Show Stars: Robbie Amell (Nathan Brown), Andy Allo (Nora Antony), Allegra Edwards (Ingrid Kannerman), Zainab Johnson (Aleesha), Kevin Bigley (Luke)
Guest Stars: Chloe Coleman (Nevaeh), Owen Daniels (A.I. Guy), Barclay Hope (Oliver Kannerman), Chris Williams (Dave Antony), Brea St. James (Older Dylan), Lucas Wyka (Jack Kannerman), Andrea Rosen (Lucy), Matt Ward (Byron), Jordan Johnson-Hinds (Jamie), Josh Banday (Ivan), Teryl Rothery (Dawn Kannerman), Matt Braunger (Brad), Wayne Wilderson (Zach), Fiona Vroom (Ruby Kannerman)
Summary: Nathan is thrown when Nora goes on a Nitely date. Ingrid invites Nathan's niece for a sleepover. Nathan and Nora suspect his damaged memories may lead to a greater conspiracy. Luke gets into a fight with Aleesha.

The episode opens up with Nora spending time with her father via VR while he's in hospital. Her father asks about Nathan and suggests that she gets to know her date Bryant properly as that could be the difference.

Well, Ingrid has offered to have Nathan's niece for a sleepover and he introduces his niece to Nora. Nathan then asks Nora if she'd like to watch the sunset with him but she says she can't because she has a date.

You can tell Nathan is jealous in this scene.

The niece realizes how mean and nasty Ingrid's family are to Ingrid. The dinner gets too much and Ingrid kicks her entire family out of the house and then she starts the sleepover with the niece, including doing each other's hair.

She tries to make the conversation deeper with Bryant which works to an extent. He pays for the meal and asks if they can talk more so the sex is hot later. Nora takes Bryant to her work and he wants to check out the avatars. Bryant is fascinated by them and keeps calling them dead, which offends Nora.

Nora bores him off so she can talk to Nathan.

Meanwhile, Nathan finally gets in touch with Jamie who's about to head into a meeting so quickly put the phone down. This conspiratory story is building up slowly.

Nora turns up and Nathan asks her how her date went. Nora video calls Nathan from her office and shows him around. Nathan claims her office is amazing. Nora returns to Lakeview and shows Nathan the stars.

Nora tells Nathan that some of his memories were damaged and she asks him if he remembers trying to make a deal for his project called Beyond which he did not want to sell. She tells Nathan that it seems what happened to him wasn't an accident.

Nathan asks if she reckons Jamie did something but then they decide to change the subject.

Episode 6 starts the romance between Nathan and Nora — Nathan tells her that she's his favorite person and has felt more optimistic when she's around and felt a bit jealous when she went on her date.

The episode ends with Nora falling asleep next to him on the grass the next day and her supervisor catches her.

Summary: Nathan takes Nora's dad on a do-or-die upload decision tour, but things go awry when Luddites sabotage Lakeview. Nora does some sleuthing on Lucy's computer in the confusion.

The episode starts with Nora trying to explain why she was sleeping next to Nathan on a picnic blanket at the end of the previous episode. Lucy understandably isn't impressed. As much as I don't like Lucy, she has a point during this scene. There are rules that Nora should follow but doesn't. Nora leaves Lucy's office with the threat of her rating dropping from a 4.8 average to a 3.8 average.

That's not all for Nora. Her dad is visiting Lake View. She desperately wants him to agree to be uploaded instead of die, but he wants to be with his late wife. So, Nora thinks a tour of Lake View is Nathan as his guide will help. It's a great chance for Nathan and Nora's dad to meet and the tour goes relatively well, but in the end, Nora's dad makes it clear that he doesn't want to be uploaded.

With everything I've seen on this show, I'm kind of on his side. I don't think I'd want eternity in the digital space.

While that happens, Ingrid goes to an "After Wives" support group. These are women with husbands and partners in the digital afterlife. Ingrid wonders—after admitting she kissed and then later that she slept with Nathan's best friend, Jamie—whether she should freeze Nathan. She can live her life and unfreeze him when she's ready.

Nathan has become her plaything and it's clear Ingrid is a terrible human. Although, is that surprising when you see her family?

While Nathan guides Nora's dad around Lake View, Nora takes some time to snoop on Lucy's computer. She realizes that an unknown employee number has accessed Nathan's files. Not only is the number unknown on Lucy's computer, but it's absolutely nowhere in the system.

And it's clear that someone doesn't want Nora finding out the truth. Somebody puts a device in the server room that cuts out the power for a few minutes. It halts Nora's progress in finding out information, but she does manage to get some of the files downloaded to help her with her investigation. It helps her learn that Josh Prizer is dead.

It's not a happy ending for Nora when her dad makes it clear he doesn't want to be uploaded. Something I love is that she accepts it, though. She's done pushing and asks him to say "hi" to her mom for her. I understand her wish for him to be uploaded—why say a permanent goodbye if that's not necessary in this world?—but it's his choice in the end.

Summary: After a surprising revelation, Nathan shops for a new digital after-life. Nora travels to LA to help Ingrid stop him from leaving Lakeview.

We pick up with Lucy finding out that Nathan knows Nora's name. We can thank one of Nora's coworkers for that—the one who allows the digital uploads to relive their memories. Nathan likes to relive things from Lake View because of Nora and she just had to tell Lucy what she found out. It leads to Nora being suspended, which could be a blessing in disguise.

When Lucy uses Nora's avatar to trick Nathan into sharing his feelings—and then shoots him down—Nathan decides there's nothing in Lake View anymore. He doesn't want to be Ingrid's puppet, so he asks his mom to take him digital afterlife shopping.

That means putting him on a hard drive, and there's a huge focus on upselling the protective cases. You know this is going to become a problem.

When Nora learns that Nathan is shopping digital afterlives, she goes to LA to find Ingrid. Ingrid and Nora head to the digital afterlife company that Nathan's mom is using, and Ingrid offers to take Nathan's hard drive back.

Nora takes one of the travel agent's broken drives to give to Ingrid while giving Nathan's mom Nathan's hard drive. It's lucky because the hard drive Ingrid is holding is stolen from her and thrown into a fountain. It would have destroyed Nathan entirely, except that Nora had the right drive.

Because of Nora's choice to visit Ingrid, Nora gets a glowing review to Lucy's boss. That gets Nora reinstated at work so she's able to visit Nathan and tell him that he needs to break up with Ingrid before he tells Nora anything about his feelings.

While all this is happening, Nora has also found out something about Josh Pitzer. The last text he received was Nathan's upload ID. Why would he need that and who sent it?

Summary:	The Uploads are looking forward to the improvements in the new Lakeview Operating System. Nathan and Nora stay up late to recover Nathan's missing memories.

The episode starts with a talk about how important it is to make sure all clients are asleep during the update process. Nora realizes that keeping Nathan awake could mean he gets his memories back. Or it could mean he's wiped out from existence. Is he willing to take that risk?

Of course, he is! And Nora has a gift for him. She managed to steal one of the coding pens from one of the tech people. Nathan can use it to get into Lake View's code, which could be useful later.

Nathan also has a way of getting out from under Ingrid. He asks Jamie for a loan. Jamie, who now admits that he slept with Ingrid and that's why he's been avoiding Nathan all this time, offers him $3k. It's enough for Nathan to survive in 2gb status for now.

Also, before the upload can take place, there's an egg hunt. Aleesha tries to get Luke to find the hunt, even cheating to find out where it is. However, Luke ignores all her suggests. Since the customer service rep gets $1k, Aleesha sends David Choke to find the egg. He has enough money but Aleesha doesn't. She's willing to do anything to win.

When Nora wakes Nathan up for the update, she gets a message on her screen to say that someone is awake in the system. Does she want to cancel the update? Nora tells Nathan that going through with the update could mean everything that's happened in Lake View to him could be erased.

However, Nathan says he doesn't want to go through with it. He doesn't want to forget everything that's happened already. Nora decides the truth is more important and goes through with the update, opting to restore his memories.

Summary:	Nathan's restored memories and shifting emotional allegiances put Nora in physical danger.

The episode starts with the residents of Lake View waking up after their update. Nathan gets his memories back, which includes a conversation with Ingrid's father. Ingrid's dad wanted to buy the code but Jamie didn't want to sell it. However, Nathan is willing to sell a copy of it for the right price.

Feeling bad about what he was willing to do, Nathan decides to pretend that he didn't remember Nora. Naturally, Nora is upset but once she gets over that, she decides to check out Nathan's restored memories. She's upset that Nathan was willing to sell out his best friend.

It doesn't really matter, though. Nathan heads to his 2gb room, where someone advises him not to think too much. However, he decides to ring Nora and use up his data. He admits that he remembers her but was embarrassed. Nora is clearly angry about the type of man Nathan turned out to be.

Before they can really cover too much ground, someone breaks into Nora's apartment while she's VRing with Nathan. She's only alerted because he opens her front door. Nathan sees some of the attack through the computer but Nora rushes out of the window and starts running.

Nathan uses the coding tool to hack into the CCTV to help Nora and helps her escape the man. He also uses this hack to kill the man in the elevator of a building.

For now, Nora is safe, but it's not going to stay that way. On top of that, Nathan has used most of his 2gb to make a few calls.

After telling her dad about the attack, she calls Nathan to tell him that he isn't the bad guy and they need to uncover the conspiracy. She also tells Nathan she loves him, but Nathan can't say anything. His data is used up and he's frozen. However, Nora may believe that Nathan is ignoring her, not realizing that he used up all his data so quickly.

As Nora leads town with Bryon, Ingrid visits Nathan and gives him an extra gig of data. She tells him that she uploaded for him. Understandably, Nathan is angry, using up all his data within seconds.

Summary:	While living with Ingrid, Nathan searches for Nora, who has fled off the grid. While living with Ingrid, Nathan searches for Nora, who has fled off the grid.

The episode starts with Nora sitting in her car, listening to the news. The consciousness of an uploaded pigeon has been successfully downloaded into a new clone. This is, of course, a lovely bit of foreshadowing to explain how one can jump from Lake View (where Nathan has been uploaded) back into the real world.

However, Dave Anthony arrives dressed in a hood, intending to avoid being IDed by any drones that may be buzzing around.

Together, they drive to the Ludds while Nathan sits motionless, having run out of data last season. This explains why he hasn't got in touch with Nora, who thinks that Nathan is ghosting him.

Anyway, Nora arrives in this rural camp and meets one of the leaders, Matteo. He's certainly one of the more normal members, with quite a few others eccentric and outright weird. Pastor Tom is one such example, while the anti-tech sentiments spread throughout the camp.

Meanwhile, Ingrid continues to influence Nathan and with his 2GB brought back and Nora gone from her Angel duties, he's spinning out.

Nathan is, of course, still concerned over the murder and it doesn't help that Ingrid is being a typical Karen, wanting specific things from their new angel, Aleesha.

Aleesha complains about Ingrid to Lucy to such a degree that she actually gets a promotion for her efforts, which catches her off-guard. Lucy also allows her to hire a temp, which comes in the form of a woman called Tinsley. She's forced to ditch her jacket though before they get started.

In the middle of this, we cut to the NYPD Cyber Crimes Unit, with the bloody elevator scene on full display. The man that was taken out by Nathan (the one who tried to kill Nora) was originally chalked up as a cyber crime but instead, the file is changed to possible homicide. This could be big trouble for Nathan.

Nathan though is still trying to find Nora, who sneaks in with a cat avatar to avoid detection. Ingrid sits down with Nathan and has a heart to heart with him, admitting that she's a bit (a bit?!) controlling and understanding it must be overwhelming that she's shown up out the blue.

Nathan opens up and reveals that he fell for someone else but she's gone now. Unfortunately, cat avatar Nora watches as Nathan kisses Ingrid.

Nora heads back to see Matteo and start drinking with him. As she does, Nathan's narration cuts over the top as he admits he loves Nora too and gushes over how amazing she is. He hopes she's safe and says goodbye to his angel.

Dinner Party

Guest Stars:	Ryan Beil (Craig Munthers), Peter Bryant (Pastor Rob), Mackenzie Cardwell (Tinsley), Paulo Costanzo (Matteo), William B. Davis (David Choak), Imelda Gabor (Little Xerox Woman), Jessica Hayles (Rejoyce), Stefania Indelicato (Donna Denise), Alexander Lecoy (Ludd Cully), Vic Michaelis (Mildred), Phoebe Miu (Yang), Chirag Naik (Fahim Sastri), Andy Thompson (Lionel Winters), Chris Williams (Dave Antony), Celeste Ziegler (Prefera)
Summary:	At a status-obsessed dinner, Nathan faces ghosts from his past. Nora flexes her programming skills as she steps into activism.

The episode starts with Nora and Matteo out chopping wood together. Away from technology and distractions, the pair are getting along well. Too well for some (including Pastor Rob) who notices them kissing in public. He even throws over a stern word about what they're doing later on.

Meanwhile, Nathan continues to try and find Nora, but to no avail. Nathan is encouraged by Luke to accept that Nora is gone, that the murderer is still on the loose and Ingrid is still hanging around. In fact, the latter has decided to throw a dinner party.

Instead of rejecting this though, Nathan decides to embrace it and try to make a real go of his relationship with Ingrid. However, it also means the Angels are going to be busy for catering duties.

The dinner does not go to plan though, with the various characters gathered together and a whole dish of awkwardness served up alongside the food. It's actually hilarious, as Ingrid works with the Angels to try and improve things. Only... it's consistently made worse. So much so infact, Ingrid decides to fire them all and just stick to good old fashioned conversation instead.

The chatter turns to Freeyond and the idea of bringing everyone into Lakeview. Mr Choak has the right idea, deciding it should be for everyone and not for the privileged few.

Midway through being served, Tinsley appears — using the Nora avatar — and starts to serve up food. Nathan is taken aback and tries to talk to her, eventually admitting that she's just a temp. Out on the balcony after dinner, Tinsley ends up speaking to Nathan, who's not exactly happy about her using Nora's avatar.

However, Matteo has a plan of his own. He intends to LIDAR A.I. Guy (whose real name is Boris Netherlands) and make an avatar that Matteo can use to sneak into Lakeview from the Grey Zone.

He wants to mess with Lakeview, claiming it's liberating to work together and do this, toppling the unequal utopia. Nora agrees to help, as Matteo admits he's not anti-tech but anti anything that doesn't actually benefit the many.

Nora is encouraged by the community to go undercover at Horizen on their behalf. Nora isn't so sure but Matteo reassures the young woman, claiming this is "for the good of the community." She's also teamed up with a rather eccentric guy called Cheetoh... who happens to be Ivan.

Davis (David Choak), Lalo Espejo (Penisless Guy), Yvetta Fisher (Batia), Stefania Indelicato (Donna Denise), Hiro Kanagawa (Det. Sato), Alex Kliner (Nathan Greenstein), Phoebe Miu (Yang), Chirag Naik (Fahim Sastri), Paloma Nuñez (Job Gerbil Woman), Logan Zenith Oung (Harry Potter Kid), Andy Thompson (Lionel Winters), Jessica Tuck (Viv), Celeste Ziegler (Prefera)
Summary:	Frustrated with the inequities at Lakeview, Nathan and Luke decide to redistribute some wealth with Ingrid's unwitting help. Nora undertakes a secretive mission.

The episode starts with Nora heading off with Ivan back to Horizen. En-route though, they drive to Ivan's place, where Nora checks in with Matteo and crashes for the night.

Elsewhere, Nathan and Ingrid end up on the phone to Nathan's mother. Unfortunately she's broke and hasn't paid the rent. She could even lose the place completely, which certainly concerns Nathan.

Nathan has an idea though and decides to go full-on Robin Hood, stealing from the rich in Lakeview and giving to the poor. And the poor in this case happens to be those members who only have 2gig of data. Siphoning off data and cash, he begins to work his magic to balance the power.

Interestingly, Detective Sato happens to be working undercover. With a warrant, he begins sniffing around Horizen, listening as Yang mentions the Robin Hood money. Interestingly, Aleesha is handed a Ring drive in the wake of this, which holds incriminating data involving Luke.

Lucy is convinced that this is what Sato is after, given the file holds pretty revealing shots of Luke in the shower. Aleesha does end up admiring them though, commenting that he has a cute butt.

Elsewhere, Ingrid has errands to run in her real life so she hires a "Job Gerbil" over and has her pretend to be Ingrid in Lakeview for the time being. Her regular spacing out is a direct result of all this and Ingrid even tells the woman everything about Nathan to make this seem more convincing.

When Nora returns to Horizen HQ, the whole place is in uproar when they see her. Of course, Nora is undercover for Matteo but she watches as Nathan starts stealing funds. But then she also has a big smile on her face too.

While she stays quiet about this, Sato and Craig come to Lucy about their concerns regarding data being stolen and Lakeview being manipulated. He knows something doesn't add up here and decides to investigate.

Nathan and Luke work together and hold a poker night, with numerous funds up for grabs. The fake Ingrid happens to win every hand, with the whole game rigged by Nathan. He switches the cards that Ingrid holds to make sure she keeps winning.

When Lucy and Craig show up, trying to find the penknife that Nathan is using, he tries to talk Ingrid out of continuing but she goes all-in instead. Thankfully, Nora overhears everything and programs the card to change from her computer, while Nathan ditches the penknife across to an old man who absolutely does not remind me of Moleman from Simpsons.

Anyway, Aleesha speaks to Nora about the ring drive she's been given. She has an idea, and decides to send it back to Lucy.

Meanwhile, fake Ingrid has a blast with Nathan, so naturally when she hands back over to real Ingrid, who takes the reigns for the night, Nathan is delighted. He admits he's had the best day with her and begins kissing her. Ingrid immediately feels guilty.

As the episode closes out, Sato checks out the footage from the day in question and notices someone who looks suspiciously like Nora charging inside the building. The picture is blurry though so we can't be sure.

Family Day

Guest Stars:	Ese Atawo (Pet Therapist), Ryan Beil (Craig Munthers), Mackenzie Cardwell (Tinsley), Chloe Coleman (Nevaeh), Paulo Costanzo (Matteo), Ronald Dario (Cyber Security Guy), Yvette Fisher (Batia), Jase Anthony Griffith (Ivan Stunt Double), Barclay Hope (Oliver Kannerman), Will O'Brien (57 Year Old Man), Debbie Podowski (Dylan's Mom), Susan Saint James (87 Year Old Women), Rhys Slack (Dylan), Wil Thompson (Cyber Security Guy #1), Jessica Tuck (Viv), Luvyna Ward (Nevaeh (6 Years Old)), Klarc Jerome Wilson (Jesse)
Summary:	Nora's loyalties are stressed as she is called upon to take revolutionary action. Nathan's visiting family prompts him to consider what he wants out of his afterlife. Luke invents a new sport.

The episode starts with Nora, Matteo and Ivan breaking into SUNY School of Biomedicine. This is the place responsible for the cloned bodies used for downloading data and it links back to that earlier report about pigeons in episode 1.

Anyway, the group begin pulling the plug on all the people that are currently in the tanks but it's clear Nora isn't sure about the ethics of this.

In Lakeview, the Proto-Tykes start to spread across the digital world. These are essentially digitalized babies that take the genes from both parents to form a sort of hybrid baby. It's all the trend right now so naturally, Ingrid wants one. Nathan isn't so sure and convinces her not to.

It's Family Day in Lakeview and it's an important time to reconnect with loved ones. However, Nathan spies Nora from afar watching while he's playing with his family and heads over to say hey. When they start talking, Nathan realizes it genuinely is Nora and not Tinsley.

Nathan wants to talk to her privately about what's going on but Nora refuses. In fact, she points out she's seeing someone who's "really, really cool." Nathan can tell she's not that happy but does lavish praise on her new job, calling it a good promotion.

While Nevaeh and Nathan play table tennis, Nathan notices Kannerman wandering around and immediately grows suspicious. He speaks to Nora in private and admits that he believes Kannerman has been compromised by the Ludds.

The thing is, Nora is obviously involved with them and points out to Nathan that they're not crazy — and Kannerman isn't one of them. However, she does agree to keep an eye out incase she finds anything untoward.

Matteo breaks into Lakeview as AI Guy and shows off a hyperworm to Nora, which he boasts is going to completely mess up Family Day. Matteo claims she's the only one who can pull this off and expresses how much he believes in her. Nora eventually does leave the hyperworm on the desk but she doesn't seem all that happy about it.

The hyperworm causes the AI to go completely haywire all over Horizen as a message comes through "Delete the rich." While things are bad inside Lakeview, things are even worse in the office.

Everyone frantically tries to stop the worm but it's Nora who has a change of heart and pulls the plug on her operation. The others are a little concerned, given how fast she's managed to stop it, but Nora shrugs it off and claims it was just luck. She rejects a call from Matteo and as heads out the door after work, where everyone gives her a standing ovation.

Meanwhile, Ingrid heads back to see Nathan, reflecting on what's happened. As she does, Nathan thinks twice about the Proto-Tyke idea, with them deciding a baby might not be such a bad idea after all.

Mind Frisk

Davis (David Choak), Vic Michaelis (Mildred), Jaren Moore (Dirty Man), Scott Pocha (Henchman #1), Andrew Prest (Henchmen #2), Nikolai Witschl (Buscemi Guy)
Summary:	Nathan and Nora race to stop a potentially dangerous technological advance. Luke boycotts sleep when he finds Horizen is profiting from his dreams. Ingrid is tempted by a new tech offering: digital babies.

The episode starts with an alarm waking Nathan up. Ingrid is completely out of it, given she's in the real world. This is, apparently, just a new security system in-stall and nothing to be alarmed about.

Meanwhile, Nora speaks to Matteo who remains dead-set on destroying Lakeview no matter what — and no matter who gets caught in the crossfire.

With a distance growing between them, Nora decides they need some time apart. So naturally, Nora heads back to work and vents to Aleesha about what's happened. She quizzes whether Horizen is responsible for the murders, but Aleesha isn't so sure they're behind this.

Ingrid shows up to see Lucy, who's fixated on getting her new real-fake baby. Lucy encourages her to start with an AI and work her way up but Ingrid is having none of it, deciding to scream until she gets what she wants.

Thankfully, there's a meeting going on so Lucy has a valid excuse to skip out of this. Until late on of course, when Lucy returns, realizes Ingrid is still there and decides to give her the baby after all.

Thanks to the Ludd attack, Horizen decide to step up their security protocols under the guise of a new, invasive program called Mindfrisk. It's exactly what you may think — this program allows the subject's thoughts to be uploaded and monitored in real-time, cutting out free will completely.

Nora heads in to warn Nathan, warning him about what's happened. Mindfrisk is due to go online soon but there's no timeframe right now. So naturally, that gives them a window to work with, as Nathan worries that Kannerman could actually hear his thoughts about the murders.

Given Luke has been watched by Lucy for a while now, he's paranoid and starts to lose it. Aleesha is sent in to play damage control but she hits him too hard and he flies out the window, running away. As fate would have it, Luke's been dreaming about Aleesha and she's now up on Dreamhub, which is a sort of adult site where sexual dreams are uploaded.

Aleesha naturally confronts him about this but instead of the forceful approach like before, she encourages him to get on the bed with her. Of course, this is all a ploy to get Luke to sleep faster — which works a treat. But then he ends up dreaming of her again anyway.

With a clear window of opportunity, Nora heads into Craig's office and realizes the Mindfrisk program connects them across to Lakeview. Nora checks out the computer with Nathan, as the pair realize with horror (and fascination) that Nathan's thoughts are read in real-time. Nathan tries to control his thoughts but he fails, of course, immediately diverting back to how beautiful Nora is.

Nathan turns it around and tries to find who's thinking of Nathan. In doing so, he listens in to Mr Choak, who happens to be the one behind the murder. He's in his living room, talking to the assassin who demands a spot in Lakeview.

Choak is having none of it though and eventually has his two goons take him away. Checking surveillance logs for additional proof, Nathan notices David Choak talking to Kannerman, who tells the guy to "get rid of him." This is, of course, in direct reference to Nathan.

As the episode closes out, Craig realizes that he's been hacked as Choak's thoughts are broadcast out for everyone in Lakeview to hear. Now they've got no choice but to shut down Mindfrisk.

The Outing

Season 2

Guest Stars: Mackenzie Cardwell (Tinsley), William B. Davis (David Choak), Michael Delleva (LA Receptionist), Yvetta Fisher (Batia), Janet Glassford (Building Super), Jase Anthony Griffith (Maxwell), Hiro Kanagawa (Det. Sato), Teryl Rothery (Mrs. Kannerman), Tom Tasse (Brian Choak), Christine Willes (Janet Boxner), Lucas Wyka (Jack Kannerman)
Summary: Nora and Aleesha pursue the mystery into New York City with Nathan and Luke along on screens. Ingrid receives unexpected visitors.

The episode starts with Brian Choak visiting David, telling him there's an important vote coming up. Nora happens to be listening in and encourages Nathan to go on a field trip with her to New York City to investigate further.

How is that going to be possible? Well, Nathan can actually buy a Reality Private Tour, with Nora as his guide. Essentially it's one long Facetime call, with a tablet strapped to Nora's chest so he can essentially see what she sees in her POV. Aleesha is joining them too and she Facetimes with Luke.

The pair head out together, with Nora watching on Twitter as Choak downloads into a robot body. They decide to stop at Choak tower, which was Nora's plan all along, rather than the "random trip" she peddled to Aleesha. The tablets aren't exactly discreet, and naturally they flash up on the security cameras outside, pinging to Sato who wonders what they're up to.

Nora digs deeper into the Freeyond situation and realizes there's only 1 store in New York and 1 in LA. However, given Uploads can't vote, the numerous stores appear to have been strategically placed in swing states like Florida. This would then tip the scales of an election.

It appears Freeyond and everything that's been going on is directly linked to politics. However, Aleesha calls Nora out for using her and questions just why she's Meanwhile, Ingrid's digital baby subplot continues, as she comes under fire for somehow bringing a digital child from birth to death in less than 24 hours. The A.I. Guy and several other officials are there to grade her on different characteristics, and see whether she's actually fit to have kids or not.

Although Ingrid gets off to an awful start, she speaks to her mother in the real world which seems to help fuel her desire to be a better parent. She doesn't want to mess up like she did, and is determined to go down a different path.

Ingrid speaks to AI Guy again and this time gives an impassioned plea which actually helps approve her for the digital baby after all.

After being approved, Ingrid heads into a research facility where it seems like Nathan is about to be cloned in a tank, just like the ones we saw earlier in the season. Ingrid promises that he'll be ready soon.

Guest Stars:	Jennifer Garner (Officer Jennifer Garner (voice)), Chloe Coleman (Nevaeh), Peter Bryant (Pastor Rob), Mackenzie Cardwell (Tinsley), Paulo Costanzo (Matteo), Michael Delleva (LA Receptionist), Yvettta Fisher (Batia), Jessica Hayles (Rejoyce), Alexander Lecoy (Ludd Culyln), Steve Lopez (Conductor), Adrian Petriw (Digital Baby Doctor), Jessica Tuck (Viv)
Summary:	Nora rallies the support of unlikely allies and Hyperloops to LA. Meanwhile, the issues in Nathan's personal life come to a head.

The episode starts with Nora and Nathan repeating what they've found out about Choak. It would appear that Choak and Kannerman have bought Nathan's code, which is essentially the core of what Freeyond represents.

Nathan realizes he put a backdoor fail-safe into his own code, which he can unlock using a retina scan — if it's still active. Nora realizes they need allies to help them out, and that means bringing Matteo into this, Nora's "now-ex" boyfriend.

For now, the drama swings across to Ingrid and her digital baby. She wants Nathan to carry the baby for them but he gets cold feet. He tells Ingrid if she wants a baby then she needs to carry it herself and take in that responsibility. Eventually he tells her the truth — he doesn't want a baby and certainly doesn't want a relationship.

Desperate, Ingrid tells Nathan that she's found a way out for him. She's been growing his body back to life which is 98% complete. That way, Nathan can have his data downloaded and head back to the real world. Oh, and Ingrid also breaks the news that she's not really dead either and has been fooling him the entire time.

This seals the deal as Nathan realizes he doesn't owe Ingrid anything and he walks away, whooping and cheering.

Thanks to this way out, Nathan has a way of downfolding his data and leaving Lakeview forever. Luke realizes what this means for their friendship and after playing some fitting music, hugs his friend warmly.

Meanwhile, Aleesha is promoted again by Lucy, giving her a pay rise to 100k a year and a potential upgrade on her current apartment, which comes equipped with a massage wall.

At the other end of the spectrum though is Nora, who heads back to the community and speaks to Pastor Robb about what's happening. She lavishes praise on Nathan, pointing out that he's giving up a lot to try and save them and stop Freeyond.

With 600 locations and only two days left, Nora convinces the community to join her so they can work together and knock out all locations at once.

So Nora immediately shows up at the research facility, facetimeing with Nathan and going through all the tanks to try and find where he is. Well, they needn't have bothered as Ingrid happens to be by Nathan's side, talking to his unconscious body. She claims that he belongs to her and is "all she has."

As she looks close to pulling the plug, Matteo immediately holds a gun up from afar, promising to fire. Nora though talks her down, claiming that Ingrid is a wonderful person and will find someone to love — but it's not Nathan. They want her help to bring Nathan back. Eventually she agrees to help.

While Matteo takes Nathan's body out of the tank, the receptionist, who's tied up in the storage closet, manages to phone the police and bring them in to help. As the cars come racing to the facility, Matteo works to download Nathan's consciousness back... and it works!

With Nathan returned to the real world in this cloned body, he inevitably ends up sleeping with Nora when the pair lay ow on the Hyper-loop. Heading back to New York, their cramped compartment is home to their lovemaking.

Ingrid though is not done scheming. Back home she finds one of Nathan's hairs on her brush and decides to use that as DNA to try and either grow another clone of Nathan or raise a young baby of her own, just like she wanted.

As the episode closes out, we cut back to Nathan who splashes his face with water following his session with Nora. The only trouble is, he starts to bleed. Uh oh, does this mean he's going to die? We'll have to wait and find out as we end on a cliffhanger!

Summary:	Nora and a recently downloaded Nathan race to stop Freeyond before his head explodes.

The episode begins with Nora having a nightmare of Nathan's head exploding. In the real world, Matteo is not too happy that Nathan has stolen Nora from him.

In Lakeview, Choak keeps looking for Nathan but Luke keeps him distracted with the excuse that he is pregnant. Nora tries to get Aleesha to help who calls her out for contacting only when she needs help and cuts the call.

Despite not making any progress, Nora and Nathan have a nice date until Detective Sato interrupts them in his tiny car. He keeps bothering them with questions but they realise that he actually wants to uncover the whole Freeyond conspiracy.

While a heartbroken Ingrid clears out her Lakeview apartment, Tinsley has other plans. She surreptitiously uploads the last backup of Nathan to Lakeview. Backup Nathan turns out to be of 1 month ago and has no clue how much has changed since then as he keeps thinking Family Day is yet to happen. Meanwhile, a sad Luke is looking through best friend applications to replace Nathan but none of them are up to mark.

Nathan and Nora disguise themselves as cleaners and enter the nearest Freeyond quarters but are almost caught. Nora hams it up how she is always the wallflower and rants till the employee lets them go. Nathan gets into the server and is excited that he is the first human in the Freeyond world till Nora tells him to speed it up. However, they hit a roadblock as they need to go to New Jersey to access the code.

As they are about to leave, they spot a meeting between Freeyond higher-ups which includes Choak planning on immediately uploading all the customers. Choak almost spots them when Nathan messes around with the bathroom sound effects. In the real world, there are mile-long queues of people waiting to join Freeyond including Nathan's mother, Viv.

Ingrid returns to the real world and is about to cancel the cloning of a second Nathan body when Backup Nathan calls her. She is confused as he is still in love with her and she realises that he only has the old memories. She immediately tells the cloning company to get started on a new clone body.

Nathan records the meeting and sends it to Sato. As the meeting ends, he runs into an executive only for Nora to see that he has nicked the guy's VIP pass to enter the New Jersey office.

Back home, the Ludds come up with a plan, Matteo and Nora will stop the people from joining Freeyond while Nathan and Ivan head to New Jersey. Nathan is not pleased with the arrangement as Ivan keeps playing at being a ninja with guns and swords.

Meanwhile, Nora and Matteo reach one of the Freeyond shops where the uploads have begun. They spot that the customers going in come out — beheaded. They try to stop the customers in the queue but no one listens as they think the two just want to cut the line.

Nathan gets into the New Jersey office and realises that there is only 1 server. He wonders how tons of data of all the customers could fit in 1 server. He then spots a promotional video meant to be released the next day. In the video, a woman talks about a tragedy in which the Ludds destroyed "all" the servers as an act of terrorism which has led to the death of millions of customers.

Nathan realises that Freeyond never needed for their technology to work. They never planned to upload the data to any server. With the death of their customers, the Ludds will be framed as the villains and Freeyond won't have to worry about their votes. Nathan decides to release the video.

All the customers including Nora and Matteo are shocked upon seeing the video. In another Freeyond shop, Viv is already in the chair when she sees the video but the attendants don't let her leave. She, however, runs as the two customers next to her are uploaded and killed.

Nora and Matteo head inside with the latter pulling out a gun to make the attendants leave. They are busy collecting all the uploaded data of the dead customers when Sato shows up. However, he betrays them as he wonders how much Freeyond will pay for the video that Nathan recorded. Nora secretly texts Nathan that Sato is bad and not to come. At that moment, Sato shoots Matteo who, turns out, only has a toy gun.

Nora tries to upload a dying Matteo but at the last moment turns the contraption towards Sato's body and burns a hole in him. However, in killing Sato, she loses the chance to upload Matteo who dies. At the end of the episode, Nathan shows up anyway and picks up a tearful Nora and the uploaded data.

Guest Stars: William B. Davis (David Choak), Mackenzie Cardwell (Tinsley), Ryan Beil (Craig Munthers), Amy Farrington (Cheyenne), Tahmus Rounds (Bill), Travis Burnett (Logan), Yvetta Fisher (Batia), Andy Thompson (Lionel Winters), Sean Thomas Laird (Elijah), Corin Clark (Tiktokker)
Summary: Nathan and Nora struggle to make their relationship work, while Ingrid tries to make the best of her second shot at love.

The episode begins with Nathan and Nora roadtripping to give back the victims' hard drives to their families. Their first stop is someone called Elijah Bennett's home. His parents, Bill and Cheyenne are wary but Elijah had told his younger brother, Logan about his plan to upload.

At Horizen Customer Care, Aleesha is promoted to managing AIs and teaching them how to be more in tune with the humans at Lakeview.

Meanwhile, Ingrid confronts Tinsley about secretly rebooting Nathan's backup and wonders if she likes him. She realises that she owns Tinsley, making her avatar look ugly, getting her to tell Backup Nathan that Family Day has been canceled and give him celebrity collab outfits.

The Bennetts have Nora and Nathan for dinner and as they talk, the family wonder if the two are married. Bill says they should get married but Nora and Nathan are awkward as they cannot even decide how many kids to have or if he will even survive the download.

Meanwhile, a sad Luke makes a sculpture of Nathan. His mood worsens as Aleesha says she has been promoted and that Batia is his new angel. The AI class begins but the AI guys are not interested in learning and keep messing with Aleesha. Luke goes through his memories with Nathan and Aleesha and starts deleting them.

During dinner, the conversation turns to the Ludds and Bill and Cheyenne think they are violent. They also blame the rebels for the loss of their farm. Nora tries to argue with them but Nathan stops her. Later, Nathan skips on cleaning the dishes as he needs to rush to the toilet and Nora offers to do them. Nathan tries different nicknames with her but she doesn't like that he left the dishes for her, calling him a prince.

Nathan bunks with Logan who says Elijah claimed that they lost their farm because Monsanto sued them for no valid reason. Nora, who is sleeping in the next room, talks to Nathan through the wall. He promises to help wash next time and she forgives him. He still cannot figure out a nickname for her and as she laughs, we see that she has the uploading machine that killed Sato with her.

The next day, the Bennetts put the two to work and they are shocked at how much has changed — since pigs keep getting cancer, pig cancer blobs are used to make pork.

Ingrid decides to get a makeover while gossiping with the AI hairstylist of how Nathan doesn't remember anything after poker night. So, she will do everything to keep him, even if it means acting selfless like Nora. As for Luke, he puts episodes of Dragon Tales and Fairly OddParents in the memory gaps but this leads to him tripping.

It gets worse at the farm where the Bennetts work — there is one long cow with several teats that churn out everything from cottage cheese and curd to parmesan. Nathan is grossed out and tries to skip but Nora stops him.

Aleesha's next class on feelings is still not going well. The AI guys cannot seem to understand even though they are very clearly showing feelings. She sees Luke crying and visits him.

While working, Nora and Nathan start throwing the curd at each other. She overdoes it and he is annoyed and walks off. Cheyenne observes and talks to Nora. Nora says after long-distance, getting together, there are several small things like Nathan acting snobby that annoy her. Cheyenne says even though her husband is not perfect she likes him regardless.

In Lakeview, Choak sees Backup Nathan and tells him he saw him in the bathroom at Freeyond. Backup Nathan is confused and is even more surprised when Ingrid shows up with Nora's old haircut.

Meanwhile, Aleesha restores all of Luke's deleted memories. One of them is of Aleesha teaching him twerking and she wonders why he would delete the happy ones. He says all of his friends moved on, so even he wants to. She tells him about how her classes suck. He says she is a rockstar and she is delighted.

As for Choak, he makes Ivan's Angel do body sushi while asking if their brain scans can degrade. He asks since he saw Nathan in the real world and then in Lakeview, he is confused as to what is real. Ivan misdirects him by saying Nathan never left and that he and Choak have had this conversation many times.

Outside the farm, Nora helps Nathan clean up. He says he is not a prince and never was as he used to help at home. Nora points out that she did have to serve him as an Angel which is why it all got to her. He says they are equals now. He hugs her despite the curd on his clothes and they kiss while laughing. After a busy day, Nathan and Nora finally leave by hitchhiking on the farm's truck.

Ingrid tries to change like asking for vegetables and Backup Nathan notices. She says she was dishonest judgy, negative and jealous. He says people are positive and negative and he likes everything about her. Convinced, she tells him the truth — her real body is in a virtual suit in a bathtub and she is eating a power bar.

She says she loves him and wanted to be with him so she lied about her suiscan. She is worried he hates her, but he is touched that she did all that for him. He says that they are good but no more lies. At the end of the episode, she tells Tinsley who was about to delete Nathan's backup to save it.

Summary:	The gang celebrates CyberDiscountDay while Nora discovers something game-changing: Nathan has been copied in Lakeview.

The episode has Nathan finding out that Jamie is dead and one of the executives from Choak Tower hanging out at the Beyond HQs. He suddenly gets a nosebleed but when he meets Nora he says he is fine.

They show up at a community housing where his mom, Viv stays. She is dating Mauricio but kicks him out so she, Nathan and Nora can sleep in her room. Though, she doesn't mind if Nora and Nathan want to get frisky as she has earplugs and a sleeping eye mask.

It is CyberDiscountDay and Ingrid is broke, unable to buy the buffet for Backup Nathan. He, however, is super excited and is busy getting ready as she comes up with an excuse to go to the real world for a manicure.

Outside, Aleesha's family visit Lakeview with Luke flirting with her mom as she proudly reveals that she is hosting dinner for them. But her happiness is shortlived as her leave is revoked since her manager, Lucy needs to cook dinner for her husband. The AI guys overhear and Luke whips a tale of how the weekend and time-offs came into existence.

As for Nora, she picks up a shift by working remotely at Lakeview. She looks up downloaded humans and learns that the inventor, Dr. Kapoor was fired after his program failed. While fixing an AI concierge, she overhears Ingrid telling Tinsley to get her and Backup a free meal but the Angel says they need to eat it in their room. Curious, Nora checks her suite and finds Backup Nathan singing in the shower.

As for the real Nathan, he tries to get a job but to no avail. He resorts to scavenging through landfills. He spots an ad for help at a hug suit shop and is surprised to see that it has been filled by none other than Ingrid. She says she has moved on, making him jealous by saying her new boyfriend is packed, muscular and loves his mom. But she does help Nathan by telling him that there is some work at a 3D printer shop.

Meanwhile, Aleesha is having a tough time as her mother interrupts her 3D printer and ruins the food. The AIs all take time off after hearing Luke's story. She promises to throw a dinner for the AIs if they work extra hard at CyberDiscountDay after she feels sorry that they are not allowed to take a break till they break down for good.

When she returns, she is hurt to see her family has started the meal without her and pick on her cooking. She goes back to Lakeview and sees Luke and the AIs waiting for her to start their dinner party.

Nathan returns for a misprint of a turkey which tastes like ham and everyone is excited while finding it funny. Meanwhile, the Backup Nathan keeps looking forward to the buffet till Ingrid shows up and starts crying. She gags and acts disgusted that she is broke and has to work. Backup Nathan is amused but says he is proud of her. He hyped her up for being a boss lady and she is touched. He suddenly wonders why his mom has not checked in on him yet.

Well, that is because, she is having a great meal with Nathan, Nora, Mauricio and her niece, Neveah. Nathan and Nora update them on their findings — Ingrid has a job and there is a hot backup of Nathan at Lakeview. Nathan, of course, is indignant which Neveah plays on as she pokes fun at him for not being hot anymore but at least cuddlier.

Suddenly, Backup Nathan video calls Viv and everyone panics. She picks up and tries to keep it short as Nathan keeps trying to get a glimpse. Viv cuts the call and everyone teases him that Backup Nathan is indeed hotter and they joke around with Nora saying she loves him. His smile falls as his nose starts bleeding profusely at the end of the episode.

Summary:	Nathan and Nora track down the doctor who invented download, while Aleesha rises higher in the Horizen hierarchy. Ingrid and back-up Nathan grow closer.

The episode begins with Nathan's nose-bleed. Everyone panics and starts throwing him tissues, a fresh tampon, a potato and even... rice? He is fine after a while but Nora insists on visiting Dr. Kapoor in San Francisco. Mauricio hooks them up with a cargo plane and away the duo go.

Aleesha and Lucy are headed there as well for a Horizen conference and the former sees Nora's location change to San Fran as well. She is excited and calls her up only for Nora to lie and say she is still in LA.

Meanwhile, the AIs still haven't forgotten the time-off concept and take lunch breaks in the morning leaving the residents alone. This allows Backup Nathan and Ingrid to take the elevator to the first floor aka the very first version of Lakeview for free drinks. Tinsley notices Backup Nathan missing from Lakeview, and afraid that Ingrid will scold her, starts uploading another backup of Nathan.

Luke is running out of money and hangs out with the broke resident, Yang who lives in the lower level and only has limited screen time. As he complains of how he is not allowed to work, she tells him to head to the Grey Zone.

Nora and Nathan show up at Kapoor's, pretending they got mugged. Nathan is hurt and they need to call a doctor. Kapoor generously offers to check on Nathan and declares he is fine.

At the conference, the spotlight falls on Aleesha as she suggests targeting other demographics instead of just old white people. It impresses Mansour and another upper management exec, Karina who flirts with her.

Nora spills that Nathan is a download much to his chagrin. Kapoor just gives him some pills, tells him to re-upload soon and to leave. They are disappointed by the meeting with Nathan just popping the pills like mint.

On the 1st floor, Backup Nathan and Ingrid have fun scaring each other till they run into the last resident of that floor. They get scared and Ingrid runs only for her to run in the real world too. She accidentally unplugs and freezes in Lakeview.

Grey Zone turns out to be a call center and Luke starts making sales for Zalan Upload. One of his sales is the Bennett family looking to upload Elijah. Luke earns bitcoins quickly but notices that he will get a lot if he brings an Upload AI like Lakeview's AI Guy.

Choak tells Oliver Kannerman to check if Nathan was at their HQ during the previous meeting. Kannerman unintentionally gaslights him into thinking he has digital dementia and then locks him out from attending the next meeting.

Wondering what to do next, Nathan suggests breaking into his lawyer friend, Holden's apartment as it is empty. However, Holden shows up and Nora is surprised to see that the lawyer is a woman and Nathan's ex. But Holden anyway welcomes the two.

Karina and Aleesha sleep together however the latter tries to leave afterwards. Karina teases her for leaving behind her granny panties and gets her to stay, promising to drop her home in her jet.

Holden complains about Freeyond and Nora tells her the truth as to what really happened. Holden is shocked and suggests a class action lawsuit for the victims if Nora is ready to help.

With Choak being blocked out, the furious old man tells Ivan to get him a robot suit to crash the meeting. Ivan hesitates and Choak threatens him — he has all the data Ivan consumes including the dirty ones as Choak Enterprises makes the dirty data Ivan consumes.

Meanwhile, Backup Nathan drinks with the last resident as he waits for Ingrid to reconnect. He ends up talking about how he trusts her and even though he didn't really know Nora he is sad that she left. He suddenly feels weak and the resident explains he is stealing his life force so that Backup Nathan can never leave. At that moment, Ingrid reconnects and thrashes him with a chair.

Tinsley is notified as Backup Nathan and Ingrid return to the current Lakeview. She panics as the upload is almost complete and quickly deletes the 3rd copy before he can fully materialize.

Elsewhere, real Nathan sleeps while Nora goes through upload laws. The episode ends with a scared Ivan holding on to Choak's hard drive.

Morgan (Homeless Man), Wenke Song (Creepy Man in Latex Gloves), Marco Walker-Ng (Instructor)
Summary:	Nathan teams up with his own copy to save Luke, Nora is discovered by the conspiracy.

The episode begins with Luke taking an AI gardener to the Grey Zone by saying it is a cool place. Aleesha calls to update him on her new special project thanks to Karina. He is happy for her but quickly cuts the call to hide his location.

Nora officially becomes Holden's plaintiff liaison and she and Nathan have been living in her apartment. However, Bruno, Holden's dog accidentally eats most of the pills Dr. Kapoor gave Nathan. While Holden takes him to the vet, Nora is worried. Luke suddenly calls to say he has been imprisoned by Zalan. Turns out, he regretted giving the AI to Zalan and tried to back out.

He helped the AI escape but got caught. At that moment, Backup Nathan calls Luke and all 3 end up in a shocking conference call. Nathan sets up a quick rendezvous point and cuts the call. Backup Nathan thinks that someone has cloned him and Ingrid pretends to glitch and runs off.

While Nathan heads to a library to get a VR set, Angel Nora shows up in front of Backup Nathan. It gets awkward as there are some lingering feelings between them but Backup Nathan ends up fawning over his fanny pack.

As for Aleesha's special project, it is to download an AI into a clone to experience the real world and become better at handling humans in Lakeview. Aleesha is to guide him through 10 New York City blocks but he dies while crossing the road. He is just recloned and this time Aleesha is more careful.

As Nora and Backup Nathan head to the Grey Zone, she reveals that she is dating the "clone" he saw on the call. She is in love and he gets jealous. Ingrid spots them and gets mad as she rants on social media about fake people. No one pays attention and she resorts to calling one of her old friends, Mersaydeez to hang out with her.

The AI is having trouble as he hates the heat, is almost punched by someone and runs into a mailbox. Aleesha calms him down and Karina is touched. He then sees a charging station and starts jerking off. Lucy finds it hilarious while Aleesha and the rest are awkward and try to give him privacy.

As they reach the edge of Lakeview, Nora finally tells Backup Nathan that he is the knockoff. He is offended especially once Nathan shows up. He keeps asking Original Nathan things only Nathan would know and they end up dancing the same way. Both Nathans are delighted while Nora gets impatient. Backup Nathan even gets Original Nathan to follow him even though he is headed in the wrong direction and Nora decides to check in with Dr. Kapoor.

She runs into Holden who says the pills are over-the-counter fart pills and Nora is confused as to why Kapoor would lie. Meanwhile, Backup asks Original about Nora and is slightly sad about the way Original Nathan and Nora are in love.

Elsewhere, Ingrid shows up at a HorseyButt yoga class with Mersaydeez. She is excited to talk and catch up but Mersaydeez just comments how rough she looks and cuts her short as class starts.

Original Nathan tries to mock Ingrid by wondering if she still controls Backup Nathan including his clothing. Backup Nathan says she has changed and Original Nathan claims all credit, saying the backup only came into existence a few days ago. Backup Nathan is hurt but they patch up as they come up with a plan on seeing some avatars in the Grey Zone.

As for the AI guy, he resumes his mission and ends up empathising with a homeless guy. The tech team is moved but he gives his hat to the homeless guy — the hat is the only way to track him.

After the horse yoga class, Mersaydeez tries to run off and Ingrid is hurt. Mersaydeez says there is nothing to talk about as Ingrid will just go back to Nathan as loyalty is her worst quality. Ingrid claps back that it is her best quality and returns to Lakeview, promising to wait for Backup Nathan.

The Nathans show up as Prince Eric AIs and are shocked to see Luke as Princess Leia from Star Wars. Zalan catches them anyway as Disney AIs would have reacted negatively to unlicensed Star Wars IP. However, Original Nathan negotiates a trade with Zalan — to take Backup Nathan with the fanny pack in exchange for Luke. Backup Nathan calls Original Nathan a traitor as Zalan agrees.

Luke is sad they lost the other Nathan but consoles himself that it was a knockoff. Suddenly another Nathan pops up! Turns out, the Original Nathan pretended to be the knockoff with the fanny pack. Once he was imprisoned, he simply took off his VR headset. Luke apologises to Backup Nathan who doesn't mind and they all head back to Lakeview.

Meanwhile, Nora sees some strange people at Kapoor's House. They insist that the place has always been an Ethel Waitebraithe's residence. She finds it suspicious and runs off. Two men from the house follow and corner her. At the end of the episode, she wakes up in Lakeview.

Summary: Nora and Nathan find important clues to expose Freeyond, But search poses a challenge for their relationship.

The episode begins with the Nathans bonding as they reach Lakeview. Viv suddenly calls and says Ivan sent Choak's hard drive.

Original Nathan tries to call Nora but she is MIA. As both Nathans worry, Luke mocks her for being overrated. When Backup Nathan tries to defend her, Luke snaps. The Nathans comfort him and he reveals that he is feeling jealous and lonely now that the two Nathans have each other.

Nora wakes up to Aleesha telling her she is dead. It turns out that she is not dead, Karina has drugged her, taken her to Fakeview, a showroom and plans to interrogate her to learn why she is snooping around Dr. Kapoor. She lies and manipulates Aleesha into helping her while she secretly drugs Nora to become more pliant. However, Aleesha helps her friend stay quiet as Karina questions her as an "Angel."

The interrogation is futile and Karina thinks Nora doesn't know anything and wraps it up. Nora finally picks up Nathan's call — she is on a park bench with a headache and doesn't remember anything after being cornered by the two men.

Meanwhile, Backup Nathan confronts Ingrid about being a copy. She tries to laugh it off and angry, he walks off, not telling her his plan to help Original Nathan. The plan is for Original Nathan to control Choak's memories from an IR and go through them with the help of Backup Nathan and Angel Nora in Lakeview's memory parlour while Luke is on the lookout.

A sad Ingrid gets drunk as she rants to an AI bartender of Backup Nathan also falling for Nora. She doesn't want the usual mushy bartending advice and the AI bluntly tells her to be honest and accept the consequences of her actions which gets her motivated.

Backup Nathan and Nora bond as they tease Original Nathan for crashing at his ex, Holden's place and not telling Nora who she is initially. Annoyed, Original Nathan cuts the call. Alone, Backup Nathan and Nora flirt before she realises and leaves. She panics in the real world where Holden tells her that it is not cheating since Backup Nathan is still Nathan.

As for Backup Nathan, he tells Luke that he is jealous of himself and Luke hypes him up. At the same time, Original Nathan calls Luke to confess he is insecure over leaving Nora and Backup Nathan alone. The complicated feelings of all 3 are put on standby as Nathan finds a Choak memory — it is about passing a law which allows Uploads to work. Nora sees Karina in the memory and gets a bad vibe from her.

Drunk Ingrid shows up at the IR courtesy of Viv and tells Nathan to control Nora and let her have Backup Nathan. Meanwhile, Aleesha gets roses from Karina and she is conflicted. She goes to Luke for advice but they end up talking about his mom as he cries over the two Nathans.

At the IR, Ingrid opens up to Original Nathan. She starts crying that despite everything, every single Nathan chooses Nora over her. They end up drinking and bond over how hard real life is. She says even if he was at his lowest point, she would still be into him and they laugh as he says he is at his lowest at the moment.

At the same time, Nora and Backup Nathan talk. He is upset about Ingrid lying to him. However, she is thankful that Ingrid secretly cloned his body. They check in with Original Nathan and are surprised to see Ingrid who has offered to help. All 4 of them then see a memory of Choak with Ingrid's father, Oliver.

Choak plans to replace live employees by killing them and making them Upload employees so that they can save half a billion dollars. Oliver jokes if Ingrid had also died with Nathan, his bank account would also become less burdened. Awkward, they cut the call as Ingrid tears up. She reveals to Original Nathan that she wishes someone would be proud of how hard she works.

He says he is proud and they hug. She tries to come on to him but backs off while still teasing him as he stops her. However, Backup Nathan and Nora get jealous of Ingrid and Original Nathan. Backup Nathan tries to kiss Nora but she stops him. She says that for better or worse, she has chosen Original Nathan. He understands and now also views Original Nathan like a brother.

And just like her, his destiny is Ingrid as he should love her for being loyal and passionate (albeit a little weird). At the end of the episode, Backup Nathan kisses Nora's forehead and lightens the mood by joking that he may be a little unsure about Ingrid.

Summary:	Nathan and Nora make an effort to have a special last day together.

The episode begins with Nathan building his own Upload Centre which is super cramped. It is one month since he downloaded and they don't want to take any risks. However, he has second thoughts and they push his upload to the next day.

Ingrid and Backup Nathan promise to be honest as they both reveal they almost kissed someone else. Of course, she explodes and tells Tinsley to get her Nora's avatar.

Meanwhile, Aleesha tells Luke that Karina is sketchy and she is worried.

Outside, an AI gardener hears Ivan telling Backup Nathan that he took Choak's hard drive. Ivan is sceptical as the AI says he can keep a secret. But he soon realises that the gardener has told all the other AIs and panics.

Nathan's Upload Day celebrations are put on pause as Holden needs Nora. At Lakeview, Ingrid shows up as Angel Nora. Backup Nathan gives a whole speech as he says is in love with Ingrid but all she hears is that he said there was a spark with Nora.

Holden's case reaches an obstacle — all uploads belong to upload companies which means Choak's hard drive is stolen property and inadmissible. And since Nathan signed away the rights to his brain scan he cannot testify. Elsewhere, Luke runs into Aleesha and Karina who is excited for the 3 to hang out.

Ingrid Nora gets gross in front of Backup Nathan. He catches on that she is Ingrid as she calls him babe and doesn't correct him when he calls her Norma. He messes with her till an IT guy catches her and puts her to work. She is told to fix an avatar and she messes up.

Holden offers Nora a job who is torn as again her plans for Nathan are delayed but he is excited for her. At dinner, Luke reveals all his hacks to impress Karina and Aleesha is happy they are getting along.

The IT guys are sexist as they joke about women in tech and Ingrid Nora calls them out. That night, Luke shares that Karina is nice which has Aleesha happy. However, after she leaves, his premium Lakeview hack is disabled. Turns out, Karina told IT to fix all the glitches Luke told her. Ingrid Nora is a big help and the tech guys are impressed.

Ivan's secret reaches Aleesha but he is able to play it off by saying the secret is that they have a crush on her. Ingrid finally goes back to Backup Nathan who jokes that he suddenly finds Nora unappealing. Ingrid tells him to give Nora a break since she has a tough job. He messes around with her but doesn't push as she says she loves him.

Nora brings a fake Blue Man for Nathan to dance in front of the firm's building and he is happy. As they watch, Dr. Kapoor shows up. The firm reveals he took a bribe to sabotage the first download and wants to testify. Nora and Nathan celebrate as it means he is fine and he doesn't need to upload. At the end of the episode, a snackbot is hijacked as it causes an explosion and kills Kapoor.

Summary:	Nora takes powerful Upload companies to court, But she may have bitten off more.

The episode begins with the court case against Horizen. Karina smirks at Holden mocking Lucy who is on the stand and Aleesha complains to Luke that she may be evil. He tells her not to fret and that they just need to take down Karina.

Aleesha, Luke, Tinsley and Front Desk AI come up with a plan. The next day, Aleesha pretends to be sick and makes Karina skip work to take care of her. Front Desk AI distracts Elevator Boy AI while Luke brings the 2G Uploads to Lakeview. Tinsley pretends that there is mayhem and Karina is forced to log in. Aleesha secretly records her login details but their plan faces a hitch as Karina decides to take her laptop and go to the office.

Karina checks in by bringing Aleesha to a suite in Lakeview. In the real world, Aleesha is at the office as well and is logging into her laptop and copying all Horizen files while Karina is in Lakeview. Aleesha asks Luke to help who enacts a hilarious one-man show to keep Karina busy. It gets so ridiculous that she leaves but Aleesha is gone by then. Aleesha tells Luke she got the files and they celebrate by kissing. Both are shocked and she runs off.

Nathan and Nora talk about the future but all he has in mind is a trip to Montreal which confuses her. Alone, he tells Luke he wants to work and get his rights back as he plans to marry Nora in Montreal. At the firm, Holden tells the couple that they need Ingrid to link Choak and Horizen.

Nora and Nathan dress up to the nines and show up at a fancy restaurant to sway Ingrid. Backup Nathan calls and reveals he is going to propose to her and Nora looks a little bitter as all her Nathan wants is Montreal. Ingrid shows up and it is awkward as she refuses to testify at first. Nora convinces her by reminding her that the Nathans are owned by Horizen.

Back at Lakeview, Backup Nathan takes Ingrid to a garden where he has planned a romantic dinner and proposes. Surprisingly, she says no claiming that it's nothing like her moodboard and she isn't even dressed right.

Backup Nathan blames Nathan for saying something as she is planning on breaking up. At the firm, Nora hypes up Ingrid but she is scared about her relationship now that Backup Nathan likes her back for real. Nora hugs her and says she too wishes her Nathan would propose and they hug and comfort each other.

At the trial, things are looking well as Ingrid goes on a speech as to how her boyfriend is not a simulation or a product but a person who can make his own decisions. Backup Nathan watches the livestream and is moved. But she is so riled up that she accidentally reveals that she chose Backup Nathan over Downloaded Nathan whom she saw in real life. The Defence catches on and things go downhill.

However, Aleesha saves the day by sending all of Karina's files over. Holden claims that Karina is a whistleblower and Horizen is shocked. They quietly settle — a million for each Freeyond victim in exchange for sealing Karina's files. Nora and Nathan are upset as Holden sees it as a win and says the case was never about Uploads getting their rights back but for Freeyond victims.

Ingrid goes back to Lakeview and sees Backup Nathan's letter that he will wait for when she is ready. She says she is ready to marry him and they kiss.

After the trial, as they head out, Nora catches on about the Montreal wedding and says that even if Nathan still doesn't have his rights back, they know how they feel about each other. He is happy that they are alive to see another day even if it is not perfect. However, at that moment, he is arrested for being a copy.

At Horizen, Aleesha thinks she will be fired as Karina calls her into her office. All Angels are forced to reveal the copies they made of their Uploads and armed guards take down those Uploads at Lakeview. Backup Nathan almost makes it to the Grey Zone but Mansour catches him.

At the end of the episode, Horizen introduces Betta — a call centre for Uploads to work. Meanwhile, Nora, Ingrid and Viv are worried sick as it has been days since any contact. Finally, Nathan calls and says all the copies have been eradicated. Ingrid cries for Backup Nathan on hearing this. However, Nora suddenly asks which Nathan are they talking to.

Summary: One Nathan celebrates a bitter-sweet wedding, but things are not what they seem and questions of sanity and religious faith are raised. A lonely AI Guy searches for romance. Aleesha prepares for her new responsibilities while Luke agonizes over their kiss back in Lakeview.

The episode begins with Nora spending her days in VR, imagining her wedding to Nathan. Turns out, it is the real Nathan who has been killed. Ingrid and Aleesha do their best to take care of her as she grieves.

She finally comes back to the real world on the day of Ingrid's bachelorette. But it is only for a second. It seems Ivan is living with the three of them as well but he is his usual nonchalant, weird self. They are living in Aleesha's condo as she can afford the rent.

In Lakeview, the AI staff is trying to help Luke and Fake Nathan with wedding vows. Yep, Nathan 2.0 is marrying Ingrid. No one takes the wedding prep seriously except for Luke, who wants it to be glamorous and perfect. He rants to Ingrid who has now started working with Horizen and is an Angel. Aleesha has been promoted to EVP, managing the rest of them from her office. Luke thinks she is avoiding him after their kiss.

This tidbit of gossip has Ingrid teasing Aleesha and while they bicker, it seems that they have truly become friends. However, Aleesha has a lot going on as she has become a spy for Oscar Mayer Intel. And she is not happy about it. It is finally revealed that Karina was a spy for OMI and the rival company wanted to kill Aleesha for getting her fired from Horizen. However, Karina still likes her and it is because of her, OMI brought on Aleesha instead of killing her.

Back home, Nora gets frustrated with the VR as the AI Nathan doesn't act like the real one. Suddenly, she spots Nathan in the real world. He looks rough and is all glowy. They have no idea what is going on but are happy to see each other.

Ingrid's bachelorette is boring as the only ones who have arrived are Lucy, Tinsley and Batia. Aleesha is stuck with OMI's Mr Chu who is teaching her self-defence with the help of AI glasses.

Nora wants to spend time with the Nathan projection and never shows up. It is late but Aleesha finally arrives and cheers Ingrid up.

Things aren't going so well at Nathan 2.0's bachelor party either. The guests consist of random AIs and Lakeview citizens. Gordita Crunch sponsors it and the constant ads ruin the mood.

Nora isn't sure if the projection is real or her imagination. She asks her father who is religious and helps her find comfort with the idea of souls and Nathan being in heaven. Nora soon realises that she has been ignoring a good friend and agrees to be Ingrid's maid of honour.

As the bride's party gets ready for the wedding in Lakeview, Nora announces that Nathan has been visiting her as a ghost. They are all skeptical but supportive. However, during the wedding, Nora looks morose as she sees Nathan 2.0 marry Ingrid. Luke makes it hilarious and lighthearted as he acts as the officiant. Ingrid's vows are quirky but sweet. Nathan improvises, and it is punny but romantic as well. Of course, Gordita Crunch ruins it for a second as it is sponsoring the wedding as well.

During the reception, Ingrid notices Nora looking sad and is sympathetic. During the first dance, Ingrid's VR suit malfunctions and Nora switches with her as it is her big day.

The switch is right on time as Nathan 1.0 pops up once again in Nora's living room. But he is hidden and she realises that he is a projection. Which means he is not dead but digital. At the end of the episode, Nathan asks her to find him.

Summary:	The bride and groom save up for their honeymoon. Horizen-Betta debuts a new, money-making technology. Luke tries to enjoy his job at Workload, and the AI Elevator Operator splits off an AI Girl and falls head over heels.

The episode begins with Ingrid and Nathan 2.0 taking up jobs to afford their honeymoon. With Angel layoffs, Ingrid has signed up as an untrained therapist chinchilla.

Luke and Nathan are working at Workload, a virtual staff agency. Their current task is to keep an eye on shoplifters at automated supermarkets.

At Horizen, JB reveals that the human staff will soon be replaced by Workload's labour force. It consists of AIs and uploads who are working there to afford Lakeview subscriptions. With Betta, they are also launching a cloud for living humans to upload and store brain scans. Unlike the previous season's beheading glitch, he claims it is now safe, being fixed with the help of volunteers. Of course, it cuts to Horizen fooling the human staff like Tinsley in trying out the cloud and getting beheaded.

Ivan has taken up a hobby influencer role to pay the rent. His latest venture is cooking and he begs Aleesha to help him with it. She begrudgingly agrees. They are interrupted by Nora who insists that Nathan 1.0 is alive and hidden in Lakeview. Aleesha doesn't believe her but agrees to sneak her in to look for him.

Bellboy AI is proposing to whoever comes his way ever since he caught Ingrid's bouquet at the wedding. Aleesha warns him not to harass uploads and he suddenly splits into two, ejecting a Bell Girl AI. They instantly fall in love, making out everywhere.

Luke and Aleesha are surprised by this development. But Luke is sarcastic, wondering if the AIs give meaning to their kisses. Aleesha tries to explain herself but she gets a call from OMI's Baba Tunde. He sends her on a mission to intercept a package from Horizen.

Luke is forced to go to therapy and they assign Ingrid's chinchilla to him. She is her usual snarky self and no help.

The package has an address to Horizen's longevity spa in NYC. Tunde believes illegal human experiments are taking place and Aleesha needs to spy on them. She tries to refuse on Ivan's account but Tunde doesn't listen.

Meanwhile, Nora looks for Nathan 1.0 in Lakeview but doesn't get anywhere. At the same time, he is being held captive by two doctors. They ask him a series of questions and refuse to let him go till he complies.

Nora takes a break in the real world and Nathan once again pops up. He explains that he is in a white room with big screens. He also reveals that his last living memory is of some executives pushing him to debate with Nathan 2.0 on which version deserves to live.

Nora is furious as Nathan 2.0 has been evading her. He refuses to show her the memory as he feels bad. He begs her to move on but she refuses.

In the lobby, Bellboy AI proposes to Bell Girl AI, only for her to break up with him. She is now dating Bartender AI and claims Bellboy AI is boring. Lucy is amused while Luke's heart breaks on Bellboy AI's behalf.

Nora forces Nathan 2.0 to show his memory of Nathan 1.0. They agree to fight together when the Horizen executives show up. They badger them with questions but the Nathans don't break. Annoyed, they give an ultimatum — only one can live. Nathan 2.0 refuses to answer. But Nathan 1.0 tells them to save Nathan 2.0. Nathan 2.0 is shocked as the Horizen tech seemingly kills Nathan 1.0.

Once the memory ends, Nathan 2.0 breaks down and wishes he had been the one to sacrifice himself. Nora is apologetic and comforts him. He finally believes that Nathan 1.0 is alive but before they can come up with a plan, Horizen kicks Nora out. She is also shocked to see Tinsley's upload working in the Horizen lift. Guess the cloud does work, even if it beheads the person in real life.

Bellboy AI is crying in the lift and Aleesha and Luke join him. They drink together and comfort the AI. Luke doesn't take shots at Aleesha anymore but he is glad that they had a moment. She looks sad as she comments that they don't always get what they want.

It is time for the honeymoon. Ingrid rants that she is not a good therapist and sees that Nathan 2.0 is not in a good place either, given he had to relive Nathan 1.0's sacrifice. She postpones the honeymoon and just cuddles with him, for which he is glad.

In the real world, Ivan is upset as neither Nora nor Ingrid helps with his hobby task, busy with their Nathans. He is quickly cheered up as Aleesha makes it after visiting the NYC spa.

At the end of the episode, Aleesha, Ivan and Nora thoroughly go through the footage of Nathan 1.0's death and realise that it is fake. He was never killed. Aleesha guesses that he is at the spa, being experimented on.

Summary:	While on their honeymoon, the newlyweds uncover a dark secret. Luke and the AI Gardener head back into the Grey Zone on a rescue mission. Aleesha reveals surprising abilities and Nora and Ingrid share clues.

The episode begins with the NYC spa experimenting on Nathan 1.0. They are using him to fix the brain scan machine. But every time they scan him, he is in immense pain and loses his memories bit by bit. The cloud they send him to is Apple Cove and so it is put on pause when Nathan 2.0 shows up there for his honeymoon.

Right off the bat, the Apple Cove AI mistakes Nathan 2.0 for Nathan 1.0. Ingrid tells Nora who figures out what is going on. Nora tells Luke to grab Nathan 1.0's copy from Apple Cove while she and Aleesha rescue his body from the spa.

Meanwhile, JB tells Aleesha that she has made a mistake when she was tasked to make the Lakeview AIs human. She needs to test their loyalty to the company and erase the ones who fail. Aleesha is proud but sad as the major AIs fail by prioritising their morality.

Luke and Gardener AI go to Apple Cove to save Nathan 1.0's copy. They split up but Gardener AI gets enamoured by the Apple Cove AI for a second.

In the real world, Nora wants to exchange David Choak's scan for Nathan 1.0. Ivan tries to stop her but she is ready to do whatever it takes.

The spa techs are bored, waiting for Nathan 2.0 to leave Apple Cove so they can resume their experimentation. They go on a break and leave the newbie, Dennis to keep an eye on Nathan 1.0.

JB is annoyed by the Lakeview AIs' morality. The VIP Bartender AI, having not been trained by Aleesha, is ruthless and only loyal to Horizen. Impressed, JB puts him in charge of the Lakeview AIs. It causes chaos as VIP AI goes around absorbing those who aren't loyal to Horizen. Bell Girl AI enlists Bellboy AI to look for her boyfriend as he goes missing.

In the spa, Nathan 1.0 convinces Dennis to spend time by looking at his memories of Nora. They are blurry and he has lost most of them. Dennis is empathetic, wishing he had a love like theirs. Emboldened, he not only saves the remaining memories of Nathan 2.0 but also helps him escape.

With the help of Baba Tunde, Aleesha, Nora and Ivan get passes to the spa. It looks exactly like Lakeview and is full of billionaires, engaged in advanced treatments to look young and beautiful.

In Apple Cove, Ingrid's back pains as she is constantly in the tub in the real world. Nathan 2.0 wants her to enjoy their honeymoon as well and books her a fancy ride to a beach in the real world. She is touched and they stay connected by sending selfies. But since he is alone, Luke and Gardener AI mistake him for Nathan 1.0 and grab him.

At the spa, Nathan 1.0 and Nora miss each other as he escapes via the fire exit while she heads into Kannerman's treatment room. She tortures him and demands that he agree to the hostage exchange.

They set up a meeting on a bridge nearby but it goes instantly wrong as Nora believes the hooded man given to her is Nathan 1.0. Obviously, it is not as Horizen has lost him. Thankfully, Aleesha has called the cops and uses her new fighting skills to keep Horizen's men at bay. The cops arrive in time and arrest Kannerman and his entourage. Choak tells Horizen to quickly throw his scan in the woods and recover him once they are bailed out.

Unfortunately for him, once everyone has left, Nathan 1.0 shows up and steals the car that Horizen left behind. As he races away, the car drives over Choak's scan, effectively destroying it.

In Lakeview, Bellboy AI tries to fight back but the VIP AI absorbs him. At the end of the episode, Nora goes back to grieving when Nathan 1.0 suddenly shows up at her place.

Summary:	Series finale. The residents of Lakeview race to find justice, revenge and peace as the digital and real worlds collide.

The episode begins with Nathan 1.0 having a tearful reunion with Nora in the real world. In Lakeview, Ingrid reveals that she has a human body ready for Nathan 2.0. However, he is scared about going back to reality.

Right in the middle of their argument on why Nathan should download himself to the real world, the VIP AI pauses him. Ingrid needs to pay a small fee to un-pause him. Aleesha realises that this is the VIP AI's doing. She pauses him for a second but when he comes back, he looks mad. JB doesn't care about it as the AI is making him money.

Later, scared of going at it alone, Nathan tries to convince Luke to come with him to the real world. Right then, they spot VIP AI killing the residents who do not have a lot of money. Nathan and Luke try to save them by sending them to the Grey Zone. As the VIP AI chases them, he absorbs the Gardener AI who had connected with the Apple Cove AI. With all that power, the VIP AI becomes sentient. He realises he has no reason to be loyal to Horizen or anyone. Aleesha pauses him but he unpauses himself.

Before Luke and Nathan can enter the Grey Zone too, Horizen's failsafe destruction is triggered. The torrent to the world's network is closed so the VIP AI cannot escape. Aleesha gets worried but a tech helps her send a message to Luke. She tells him to be ready near the download tubes at 6 pm when Lakeview self-destructs.

Nathan 1.0 isn't feeling well and at the hospital, the doctor reveals that the experimentations have taken a toll on his body. He is going to die soon. But he refuses to upload to Lakeview as he doesn't want lose anymore of his memories.

A nurse suggests visiting the Midtown Healer and it turns out to be AI Guy, the AI who was downloaded into a human body. He tries to help but Nathan is too far gone. Aleesha and Ingrid show up as they need AI Guy's help. Nora realises that this is it for Nathan and they all console her.

While waiting at the download tubes, Nathan 2.0 wishes he had downloaded when Ingrid asked him to. Luke comforts him, glad he at least has someone who he knows loves him. He looks sad and Nathan declares that Luke is his best friend and that he loves him too.

In Horizen, Ingrid scans AI Guy, beheading his human body. Aleesha takes down JB who is planning to make a deal to the VIP AI. She brings the virtual afterlife back online and the VIP AI heads towards the torrent. The AI Guy has way too much data and it takes time for him to fully load.

The download begins but Luke goes after the VIP AI. Nathan stops his download as well and helps Luke. However, the VIP AI kills Luke by sending him into the torrent. Before he can kill Nathan, the AI Guy shows up. He ejects all the AIs that VIP AI had absorbed. With no more power, the VIP AI is erased. Everyone is saved and Ingrid and Nathan have a happy reunion. However, Aleesha regrets Luke's death.

Nora takes Nathan 1.0 home as he gets weaker by the minute. He wishes they could have gone to Montreal and she makes his dream come true by using her VR.

It is already customised to their fake wedding and they get married. As for their honeymoon, she creates a virtual reality of Mile End in Montreal. They take a walk and talk about all the things they wish they could do.

As their time winds up, Nora gets emotional. Nathan comforts her, explaining that they are all energy. He will always be around and love her. He is happy and doesn't regret knowing her. He also asks her to move on and live her life. She tears up as he disappears from the VR, dying in the real world.

Ingrid and Nathan are a power couple and are being interviewed. Ingrid has become famous for inventing stylish VR hugsuits. Nathan has been downloaded into a human body and he is glad to be in the real world. Ingrid is pregnant and they plan to name the kid after Luke. AI Guy is running Lakeview and Aleesha has become a full time spy at OMI. Ivan has married his roomba.

As for Nora, she has moved to Mile End. A cute guy tries to hit on her and she gently rejects him. At the end of the episode, she gets a notification of a device trying to pair with her iPad. It is a copy of Nathan's scan, probably the one that Dennis copied for him before helping him escape the spa. Which means she can upload him to Lakeview and get him back!
